HOOVER 'OPPOSED BY WALL STREET;' TAMMANY GAVE NO MONEY FOR SMITH

Banker Tells Senate Committee Sentiment in Financial District Is Against the Commerce Secretary.

SMITH FUND NOW TOTALS $105,852

Van Namee Tells of Contributions — Olvany Says Tammany Society Is Patriotic, Non-Political One.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 2.—The Senate presidential campaign investigating committee uncovered three outstanding "facts" today in bringing to a close its two-day hearing here:

Tammany Society is a non-political organization and has made no contributions to Alfred E. Smith's campaign.

Sentiment in Wall street is against the nomination of Secretary Hoover.

To date contributions to the Smith race have totaled $105,852, so far as those in charge here have cognizance.

The committee was advised by George R. Van Namee, manager of the New York organization supporting Gov. Smith for the Democratic nomination, that the expenditures of his committee had been $105,852 to date. Contributions had totaled $121,791, he said, adding that the largest gift since May 9, when the Senate investigators first visited New York, was $10,000 by Percy Strauss, head of R. H. Macy & Co.

Interrupting a fishing trip on which he departed yesterday before he knew the committee desired to question him, George W. Olvany, leader of Tammany Hall, testified that this society was a patriotic one and did not "take part in politics."

"The Tammany Society was organized 100 years and more ago by an act of the State Legislature," Olvany said. "George Washington was a sachem of it. It took the side of the poor as against the rich.

Banker's Testimony on Hoover.

Testimony as to the sentiment in Wall street regarding Hoover was given by Lewis F. Strauss, of the New York banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., but formerly private secretary to the Cabinet officer. Strauss' statement was made in qualification of his declaration that his own banking firm had contributed nothing to the $30,000 fund which he has raised to assist with the candidacy of the Secretary of Commerce. The largest sum he received from any one individual, he said, was $10,000 from Julius Rosenwald of Chicago, chairman of the board of Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Strauss testified that he had sent some of the funds he raised to the Washington Hoover headquarters, some to Ohio and still had some on hand. He was directed to make a full report to the committee on his receipts and expenditures.

Hailing a dozen witnesses during morning and afternoon sessions, Senate investigators were informed by B. E. Eldred of New York, chairman of the Hoover-for-President Engineers' Committee, that his organization had raised $192 and expended $3918, and was told by John J. Curry, manager of the New York Curtis-for-President Club, that he had raised about $1700 and spent about $900.

Mayor Frank J. Hague of Jersey City, N. J., testified that he had helped a New Jersey club of 75,000 Smith supporters, expenses of which would not exceed $700. He emphatically denied published reports that he would pay the expenses of the New Jersey delegation to the Democratic National Convention at Houston.

Philanthropist Gave $6500.

An interesting sidelight on the Republican situation in Florida was given by John F. Harris, former of New York, but now of Palm Beach, who described himself as a philanthropist. He said he had given $6500 in the presidential campaign, "for an uninstructed delegation and also that Richard Replogle might be known as the Republicans of Florida."

"My first purpose was not realized, for my second," he said with a smile, "I am a delegate to the

To Study Evolution By Family Life of South Sea Snails

Expedition From U. S. to Search Also for Lost Continent in Pacific.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 2.—A scientific expedition, hoping to solve problems of evolution by observing the family life of South Sea Island snails, will sail from Vancouver June 7, headed by a Columbia University professor of zoology, Henry E. Crampton.

A secondary aim will be to collect evidence of the existence of a Pacific continent submerged at some point in the remote past of geologic time. This will be Prof. Crampton's fourteenth journey to the South Seas. It is sponsored by the Carnegie Institute.

He will be accompanied by his son, just graduated from Columbia, and an undergraduate classmate. The party will go to the Caroline and Pelew Island north of New Guinea and west of the Philippines.

WIFE, 15, AND TWO CHILDREN OF MOUNTAINEER FOUND SLAIN

Oklahoma Officers Seek Husband and Father, Who Disappeared Tuesday.

By the Associated Press.

M'ALESTER, Ok., June 2.—The murder of three persons in a remote section of the Jack Fork Mountains, 50 miles Southeast of here, was disclosed today. The dead are Mrs. Myrtle Lee Jackson, 15-year-old wife of Eb Jackson, mountaineer, and two of his children, Orvill, 16, and Abbie, 10.

Officers are searching for Jackson, who, it was learned, had been missing since last Tuesday.

The bodies of Mrs. Jackson and the boy were discovered by a prohibition agent yesterday. The girl's body was found today by Pittsburg County Officers.

OBREGON PRODUCES MOVIES TO TEACH FARMING IN MEXICO

Presidential Candidate Has Made Own Lands Highly Profitable; Shows How.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, June 2.—Gen. Obregon is a movie director. He has produced three pictures on his Sonora ranch, depicting "The Evolution of Agriculture," and intended to teach Mexicans to farm better.

The movies show the best methods of planting, cultivating, and harvesting. Obregon has made his own farms highly successful and profitable. He wants his countrymen to do likewise. On his presidential campaign trips Obregon has his farm demonstration films shown wherever he goes.

Obregon does not have to worry about how the farmers will vote. He is the only candidate to succeed President Calles, and a Mexican votes at all he can only vote for Obregon.

PACIFIC FLYERS TO TAKE OFF AT DAWN ON FLIGHT TO FIJIS

Southern Cross With Four Men Lands at Starting Point on Kauai Island, Hawaii.

By the Associated Press.

BARKING SANDS, Kauai, T. H., June 2.—The monoplane Southern Cross landed shortly before 6 p. m. today from Wheeler Field, Honolulu, to prepare for its flight to Sydney, Australia, by way of Suva, Fiji Islands.

HONOLULU, June 2.—The monoplane Southern Cross hopped off from Wheeler Field for the Island of Kauai at 4:30 p. m. today. Kauai is to be the plane's starting point for its flight toward Sydney, Australia, by way of Suva, Fiji Islands.

Just before leaving, Charles Ulm, co-pilot, announced plans to hop for Suva at daybreak tomorrow.

Ford Buys Early Type Engines.

WILLIMANTIC, Conn., June 2.—Henry Ford has purchased for his museum at Dearborn, Mich., two single cylinder steam engines and an electric generator from the Holland Silk Co. here. One of the engines is of the same type as that used by Thomas A. Edison in his early experiments. The generator was installed in the Holland plant in 1888 and is thought to be one of the earliest types.

NATIONAL PRESS CLUB VOTES TO BAR MUSSOLINI

Membership Application Rejected on Ground of Oppression of Newspapers in Italy.

PUBLICITY STUNT STIRS UP STORM

Protest Follows Hasty Action of Governing Board in Washington in Accepting Dictator.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The application of Premier Mussolini of Italy for membership in the National Press Club has been finally rejected, on the ground that his oppression of the press in Italy makes him objectionable to more than 10 members of the club.

Today a thoroughly chastened board of governors, which 10 days ago tentatively approved the application and cabled congratulations to the Italian dictator upon his acceptance, was endeavoring to explain the events which resulted in a stormy meeting at the club last night, culminating in the unanimous rejection of the application.

The Mussolini incident, which started as a press agent "stunt" by the publicity director of a film corporation, and was carried forward as a piece of club advertising, developed into a very serious matter, threatening to split the club, until the meeting last night, which ended in a complete backdown on the part of the board of governors, and a sweeping victory for the faction which was opposed to accepting Mussolini as a fellow-member.

Press Agent's Assurance.

While in Italy to supervise the making of certain talking motion pictures recently, John Connolly, publicity director for the Fox Film Corporation, called upon the Duce, and in describing the work of the Washington correspondents, mentioned the name of the National Press Club. Mussolini indicated an eagerness to become a non-resident member, and Connolly, who is a member, offered to present the application, assuring the Premier it would be accepted.

This assurance appeared vindicated 10 days ago, when the application was tentatively approved by the board of governors. J. Fred Essary, president of the club, immediately cabled congratulations to Mussolini and greeted him "in behalf of all the members of the club." This served to give the bulk of members their first information that Mussolini was a candidate, and at once the trouble began.

It was pointed out, in the first place, that the cablegram was erroneous in stating that Mussolini had been elected, because the by-law provide that the name of a candidate must be posted for 15 days before his election can be confirmed, and that the protest of 10 or more members "for reasonable cause" during that period is sufficient to disqualify him.

Protest Cites Censorship.

A protest was quickly forthcoming. Signed by 25 members, including one former president of the club, it read as follows:

"We, the undersigned, active members of the club, hereby protest against the proposed election of Benito Mussolini as a nonresident member of the National Press Club. Our dissent to his election to membership is based upon his record of suppression of the liberties of the press in Italy, his violent treatment of the press men and press properties identified with the opposition parties, and his censorship of the work of foreign correspondents in Italy."

A request for a formal hearing was demanded by the protestants, and was set for last night. Meantime the controversy raged in the press galleries, and attracted the attention of the foreign diplomatic colony in Washington. Efforts by club officials to "laugh off" the protest failed signally, and it was an extremely nervous board which faced an audience of determined members last night.

Acting as chief spokesman for the protestants, Charles G. Ross, chief Washington correspondent of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, and a member of the Standing Committee which governs the Capitol press galleries, told the governors that their action was "incredible."

"You could have searched the whole world over without finding a man so totally undesirable for membership as this arch enemy of free speech and free press," he said. "He is today the chief living foe of those principles which the

Misstep, Favorite, Wins $25,000 Derby At Fairmount, Unwhipped and Unwinded, In Presence of Cheering Crowd of 25,000

Son of Only Horse to Beat Man O'War Two Lengths Ahead of Toro — Jack Higgins Third.

GALAHAD MAKES MARVELOUS RUN

Standing Still at Start, Finishes Fourth—Race Almost a Duplicate of Kentucky Classic.

By WILLIAM F. ALLEN.

Form held. Blood told. Misstep, favorite to win from the day he was announced as a starter and son of the only horse ever to beat Man o' War, yesterday won the third running of the Fairmount Derby, and, in winning, claimed place among the great of Derby horses.

Every other horse in the field of nine had unhindered chance to show his best. None could complain of bad racing luck. Yet none could challenge the son of Upset. Two carried him to a killing spurt in the first quarter. He matched their speed and jammed them back to the ruck. He was challenged again by the great horse that ran Victorian to a head in the Preakness. He smothered that challenge and smoothly swept to the wire a length in front, unwhipped, unwinded.

Close to Record Derby Time.

Calmly he returned to the white circle reserver for winners. Tranquilly he received the flowered blanket of the victor. Not an ear cocked to the acclaim of the crowd of 25,000, but laid back as if in disdain of so much fuss—pawing the ground impatiently as if "rarin' to go"; breathing as evenly as if fresh from a perfunctory workout, instead of having raced the gruelling distance, the devastating Derby mile and a quarter, in 2:03 4-5, only two-fifths of a second slower than the best time in all the 54 years running of the Derby classic, that at Churchill Downs.

Curiously, the race was almost a duplicate of the last Kentucky Derby. The horses finished in the exact order they finished three weeks ago behind Reigh Count at Louisville. After Misstep yesterday came Toro and after Toro, Jack Higgins. More curiously, the horses raced in puddled mud at Louisville; yesterday they raced on a lightning fast springy track.

Galahad's Wonderful Run.

After Jack Higgins, there was Galahad, and that is almost a story in itself. He had been almost left at the post. When the barrier flashed up, he stood stock still. He seemed to be unconscious that the moment had come. Not until his jockey brought him back to his senses with a smart cut of the whip did he leave the post. By that time he was 10 lengths behind. He raced from that position through the field, from ninth to fourth position and an excellent fourth, for he was coming like the whirlwind at the finish, completing the fastest mile of the race. He merely had forgotten to race the first quarter.

Misstep paid $5.06 for each $2 bet on him to win, most satisfactory to his backers because the last pre-race quotation was no better than 8 to 5. But yesterday's crowd was a sporting crowd. It was putting money freely on outsiders, mindful that the first Fairmount Derby had spilled the dope all over the greensward and that the second Fairmount Derby had seen a rank outsider elevated to a fame preserved in flowers upon the track's infield. So the winner paid $3.32 for each $2 bet on him to come at least second, and $3.16 for each $2 placed on him to finish at least third.

Exciting for the Owner.

The race was worth $24,950 to Misstep's owner, Leo J. Marks of Louisville, a retired furniture dealer, who was too greatly elated and excited to comment. Asked what would be the award to Jockey Willie Garner for a masterful ride, he exclaimed: "Anything the trainer wants to give him. I don't care. It is understood that Garner lent Marks to ride Misstep whenever he starts, will receive at least 10 per cent of the purse.

When Marks received the large derby cup from S. J. Stanard, director of agriculture for Illinois, he said to Stanard: "I can't talk. I am too much excited. Maybe in half an hour I can talk." Half an hour after this reporter encountered him under the grandstand, "I knew he would win; golly, how he ran," was all Marks could say.

Only two other owners saw the MISSTEP, Leo Marks' crack 3-year-old, W. Garner up, wearing the garlands of victory.

Jockey Garner "Just Shook His Stick" at Misstep and Fairmount Derby Was Won

Boy, 19, Tells How He Rode the Favorite to Victory—Lad Comes of a Famous Family of Riders and Horsemen.

Wee Willie Garner, the 19-year old boy who piloted Misstep to victory yesterday in the $25,000 Fairmount Derby, and who comes of a family of jockeys and horsemen as ardently admired by turfmen as the get of Man o' War, just shook his whip at the great chestnut colt and the Fairmount classic was in the bag for the Le Mar Stock Farm.

"I just shook my 'stick' at him," Garner told a Post-Dispatch reporter immediately upon weighing in at the judge's stand after the race. "I knew then it was too bad for the rest of the pack and we came home with our ears pricked up."

Garner, nephew of the famous old-timer of turf classics, Mack Garner, spoke with pardonable pride of the race, the first derby he ever won. He was out to turn the trick in the Kentucky Derby on Misstep and made the pace and led to the stretch, but Reigh Count was too good in the mud. There was no rainstorm and mired track yesterday, such as Misstep floundered through at Churchill Downs, and the colt "did his stuff" in style.

In the stewards' house, where the jockeys are quartered, Garner modestly received the congratulations of the other boys who battled with him for the honors during that exciting and fast time of two minutes and four seconds, then gave an intimate, detailed account of what took place at the turning points in the race.

Off in Third Place.

"We were off quick with the flash of the barrier," he related. "There was no long wait such as we experienced down at Louisville. Misstep broke in third place and Bobashela and Typhoon immediately took the pace. I could have taken it at once, but there was no hurry and I let them have it.

"As we dashed along to pass the stands for the first time Bobashela and Typhoon wanted to make the running. I had Misstep well in hand and wasn't worrying. I could tell the way Misstep sailed along he had lots of stuff. I could feel it in his bounds, and so we rounded the first turn in this position—Bobashela and Typhoon fighting for the lead and Misstep at their heels. There was no crowding by anyone; everyone seemed to be getting the breaks in luck."

Garner couldn't see the field behind, all fighting for a position in the crucial drive down the back stretch, but he knew there was thoroughbred blood in the pack behind and blood usually tells in horse races. It did in the race before the Derby when Broadside, great son of Man o' War, blew up the dope on the opposition.

"Upon passing the three-eighths pole," Jockey Garner continued "Bobashela and Typhoon were till heating things up when there was a big disturbance on the outside at my right. It was Toro breaking through the field to take the pace.

"I was willing to let the two that started the pace have it for a while, but I was determined no one should pass me. Anyhow we were about to start down the long straight drive in the back stretch and that was where I was going to shake off the contenders.

"Toro was coming—no mistake about that. Misstep all the while had been wanting to make the running to suit himself. I gave him his head, but he seemed to lag and Toro was gaining, his head now up to my saddle.

Garner Shakes His Stick.

"Misstep seemed to need a shaking up, and so I shook the 'stick' at him. He bounded forward with amazing speed, as though I had struck him. His getaway was so flashy that he took command and the lead from Bobashela and Typhoon in half a dozen jumps. And that was the last of Toro."

This incident occurred at the far side of the course, directly across from the clubhouse, and it was at this point that Misstep was seen from the stands to forge ahead down the back stretch. In the meantime, Bobashela and Typhoon had been distanced by the fleet Misstep and were fighting it out with Toro for the place. Approaching the far turn, Jack Higgins, considered a rank outsider by the talent, began to make his bid, and poked his nose into things.

Under the Wire "Ears Up."

In taking command at the far turn, Misstep took the rail and was running easily like a well-timed machine.

"We made the turn into the stretch at high speed and on a good footing, for the going under foot was good," Garner said in conclusion, coming to the run home down the stretch.

"There seemed to be a lot of confusion around me and I knew the other boys were having their troubles. I could not tell what

ROBERT H. GROOMS, 16, DROWNED IN BIG RIVER

Soldan High School Student Seized With Cramps When Crossing Stream.

Robert R. Grooms, 16-year-old Soldan High School student of 5930 Nina place, was drowned at Cedar Hill on the Big River at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The body has not yet been recovered.

With Ben Brouster of the Windermere Hotel, a schoolmate, young Grooms went to Cedar Hill, 30 miles southwest of St. Louis yesterday morning to spend the week-end. During the afternoon he and Brouster went swimming and after a few moments both struck out for a swim across the river.

Brouster accomplished the return successfully but Grooms apparently was stricken with cramps on the way back and, after a brief struggle to keep afloat, he disappeared. His father is William E. Grooms, a salesman for the St. Louis Oil Co.

CHANG FLEES LEAVING PEKIN AT MERCY OF NATIONALISTS

Northern War Lord Leaves Committee of Elders to Turn City Over to Southern Forces.

RETIRES TO MUKDEN HIS OLD STRONGHOLD

Takes Army With Him—Perfect Order Prevails and Only Japanese Express Uneasiness.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, June 3 (Sunday)—A Rengos Agency dispatch from Pekin says that in anticipation of possible disorders with the arrival of the Nationalist vanguard this morning at that city, commanders of foreign troops there have ordered their soldiers to take positions in defense of legation quarters.

American, British, French, Japanese and Italian commanders met and decided on this action shortly after the departure of Marshal Chang Tso-lin for Mukden. Heavy guards were placed at all entrances to the foreign quarter.

By the Associated Press.

PEKIN, June 2., (Sunday)—Chang Tso-lin, for two years ruler of Pekin and Northern China, renounced his power and left Pekin at 1:15 o'clock this morning. He departed on a special train for his old stronghold at Mukden, Manchuria.

Chang sent members of his household ahead. A bodyguard and small retinue traveled in a pilot train which preceded that in which the ex-dictator rode.

He left behind a committee of elders in charge of the city and issued a farewell message expressing the hope that China would survive the Civil War and the threat of Bolshevism.

The city was orderly this morning and the committee of elders said that satisfactory arrangements had been made for handing over control to the victorious leaders of the Nationalist, or South China, armies.

Chang's Farewell Message.

In his farewell message Chang Tso-lin predicted early cessation of civil warfare.

"This fighting," he said, "has reduced many to homelessness and starvation of an extent beyond description. If we continue to fight, these people will only suffer more.

"Such a condition was not contemplated nor expected when I started the anti-red campaign. My assumption of my difficult post was with the object o. saving the State.

"Even though my desire has not been fulfilled, I cannot bear to continue military operations. I am, therefore, ready to evacuate Pekin with my troops. Henceforth political issues are left in the hands of the people.

"I have been a military man half my life and have encountered many difficulties. But I would sacrifice anything for the sake of the people's welfare.

"Hoping that China will not be exterminated as a result of mismanagement of its affairs, and hoping that the bolshevist peril which I suppressed will not be revived, I declare myself innocent and my conscience clear before the world and before all future generations."

Takes Army With Him.

"I leave Pekin, taking away all the troops of my command, because I have no heart to use force to no purpose," Marshal Chang said.

The railway station in Pekin presented an extraordinary appearance with the departure of the Manchu troops. All yesterday the sidings were filled with trains, most of which were jammed with troops and officials, while the platforms were piled high with baggage of all descriptions from motor cars to perambulators.

Reports were current today that Mukden troops of the Northern alliance had been defeated at Liuliho, 35 miles south of Pekin, with 4000 casualties. The defeat was the result of fighting between the Northern troops and Shansi Province troops, which are allied with the Nationalists.

FREUND URGED TO ENTER RACE FOR CIRCUIT ATTORNEY

Appeal to Police Commissioner to Seek Republican Nomination Signed by 58 Business Men.

WILL GIVE REPLY EARLY THIS WEEK

If He Files He Will Be Fourth to Contest for Place With Widely Criticised Incumbent.

An appeal of 58 professional and business men to Arthur J. Freund, a member of the Board of Police Commissioners, to file for the Republican nomination for Circuit Attorney in an effort to correct conditions in the breakdown of law enforcement in St. Louis, was made public yesterday. Freund said he would take the matter under consideration and would have a reply ready early this week.

If Freund files, as it is expected he will, he will be the fourth to contest for the nomination with Circuit Attorney Sidener, whose administration of the office has caused widespread public criticism, resulting in a demand for a change.

Freund Native of City.

Freund was born in St. Louis and was educated in the public schools and in Washington University. He had never held public office until appointed to the Police Board by Gov. Baker, and has served there through a police administration which has been marked by being virtually free from adverse criticism. He is 37 years old.

"I believe my service on the Police Board has given me an insight into the needs of the city if the matter of conscientious law enforcement," Freund said yesterday.

"While there are some laws which might be amended to advantage, the trouble is not due to the laws, but to the individuals charged with their enforcement. We could get along very well with the present laws if they were properly enforced.

"I feel complimented highly by the requests which have come to me to enter the race, and I am giving the matter earnest consideration. I shall be able to state my decision early in the week."

In addition to Sidener, who is making a vigorous campaign for renomination, the other candidates who have filed are E. E. Rudolph, Louis E. Miller and William R. Davis.

With at least four candidates filing in opposition to him in the primary, Circuit Attorney Sidener has become confident of renomination, asserting that the opposition vote to him will be so divided that he will lead the field.

Signatures on Petition.

The list of those who have urged Freund to run follows:

Wm. S. Bedal, lawyer; G. M. Berry, president Berry Motor Co.; Ingram F. Boyd, President Boyd-Richardson; S. M. Butler, Pierce Building; Charles L. Byars, manager, Travelers Insurance Co.; Glynn B. SPANISH REVEL ENDS ARTISTS' GUILD YEAR

Several Hundred Guests at Fiesta Among the Trees of Cragdarrah.

Under a moon that shone down upon a romantic hollow among the trees of Cragdarrah, the country place of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Johns on the Robyn road, just off the Denny road, members of the Artists' Guild celebrated the close of their season last night with the revels of Old Spain.

Bright reds and yellows and greens of several hundred guests in costumes flashed against the dark background of the natural amphitheater. They sang of love in the tongue of Spanish troubadors. In the flickering lights of the campfires danced Carmens and Gypsies. Castanets clicked and, occasionally the strumming of a guitar sounded through the hollow.

From huge copper kettles swinging over the fires issued the savory smell of stew. The cooks of the gay fiesta on the meadow had gone to the army of Spain's great monarch, Charles V, for a recipe to provide the main dish of the evening.

And, of course, there was a bull fight. The tussle in the hollow was a burlesque, but the toreadors and picadors, marshaled by Roy James, strained and heaved and sidestepped with prodigious energy until the spectators roared and the "bull" was done for.

Most of the events were impromptu. With a wealth of talent to draw from among the artists of the guild, there was no lack of diversion and merriment. There were dances and songs until, late in the evening, the spell of old Spain was broken by the sounds of automobile bearing guests back to the clatter of the city.

convention and I know I am instructed."

A flurry occurred at the afternoon session when the committee called Oscar R. Miller of Albany, head of the New York branch of the Civic League, the calling of whom was suggested Thursday by Senator Heflin of Alabama. Soon after Miller, an ordained minister, started reading a prepared statement giving his deductions as to how much might have been spent in Smith's campaign, Van Namee protested.

"This witness has no facts upon which to base his assertions," he said.

Miller was advised to confine himself to the things which were within his own knowledge or those that had been told him by persons whose names he could supply. That cut his statement short.

Smith Man Assails Witness.

After Van Namee took the stand he apologized to the committee for interrupting the proceedings.

"No apology is necessary," said Senator Steiwer (Rep.), Oregon, the chairman.

"I know the Rev. O. R. Miller," Van Namee said. "He's an unscrupulous assassin of the character of public men."

Van Namee testified that receipts by his organization since he last appeared before the committee on May 9 had been $18,481 and disbursements $13,762.88, including $5000 sent into North Carolina to aid friends there of the Governor in the fight to win that state's delegation. This was divided into two payments, one of $3000 sent to Jesse R. Davis of New Bern, on May 22, and the other of $2000 sent to James Griffin at Raleigh on May 29, three days after the precinct primaries for the selection of delegates to the county conventions on June 9.

SECRET MEETING OF UTILITIES MEN BARED AT HEARING

Letters Tell of Planning "Concerted Effort" in 1926 to Combat Government Ownership.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Information that "a concerted effort on the part of the Utility Industry to combat and stem" propositions for Government ownership of the industry was decided upon at an "emergency meeting" of prominent utilities men at Chicago in 1925 came from two letters introduced today in the Federal Trade Commission's investigation of power utilities.

The letters were among the last of the large batch from the files of George E. Lewis, manager of the Rocky Mountain Committee on Public Utilities Information, both were written by him.

Lewis completed his testimony today and was followed by O. A. Weller, Secretary-Treasurer of the Rocky Mountain Division, National Electric Light Association, and Secretary of the Colorado Utilities Association, after a short examination, Weller was excused, and the inquiry suspended until June 12, when publicity methods of utilities in Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas will be looked into.

Tells of Secret Meeting.

Writing to Fred Norcross, of the Home Gas and Electric Company, Greeley, Colorado, under date of February 3, 1925, Lewis said he had "just returned from a two-day special conference held in Chicago on the call of M. S. Sloan, chairman, National Public Relations Section, N. E. L. A.; Martin Insull, Commonwealth Edison Comany, Chicago; M. H. Aylesworth, managing director, N. E. L. A.; F. T. Griffith, president, N. E. L. A.; and other leaders in the utility industry."

"The utmost secrecy was maintained," he added, "as to the purpose of the meeting."

Lewis said "those mentioned above and others" had disclosed at the conferences "that a group of radical representatives in Washington have banded together, backed up by the Hearst interests, for the purpose of making capital out of the utility industry." He told Norcross that "every phase of this menace was discussed," after which resolution were adopted preliminary to a drive against "this dangerous tide of radicalism."

Greatest Effort on Foot.

Another letter, dated exactly a month later, informed K. W. Kissick, manager of the Deming Ice & Electric Co., Deming, N. M., of the Chicago meeting and said it had been disclosed that there was then "on foot a more systematic effort to bring about Government and State ownership of public utilities than ever before." He added: "The group which for years has devoted its time, attention, money and influence to the effort to nationalize the railroads has now turned toward the public utilities, especially the light and power interests."

"Senators Norris and La Follette," Lewis went on, "and about 20 others of that group have started a concerted drive on public utilities at the National Capital, in at least 16 states and in a score of towns and cities. * * * * Already seven other States, besides California and Washington, are confronted with State ownership proposals.

"The utility orgaiizations of California, as you know, have been compelled to spend millions to protect their properties against the onslaughts of those who would turn to State ownership, which in that State involved primarily an initial expenditure of $500,000,000.

Writes of Washington Fight.

"The utility organizations of Washington for three consecutive years have combatted the efforts of the radicals to inaugurate state ownership. Both of these states succeeded in defeating these measures at the November elections, but had they not been organized both measures would have carried."

Robert E. Healy, chief counsel for the Federal Trade Commission, questioned Lewis about the assertion in the letter regarding the expenditure of millions of dollars to fight Government ownership. The witness said this was a "matter of common knowledge."

Senator Norris of Nebraska and the late Senator La Follette of Wisconsin were called "the national press agents" of the group seeking Government ownership, in the Lewis letter to Kissick. Lewis predicted that "propaganda" by Norris and La Follette would lead to much progress for the Government ownership principle within the next "year or two unless protective measures are perfected here and there and everywhere."

Refers to "Defense Wall."

The communication to Kissick also said:

"Had the utilities industry not started its public relations work when it did; had it not inaugurated systematic newspaper advertising, educational activities in the high schools, colleges, universities and grade schools; had it not undertaken widespread speaking activities—in short, had it not done the things that it has done within the past three years, we'd all be in a hell of a shape today.

"We built it better than we knew when we started this work three years ago. We reared a defense wall that now constitutes our first line of defense. Without this, I venture to say that states, municipal and Government ownership would have been 100 per cent ahead of what it is today."

NORWEGIAN SHIP SAILS FOR ARCTIC TO HUNT ITALIA

Ice-Breaker Leaves Spitzbergen for North, Taking Advantage of Good Weather in North.

(Copyright, 1928, by Associated Press.)

KINGS BAY, Spitzbergen, June 2.—Pausing here only a few hours, the ice-breaker Braganza sailed at 8 o'clock tonight for the North on a search for the missing dirigible Italia and 18 explorers of Gen. Umberto Nobile's Polar expedition. The steamer, which is one of the best ice boats in Norway, hopes to reach Mossel Bay through Hinlopen Strait if ice conditions permit.

The departure was hastened by the desire of the Norwegian crew of the Braganza to take full advantage of good weather which was prevalent today. The Captain said that any postponement would mean unnecessary addition to the risks which the expedition must run.

The Braganza put in here today fully equipped for a long voyage. Capt. Svendsen and his crew of 16 busied themselves immediately with the embarking of 15 Italians who were transferred from the Citta di Milano, base ship of the Nobile expedition.

The Italians included eight Alpine soldiers under Capt. Sora, a radio operator and a doctor. They took with them snow shoes, reindeer sleeping bags, guns, medical supplies, tinned meats and other provisions.

It is the intention to land the Alpinists at favorable points so they may proceed overland to Wilde Fjord. The Braganza brought two dog sledges but no dogs, so the men will drag the sledges.

The ship will keep in touch with the radio station at Green Harbor by means of its strong wireless equipment. It has a sending radius of 700 miles.

An important item of the equipment is a set of Epitzbergen maps, including some special charts showing ice conditions for the last 30 years. These ice maps indicated that good ice existed in only eight of those years.

CHAMBERLAIN AND BRIAND AGREE ON OUTLAWING WAR

British and French Officials Confer in Paris on Matters to Come Before League.

PARIS, June 2.—Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary, conferred here today for an hour with Foreign Minister Briand. He stopped between trains while on the way to Geneva, and the two discussed questions which will come before the Council of the League of Nations next week.

It was announced that the English and French Foreign Ministers found themselves in full agreement.

In a statement issued through the Havas news agency, Briand said that the multi-lateral pact to outlaw war also was taken up. Briand thought that negotiations were progressing excellently. The announcement concluded:

"The ends aimed at in the negotiations on the Kellogg pact have been attained, since the Powers consulted understand the French viewpoint. Furthermore, Secretary Kellogg at the banquet of the American Association of International Law, said he understood the feelings which made us take the position we have assumed. The principles put forwards by France are, therefore, safeguarded and it remains only to find a formula to reconcile all the viewpoints."

JEFFERSON CITY, June 2.—Henry A. Bundschu, Kansas City attorney, filed his declaration of candidacy for the Republican nomination for United States Senator here this afternoon, on a platform including modification of the Volstead act, sale of beverages with a higher alcoholic content, under Government regulation, and resubmission of the eighteenth amendment to a direct vote of the people.

Log of Southern Cross On Flight From Oakland 2400 Miles to Honolulu

Co-Pilot's Record, Covering Details of the Journey as Set Down by Capt. C. T. P. Ulm, Organizer of the Expedition.

CAPT. ULM, adventurous Australian on whose shoulders fell much of the burden of the San Francisco to Australia flight, kept a detailed log of the first leg of the historic air voyage. Hour by hour on the 2400 miles from the Oakland airport to Wheeler Field, Honolulu, Ulm set down in the log book of the Southern Cross every particular of the flight. This log, through exclusive arrangement, is printed herewith. A few minutes after the Southern Cross reached its first goal, Ulm had filed the early pages of his record for transmission by Pacific Cable to San Francisco.

The word "knots" means "nautical miles per hour." The "T zone" refers to a system of radio signals designed to keep the plane on its course. If the pilot is off the course to one side the letter A is heard, if off on the other side N is heard. When he is on the course the two signals interlock forming the letter T. The opening chapters of the log of the Southern Cross follow:

By CAPT. C. T. P. ULM.
Co-Pilot and Organizer of the San Francisco-Australia Flight of the Southern Cross.

(Copyright, 1928.)

HONOLULU, June 1.—(All times herein are Pacific Coast time, two hours earlier than St. Louis time). Took off from Oakland at 8:52 a. m., Thursday, May 31. Engine revolutions 1800 all motors; speed 76 knots. Climbed 100 feet per minute for five minutes. Misty and foggy over harbor. Passed over Malolo. Gained 1000 feet in seven minutes' climbing at 80 knots. Revolutions still 1800.

At 9:06 over Golden Gate. At 1100 feet hoisted small Australian flag. In the pilot's cockpit Smithy (C. E. Kingsford-Smith, commander) and self shake hands on the successful take-off.

At 9:12 Lyon (Harry W. Lyon Jr. navigator) set course. Altitude 1500 feet at 9:15. Sighted Farralones through fog and haze at 9:22. Passing over Farralones at 1900 feet. Our last sight of land for 27 hours.

9:42—Warner (James W. Warner, radio operator) reported we are on the north side of radio beacon. Lyon explaining that he set the northerly course on account of the drift. We advised Lyon to change the course, getting on the zone radio beacon.

On the T Zone.

At 9:51 Warner reports we are gradually working back on T zone and we instruct Lyon to keep us on T zone by moving controller of the earth inductor compass.

9:56—Now dead T zone. Smithy and self chuckled gleefully.

10 a. m.—First position taken 17 hours 5 minutes Greenwich mean time, true course 246 degrees; altitude 1600; air speed 76 knots; ground speed 67 knots; 37 degrees 25 minutes latitude; 124 degrees 1 minute, longitude. Revolutions 1180. Radio beacon signals strong. No clouds ahead.

10 a. m.—Ominous banks of clouds piled up ahead. We are climbing to fly through them, trying to keep lookout for steamer Makiki.

11 o'clock—Ulm took over controls for half hour. Smithy handled take-off and all flying up till 10 o'clock. Thereafter he did bulk of flying, myself relieving as necessary.

12 noon—Time changed 15 minutes. Lost beacon signals about 300 miles from San Francisco. Ground speed to noon approximately 85 statute miles per hour.

12:15 p. m.—Starboard oil temperature gauge broke down. Height 2000 feet, speed 76 knots. Ear and nose uncomfortably cold. Smithy and self thoroughly happy, making wise cracks. Three motors give one great confidence.

12:55 p. m.—Received bad bumps as passed over cloud bank.

Blind Flying.

1:12 p. m.—About 15 minutes blind flying through very high clouds. Eventually opened up motors and climbed above. Altitude now 2700 feet.

1:50 p. m.—Altitude 2900 feet. More blind flying in clouds. Speed 74 knots, climbing.

2:15 p. m.—No more clouds ahead. Looks like perfect weather. Therefore down to 1200 feet, endeavoring make better ground speed.

3 p. m.—Position 35 degrees north latitude; 131 degrees 1 minute west longitude. Cloudy high above, very hazy ahead. Water below beautifully blue. No drift apparent to the eye; sun out above.

3:15 p. m.—Clear horizon, height 1200, revolutions 1650, speed 77 knots, visibility good.

4:35 p. m.—Altitude 1000. Revolutions 1640; visibility good. Smithy and self worried over gas consumption. If our estimates of what is left in wing tanks is correct, we can't make Honolulu. Smithy estimates we used over 400 gallons in six and one-half hours. I estimate we have used 290 gallons, believing there is more in outboard wing tanks than Smithy thinks. Have not sighted vessel since leaving San Francisco, but above clouds most of time.

4:50 p. m.—Now using outboard tanks only until they quit. When they quit we will have fair idea how much left. Speed 72 knots; altitude 1250.

5:50 p. m.—Altitude 1250; air speed 73 knots; revolutions 1620. Lyons reports on securing snap sight. He finds us south and west of dead reckoning position. He is now plotting actual position.

6:07 p. m.—Which is 5:08 local time at sea, latitude 33 degrees north, longitude 135 degrees west; distance made good 700 nautical miles from Oakland, 1404 miles from Honolulu. Smithy and self very pleased with Lyon's navigation.

7:25 p. m.—Received message from the Examiner complaining of pirating of our information. A warning was sent out to all amateurs.

7:42 p. m.—Sunset most glorious one I have ever seen. Smithy and I gazing at it in wonder.

8 p. m.—Now climbing again before darkness really sets in. Altitude 3000 feet; speed 70 knots; climbing; revolutions 1675. Approaching large high bank beautiful snowy white clouds, which is conjunction with reflection of setting sun makes beautiful picture.

8:10 p. m.—Outboard wind tanks cut out. Self now sure enough gas to reach Honolulu. Smith still dubious.

8:16 p. m.—Altitude 4000, speed 70 knots.

9:17 p. m.—Altitude 3750 feet, speed 76 knots. All clouds now below us. Stars out and coming up from behind.

10 p. m.—Water light flares for use with drift meter are thrown out to determine our drift and functioned well. We now in full darkness and the vari-colored exhaust flames are very pretty. It is probably optical illusion but appears that each exhaust flame gives out different color. Very slight drift to southward. Few stars out, not too many.

11:36 p. m.—Ran into heavy clouds 4000 feet. Rain and bumps. Totally blind flying. I handed controls over to Smithy, who seems to fly as well blind as when seeing, which reminds me that when we reach Honolulu self will have flown total of about 40,000 miles with Smithy. He will always do me.

11:52 p. m.—4800 feet. Climbed above rain and clouds. Stars ahead, moon above.

11:58 p. m.—Navigator reports bubble attachment in sextant out of action.

12 m.—Altitude 5400. Speed 67 knots climbing. Revolutions 1605. Self estimated 580 gallons gas now in tanks. Heavy cloud bank ahead looks thick, but think we will be above it soon. Stars and moon gratefully accepted.

Signaled a Ship.

1:50 a. m.—Sight ship on port bow. Self flew Southern Cross while Smithy signaled them with searchlight.

1:55 a. m.—Returned to earth inductor course. Clear sky, no clouds, good moon, few stars, moist underneath, everything lovely.

2:17 a. m.—Should be over S. S. Manoa soon, but low clouds may prevent us seeing her.

3:37 a. m.—6000 feet now in another rain squall. Opened up motors 1700 and climbed above it.

4:45 a. m.—Moon on clouds beautiful effect. Breaks in clouds looks like rivers and canyons. Altitude 6000, speed 73 knots.

5:35 a. m.—Dawn breaks. Moon sets. Altitude 7500, still very wet underfoot.

6:33 a. m.—375 nautical miles from Honolulu if our calculations correct.

6:43 a. m.—Gliding down through clouds. Now 4900 feet. Speed 80 knots.

6:54 a. m.—Altitude 3000, speed 86 knots. Revolutions 1575, gliding through lower clouds.

6:57 a. m.—Altitude 2500. Speed in glide, 95 knots.

7 a. m.—Below clouds at 1700 feet. Speed 78 knots. Much warmer down here.

8:56 a. m.—Smithy believes he sighted land on port beam. We both elated and shake hands. Cloudy everywhere. Maybe mistaken.

9:17 a. m.—Only clouds. No land sighted yet.

Land Sighted.

9:52 a. m.—Think Island of Molokai on port bow.

10:52 a. m.—Mauna Kea definitely sighted.

11:06 a. m.—Turn off course. Flying toward Mauna Kea. Maui on starboard bow. Molokai on port bow. Navigator Lyon unused viewing islands from air, therefore doubtful which is which. Smithy and self eventually convince him; we fly around south end of Oahu and over city of Honolulu, picking up escort army and navy planes various types who escort us to Wheeler Fields. Landed Wheeler Field at 12:17 p. m.

GROCER AND TWO CLERKS HELD UP, ROBBED OF $722

One man with a revolver obtained $722 at 11:20 o'clock last night when he held up Sidney Pearl and two clerks in Pearl's grocery at 1601 Sout hJefferson avenue.

The money was yesterday's collections.

BUSINESS MEN HELP FIGHT 'CANNED MUSIC'

Wellston Chamber of Commerce Cancels Picnic at Union's Request.

The Musicians' Union in their fight against machine music last week persuaded the Wellston Chamber of Commerce to cancel a boosters' picnic, which was to have been held June 20 at Westlake Park, on Natural Bridge road, the management of which has been declared unfair by the musicians because of its substitution of "canned music" for a regular orchestra this season.

The cancellation of the picnic because of labor difficulties was announced in the Wellston Local, a neighborhood publication, yesterday, and confirmed by J. B. Remley, president of the Wellston Chamber of Commerce. In place of the picnic there will be a gathering of Wellston residents on a parking lot at Wells avenue and suburban tracks next Thursday afternoon. In appreciation of the action of the Chamber of Commerce the Musicians' Union furnished the services of a band of 25 pieces, which toured Wellston in a truck yesterday advertising the change in plans.

The American Federation of Musicians, in convention at Louisville 10 days ago, authorized the raising of a $10,000,000 national fund through assessment of theater musicians to be used in fighting the employment of machine music in theaters and other public amusement places.

The local musicians' union has succeeded in diverting several school picnics from Westlake Park because of the music dispute. Another activity which officers of the local union plan is a campaign for larger appropriations for park band concerts. It was stated at union headquarters that the action may take the form of public concerts by volunteer bands.

SEE THE SEA ELEPHANTS EAT

Mobie and Frya, sea elephants, will feast publicly in Peacock Valley at the Zoo in Forest Park at 10 and 11 a. m. and 3 and 4 p. m. today and on each Sunday and holiday hereafter. Heretofore they have had only two regular meals on holidays as on week days.

Eight flamingoes will be on display just west of the sea elephant pool.

SECOND DIVISION REUNION CLOSES WITH A BANQUET

Seven Hundred, Including Wives and Mothers of Veterans, at Dinner at Hotel Chase.

BUGLE SUMMONS DINERS TO MESS

Sixth Infantry Band Furnishes Music and Songs of Service Are Sung With Vigor.

"Who won the damn war anyway?"

"Second Division!" came the answering shout from hundreds of throats, as Lieutenant-Colonel Hanford MacNider put the question at last night's banquet at Hotel Chase. The dinner closed the fourth annual reunion of the division, composed of marines and regular troops, who 10 years ago rocked the German army's road to Paris.

Including wives and mothers of veterans, more than 700 attended the banquet. Bugle calls summoned the diners to mess, but the historic slum and corned willy were replaced by caviar and sirloin. Few wore uniforms, even the presiding officer, Major-General Preston Brown, being in civilian clothes, though he is still in active service. One veteran and his wife were accompanied by their 9-year-old daughter. There were long tables, at which groups occasionally formed for a sally from the dining room or a march down the "company street," or center aisle.

Montezuma to Tripoli.

"From the Halls of Montezuma to the shores of Tripoli," historic song of the Marine Corps, was sung by the ex-leathernecks as soon as the Sixth Infantry band had finished the tune. The chorus declares the world that:

If the Army and the Navy
Ever look on Heaven's scenes
They will find the streets are guarded
By United States Marines.

With equal vigor, the singers proclaimed that all they did was raise the payroll, all they did was raise the payroll, all they did was raise the payroll, they neved got a red-darned cent.

The State of "Ioway, out where the tall corn grows," came in for such impromptu heralding, all because Lieutenant-Colonel MacNider, retiring president of the division organization, former Assistant Secretary of War, and former Commander of the American Legion, is from that State. The diners were reminded frequently by group, at a central table, that there is a movement to back MacNider for the Republican nomination for vice president at Kansas City next week.

Ten Hard-Boiled Stage Soldiers.

Except for MacNider, who called the roll of the Division's achievements, the speakers were of the rank of Major-General. Besides Gen. Brown, presiding, they were Gen. Paul B. Malone, who brought forth eloquence into picturing the achievements of the Second Division in Belleau Wood and at St. Mihiel; Gen. Wendell C. Neville, who talked humorously of the ten hard-boiled stage soldiers in "What Price Glory," and added, "Gen Harbord or I could have tamed those birds in three minutes;" Gen. James G. Harbord, who talked of war's turning point, and Gen. John A. Lejeune, with a tribute to the dead of the division.

No one spoke of the world peace agreement; also, no one uttered a word of enmity toward any other nation, though one speaker read satirical verses written in reply to Rudyard Kipling's "At the eleventh hour he came." The parody ended with:

Oh to tell a truthful story,
England got the territory;
Uncle Sam fulfilled his mission
Till he got was prohibition.

A silver loving cup, offered for each company with the largest representation, was won by the Eighty-third Company, Sixth Marine Regiment, and was given by Ray Workman, a Chicago veteran disabled by shell shock, who was present in his parents' care. His father, P. J. Workman, took the cup as the young man, whose appearance created a pathetic scene at the business meeting held at the Statler in the morning, had to be left the dinner because of illness.

Forty-six members of the Ninety-sixth Company, Sixth Marines, exchanged anecdotes of the taking of Belleau Woods and Mont Blanc, important objectives. The company, with a normal strength of 250, suffered so many casualties that only 1690 men were in it first and last.

Some veterans attended the Cardinals - Washington game at Sportsman's Park yesterday afternoon, and the colors were paraded on the field before the game.

Before the election of officers, Major-General Brown was chosen president; Capt. John W. Thomason Jr., artist and author of "Fix Bayonets," vice president, and Col. C. O. Mattfeldt and George Gordon, secretaries.

Boston was selected for next year's meeting.

Hard-Boiled Stage Soldiers.

Except for MacNider, who called the roll of the Division's achievements, the speakers were of the staff of Major-General. Besides Gen. Brown, presiding, they were Col. Paul B. Malone, who brought tears by eloquence into picturing the achievements of the Second Division in Belleau Wood and at St. Mihiel; Gen. Wendell C. Neville, who talked humorously of the hard-boiled stage soldiers in "What Price Glory," and added, "Gen. Harbord or I could have tamed the birds in three minutes;" Gen. James G. Harbord, who talked of the war's turning point, and Gen. John A. Lejeune, with a tribute to the dead of the division.

No one spoke of the world peace movement; also, no one uttered a word of enmity toward any other nation, though one speaker read satirical verses written in reply to Rudyard Kipling's "At the eleventh hour he came." The parody ended with:

Had to tell a truthful story,
England got the territory;
Uncle Sam fulfilled his mission
When he got was prohibition.

A silver loving cup, offered for competition with the largest representation, was won by the Eighteenth Company, Sixth Marine Regiment, and was given by Ray Kellman, a Chicago veteran disabled by shell shock, who was sent in his parents' care. His son, P. J. Workman, took the cup. As the young man, whose appearance created a pathetic scene at the business meeting held at the Statler in the morning, had left the dinner because of illness.

Forty-six members of the Nineteenth Company, Sixth Marines, staged anecdotes of the taking of Bourcsches and Mont Blanc, important objectives. The company with a normal strength of 250 suffered so many casualties that 1000 men were in it first and last.

Two veterans attended the Yankee-Washington game at Sportsman's Park yesterday afternoon and the colors were paraded on the field before the game.

At the election of officers, Major-General Brown was chosen honorary president; Capt. John W. Thomason Jr., artist and author of "Fix Bayoneta," vice president, and Lieut. C. O. Mattfeldt and George Gordon, secretaries.

Boston was selected for next year's meeting.

Socially Prominent St. Louisans at Yesterday's Running of the Fairmount Derby

Society Entertains With Box Parties and Luncheons at Races

Enthusiasm and Bright Raiment Match June Day Sunshine at Running of Third Fairmount Derby.

THE first month of summer lent a lovely June day for the third Fairmount Derby yesterday, and an enthusiastic and gay crowd made it an event of great eclat. Fairmount, with its huge grandstand a scene of color, and the Jockey Club thronged with beautifully dressed women and smartly turned-out men, were in striking contrast to the cloud-cast skies, the muddy track and the elaborate costumes spoiled by torrents of rain at the Kentucky Derby a fortnight ago.

The clubhouse, a popular rendezvous at Fairmount, was never more attractive. The tables, decorated in pink roses, were spread in the dining room and on the veranda, where an orchestra played all afternoon. There were many delightful breakfast and luncheon parties. A number who reserved tables on the track side of the dining room viewed the races from that vantage.

The boxes were filled early, many by St. Louisans of social prominence, making Derby day an occasion for entertaining before departing for their summer places or travels abroad. Interesting groups seen in the betting rings and throngs strolling about the lawn or seated under the colorful striped umbrellas, brilliant in the June sunlight, added to the charm of the panoramic spectacle.

Box Parties Entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Watts Sr. entertained a box party, including Mr. and Mrs. Luigi Signorini, Miss Martha Pettus; Miss Virginia Simmons and Frank O. Watts Jr. Mrs. Signorini was the former Mrs. Davis R. Calhoun of St. Louis, who is visiting here from Italy. Miss Pettus wore a red and white print dress with a black gored coat and red Ballinbuntle hat.

In the Crunden box were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Crunden, Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Bixby, Mr. and Mrs. Irr A. Stevens and Mr. and Mrs. Oliver J. Anderson.

The roof of the clubhouse proved a popular vantage point for a large group, among them Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. Moser, Mr. and Mrs. David R. Calhoun, Mr. and Mrs. Garneau Weld, Mr. and Mrs. Asa Brookings Wallace, Miss Trimble Hoblitzelle and Miss Janet Wallace. Mrs Moser wore gray, Miss Wallace was in a tan sweater outfit with a Bangkok hat and sports suit to match, and Mrs. Weld was in blue printed silk with a large blue hat.

Near them were Mr. and Mrs. George Herbert Walker Jr., the latter in green sports clothes, with a knife-pleated skirt, and small white hat.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Wendling entertained in their box Mr. and Mrs. Pelham Turner, Mrs. David R. Francis and Mr. and Mrs J. C. Milam of Lexington, Ky. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Murphy were in a party at luncheon and later on the veranda with Mr. and Mrs. Russell E. Gardner and Mrs. Edward Gillette Hotchkiss.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford W. Gaylord and Mrs. Gaylord's daughter, Miss Jane Pirrung, formed a family group. Mrs. Gaylord was in lavender purple crepe and scarf with a hat to match banded in purple, and a long purple velvet coat of the style so much the vogue for the spring season. A king's blue silk suit with a black afternoon hat and black fox scarf were becoming to Miss Pirrung's titian-haired type.

Luncheon Before the Races.

In a notable party having luncheon before the races were Mr. and Mrs. Howard V. Stephens, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Limberg, Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Shinkle, Mrs. Henry Cushman and Andrew W. Johnson. Mrs. McDonald was smartly gowned in a two-piece yellow silk knitted costume bordered in blue, and with it she wore a pale apricot coat and a white hat banded in blue. Later they watched the excitement from a box.

Mr. and Mrs. John Young Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Powell Whitehead and Felix W. Coste had luncheon on the veranda preceding the races.

Miss Elizabeth Cook attended with Isaac T. Cook. Mrs. Herbert Lawrence Parker was on the lawn of the clubhouse with her daughter, Mrs. Mason Scudder, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. King Parker, following a luncheon party. Another racing devotee on the lawn was Mrs. Henry O'Neil.

An interesting group who had an early luncheon on the clubhouse porch comprised Mr. and Mrs. Gerard B. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Loisel Papin, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel M. Kennard, Mrs. Eugene R. Cuendet, her daughter, Miss Elizabeth, and Tom Reyburn. Mrs. Papin wore one of the new pique coat suits in pale green, with a lace blouse and toyo straw shoes. Her hat was a natural bangkok.

In Lyman T. Hays' Box.

Mr. and Mrs. Max L. Teich of Chicago, Mrs. William J. Lemp, Judge and Mrs. William Dee Becker and Mrs. Edith Niles enjoyed the hospitality of Lyman T. Hay. They were entertained at luncheon and later in Mr. Hay's box.

Mrs. C. Bruce Head had as guests in her box Mr. Head's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Gresham of Louisville, Ky., Mrs. Marion M. Capen of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Peabody of Chicago, owners of "Marue Flynn," and Mrs. Head's mother, Mrs. Wallingford. Mrs. Peabody wore a printed silk with black and yellow predominating, a black kasha coat and a black Agnes tricot turban. Their luncheon table preceding the races was adorned with an elaborate centerpiece of dep red peonies and golden cosmos, the Peabody stable colors.

Mr. and Mrs. August A. Busch Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Overall and Arthur Preece comprised a party. They had luncheon at the Jockey Club and witnessed the races from one of the Busch boxes. Mrs. Busch wore a two-piece sports dress of hydrangea blue, with a small blue felt hat to match. August A. Busch Sr. was host to Mr. and Mrs Adolphus Busch III, C. Drummond Jones and Edward Magnus.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Holliday had as their guests Mr. and Mrs Arthur Kendall, Dick Kennard and Dan Jones. Mrs. Kendall wore a smart two-piece knitted beige suit with trimmings of blue and a large natural shaded Bangkok hat.

Brought Guests in Plane.

An interesting luncheon and box party was given by Maj. and Mrs. William B. Robertson, who brought their guests to the Derby in an airplane. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Koehler, Louis Nicolaus, Mrs. James McCluney and Arnold G. Stifel.

Miss Josephine Bates was with Winston Johns. She wore an attractive blue and white printed

CRAVENS GETS 6 YEARS AND WOMAN AID YEAR

Former Head of Kansas City Joint Stock Land Depository Also Fined $25,000.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 2.—Walter Cravens, former president of the Kansas City Joint Stock Land Bank, was sentenced today to six years in the Federal penitentiary, by Judge Merrill E. Otis, and fined $25,000. Miss Alice B. Todd, former secretary of the bank, was sentenced to a year and a day in the prison. A week ago Cravens and Miss Todd were found guilty of misappropriating funds and making false entries in the books of the bank.

When asked by the Court whether he had anything to say prior to the pronouncement of sentence, Cravens responded: "I want to maintain my innocence and I always will. As president of the bank, I was, of course, responsible for it."

Miss Todd, also responding to the question as to whether she had anything to say, declared: "I want to affirm Mr. Cravens' statement as to his innocence and mine."

The defense sought to make a point of the fact that one juror had been a member of another panel this year and charged this man had not been summoned improperly. The court overruled a motion for a new trial and then imposed sentence.

might happen and who might come up to run off with things, so I shook Misstep a bit. He responded easily, and I then knew it was all over. There was no serious challenge as we approached the stands and we flashed under the wire with ears pricked up."

"Ears up" is a phrase common among jockeys. A horse in distress or hard pressed lays its ears back.

Garner hails from Centerville, Ia., and has been riding horses from childhood. He is a great favorite on Kentucky tracks, and last night departed for Latonia to keep engagements there. It is not likely that he will be seen again at Fairmount this season.

The other jockeys in the race had no hard luck tales to relate, all seeming to feel that Misstep was best for the day.

MAN, 80, ENDS LIFE WITH GAS

Tracing an odor of gas, the proprietor of a rooming house at 910 North Twentieth street found Francis Morgan, 80 years old, dead in his bed early yesterday. In his mouth was the end of a piece of hose leading from an open gas jet.

A note on a table in the room stated "I am tired of this kind of life," and asked that his body be turned over to an undertaker whom he named and buried beside his wife at Winchester, Ill. A bank book found in the man's pocket indicated he had $690 in the bank.

KOELN'S OFFICIAL CONDUCT UPHELD BY GRAND JURY

Report Based on Attorney-General's Opinion Exonerates Collector on Charges by Schneider.

Collector Koeln got an exoneration from the grand jury and Attorney-General Gentry yesterday on the charges recently made by William R. Schnieder, a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, who asserted Koeln retained fees in excess of the amount permittted by law and failed to pay over to the State full interest collected on daily balances of State moneys.

In public speeches Schneider demanded a grand jury investigation, and offered his services to conduct the inquiry. The offer was not accepted, but the grand jury reported on an inquiry into the legal phases of the charges, quoting with approved letters from State Auditor Thompson and the Attorney-General.

Attorney-General's Opinion.

The Attorney-General held that there was no law requiring collectors to collect interest on daily balances of State funds and that there was no provision in the law for the payment of such interest to the State if it was collected.

The grand jury said the State had not provided for depositories for funds in the hands of collectors, that it held the collectors personally responsible for the safety of the funds, and that it had no concern in interest on the funds while in the Collector's hands.

The State Auditor held that Koeln had made regular reports of fees on income taxes collected and the compensation retained by him, and that the reports had been approved by his office.

No Direct Word as to Fees.

While there was no quotation from the Attorney-General on the direct question of whether Koeln was entitled to retain fees on income tax collections, which would bring his total compensation to more than the $10,000 limit fixed by the Constitution, an opinion from the Attorney-General on virtually the same question as it affects the Assessor was quoted by the grand jury with apparent approval. In that opinion it was held that the fees retained by the Assessor for income tax collections were properly retained up to the amount of $10,000 and that there was no relationship between such fees and his salary as Assessor.

Grand Jury Recommends More Power for Circuit Attorney.

A recommendation that the Circuit Attorney direct the police as well as his own assistants in the investigation of crimes and the gathering of evidence for prosecutions was made to Circuit Judge Rutledge by the grand jury yesterday in its report on an inquiry, at the order of the Court, into the relations between the police and the Circuit Attorney's office.

Expressing itself as "more impressed with the need for more men than with any absence of earnestness and sincerity of purpose," the grand jury recommended the following definite steps toward more efficient handling of crime:

Establishment of the old police homicide squad.

Assignment of policemen to aid the Circuit Attorney in criminal investigations.

Assignment of an assistant Circuit Attorney to direct the police in investigations.

Observance of greater caution in making public the several steps of any investigation, so that criminals may not be apprised of the progress the investigation is making.

During its service the grand jury, headed by Isaac A. Hedges, foreman, examined 230 witnesses and returned 39 indictments.

JOHNSTON AND BUSCH FREED OF EMBEZZLING $5800

Case Dismissed on Payment of Costs When Prosecuting Witness Declined to Press Charge.

Charges of embezzling $5800 were dismissed against Floyd A. Johnston, 31 years old, a real estate dealer, of 5012 Delmar boulevard, and A. W. Busch, 6219 Julian avenue, a salesman employed by Johnston, on May 21 by Circuit Judge Rosskopf upon the payment of $95 court costs when Henry J. Long, 4921 Washington boulevard, the prosecuting witness, declined to press the charge, it was learned Friday.

It is understood that a civil suit brought by Long against the two real estate men for the return of the money was settled out of court.

A charge against Johnston of issuing a bad check was taken under advisement until next Saturday by Judge Gayer of the Court of Criminal Correction following a hearing Friday. H. E. Haag, 4654 Delmar boulevard, testified he cashed a $150 check for Johnston on Dec. 22, last, and that the check was returned by the bank marked insufficient funds. Johnston testified that he subsequently reimbursed Haag. The latter denied receiving the money.

How Old Faces Are Made New

Since skillful physicians have specialized in Facial Treatments, and have perfected Plastic Surgery, it is not uncommon for a person of 50 or 60 to look 30. Fanny Ward is only one public example. Men also accept this opportunity. In an interview with Dr. Saunders, the Plastic Surgeon of this city, he explains some of his methods for not only rejuvenating an aged face, but told how ugly noses, large ears, weak chin or sunken cheeks are corrected. Dr. Saunders has offices at 3908 Olive St. Lindell 8190. He will mail a book free, "How to Be Good Looking," to those who write for it.

GENTRY PUT IN CHARGE OF INQUIRY IN COUNTY

Gov. Baker Directs Attorney-General to Supervise Work of Grand Jury.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 2.—Attorney-General Gentry was directed today by Gov. Baker to take full charge of the special St. Louis County grand jury called by Circuit Judge Mulloy to investigate "existing conditions in the county," including the sources of the $50,000 secret income of Sheriff Wilmas in the last three years, on which the Sheriff was recently compelled to pay a Federal income tax and civil penalty.

The Governor's order was made on request of Prosecuting Attorney Mueller of St. Louis County, a candidate for the Circuit bench, who has stated he feels it would be in bad taste for him to direct the inquiry. The text of the Governor's order for the inquiry follows:

"At the request of Fred E. Mueller, Prosecuting Attorney of St. Louis County, I am requesting and directing that you go, either in person, or by one of your assistants, to St. Louis County to aid in a grand jury investigation of conditions in said county."

Attorney-Genereal Gentry said he would go to Clayton, probably Tuesday, to make preliminary arrangements for the investigation.

The Federal grand jury in St. Louis, which meets June 25, also will make an inquiry into the mysterious sources of Wilmas' income.

$25,000 FAIRMOUNT DERBY EASILY WON BY FAVORITE, MISSTEP

race. Stuyvesant Peabody, millionaire coal dealer of Chicago, went to Fairmount with Mrs. Peabody. He was much disappointed in his horse Marty Flynn. He was not alone. Marty Flynn had considerable play from those who wanted to chance an outsider with their money. The horse did not like the distance, and was never a contestant. W. J. Curran, owner of Jack Higgins, was there. He always is with his horse. It is said that he was the only owner in the race not independently wealthy. His string is small, but his courage unlimited.

The day was flawless. The sky was brilliant; the air was cool; the crowd was brightly and modishly arrayed, its spirits high. It cut its purse strings and bet freely. The management does not publish the amount that changes hands on any race day. It was known, however, that $350,000 was wagered by a crowd not quite so large as on Memorial day and it may be estimated that yesterday's total approached $500,000 if it did not pass that mark. Yesterday's crowd was a "money crowd," spending freely. Its return was satisfactory, for favorites came through in most of the races and it is not the sum won that comforts a Derby day bettor, but the fact of winning.

The attendance, which is not announced officially, was not up to expectations. It did not, certainly, reach the 30,000 mark announced as the indicated attendance. It did not crowd the track facilities as they were crowded upon the 1926 Derby day. It was a crowd that flowed back and forth from grand stand to the 76 betting booths beneath in tolerable comfort, that moved about the broad verandas of the clubhouse without elbowing, that strolled the terrace and the clubhouse lawn without jostling—a large but not capacity crowd; a crowd that brought comment from the judges' stand from which the eye could sweep its length—"a smart crowd."

It was a crowd that very apparently was there for the Derby, but it got an amused thrill in the third race. Gen. Haldeman, for the second time since the opening of the present 37-day meet, dumped his jockey and went galloping off before the barrier was sprung. On the first occasion, he galloped back to his oats box, but yesterday he felt more kittenish. After a frolic along the track for half a mile, he jumped the fence and went sightseeing among the stables at the head of the stretch. The track patrol pursued him and brought him back, still recalcitrant. His jockey remounted and the General pas persuaded to his stall in the new starting gate. The barrier was up almost instantly and the General shot out in front as if from the mouth of a 16-inch coast guard gun. And he won the race.

The parade to the post resembled an outing of a single horse family. Every horse in the race was a chestnut or a bay. Some of the bays were close to chestnuts and some of the chestnuts were close to bays. Only the colors of the jockeys were to be the guide for field glasses played upon the back stretch. A babel of admiration for the handsome string.

"They're Off."

There was little delay at the post. A great cry from the crowd and from that time on for the next two minutes an exhibition of frenzy such as only a horse race can produce. Misstep veers out from the pole in the first few yards, pressing into the other horses a trifle. Down they come toward the stand. Then that strange sight. The thousands on the nearly flat terrace get scant view of the track and snatch fleeting glances by jumping straight up in the air. The straw hats look like corks bobbing on a fishing pond.

Here they are. Racing like fury in the lead are Typhoon and Bobashela. Their noses are together. Forgotten for the moment is Misstep. There is Bobashela out in front and Bobashela has many followers cognizant that his workouts were the fastest of those of the Derby horses. Maybe Bobashela is going to run away with this thing. That strikes the fancy of the crowd and it roars.

The first turn now, the natural spread into racing room and there is Misstep hugging the pole behind the leaders, a good third. A smooth, frictionless, plugging racehorse, doing the bidding of its jockey. Willie Garner, contemporaneous representative of a great jockey family, is not to be fooled. That first quarter in :24 would kill Man o' War. His uncle, "Skeets" Garner, once a famous jockey, has come from his post in the ticket stand to see the kid's ride. He chuckles his satisfaction and looks proudly up to the judges' stand. "Smart kid," he signals. True. Smart Willie lets Bobashela and Typhoon race their hearts out. Before the three-eighths they are through, hopelessly out of the money.

Only Challenger Shaken Off.

What now? Misstep has sailed out in front without perceptible effort, but there is a nose at his flank. Toro—Toro, a dangerous horse—a horse that has iron in his pounding legs. Garner wants no discouragement for Misstep. No horse must pass now. He raises his whip. It never falls. Misstep moves away from Toro as if Toro were standing still. In three jumps he has shaken off the challenge. It is the only real challenge of the race. Tenaciously Toro clings on, but the glasses that are trailed upon the racers as they reach the head of the stretch, say that Toro never can overhaul the smoothly running Misstep, running like a machine, his belly low to the ground, not a flicker in his even jumps. Misstep it is, to the trained eyes in the judges' stand and their glasses fall.

Toro's flanks feel the whip, the urging, goading whip, but Toro has nothing left. Misstep sweeps under the wire and Garner has not touched him—a "hand ride" throughout. Misstep it is.

It is a business-like pair that come up to the stand to receive the garland of victory and the bunch of roses. Garner is an experienced winner. He turns to the cameras, raises his cap so that his face will show, gives a quieting touch to Misstep. His face is immobile. That over, he slips to the ground and walks off calmly. A horse race is the day's job.

Misstep stretches his neck, lays his ears back and waits. At last, his blanket and he, too, quietly walks away. A most business-like horse.

LINDBERGH EXPLAINS WHY HE AVOIDS CROWDED FIELDS

Not Snobbishness But a Fear That Propeller May Cause Fatal Accident.

By the Associated Press.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 2.—It is not a desire to shun the public nor to appear snobbish which keeps Col. Charles A. Lindbergh from landing in the center of cheering crowds—it is a genuine apprehension for the safety of the crowds, Lindbergh explained at Mahoney Field today.

The flyer said he deliberately avoided crowded fields unless he knew they were heavily guarded. While he was glad to help in any way to increase America's knowledge of flying, he was taking no chance of being the helpless cause of a tragedy which would do much to break the public confidence in aviation.

"I don't think that anyone not connected with aviation can realize the danger of a propeller on the ground," he said. "An aviator is not afraid of a plane in the air—but we are all afraid of a propeller on the ground. The crowds, unless they are heavily guarded will not keep back, and putting a big guard on a flying field is quite a problem."

PULLMAN PORTERS AND MAIDS VOTE IN FAVOR OF STRIKING

Meetings Called for Wednesday Night to Receive Returns; Increase in Pay Sought.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Calls were issued today for strike meetings in the principal railroad centers of the United States for Wednesday night of Pullman maids and porters to receive the returns of the strike vote just completed, it was learned tonight.

The demands are increases above the $12-a-month wage now prevailing, better working conditions and recognition of the brotherhood.

In advance of an opportunity to present the returns to the United States Railway Board, the figures are withheld. It may be definitely stated, however, that the majority for a strike is overwhelmingly large. Save where strike votes have been proforma affairs, it is probably the largest ever recorded by a railroad organization.

DEPUTY KINGSLAN'S SON ASKS POLICE TO GUARD HIM

Youth Says Father, Against Whom He Testified, Has Threatened His Life.

James Kingslan, 3128 North Twenty-second street, on whose statement his father, Deputy Constable George Kingslan, and two other deputies, Harry Firman and Claren Scherrer, are charged in warrants with conspiracy to murder, yesterday appealed to police for protection.

He charged that his father and the other two deputies had threatened his life and that Firman and Scherrer had made inquiry for him at the home of his sister, Mrs. Herman Vogel, 1945 Wright street.

Chief of Police Gerk ordered a special watch kept on Kingslan and Mrs. Vogel and said a special guard would be detailed if necessary.

Young Kingslan was the chief defense witness for Harry Ronsiek, ex-convict, acquitted two weeks ago at Clayton of assault to kill. In Ronsiek's defense, Kingslan testified his father and the other deputies had conspired to kill Ronsiek after directing him to steal a slot machine to make the alleged intended killing appear plasible.

SOCIETY ENTERTAINS WITH BOX AND LUNCH PARTIES AT RACE

polka dot crepe with a red belt and big red hat so popular this season.

A smartly gowned group were Mrs. Charles W. Hudson, Mrs. William Warner and Mrs. Mary Hoffman Grayson, who, with Mr. Hudson and Mr. Warner, had luncheon on the clubhouse porch. Mrs. Hudson wore a dove gray knitted suit with a gray visca close fitting hat and a dark fox fur. Mrs. Warner wore a yellow flannel ensemble with a crepe blouse to match flecked in purple. A yellow vagabond felt completed the costume. Mrs. Grayson wore a pale green sports suit with a bunch of red cherries caught to the front of her blouse.

A luncheon foursome was composed of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Linn Clardy and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Coale. Mrs. Hardy was in black crepe with a silver fox scarf and large black afternoon hat.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Vernon Clark and Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Fox had a table on the veranda, as did Mr. and Mrs. Turner Clarkson.

Bridle Sport Club Party.

Willard Cox was host at luncheon and a box party to Miss Rose Muckerman, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Orthwein, Miss Louise Church, Miss Isabelle Haley, Robert Hawes and Crawford Johnson of Birmingham, Ala. Following the races Mr. Cox entertained a hundred guests at one of the largest and gayest parties of the season at the Bridle Spur Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Wright occupied their box with a group of friends, and near by in the Elzey G. Burkham box were Mr. and Mrs. Burkham and a party. Mr and Mrs. Reginald M. C. Ormrod were members of another group. Mr. and Mrs. Gus Arendes were with Mr. and Mrs. Hord Hardin. Mr. and Mrs. John Weber were with friends and others were John D. Ferguson and his son, John Davis Jr. Ernest H. Turner, Jack Sullivan and Ted Salorgne.

Mr. and Mrs. William N. Bemis were in a party with Mr. James E. Taussig, Mrs. Keith La Baume and Mrs. Mary Hicks. Mr. and Mrs. Bemis left last night after the races for their new winter home in Gulfport, Miss., to superintend alterations.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Blodgett were with Ivan Root of New York and Dr. Cortez F. Enloe of Jefferson City, and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Honig made a foursome with Mr. and Mrs. Peter Durlein.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hudson Barstow were with friends, as was Samuel W. Fordyce.

Reynolds Craig Frampton and his daughter, Miss Helen Frampton, entertained a party of friends that included Mr. and Mrs. Sol Hanes, who have recently come from Detroit, Mich., to make their home in St. Louis; Dr. A. R. Frampton of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Taylor of Columbia, Mo., and A. S. Frampton. Miss Frampton wore a becoming ensemble of navy blue and beige wool crepe. With the suit she wore blue suede pumps and a small blue felt sports hat.

G. G. Woodruff had as his guests Mr. and Mrs. A. L. R. Young and Miss Sara Tyler. Miss Tyler wore a sports dress of yellow crepe with a matching felt hat.

In the Louis P. Aloe box, Mr. and Mrs. Aloe's daughter, Mrs. J. Weissheim of San Francisco, Cal., entertained Mrs. Julius Van Ralte, Malcolm Denny of London, England; Albert Aloe and Milton Cohn.

From the Clubhouse Lawn.

Mrs. Philip S. Medart and her son, William Medart, Mrs. Jean Priest Williams and Miss Harriett Bassfeld saw the races from the lawn of the clubhouse.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Peters were with their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Whelan of Kansas City. In another group were Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey P. Heath and Harold and Arch de Bow. Mr. and Mrs. C. Marquard Forster and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stinde watched many of the races from the roof, as did Mr. and Mrs. Vincent M. Carroll and Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson.

In the Griffin Watkins box were Mr. and Mrs. Watkins and Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Ewing of Miami, Fla.

William J. Lemp Jr., Charles A. Lemp and Dr. William Winn made up a trio that flew in the former's plane to Fairmount.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Aid and their daughter, Miss Mary Louise Mr. and Mrs. Gus Gilster, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Niemeyer and their daughter, Miss Elizabeth, and George Dieckman, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Aid. Miss Aid wore an attractive three-piece knitted suit of powder blue with a soft blue felt hat and shoes to match of Mallinson silk.

Miss Katherine Corlis was escorted by Richard Shipley. Mrs C. C. Spink, Mr. and Mrs. J. G Taylor Spink of the regular Fairmount group were in evidence, as were Mrs. Herman Uhl and Mrs Edward Melsheimer. Mrs. Elmer L. Musick and her young daughter Mary Elizabeth, were with Mrs Bernadine P. Marquis and her two daughters. Mrs. Grace Hunter had a luncheon party, including Miss Helen McDermott.

Mr. and Mrs. William Crowdus, Miss Katheryn Trautz, Gus Buder and Harry James were together and Miss Isabelle Oatman was in a group with Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Abney and Mrs. Foster Jennings of Fort Worth, Tex.

In the Fred J. Kastor box were Mr. and Mrs. Forest Avant, Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Jamison, Paul Jr., Stewart Jamison, Miss Mary Helen Kastor, Miss Dixie Scott and Miss Sarah Jane Avant.

Marion Fuqua entertained Mr. and Mrs. James M. Rohan at luncheon on the clubhouse veranda and had as additional guests for the races Lee Dillon of Byrd Colonies, Buena Vista, Colo.; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Nims, Mrs. Dorothy Frey, R. E. Lane and Jack Hughes.

Isaac Lears entertained at luncheon and later in his box Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Saltzer and Louis Blumenstock of Chicago, formerly of St. Louis.

SUES FOR $10 BET ON MAYOR IN RICHMOND HEIGHTS IN 1926

Charles W. Oesterle Claims Agreement With J. A. Thornton Was Never Carried Out.

A $10 election bet on the 1926 mayoralty election in Richmond Heights is the objective of a suit brought yesterday against former Mayor James M. Jensen by Charles W. Oesterle of 7333 La Veta avenue, who, however, carefully abstains from calling it a bet.

"When do I get my $10" Oesterle would interrupt, when Jensen spoke in the last campaign. His suit blandly relates that he gave John A. Thornton $10 which was to be returne if Edward H. Houlihan defeated Jensen for Mayor in 1926. It neglects to elucidate that both put up $10 and that Jensen appeared to be re-elected by the returns and collected the money from Thornton before a recount showed he had been defeated.

READING TO FIGHT IMPEACHMENT IN MASSACHUSETTS

Attorney-General Silent in Face of Unanimous Report Against Him by House Committee.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, June 2. — Notwithstanding the unanimous report against him, Attorney-General Arthur K. Reading will fight impeachment. If the Lower House of the State Legislature in the coming week supports its Investigation Committee's report and votes impeachment, Reading will continue his battle before the Senate, sitting as a court, in the hope that he can prevent a majority of the members from voting to convict him.

These statements were authorized today from sources close to the Attorney-General, although Reading himself declined to comment on the case or to explain his view of the special investigation committee's report. He has conferred with his counsel since the report was filed, but has decided to have nothing to say for the present.

The report of the committee would be in the calendar of the House when it convenes at 2 p. m. Monday. Action on the report will be delayed for one or possibly two days, so members will have ample opportunity to study it before debate. It is expected that the debate will not take more than two days, so that the final vote will be reported before the end of the week.

Impeachment Expected.

It is assumed that the report will be sustained and that impeachment will be voted. In that event the House will then notify the Senate and the Governor of its action and will elect a Board of Managers to prosecute the case before the Senate, which may or may not employ counsel.

Demand for the immediate impeachment of the Attorney-General for misconduct and maladministration in office as a duty of the House of Representatives, was made by the special Reading Investigation Committee in its unanimous report filed in the office of the House clerk yesterday.

Reading's dealings with the L. A. W. Finance Corporation and with the Decimo Club Inc., form the basis of the conclusions of the committee. The Committee finds, in connection with the L. A. W. case, that Reading "was and is guilty of misconduct and maladministration in his office as Attorney-General of Massachusetts in that he wilfully, wrongfully and corruptly and for his own profit and emolument brought the administration of justice in this Commonwealth into discredit and disrepute."

Accused of Misconduct.

In the case of Reading's connection with the Decimo Club, the Committee finds that "in entering the employment of the Decimo Club under conditions and circumstances as herein found by committee and in acceptance of $25,000 as found to have been to him paid and his participations in the false and fictitious transactions relating to the said payment as found by the committee, Mr. Reading was guilty of misconduct, and maladministration in his office as Attorney-General of Massachusetts."

The committee also states that "upon the evidence taken and reported, the committee feels bound to express its findings of disapproval and deprecation of the amount of time and service that Mr. Reading while Attorney-General gave to private clients from whom he received very substantial compensation to the inevitable and actual impairment of the energy and service which he owed in fullest measure to the Commonwealth. The committee further finds that the private employment of the Attorney-General had at least in one instance seriously delayed the performance of his official duties to other branches of the Government of the Commonwealth."

SECRETARY OF WAR 'KNIGHTED'

PARIS, June 2.—Dwight F. Davis, Secretary of War has a title of which he doubtless never has heard. He is "Sir" Dwight F. Davis in some of the newspapers. The title was bestowed upon him in connection with the Davis Cup, which he gave to the tennis world.

Davis is not the first "Sir" among Americans to get a title from the French. When S. Parker Gilbert, agent general of the reparations commission, first came to Europe's attention, he also was knighted by the newspapers, and some of them went so far as to transpose his names and make him "Sir Gilbert Parker." Thereupon other newspapers dug up ancient moustached pictures of the Canadian novelist to go with the name, and it was several years before most of the papers got it straightened out.

L. H. Conrad at Burroughs.

Lawrence H. Conrad of the University of Michigan faculty, author of two English textbooks and a novel, has been appointed head of the English department in John Burroughs School. He succeeds Howard Francis Seely, head of the department for five years. Seely is to join the faculty of Ohio State University, where he will direct the training of English teachers.

LINCOLN

A SINGLE STANDARD

The chassis of the LINCOLN is built only in one size and one grade—there is only one standard of LINCOLN balanced excellence—each and every LINCOLN is built to that one standard—the LINCOLN standard.

The type of body alone determines the difference in LINCOLN prices—Mechanically every LINCOLN measures up to the same LINCOLN standard of performance—the same splendid power, swift acceleration, smooth silent operation, wonderful riding qualities, ease and certainty of control. Every LINCOLN chassis is identically the same.

There is only one quality of LINCOLN custom designed bodies—the Open Sport Roadster bodies or the Sport Phaeton bodies are designed with the same studied artistry as the costliest closed bodies; they are built to the same LINCOLN standards—frame work, beautifully fashioned aluminum panels, metal trim and appointments, upholstery, color, finish are all as high in quality as the best of material and workmanship can produce. Not in a single detail is anything in any LINCOLN car built down to a price. It is built for those buyers of fine cars who demand the flawless best—without compromise in quality or value.

That the price of LINCOLN cars is not higher is due only to the buying resources and volume efficiency of the Ford Organization of which LINCOLN is a master-product.

TWO ROBBERS BOARD TRUCK, TAKE $900 PAYROLL MONEY

Employes of Polinsky Packing Co. Held Upon Return From Bank With Funds.

Two robbers obtained a $900 payroll of the Polinsky Packing Co., 1213 North Thirteenth street, at noon yesterday, after holding up two employes of the company, who were returning from a downtown bank with the money.

The employes, Navan Galansky, 1400A Goodfellow avenue, and Sol Rosen, 5163 Easton avenue, drew the money at the American Trust Co., and were driving north in Twelfth street in a company truck when at O'Fallon street two youths in a small coupe drew alongside and ordered them to stop.

One youth, displaying a revolver, boarded the truck and directed Galansky to drive to Eleventh and Hebert streets, where he took the money from Rosen's pockets. Ordering his victims not to follow or make an outcry the youth joined his companion in the coupe. Rosen and Galansky furnished police with descriptions of the robbers. The loss is partly insured.

FORMER MRS. MELLON GETS SECOND DIVORCE

Obtains Reno Decree Against Harry A. Lee, Charged With Failure to Provide.

By the Associated Press.

RENO, Nev., June 2.—Mrs. Nora Lee of Litchfield, Conn., former wife of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, has obtained a divorce here from Harry A. Lee, whom she married in New York in 1923. Mrs. Lee was Nora McMullen, daughter of the founder of a great brewing company of Dublin, Ireland, when she married Mr. Mellon in 1900, the wedding taking place at her father's estate in Hertfordshire, England.

The Mellons were divorced in 1912. They had two children, a son and a daughter, the latter Mrs. David K. Bruce, whose wedding in Washington last year was a brilliant social affair.

The divorce from Lee was granted Mrs. Lee on a cross-complaint to a suit filed by her husband, in which he charged her with nagging him and objecting to his recreations. She, in return, accused him of failure to provide the common necessaries of life.

NATIONAL PRESS CLUB VOTES TO BAR MUSSOLINI

American press pretends to cherish."

Ross Gives Some History.

Ross recited some history of the suppression of newspapers in Italy under Mussolini's regime, describing in particular the persecution of the Corriere Della Sera of Milan. He told how the Albertini family, which for years had conducted this great liberal newspaper, were finally driven from Italy by Mussolini, as the result of their fight for constitutional government.

"By its title, the National Press Club appears to foreigners to have a national character, and is accepted in some degree as a spokesman for the American press," he continued. "We owe it to those who are attempting to maintain a free press in Europe to give no comfort or appearance of support to the man who has done more than all others to destroy the freedom of the European press."

Laurence Todd, correspondent of the Federated Press Association, followed with a more detailed account of the wholesale suppression of newspapers by Mussolini in Italy, accompanied by the imprisonment and banishment of editors, and in some cases by the burning of their plants.

Theodore Huntley, a member of the board, asked Todd if he would be in favor of barring President Coolidge from membership in the club if it were shown that Liberal newspapers in Nicaragua had been suppressed by Marines during the American occupation of that country. Todd surprised him by retorting that he might, but added that he knew of no such suppressions in Nicaragua, and was certain that American newspapermen would resent them if they occurred, and added that a second wrong could not make a right of the first wrong.

Personally Objectionable.

Norman Baxter, an editorial writer on the Washington Post, attacked the problem from a new angle by declaring that, aside from all question of professional ethics, Mussolini was ineligible to membership in a social organization, such as the press club, because he was personally objectionable to a large section of the membership.

President Essay's action in sending the cablegram was hotly denounced by Robert Allen of Christian Science Monitor as an unwarranted assumption of authority in violation of the by-laws of the club, and he demanded an explantation. At this juncture, Edward Markham of the St. Paul Pioneer-Press, a member of the board, virtually joined the protesters by declaring that Essary had acted without authority from the board and adding that a stringent rule should be adopted to prevent the recurrence of such incidents.

Demands for an explantion failed, however, when the presiding officer, Paul Wooten of the New Orleans Times-Picayune, held that Essay could not be "cross-examined." Essary himself sat tight-lipped and silent, except for a momentary outburst in which he imputed motives of personal animosity to Todd. The latter replied warmly, but Ross finally succeeded in calming the dispute by pointing out that the protest was based upon a question of principle, and that personal feelings should be excluded from the discussion.

Action by the Board.

During the course of the meeting there was no attempt to defend Mussolini's record in connection with the press, and when a majority of the governors had signified their belief that a blunder had been made, the protestants summed up their objections and withdrew, leaving the board in executive session to take final action. After more than an hour of wrangling behind closed doors, during which some of the members tried to postpone final action, the board emerged and announced that it had voted unanimously to rescind its approval of Mussolini's application. It was learned that President Essary personally made the motion, thus making his repentance complete and official.

It was generally expected among correspondents in the Capital that the incident would have a salutary effect in dissipating a certain atmosphere which has been on the increase in Washington. For several years there has been a noticeable tendency on the part of certain correspondents to ingratiate themselves with high officials, both American and foreign. This policy has been colorfully described by H. L. Mencken as "pants pressing," and it has been the subject of constant and biting comment by reporters who believe in getting and printing the news without fear or favor.

Days before last night's meeting was held, it became obvious that the attempt to confer a journalistic honor on the world's greatest enemy of freedom of the press had aroused deep resentment, and the protest movement acquired overwhelming popularity, even among the most conservative correspondents. Aside from Mussolini's record, this undoubtedly was a partial reaction against journalistic "pants pressing," a notable feature of which is the custom of allowing high Government officials to give out anonymous statements, through the device of "official spokesmen" and similar dodges.

SCOUTS TO SWIM FRIDAY

Registration Cards Will Admit Them Free to Coliseum Pool.

Hoover Claims Within 13½, Smith Within 86 of Nomination

WASHINGTON, June 2.

ALL the 1089 delegates to the Republican National Convention where a majority, 545, will be required to nominate, have been selected. Contests have been filed involving 73 seats.

of the 1100 delegates in the Democratic Convention, 964 have been chosen, leaving 136 from six states to be designated. Two-thirds, or 734 votes, will be needed for nomination.

The total after each candidate's name in the table below represents the delegates instructed, pledged or claimed for him by his political managers, and not the number conceded to him by his opponents. Claims overlap in a number of states.

The line-up at present:

Republicans.

HOOVER—331½, of whom 181 are in dispute. Alabama, 15; Arizona, 4; Arkansas, 6; California, 29; Colorado, 14; Delaware, 4; Florida, 10; Georgia, 1; Iowa, 2; Kentucky, 29; Louisiana, 12; Maine, 15; Maryland, 19; Massachusetts, 37; Michigan, 33; Minnesota, 7; Missouri, 10; Montana, 5½; Nebraska, 9; Nevada, 8; New Hampshire, 11; New Jersey, 31; New Mexico, 7; New York, 47; North Carolina, 10; Ohio, 31; Oregon, 13; Rhode Island, 12; Tennessee, 19; Utah, 11; Vermont, 11; Virginia, 15; Washington, 17; West Virginia, 9; Wisconsin, 7; Wyoming, 7; Hawaii, 2; Philippines, 2.

Hoover's claim to the following 181 is disputed by opponents: Alabama, 1; Arizona, 4; Arkansas, 4; Colorado, 7; Delaware, 4; Florida, 10; Kentucky, 2; Louisiana, 12; Massachusetts, 26; Minnesota, 2; Missouri, 4; Montana, 1; Nebraska, 4; Nevada, 3; New Jersey, 8; New Mexico, 6; New York, 20; North Carolina, 5; Oregon, 1; Tennessee, 12; Utah, 11; Vermont, 11; Virginia, 11; Wisconsin, 5; Wyoming, 7.

RITCHIE—16. Maryland, 16.

At present no candidate is claiming the following 66 Democratic delegates, already chosen: Alabama, 24; Arkansas, 18; South Carolina, 18; Canal Zone, 6.

There are contesting delegations from the Canal Zone, one uninstructed, the other instructed for Smith. Two contesting delegations are expected from the District of Columbia, both instructed for Smith.

Democratic delegates have not been selected as yet in the following states: Florida, 12; Indiana, 30; Kentucky, 26; Mississippi, 20; North Carolina, 24; Virginia, 24.

The Indiana delegates will be instructed for Woollen as a result of the recent preferential primary.

SAYS 12 WEST VIRGINIA VOTES GO TO GOV. SMITH

Worker Claims Three-Fourths of State's Convention Ballots.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FAIRMONT, W. Va., June 2.—In a statement tonight, C. E. Smith, editor of the Fairmont Times and an active supporter of the presidential candidacy of Gov. Smith of New York, said that 12 of West Virginia's 16 votes in the Houston convention would be for Gov. Smith.

"With the belated returns from Ohio County received today, the Smith delegates-at-large are almost even in the tabulations with the anti-Smith delegates-at-large. The five counties yet to report their votes for delegates-at-large, all gave Smith majorities ranging from 500 to 1500 over Reed. When the votes of these counties are received Monday, they will show the Smith delegates all leading.

"In the contests for district delegates, the Smith forces have elected two delegates in the First, two in the Fifth and two in the Sixth. In the Third District one Smith delegate has been elected. In the Second District one Smith delegate has a substantial lead, with 11 small precincts missing, and in the Fouth District the contest is so close for one of the delegates that the official canvass will have to be awaited.

"In the contest between Smith and Reed for the State's preferential vote, Smith's victory was sweeping. He carried nearly 40 of the 55 counties and his victories were most notable in the rural and remote counties.

"Smith lost every railroad center in the State, but no reason has as yet been assigned for Reed's support by the railroad men."

RAMONA DOGTRACK LOSES SUIT OVER ELECTRIC RABBIT

Judge Faris Refers to Betting in Mentioning Moral Issues Ignored by Both Sides.

In an opinion, permanently enjoining the Ramona Kennel Club from infringing upon the patents of the late Owen P. Smith, inventor of the electric rabbit which greyhounds chase nightly at the Madison Kennel Club, Federal Judge Faris yesterday made this comment:

"There are moral questions involved which for reasons that might seem obvious were not raised by either side in this litigation. It is not incumbent upon me to take judicial notice of this phase of the case."

The Court's reference apparently was to the "contribution" betting system in operation at dog tracks.

Truly a month of Exhilirating Happiness
June in the OZARKS
"The Land of a Million Smiles"

PACK up the grips! Stuff in the swimming suit, the fishing tackle and grab the golf clubs! For it's June—time to enjoy the most wonderful of all vacations in this alluring region of cool, rumbling streams and mirror-like lakes in a setting of heavily-foliaged, friendly mountains where refreshingly cool nights fit you for a full day of Ozark sports: —fishing, boating, swimming, exploring, hiking, horse-back riding, golf, tennis and motoring over beautiful scenic highways.

In spite of the joyous opportunities of the Ozarks, vacations here are much more economical than in most resort regions. And it is only a short night's ride or an easy day's drive for the Middle-West.

Write today for the new, beautiful Ozark book, describing and picturing nearly half a hundred resorts and resort towns of the Ozark Playgrounds Association. It's FREE!

ACCUSES CONSTABLE OF HIDING PROPERTY

George Lenhardt Asserts in Suit George Roth Seeks to Evade Judgment.

In a suit filed in Circuit Court at Clayton yesterday it is alleged that Constable George J. Roth of Central Township bought a $40,000 piece of property and put it in the names of his parents-in-law, with intent to defraud George Lenhardt, an Oakville blacksmith, who had obtained an $11,000 judgment against Roth and others for using third-degree methods on Lenhardt.

Roth's office has been lucrative in the three and a half years he has held it, the suit asserts, enabling him to accumulate large sums of money, which is alleged to be deposited in banks under assumed names such as Ross and Weiss. Roth's official income is derived from fees in civil and criminal cases and a considerable part of the work of his deputies is in traffic law enforcement.

The suit was filed in behalf of Lenhardt by his attorney, John A. Nolan, naming Roth and the Constable's parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Bauer, as defendants. It is designed to obtain payment of the judgment, and asks that conveyance of the property to the Bauers be set aside. The judgment stands against Roth, two of his Deputies, a former Deputy who now is a Deputy Sheriff, and two private detectives. It is not set out in Lenhardt's present suit whether efforts have been made to collect from the other defendants, but that is not a necessary proceeding, as any defendant is liable for the whole sum of a judgment.

The suit alleges that Jan. 30, with the knowledge of the Bauers and with intent to defraud Lenhardt by concealing property, Roth purchased four acres at Olive street road and Howard avenue, near Olivette, on which a large residence of granite blocks is nearly completed, and withheld the deed.

March 8, Lenhardt obtained a $24,000 judgment against Roth and others in the third degree case. The next day, the present suit asserts, the deed to the Bauers was filed with the Recorder. There was a new trial of the damage suit and the $11,000 verdict was returned April 18.

The property is alleged to have been acquired from Eugene B. Spencer. The petition avers that the Bauers are persons of modest means and advanced years.

Roth and the Bauers reside on this property, Roth having married a daughter of the Bauers following the divorce of his first wife last autumn.

Lenhardt was questioned in the investigation of the murder of his wife in 1925. He alleged that he was treated brutally.

A GOOD DIGESTION MEANS A GOOD COMPLEXION

Did you ever observe one of those charming women who possess a naturally lovely complexion? How sure she is of herself, and so at ease at all times. And why shouldn't she be? She knows that her beauty will not rub off or be carried away by wind or weather. It is natural beauty and part of her real self.

Such beauty comes only from within. Every woman should possess it, and can if she will give mother nature a chance by eating foods that are well balanced and promote digestion—because it is these factors that form the very basis of true loveliness.

CALUMET
THE WORLD'S GREATEST BAKING POWDER

the leavener you have heard so much about, is noted the world over for the pure, wholesome bakings it produces and is highly endorsed by eminent food specialists who have made an exhaustive study of dietics. You can use it in any baking that requires leavening with assurance of the finest results. It enables you to constantly supply your table with correct food combinations and serve "new" dishes that whet up the appetite and appease hunger. And don't forget the well known fact that Calumet is

DOUBLE ACTING

Contains two leavening units: one begins to work when the dough is mixed; the other waits for the heat of the oven, then both units work together.

Contains only such ingredients as have been officially approved by U. S. Food Authorities. Order a can from your grocer to-day.

MAKES BAKING EASIER

LESS THAN 1¢ PER BAKING

RECIPE FOR CALUMET BRAN MUFFINS

1 cup flour	½ level teaspoon salt
1 cup bran	2 tablespoons sugar
2 level teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder	1 egg
	¾ cup milk

2 tablespoons melted shortening

Sift dry ingredients except bran into mixing bowl. Add bran and mix well. Beat egg until light; add milk. Combine with dry material, add melted shortening. Beat batter three or four times. Pour into greased muffin pans and bake fifteen minutes in hot oven 350°-425°F. This makes eight large or twelve small muffins.

FASHION SHOW NOT LIKELY TO BE HELD THIS YEAR

Shoe, Dry Goods and Men's Clothing Manufacturers Withdraw Their Support From It.

The Fashion Pageant, the principal medium by which St. Louis manufacturers and jobbers of women's ready-to-wear, millinery and shoe have shown their creations publicly, will probably not be given this year.

The large shoe, dry goods and men's clothing manufacturers have withdrawn their support of the show, leaving only the women's ready-to-wear and millinery firms as sponsors, and it is generally thought the financial burden of an elaborate production would be too great for the restricted number of subscribers. Some feel that a pageant less sumptuous than one of the established standard would be worse than none at all. A committee which is considering the matter is gradually inclining to this view.

Several reasons are given for the falling off of interest among Washington avenue firms in the event. Some became dissatisfied when the Pageant was held at the Garden Theater instead of at the Municipal Theater in Forest Park, where it had been held for seven years, since 1917. They cited that the Garden Theater seats only 3000 as compared with 9000 at the Municipal Theater and that the show held in a privately owned theater, lacked the background of a municipal enterprise, as was the case when the Pageant was held in the city-owned theater.

Fashions Change too Fast.

Fashions have developed a tendency to change too rapidly for a show held only once a year to do them justice and there has been a general disposition in all industry to economize, cutting out the "frills," those who have participated in the previous pageants say.

Since the first pageant was presented 11 years ago, the event had become an institution in the St. Louis market and nearby territory. It was the principal attraction, aside from the market advantages, which brought merchants and buyers to the city and its sponsors declared the show had done much to establish St. Louis as a style center.

The shoe houses were the first to withdraw from support of the Pageant. These houses have their own style show each December and executives concluded their individual show sufficed for their purposes. This withdrawal was followed by that of the wholesale dry goods firms, several of which carry large stocks of women's wear and some of the men's wear manufacturers also declined to participate this year.

Another Difficulty.

Within the latter industry there has been dissension concerning the specific advantages of the show to it for several years. Some of these firms considered it unfair to ask them to contribute large sums for support of a project which showed women's styles only. One year the showing of men's clothing was experimented with, but it was not a success.

Plans have been made at the Garden Theater to fill in the two weeks Aug. 5 to 19, which had been reserved for the Fashion Pageant, should it not be held, according to Flint Garrison, general manager of the pageant and owner of the theater. Should the show not be held the season of theatrical productions would be extended to 12 weeks instead of 10, as planned.

Missing Veteran Returns Home.

Francis P. Moore, shell-shocked ex-Marine, who had been reported missing after the steamboat excursion of the Second Division Association Friday night, returned to his home at 7366A Elm avenue, Maplewood, yesterday. He said he had spent Friday evening with a former comrade at Hotel Statler.

BOBBY BURNS STATUE UNVEILED ON CAMPUS

Admirers at Washington U. Hail Scotch Genius as Singer of Liberty.

"Oh wad some power the giftie gie us
To see oursel's as others see us!"

If it could be given to Bobby Burns, the Scotch poet, to see himself as St. Louisans now see him, it would be as an imposing statue in bronze, eight feet high, garbed like the farmer he was when a youth. He would behold the sturdy figure of a slim chap, gazing thoughtfully toward the ground with piercing eyes, beside a sheaf of grain, with a book in his right hand, leaning on a scythe slipped beneath his left armpit.

He would observe this formal inscription on the pedestal of granite: "Robert Burns. Erected Under the Auspices of the Burns Club of St. Louis by Admirers of Robert Burns and His Genius."

This monument, a notable addition to the statuary of the city, stands on the campus of Washington University, in front of the School of Fine Arts at Skinker boulevard and Forsythe avenue, where it was unveiled yesterday afternoon in the presence of about 200 persons. It was the work of Robert Ingersoll Aitken, a noted sculptor of Scotch descent.

There was a distinctively Scotch atmosphere to the occasion, although speakers hailed Burns as a universal singer of liberty and high ideals. The pipers of the Caledonian Society of St. Louis, attired in traditional kilts and full regalia, led a procession of the speakers and Burns Club members from Bixby Hall to the temporary stand. "Corn Riggs" was the gay tune they played, with five bagpipes, a bass drum and three snare drums. The Rev. Dr. John W. MacIvor, pastor of Second Presbyterian Church, chief speaker, and his youthful daughter, Miss Betty, who unveiled the statue, likewise wore kilts. Between American banners was the Scotch flag—a brown lion rampant on a yellow field.

Reverence and Simplicity.

In the invocation the Rev. Dr. D. M. Skilling of Webster Groves Presbyterian Church touched on the "reverence of Burns' nature and the sweetness and simplicity of his life."

"Burns, although born in Scotland, belongs to the world," said George S. Johns, vice president of the Burns Club and chairman of the day. "He is the poet of freedom and the rights of man. He has expressed exquisitely the sentiments of love, home and country. He was a wonderful interpreter of nature and depicts its beauty with the charm of his own imagination and language. The appeal of his poetry is, therefore, universal wherever it is read."

While Miss MacIvor jerked away the white shroud enveloping the bronze, the band piped "A Man's a Man." Acting Chancellor Throop then accepted the statue in a brief talk, saying, "We will do our best to maintain it in good repair until the end of time." W. R. MacKenzie, professor of English at the university, explained that it was fitting for Burns to be honored on the campus, though not a university man, because he was "profoundly and steadfastly interested in man and his ideals." After this the band played "Pibroch of Donald Dhu."

170th Anniversary Near.

Dr. MacIvor, in his address, recalled that the 170th anniversary of Burns' birth is approaching and traced the influences of the poet's early life.

"It is not the place that makes the difference," he said, "but the heart that beats upon that place. Burns had many strings to his lyre and he played them with a master's hand. His range was from the mouth of hell to the very gates of Heaven and he was always speaking to the human heart. We must give him his place for what he has accomplished for the freedom of the world. We know him as the apostle of liberty and the prophet of real religion. Thank God for Robert Burns!"

The gathering dispersed while the pipers played "Glen Drual Highlander."

Among those in the stand was W. K. Bixby, president of the Burns Club, who suggested the statue and contributed half of the $20,000 fund, to which about 150 other persons subscribed. The club dates from World's Fair days.

Frederick S. Roth Dead.

Frederick S. Roth, treasurer of the Shumate Cutlery Co., 1706 Olive street, died at his home, 6400 Ellenwood avenue, Clayton, yesterday following a long illness. Mr. Roth, who was 61 years old, came to St. Louis from Milwaukee 20 years ago. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Alice Elseman Roth, and two sons, Benjamin and Frederick Jr. Funeral services will be at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow from the residence to the Missouri Crematory.

PARENTS SELL CHILDREN

Starving Chinese in Dreadful Straits, Missionaries Report.

By the Associated Press.

PEKIN, June 2.—Missionary reports disclose that in the inns of many towns in southern Chihli agencies have been set up to buy girls from starving parents.

In Shantung children, boys and girls alike are sold into slavery to become farm workers or household drudges. It is difficult to estimate the extent of this practice, for no one wants it known that starvation has brought him to this pass. Mothers have drowned their children rather than sell them or see them starve.

STOCKS RANGE UP BUT MOVEMENTS LESS FRENZIED

Restoration of Five-Hour Trading Sessions Results in Only Moderate Increase in Business on Exchange.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Stiffening money rates had a sobering effect on securities speculation this week.

But though the upward movement of prices was not checked, and a wide assortment of issues moved into new high ground, there was little of the frenzied trading apparent a month and more ago. Restoration of the five-hour trading sessions resulted in only a moderate increase in business with average daily sales running nearer the 3,000,000 share mark as contrasted with a long string of 4,000,000 share sessions in the recent advance.

The announcement of the Chrysler-Dodge merger and the return to this country of William C. Durant, prominent market operator, revived speculative interest in the motor group. Steels and rails failed to make much progress. Mail order and chain store issues responded to reports of expanded May sales. Oils lost some of their recent buoyancy, but coppers showed signs of life as the week closed after an earlier period of sluggishness.

Sharp advances in Radio and International Telephone, based on unconfirmed rumors of negotiations for the sale of the former's communications business to the latter, and the establishment of new low prices for 1928 by Western Union and Abitibi Power were the contrasting features of the public utility group.

Call Money 6½ Per Cent.

The further restriction in the volume of speculative credit available was reflected in the advance of call money rates to 6½ per cent, the highest in several years.

Stock prices broke sharply when the higher call rate was announced on Monday, but made irregular recovering later when the feeling became quite general that the stiffer rates were incidental to month-end requirements, and therefore temporary. Operators for the advance conducted their operations on a large scale in the belief that a substantial portion of the half billion dollars or more distributed in the form of dividend and interest payments this month would find its way back into the securities markets.

Although the persistent efforts of Federal reserve authorities to restrict the volume of credit available on securities collateral caused some liquidation on the part of conservative investors and a renewal of attacks on the part of "bear" traders, operators working for higher prices expressed the view that new securities offerings, which totaled nearly $800,000,000 last month, were largely responsible for the advance in brokers' loans.

Chrysler-Dodge Merger.

The announcement of the Chrysler-Dodge Bros. merger started a fresh wave of speculation in the motor shares, several of which attained new high records.

Steel shares held up well in the face of a further decline in steel output. Several of the food shares reached new high ground. Mail order shares responded to the announcement of increased May sales. Oils were a bit backward because of the increase in crude oil output after several weeks of declining production. Coppers also ran into heavy profit-taking, but the undertone was firm in reflection of the recent advance in commodity prices.

Rails received good buying support in the face of disappointing freight traffic returns. The New York Central announced the offering of additional common stock, leading to hopes of similar action by the Southern Railway before the end of the year.

High-priced specialties were again whirled about in spectacular fashion. Radio was an outstanding feature, soaring to a new high record for all time. Airplane stocks staged a series of bullish demonstrations, but ran into heavy profit-taking on the rallies.

CROP COMMENT BULLISH AND WHEAT ADVANCES

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 2.—With crop comment today more unfavorable from spring wheat territory than at any previous time this season, wheat prices advanced. It was shown from records that the Dakotas and the Canadian prairie provinces have had a market deficit of moisture for the last two months as compared with recent years. Estimates were also out indicating that the 1928 Canadian wheat yield will be 8,000,000 to 14,000,000 bushels less than for 1927.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1¾c to 1¾c net higher; corn 1¼c to 1¾c up; oats showing 1¼c to 1⅝c advance, and provisions varying from 5c decline to a rise of 2c.

Rainless skies northwest and Liverpool quotations higher than due gave the wheat market here an early swing upward today.

Southwest reports that harvesting was in progress failed to act as an offset. Opening ⅝c to 1⅞c higher, Chicago wheat afterward scored additional gains. Corn and oats were also firmer, with corn starting ¼c to 1¼c up, and subsequently holding near to the initial range. Provisions tended to sag.

Cash wheat market was dull. Spot offerings practically nil. Trading basis called unchanged, firm for winter and spring grades. Shipping sales none. Cancellations 53,400 bu. Seaboard reported some Manitobas worked to Antwerp. No figures given.

Cash corn was firmer with futures. Trading basis steady to ¾c higher. Shipping sales 105,000 bu and cancellations 72,773 bu. Booked to arrive only 5000 bu.

Cash oats continue strong. Prices 1@1¢ higher. Basis unchanged to 3c higher. Shipping sales 63,000 bu and cancellations 11,520 bu. A sale of 10,000 bu No. 3 white old in store today at 63c, and it was reported 130,000 bu No. 3 white now loading to go East.

Corn and oats rose with wheat.

Provisions held about steady, keeping in line with the hog market.

CHEERFULNESS RULES IN LONDON MARKETS

Special to Post-Dispatch and New York Evening Post.

By ARTHUR W. KIDDY.

LONDON, June 2.—A fortnight ago stocks in London were weakening, with money rates hardening on apprehensions that a rise of the New York Federal Reserve Bank rate would occasion stringency on both sides of the Atlantic with the rise in dollar exchange.

Instead, dollar exchange has fallen, due to the large imports of gold from the United States and there is a general recovery and cheerfulness in all markets. Locally, no doubt, matters were also affected by the anticipated reinvestment of a portion of the £50,000,000 war loan dividends due the first of June, while the supplies of credits in Lombard street were temporarily increased by the fact that French holders of short-dated bills were surfeited with money with apparently no disposition to buy long-term bills.

Discount rates would probably be easier had it not been that recent developments making money rates in the United States higher than those in England have increased supply bills in London. Those who recently engaged gold from the United States probably calculated that in spite of gold engagements, sterling would keep firm for a considerable time owing to the extent of American loans abroad.

Unless monetary conditions develop untowardly, it is believed that June will see great activity in existing stocks and new capital issues, though something depends on whether gold arrivals in London are allowed to have their full effect on the credit position which again turns on divergent views of the financial position in the United States. It is generally believed that the Federal Reserve Bank will take the view that it is imperative that gambles in Wall street should be reduced, and in the same connection the disposition in London is officially to regard the recent and impending gold arrivals as abnormal.

Certain leaders in good quarters, however, including probably those responsible for the gold engagements, take a different view of the situation and consider that the Federal Reserve Bank is over anxious about Wall street commitments, which, although great, are considered only proportionate to new conditions in the United States.

These quarters argue that the mere fact of brokers' loans breaking high records is meaningless, because everything else in America breaks records, and competent bankers in England argue that not only is Wall street's position not dangerous, but there is infinitely less cause for anxiety than in the old days when the United States had no strong banking system to fall back on and practically no reserve hold over the exchange as expressed in the enormous loans to foreign countries.

Doubtless, however, institutions like the Federal Reserve and the Bank of England, with their special responsibilities, are inclined to take a more conservative view and, in the United States particularly there is probably the tendency to stress the fact that as against factors I have named there must be set the Reserve Bank's liabilities on French and other foreign balances temporarily deposited in the United States.

Although the currency and bank notes bill authorizing fusion of the Treasury and Bank of England notes has not passed the House of Commons the controversy concerning the fiduciary limit continues.

COTTON MARKET QUIET AT WEEK-END SESSION

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 2.—The cotton market was quiet today, partial reactions from an opening advance being attributed to week-end realizing. October contracts after selling up to 20.90c at the start, reacted to 20.76c and closed at that figure, compared with 20.73c at the close the previous day. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 3 to 8 points.

A flurry of buying at the opening evidently was stimulated by an unfavorable view of the weather news, which indicated showery conditions in the South, with rather heavy showers or rains at some points in the Mississippi Valley and Texas. These conditions were considered likely to stimulate boll weevil activities, and some traders also felt that dry weather would have been preferable considering recent complaints of grassy fields.

For a time demand was quite active, but was supplied on advances of 15 to 17 points, and after selling up to 20.72c for July and the December prices eased under local and commission house selling. Offerings were not heavy, but there was comparatively little demand after the early buying had run its course and the close was at the lowest prices of the day on most positions.

Both the Liverpool and Alexandria markets are closed today, but Liverpool will reopen for business on Monday. Trading here included further liquidation of July contracts, but it appeared to be absorbed at about the previous differences between July and December, while at the close July within 14 points of October, compared with a discount of 18 points at the close Friday.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 99,016 bales, against 124,433 last year and 47,206 two years ago.

Buying on the unfavorable view of the weather reports may have been restricted by reports of a poor demand for cotton goods

NEW YORK, June 2.—The Evening Post in copyrighted weekly financial review, says:

"Further restrictions on credit this week brought a flurry of 6½ per cent money for the first time in five years but the stock market is more confident of its position than at any time recently as the new month begins. The prospect for some relaxation in money rates next week with the return of currency after the month-end settlements and the prediction of a conspicuous operator than the next two or three months would bring a bigger bull market than ever, made it easy for the market to ignore slow, even if important, forces at work against the market. Whatever the ultimate view of things may be, the present attitude of the market is that a creeping advance in money rates offers no very serious obstacle so long as stocks maintain their pace of improvement in price. It is becoming evident that the country is in the market on the bull side to stick, and that more than minor setbacks will be required to shake its confidence.

Two Influences Ahead.

"In markets like the present sentiment is not always controlled by fundamental conditions but in this case a continued flow of satisfactory business in most major lines adds fuel to the fire. With the combination of a good volume of sales and firming commodity prices most corporations expect to earn more during the remainder of 1928 than they did in corresponding 1927 months. The approaching political campaign and the agricultural situation present two influences powerful in their effect on the market, but these remain unknown quantities. The one known force at work against the market nd which in the end will demand recognition is the ever tightening grip on credit expansion of the Federal Reserve System. The country's monetary gold stocks fell $103,000,000 during May, which represents an unexpected acceleration in the gold outflow and sharply contrasts the volume of credit that can extend on the basis of metal holdings.

Loss of Credit with Gold.

"It indeed swells the country's loss of gold since Sept. 1 to $452,000,000, which is to say it reduces by $4,520,000,000 the amount of credit available for use on the basis of gold. At no time since the war have our gold stocks been depleted so rapidly as now. If Wall Street is inclined to relegate serious consideration of these gold shipments to theorists it will in time see its mistake. By forcing member banks to increase their dependence upon the reserve banks, heavy shipments of gold, precisely in the same manner as do sales of Government securities by the reserve banks, bear a most intimate relation to the market for call money. Fluctuations in member bank borrowings govern with almost mathematical precision over a period changes in the call rates. The relation of the two is not difficult to trace.

New Source of Money.

"As member banks find their reserves at the regional institutions depleted, through the loss of gold and the sale of Government securities, they must restore their reserve position in some way. In an effort to restore their reserve since late in January member banks have increased their borrowings at the reserve banks by $558,000,000, an operation that tightens money by removing vast sums from the market. The country still has enormous credit reservoirs that can be tapped, of course, and despite the determined efforts of the reserve system, it remains problematical how efficacious immediately will be the move to check loan expansion. Brokers' loans from New York member banks for their own account and for the account of out-of-town banks, the two sources under direct control of the system, have not increased much since the discount rate was raised. Loans by New York member banks for the account of others, however, an item not under Federal Reserve control, have multiplied faster than ever. Restrained by the Reserve banks the market is turning to new sources for its money.

Dry Goods Market Review.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Cotton goods and yarns closed quiet, after a dull week. Business were firm on spot and nearby lightweight deliveries. Clothing manufacturers find retail choppers anxious to clean up more of the spring and summer lines before ordering for fall and this is tending to make for quiet prominence of fabrics for fall. More active buying of raw silk was stimulated by recent severe declines.

SHARES SOLD

NEW YORK, June 2.—Total sales for the week on the New York Stock Exchange were 15,874,200 shares, compared with 15,248,900 shares last week. Total sales from Jan. 1 to date were 357,185,100 shares, compared with 226,655,900 shares a year ago.

SPECULATION FOR ADVANCE MARKED AT THE WEEK-END

Enormous Buying Operations in Stocks Durant Said to Have Interest — Nearly Two Score Issues in New High Ground.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Speculation for the advance was resumed with considerable violence in today's brief session of the stock market. Enormous buying operations in stocks in which William C. Durant is said to have a large interest, led many houses to characterize the session as a "Durant market." Nearly two score issues were elevated to new high ground, with the gains ranging from 1 to 8½ points.

Trading was unusually brisk for a half holiday session, the day's sales aggregating 1,738,800 shares.

Wall street apparently had recovered from the shock of seeing call money posted at 6½ per cent, the highest price in seven years, for the second time within a week. Speculative opinion leaned to the theory that credit conditions would become easier when the month-end settlements were out of the way and the dividend and interest checks returned to the banks, but further credit restriction measures were looked for in some conservative quarters.

General Motors a Feature.

The rise in the "Durant" stocks was construed in many quarters as an indication that the outside public was still willing to buy stocks sponsored by powerful market interests. Several of the monthly bank reviews, however, call attention to the dangers of securities speculation and urged caution in the purchase of securities at current levels.

General Motors was one of the day's features. Getting off to a slow start, the stock suddenly shot forward in the last half hour of trading and ran up over 6 points to 200, the final transaction being a block of 5000 shares at the top price. Hupp reached new high ground at 65, Chrysler and Dodge Bros. preferred were heavy on profit taking. In the accessory group, Eaton Axle, Martin Parry, Briggs Manufacturing and Stromberg Carburetor reached new high ground.

Coppers to Front.

Coppers suddenly came to life under the leadership of American Smelting, which advanced more than 5 points to a record top at 201½. Anaconda climbed more than 2 points to within a fraction of the year's high at 74. Magma, Kennecott and Cerro De Pasco each advanced about 2 points.

International Telephone soared nearly 10 points to a new peak at 197⅝ and then eased to 196. Radio established a new record high at 224, closing a point below that figure for a net gain of 3 points. Victor closed 6¼ points higher at 99⅜ after touching 101¼. Western Union sold down to a new 1928 low at 150.

Rails Hold Steady.

Heavy buying of Ginoel Bros. sent that stock up to a new high at 55¼. Among the many other issues to reach new high ground were American Beet Sugar preferred, Burns Bros B., Case Threshing, Consolidated Cigars, National Cash Register, Fox Film, Paramount Famous Players, Detroit Edison and Frank G. Shattuck.

Rails held steady with trading quiet.

Except for a jump of 10 points in Japanese yen, foreign exchanges moved within narrow and irregular limits. Sterling cables ruled unchanged around $4.83⅝.

WEEK'S METAL MARKET REVIEW

NEW YORK, June 2.—Steel mill production continued to decline, as generally expected, and was considered a seasonal condition. In fact, curtailment is occurring later than the trade a while ago predicted, indicating that business during the first half of the year probably ran ahead of the estimates. There was some irregularity in prices but as a rule the undertone was steady.

Pig iron was featured by fair activity with numerous small inquiries and no change in prices reported.

Demand for copper has tapered off following recent heavy buying. Consumers have evidently provided for June and July requirements and little interest is shown for August or later deliveries. Some easing fillin on orders for nearby shipments are reported, but difficulty is experienced in obtaining metal because of small supplies on hand. Producers are holding steady at 14¾ cents for electrolytic delivered in the Connecticut Valley.

Tin was weak with the market established at new lows for the year. Developments during May were smaller than estimated. Demand was poor. London averaged comparatively steady.

Lead was advanced by leading producers. Demand was reported as active especially for early shipment. London remained firm.

Zinc continued firm and the ore market was reported as strong. A feature was said to be the increase in consuming interest for early shipment.

Antimony was steady but the market did not show any special change in tone.

The improvement in the lead market was expected to create a better demand for this metal eventually.

CLEARINGS, MONEY AND SILVER

The St. Louis Clearing House Association reported clearings for June 2, 1928: $22,600,000; decrease in trading day last year, $25,200,000; this year, $3,150,400,000; corresponding period last year, $3,300,000,000. Report of debits for June 1, 1928, were: Debits to individual accounts, $40,500,000; total to date, $4,036,800,000; debits to bank and bankers' accounts, $17,800,000; total to date, $2,270,100,000; combined debits were $58,300,000; total to date to individual and bank and bankers' accounts, $6,306,900,000.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Bar silver, 99¼c; Mexican dollars, 46¾c.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Treasury receipts on May 31 were $5,859,747.86; expenditures, $33,805,863.17; balance, $54,851,702.70.

LONDON, June 2.—Bar silver, 27 15-16d per ounce; money, 2½ per cent. Discount rates: Short bills, 3 13-16@4 % per cent; 3 months, 3⅝ per cent.

WAGNER ELECTRIC ACTION REFLECTS SHORT SELLING

Activity of Professionals Probably Brings About Further Liquidation, Aiding Downturn — Short Covering Factor in Reaction.

By the Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE, June 2—It was a Wagner Electric week on the local market. About one-third of the week's business on the exchange was in that stock. From the closing mark of 86, the previous week, the price on one day up substantially from the low. Professionals on the selling side played an important part in the movement of this stock. Their short sales no doubt brought out other liquidation by longs who were in at much higher levels and saw their losses increasing. Short losses no doubt have been a factor for some individuals is made plain by consideration of the extent of the decline from the high point of 120 recorded several weeks ago. The low point of 72 represented drop of some 48 points. Covering in of contracts naturally brought rebound in prices while the bottom levels on movement rapidly encouraged some new buying of the stock.

St. Louis Public Service was the other feature of the week, having a point higher range, the best being recorded at start of week. Coca Cola Bottling and Bank of Commerce also recorded substantial upward movements but not on large transactions. Saulin Steel preference also had its best movement early in week. About 3400 shares of Granite Bimetallic Mining sold during week at 40. One lot of 3000 shares changed hands.

Dix, Baer & Fuller stock changed hands to fair extent. About 300 shares were "crossed" at one point.

Foreign Exchange

NEW YORK, June 2.—The Evening Post in copyrighted weekly foreign exchange market review,

The market for all the leading exchanges continued in position which must be detected to cause substantial gold movements. Sterling exchange reached its new high of the year, selling at $4.88 for cables and was steadily bid for $4.88⅝ even after an engagement of $5,000,000 in gold has been made by the Federal City Bank. With these shipments, total exports of gold from this city for the month of May amount to $108.-000,000.

Advances of the continental exchanges were also substantial, special strength being shown in exchange on Holland and Denmark and exchanges on a number of other countries including Belgium, were all at or far above the gold parity. The latter is presented that with gold movements to Europe at the present time, the discount rate in London is down to only a per cent while the time rate is up to 3⅝ per cent, showing the trend of the accepted theory that money goes where it will find the highest rate.

On the other hand, exchange on Montreal receded to $2.16 discount, being yesterday at 99.80 with the transfer of gold requiring only a few hours of time. Most of the yellow metal has made its way from Montreal to New York. Canadian institutions, however, have taken large amounts of funds to the city. The loans by some of the Canadian banks amount to over $100.-000 each.

Dutch exchange was a special feature of the continental group, rapping during the week from 40.36¼ to 40.38¼. Sweden interest was attached to the advance in Dutch exchange on Copenhagen up to for cables against 26.85 on Stockholm unusual condition.

Chinese exchanges after being strong the preceding week, were under pressure both Hankong and Shanghai having declines and silver dollars in China also had a quick dron. Japanese exchange showed a steadier tone. There was a weak feature in the South American group.

RECRUIT COLLEGIAN SHINES AT THIRD BASE

By Herman Wecke.

Walter Stewart's fine pitching, coupled with a big third inning, in which five safeties netted four runs, enabled the Browns to defeat the Senators in the first battle of the series here yesterday, 5 to 2. The victory placed the Brownies one game under the .500 mark for the campaign and was the fifth victory in six starts for Howley's men since their return to Sportsman's Park.

Stewart was at his best, allowing six safeties. In only one frame, the fourth, did the Senators make more than one safety. In this session, three hits, coupled with a pass and sacrifice fly, netted a run, while the other came as a result of Goslin's homer.

Howley's men put on their big batting storm at the expense of Tom Zachary, a former member of the St. Louis twirling staff. Zachary went big for two frames, but everything that possibly could have happen did occur in the third, when the home boys put the contest on ice.

Recruit Brownie Stars.

One of the stars in the Browns' victory was Larry Bettencourt, fresh from St. Mary's College in California where he starred in various sports and was picked on the 1927 all-America football eleven as center. He performed at third base and did a good job of it. In addition he had three hits. He started the opening rally, scored the first run and drove in another tally. All in all, it was quite a day for the ex-collegian. He's a well put up young man and from first appearances is able to hit to all fields.

Stewart, Manush and Schulte were other timely clubbers for the Brownies.

The contest for Stewart was the second complete game he has pitched this season, both efforts coming against the Senators. He was the winner both times, stopping Harris' men in a game in the East, 15 to 2. Like yesterday, he was found for but six safeties in that earlier battle.

Howley's maulers opened an assault in the third, which did not end until after four runs had been put over. Bettencourt, making his major league debut, opened the attack with a single. Manion also singled, as did Stewart, and Bettencourt tallied. McNeely sacrificed and Brannon walked, to fill the bases. Manush doubled two runs over and when Manush was caught on Schulte's rap, Brannon scored. Kress singled and Blue walked to again pack the corners, but Bettencourt ended it with a roller to Judge.

Singles by Goslin and Judge, a pass to Kenna and Bluege's sacrifice fly put one across for the

Walter Stewart's fine pitching, coupled with a big third inning, in which five safeties netted four runs, enabled the Browns to defeat the Senators in the first battle of the series here yesterday, 5 to 2. The victory placed the Brownies one game under the .500 mark for the campaign and was the fifth victory in six starts for Howley's men since their return to Sportsman's Park.

Stewart was at his best, allowing six safeties. In only one frame, the fourth, did the Senators make more than one safety. In this session, three hits, coupled with a pass and sacrifice fly, netted a run, while the other came as a result of Goslin's homer.

Howley's men put on their big batting storm at the expense of Tom Zachary, a former member of the St. Louis twirling staff. Zachary went big for two frames, but everything that possibly could have happen did occur in the third, when the home boys put the contest on ice.

Recruit Brownie Stars.

One of the stars in the Browns' victory was Larry Bettencourt, fresh from St. Mary's College in California where he starred in various sports and was picked on the 1927 all-America football eleven as center. He performed at third base and did a good job of it. In addition he had three hits. He started the opening rally, scored the first run and drove in another tally. All in all, it was quite a day for the ex-collegian. He's a well built up young man and from first appearances is able to hit to all fields.

Stewart, Manush and Schulte were other timely clubbers for the Brownies.

The contest for Stewart was the second complete game he has pitched this season, both efforts coming against the Senators. He was the winner both times, stopping Harris' men in a game in the East, 15 to 2. Like yesterday, he was found for but six safeties in that earlier battle.

Howley's maulers opened an assault in the third, which did not end until after four runs had been put over. Bettencourt, making his major league debut, opened the attack with a single. Manion also singled, as did Stewart, and Bettencourt tallied. McNeely sacrificed and Brannon walked, to fill the bases. Manush doubled two runs over and when Manush was caught on Schulte's rap, Brannon scored. Kress singled and Blue walked to again pack the corners, but Bettencourt ended it with a roller to Judge.

Singles by Goslin and Judge, a pass to Kenna and Bluege's sacrifice fly put one across for the

Pirates Obtain Pitcher Burwell

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 2.—Bill Burwell, veteran righthand twirler for the Indianapolis American Association team, has been traded to the Pittsburg Pirates, it was announced here today.

In return for Burwell the Indians receive Erwin Brame, pitcher, and Adam Comorosky, outfielder.

Burwell will report to the Pirate manager at Brooklyn tomorrow.

U. S. Team in Davis Cup Final; Sails for Europe Next Saturday

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 2.—William T. Tilden II and George Lott, of the American Davis Cup tennis team, clinched victory in the American Zone elimination final of the Davis Cup competition here, today, defeating the Japanese pair in the doubles in straight sets.

Opposed by Tameo Abe and Teizo Toba, Tilden and Lott strolled through the first set, winning 6-1. They encountered much stiffer opposition in the second set and were carried to 10-8 by their diminutive foes. The Americans cut loose in the final set and ended the match with a 6-2 victory.

Their success in the doubles, added to the two singles victories of yesterday, gave the United States team the needed three points to decide the elimination. Tomorrow's singles play will therefore be little more than exhibition.

Play European Zone Finalists.

By the victory, the Yankees will meet the winners of the European zone finals for the right to challenge France, holder of the Davis trophy, emblematic of international tennis supremacy.

Today, as yesterday, the Yanks easily outclassed the Japanese, only twice were they pushed, yesterday in the first singles set between Johnny Hennessey of Indianapolis and Yoshiro Ohta and in today's second doubles set.

Hunter to Join Team Abroad.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Announcement by the United States Lawn Tennis Association of sailing dates for the American Davis Cup squad which eliminated Japan disclosed that Francis T. Hunter of New Rochelle, N. Y., would join the team at London, thus setting at rest rumors that Hunter had been dropped.

Headed by the newly-appointed manager, Samuel M. Peacock of Philadelphia, the American team of "Big Bill" Tilden, John Hennessey, George Lott and Wilbur Coen Jr., will sail for Europe on the Ile de France next Saturday, June 9. Before leaving for Paris to meet the winners of the European zone Davis Cup play the Americans will participate in team matches with England at Eastbourne, June 22 and 23, in the English championships at Wimbledon, beginning June 25.

For seeding purposes, the U. S. L. T. A. has entered the following in Wimbledon competition:

Men's singles — Tilden, Hunter, Hennessey and Lott.

Men's doubles—Tilden and Hunter, Hennessey and Lott.

Coen will also compete at Wimbledon but not in the seeded group.

The Davis Cup squad will proceed from Wimbledon to Paris for practice on dirt courts for the interzone final July 20, 21 and 22. If the Americans survive this test they will seek to wrest the Davis Cup from France at Paris, July 27, 28 and 29, and then will sail for the United States on Aug. 4 or 8.

Dempsey Will Not Meet Tunney Says Promoter Rickard

NEW YORK, June 2.

"TALK of a third Dempsey-Tunney fight this September or at any other time is "all bunk," Tex Rickard said today.

"There is absolutely nothing to it," the promoter said, "and I will be willing to wager $50,000 to back up that statement. Dempsey does not intend to fight again and, even if he did, Tunney would not meet him this year. The champion will have only one fight and that will be against Tom Heeney."

Prep Meet Won By Fort Collins

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 2.—Fort Collins, Colo., today won the twenty-fourth annual national interscholastic track and field meet at Stagg Field, scoring 56 points with Froebel of Gary, Ind., runner-up with 38 points.

Libbey High of Toledo, O., and Tilden of Chicago, finished in a tie for third with 26 points each. Blackwell, Okla., was fourth with 22 points.

Four new national marks and one meet record were set.

Broe of Roosevelt High, St. Louis, scored two points by finishing fifth in the 880-yard run, as did Bruno of Maplewood, who was fifth in the javelin event.

DUTCH TENNIS CHAMPION EASY FOR MISS WILLS

By the Associated Press.

AUTEUIL, France, June 2.—The international hard court tennis championships reached the semifinals today with France dominating the men's singles, with three of the four survivors, but having no representation at all in the women's singles.

Sweeping forward in irresistible fashion, Miss Helen Wills, the American champion, overwhelmed the Dutch titleholder, Rollin Couquerque, 6—2, 6—0, and led a quartet of invading contenders for the women's honors. The sole American left in the tournament, Miss Wills intrenched herself more strongly than ever as the favorite. Her semifinal contest tomorrow is with Miss Christabel Hardie of England, who today defeated Dapnne Ackhurst of Australia, 10—8, 8—6.

The other semifinalists in the women's singles are Kea Bouman of Holland and Eileen Bennett of England.

Only John B. Hawkes, the Australian southpaw, remains in the men's singles to contest the victorious march of the three French musketeers. It took a five-set struggle, finished today after being interrupted yesterday by rain, before Hawkes emerged the victor over Jacques Brugnon, fourth Misstep raced as if best, was well handled and kept restrained for three quarters, saved much ground for entire distance and moved into lead when called on, holding Toro safe when latter challenged boldly and won well in hand. Toro was taken back soon after the start, moved up readily when urged but faltered during last sixteenth and had no mishaps. Jack Higgins came steadily after half a mile and was going gamely at the end. Galahad appeared hopelessly out of it in the first half mile and closed a tremendous gap in last quarter. Solace had no mishaps. Bobashela and Typhoon quit fast after going six furlongs and showing fine speed. Martie Flynn don't appear to like a distance, was well up for first quarter mile.

$2 mutuels paid: Misstep, win $5.00, place $3.32, show $3.16; Toro, place $3.60, show $3.36; Jack Higgins, show $ 5.40.

By Dent McSkimming

No racing accidents, no bad start, no rain, no mud, no bumping or pocketing intervened to cast a shadow of doubt over the victory of Misstep in the Fairmount Derby yesterday afternoon. There was only one horse in the field of nine capable of stepping the mile and a quarter in 2 minutes, 3 4-5 seconds. That horse was Misstep. The others were mere contenders.

From the moment Starter Bill Snyder sent the field away from the mile and a quarter chute, Misstep was the commanding figure. Willie Garner wisely permitted the over-eager Typhoon and Bobashela to set the pace for the first half mile, and then, when he chose to go to the front at the half mile ground, he sent Misstep forward and there was never any doubt in the result. The others appeared in comparison to be moving backward.

With Ground to Spare.

In spite of the fact that there was daylight between each two of the first three horses as they swept through the last sixteenth of a mile, in front of the grandstand, the crowd of 25,000 roared a joyful and enthusiastic welcome, but it was not the same frantic shout that is heard when the favorite, beaten off, is trying to cut down an outsider in a nose finish. Toro was second and Jack Higgins third.

Leo J. Marks, proprietor of the LeMar Stock Farm and owner of Misstep, received $24,950 by reason of his colt's victory. He was also the recipient of a huge silver trophy, presented by S. J. Stanard, director of agriculture for the State of Illinois. Misstep is trained by Mose Lowenstein.

Since it was devoid of accidents the Derby may be placed in the category of just a horse race. The great majority of the spectators and the bettors expected Misstep to do just the thing he did. They expected Willie Garner to ride an intelligent race, which he did. They expected Toro to offer the greatest measure of competition, and he did that, and Jack Higgins was counted upon as a good contender, and he turned out to be that.

The only unexpected turn of events was Galahad's great recovery after he had lost 15 lengths in the first half mile due to a most obstinate start.

The time made by Misstep is surprisingly fast. He covered the mile and a quarter in 2:03 4-5, which is only two-fifths of a second slower than the track record, set by Haste over a lightning fast track two years ago.

Winner the Favorite.

The fastest mile run by any horse in the race, however, was turned in by Galahad, the German-bred gelding. He was apparently a hopeless case as he passed the clubhouse turn on the first trip around, at least 10 lengths behind the leader. From the time they entered the back stretch, Earl Pool forced Galahad into such a fast stride that he passed up all but three horses and was coming like a fury in the last 70 yards. His game effort in the last half mile was one of the biggest thrills of the race.

Because of his record in the Kentucky Derby, when he beat several of his rivals of yesterday, Misstep was installed a top-heavy favorite at a little more than 1½ to 1. A $2 ticket on Misstep paid a refund of $5.06. He paid $3.32 for place and $3.16 for show. Toro paid $3.60 for place and $3.36 for show, while Jack Higgins paid $5.40 for show.

Weather and track conditions could not have been more satisfactory for the greatest race of the local season. The rain of Friday had left the track heavy yesterday morning, but track Supt. John E. Edwards and his crew were busy with tractors, harrows, graders and rollers at 9:30 and within three hours, with the help of a warm sun and a steady breeze, they had transformed the strip into "fast condition."

One-Horse Wild West Show in Third, Gen. Haldeman Runs Away, Then Wins

The crowd arrived early, indicating a new attendance record might be broken, but when the Derby was run there were about 25,000 persons in the grounds, whereas the best previous mark was 32,000.

Just before the running of the feature race, the police detail opened a single narrow gate and allowed several thousand persons to cross into the infield.

It was not until an hour before the race that Mop Up was scratched from the Derby field, reducing the number of starters from 10 to nine. Mop Up would have been coupled in the betting with Misstep.

Although officials declined to reveal the amount of money wagered, either on the Derby alone or on the entire program, it was estimated by observers that the "play" at the mutuel windows was heavier than on last Wednesday, when a new record was set for the track.

A Wild West Show.

Aside from the Derby, the most remarkable incident of the afternoon was the victory of General Haldeman in the third race after he had broken away from the barrier, leaped the outside fence on the far turn and chased away to the stables. He must have run at least a mile on his wild escapade and risked broken limbs in leaping the fence, which is built so high as to discourage just such ambitious performances.

The race was only at six furlongs but it was fully expected that General Haldeman would be completely exhausted by his effort and finish last. Instead, he set a terrific pace and led almost all the way, finishing ahead of Shasta Pine.

Jockey O. Clelland, who rode General Haldeman, proved himself made of tough fiber when he recovered after being thrown over his horse's head before the runaway.

Jockey L. McClair was also thrown as the horses got away from the post. His mount, Shasta Bullet, continued on, finishing last. McClair was not badly hurt,

By J. Roy Stockton
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

PHILADELPHIA, June 2.—Bill McKechnie used six pitchers in an effort to stop the attack of the Phillies this afternoon and, while the bludgeons of Burt Shotten's men never were effectually silenced, the Cardinals by bunching nine hits in two innings for 11 runs, managed to nose out the Phils in the second game of the series, 13 to 12.

It was a terrible ball game. There seemed to be something in the air all over the circuit that affected the hurlers and whatever it was it certainly was strong at Baker Field.

Parade of Pitchers.

Flint Rhem, Harold Haid, Bill Sherdel, Sylvester Johnson, Carlisle, Littlejohn and Arthur Reinhart paraded to the slab for the Cardinals, and when the parade had passed a given point after two hours and 31 minutes, the Phils had the tying run on second base, the winning run on first, and had piled up a collection of assorted base hits totaling 18.

The Cardinals, on the other hand, made only 14 safeties, but four of their wallops were home runs and one of the four-baggers was made with the bases packed. Wattie Holm batted for Toporcer in the eighth inning, with three on and changed a 9-to-7 Phillie advantage to a 11-to-9 score in the Cards' favor by hitting into the left field seats.

Rhem, starting the game for the Cardinals, was not effective, and the Phils punched him for two runs in the first inning. Southern led off with a single to center. Thompson forced Southern at second, and after Hurst doubled to right, putting Thompson on third. Leach singled to right, scoring the two runners.

Bottomley Starts Fireworks.

Bottomley doubled to center in the second and scored on Harper's single, and in the third inning the Cardinals had their first big batting spree. One was out when Rhem singled to right and a hit by such a batter so excited Claud Willoughby that he walked Douthit.

High then was safe when Thompson missed his grounder, and the bases were filled. Toporcer was called out on strikes, but Bottomley singled to right, scoring Rhem and Douthit, sending High to third and Jim took second on the throw to the plate.

Harper then put another bump in the right field wall, scoring High and Bottomley, and when Roettger singled to left, sending Harper to third, Jimmy Ring replaced Willoughby on the hill.

Wilson singled over second, scoring Harper with the fifth run of the inning, and Maranville walked, filling the bases, but Ring struck out Rhem to end the frame.

Six for One Side, Half Dozen for Other Made Lead Change Often

That made the score 6 to 2 and the game appeared safe for Rhem, but after Bottomley hit a home run in the fifth for the Cards' seventh run, the Phils put on a storm that blew away the Cardinal advantage and gave Ring the upper hand.

Thompson opened the inning by beating out a grounder to Maranville, Hurst singled to right, sending Thompson to third. Leach tripled against the wall in right center, scoring Thompson and Hurst and old Cy Williams, batting for Jahn, hit over the right field wall for a home run, scoring behind Leach.

There was a rush to the Cardinal bullpen, but before anybody could warm up Rhem walked Whitney and then Harold Haid went to the hill. He walked Friberg, Lerian sacrificed and Ring singled to left, scoring Whitney and Friberg and putting the Phils ahead, 8 to 7. Before the inning ended Sherdel had to be called to the rescue and with the southpaw pitching the Phils increased their lead in the sixth.

Leach singled to right to open the frame, Deitrick batted for Williams and sacrificed, and Whitney singled to right, scoring Leach.

Shotton Errs in Strategy.

That was the score when the Cardinals went to bat in the eighth inning. Blades batted for Sherdel and drew a pass and Douthit slammed a double down the left field line. Then Manager Shotton made his big blunder of a day of bad guesses by both boards of strategy. He derricked Ring and sent Sweetland to the slab. Sweetland, a southpaw, quickly hit High with a pitched ball, filling the bases.

Then McKechnie made the best guess of the afternoon when he called Wattie Holm to bat for Toporcer.

Holm returned to duty a bit too soon after leaving the hospital following his operation and his arm "went dead" but inability to throw has not taken away his batting punch and in this pinch he connected solidly and sent a tremendous fly into the left field seats scoring behind Martin, Douthit and High. Martin was running for Blades.

Bottomley followed Holm to the plate and while the boys in the dugout were still congratulating Wattie, Jim hit his second home run of the game, a fly that cleared the wall in right center.

Third Homer in Inning.

Harper interrupted the bombardment while he grounded to Thompson, but Roettger found the range and cleared the screen above the score board in right center with his four-bagger, the third of the inning.

Shotton sent Sweetland away from the hill then, and young Augie Walsh, a righthander recently of the semi-pro ranks, went to the hill and stopped the long distance bombardment.

Sylvester Johnson went to the hill and 13 to 9certainly looked like a safe margin, but the Cardinals needed every one of their runs and would have felt more confident if they had half a dozen more.

Johnson started nicely by fanning Thompson but just then the score board boy posted the Cincinnati final, which was 20 to 12 and Hurst doubled against the right field wall for his third hit and Leach quickly dented the same tinwall with a single, scoring Hurst.

Johnson went through the rest of the inning, but in the ninth he had to retire under fire. Sand batted for Friberg and fouled out to open the final frame, but Lerian doubled to center and Johnnie Schulte, batting for Walsh, hit a home run over the right field wall.

Phils Almost Come Through.

That cut the Cardinal lead to one run and when Sothern singled to left, Littlejohn was called from the bullpen to pitch to Thompson. Littlejohn's second offering was a wild pitch and Sothern went to second, in scoring position with the tying run. When Thompson filed to Douthit, Reinhart was summoned from the bullpen to pitch to the left-handed Hurst.

Hurst drew a pass and it looked like a great chance for the Phils, as Leach, next at bat, had made three singles and a triple, but Shotton then made another bad guess and sent in right-handed Nixon to bat against southpaw Reinhart. Nixon quickly popped to Wilson near the pitching slab and the popeyed ball game was over.

Tomorrow the Cardinals journey to Hillsdale, N. J., for an exhibition game. Catcher Wilson and most of the regular pitchers will remain in Philadelphia. It is possible that Frankie Frisch also will miss the trip.

Frisch wrenched his back swinging at a ball in the morning Memorial day game, and has been handicapped in the field and at bat by the injury. Only his fine spirits has kept him in the game. He was taken out after an inning and a half today and Toporcer went to second.

Grover Cleveland Alexander had planned to pitch against the Phils in the second game, but decided to rest another day or two before returning to duty. He said this afternoon that he was confident he would be able to start one of the games in New York.

Broadside Scores Again.

The Man o' War colt, Broadside, gave every evidence of being an unusual horse when he ran away from Brilliant, Capt. George Foster and others in winning the fourth race. The big black son of a great sire stepped the mile and a sixteenth in 1:45 4-5 as compared with the track record of 1:44 4-5. As he ran yesterday, in scoring his second victory of the meeting, Broadside looks like one of the best horses at Fairmount.

Earl Pool, brought here by Phil Reuter to ride Galahad, rode Capt. George Foster in the fourth, replacing the promising apprentice, E. Shropshire.

Rockslide cantered home an easy winner in the sixth and paid $5.00 for $2.00. Duckweed was second and Lady Fanshawe third.

AGEE FIRST IN FINAL OLYMPIC MARATHON TEST

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 2. — William A. Agee, Baltimore youth who developed his leg muscles as a paper carrier here and is now in the army, carried the colors of the Emorywood Club of Baltimore to victory in the annual Baltimore marathon run here today and made himself a candidate for a place among America's Olympic marathoners.

His time, 2 hours, 57 minutes, 4 2-5 seconds, although slow, was made in a sultry heat that wilted more than one contender. Harvey Frick, on the verge of collapse but running on his fighting spirit and the cheers of his friends, dragging half a mile behind the winner took second place for the Millrose Athletic Association of New York.

Albert "Whitey" Michelson, Bedford Hills, New York favorite, who was running unattached, tired badly at the end, but got third place. William Kennedy, 58-year-old Cygnet Athletic Club runner from East Portchester, Conn., came along six minutes later for fourth place, followed by Max Lamp who added the fifth place to Millrose's honors.

Two runners dropped out from temporary blindness, William Wilson, who stayed with the leaders for a time stopping with a cinder in his eye, while Victor Glance of Detroit, collapsed midway in the race, but though he said the glare of the paved roads had blinded him he pressed on against protests of officials until near the 15-mile mark he was so obviously unable to see his way that he was taken to a hospital. Seven others succumbed to blisters that they blamed on a freshly tarred stretch of road.

Olympic Sprint Record Equaled.

By the Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., June 2.—The Southwest today chose a team of record-breakers as its Olympic game hopes in the final American tryouts in Harvard Stadium next month. Athletes of Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas athletes smashed eight old Southern records, tied one Olympic record and closely approached several others.

C. O. Bracey of of Rice Institute set a new Southern record of 10.6 seconds for 100 meters, equaling the Olympic record, and came back with a new Southern mark of 21.7 seconds in the 200 meters, clipping 9-10 of a second off the old figure.

Cecil Bowman, Hammond, La., school boy, easily took first place in the hop, skip and jump, with 49 feet, 1 inch, a new Southern record and only a few inches less than the Olympic record. Bowman graduated from the ranks of the juniors only yesterday.

Glenn Dawson of the Central Teachers' College of Oklahoma ran the 10,000 meters in 34 minutes, 2.6 seconds, clipping more than three minutes off the old Southern record, lapping every other starter at least once.

Each time Douglas Graydon of Little Rock, Ark., heaved the javelin he set a new Southern mark. The old figure was 191 feet, 3 inches. He bettered it was a thrust of 195 feet and then threw it 200 feet, 2 inches in his final effort.

3 HOME RUNS FOR BELL, BUT BRAVES LOSE

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, June 2.—In an orgy of hitting, the Cincinnati Reds smashed out a 20 to 12 victory over Boston today before a crowd of 18,000. Eight pitchers were used in the game, the Braves sending six to the mound while the Reds used two. There were five home runs in the game, Lester Bell, Boston third baseman, getting three. Bell threatened Hornsby's National League record for total bases in a single game. He was five times at bat for a total of 15 bases Hornsby's mark is 16 bases in five times up.

Hornsby got the first home run ever knocked into the first base bleachers while Donohue joined the circuit club with a drive into the left field stands. The Braves hit strongly, but their pitching was feeble.

BISSONETTE'S NINTH HOMER BRINGS ROBINS VICTORY OVER GIANTS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Del Bissonette's ninth home run of the season, a drive into the right field stand following Bressler's double in the tenth, enabled the Robins to nose out the Giants, 6 to 4, here today. Cummings and Cohen hit homers for the Giants.

Bissonette's homer sent him into a tie with Hack Wilson and Jim Bottomley for the National League lead. Dazzy Vance started for Brooklyn but gave way to Petty. The Giants used four pitchers, Barnes, Faulkner, Cantwell and Walker.

UPSTREAM RACE WILL OPEN ROWING SEASON FOR CENTRAL JUNIORS

The Central Rowing Club will open its rowing season with a half-mile upstream junior barge race today.

It is quite unusual for local crews to row races.

Invitations have been sent to all local crews of the Muny Rowing Association and one or two barges from each of the following clubs will be at the start: Baden, North End, Central St. Louis, Western and probably the Century Club.

The race will start at 3:30 p. m. and finish opposite the club house, 4080 North Wharf.

Browns Defeat Senators In Series Opener, 5-2

fourth. Hayes got an infield hit but with three on, Zachary rolled to Brannon to end the frame.

Goslin's homer, a drive on top of the right field pavilion, added one to the Senator total in the sixth.

A single by Kress, Blue's sacrifice and Bettencourt's single, his third of the battle, added one to the total for Howley's men in the eighth.

Johnny Ogden, right-hander, whose last start resulted in a victory over the White Sox, will probably hurl for the Browns in the second of the series with the Senators this afternoon. Horace Lisenbee, one of the young stars of the American League a year ago, is scheduled to work for Bucky Harris.

Sam Jones, former Brownie, will not be seen in action against his old mates in this series. He suffered an injury to his ankle in the pregame practice. Jones was in the outfield and with two others chased a fly when there was a collision, and Sad Sam went down in a heap. He had to be carried off the field.

Bettencourt Shows Well.

Two newcomers made their major league debuts, Larry Bettencourt, the former all-America football center from St. Mary's College of California, was at the hot corner for the Browns. This has been somewhat of a weak spot since Frank O'Rourke was put down with a broken thumb, inasmuch as Mullin, Melillo and Sax have covered the position with only fair success.

For the Senators, Kenna, the young catcher from Minneapolis, was handling Zachary's slants. The Washington club sent Shortstop Gillis and Pitcher Van Alstyne to the A. A. for the receiver.

Bucky Harris believes in letting his pitchers take it. During the Brownie bombardment in the third, no one warmed up in the Senator bull pen.

Bluege made a sensational stop of Schulte's smash in the third, robbing the Brownie outfielder of a safety.

Umpire Draws Jeers.

Umpire Campbell drew the wrath of the crowd when he called Manush out in the seventh. From the stand it appeared that Reeves' throw had pulled Judge off the bag and that Jimmy Austin contended. It did no good, but it robbed the Browns of a run, as Schulte's long fly, which followed, would have scored McNeely.

Bettencourt made a fine play on his first chance when he took Hayes' slow roller in the third and followed with a perfect throw to Blue. At the bat, he started with a 1.000 average, singling to center on his first trip to the plate. He also scored the first run of the game.

Nick Altrock and Al Schacht, the comedians, with the Senators, did their stunt and drew a big hand. They put on a tennis act, which was a scream.

Among those present were some 500 members of the Second Division Association, in convention here. They attended as guests of the management.

Leonard "Mike" Dondero, infielder, who was signed with Bettencourt while the two were teammates on the St. Mary's, Cal., team, has been released on option to the Tulsa club of the Western League. Business Manager Bill Friel of the Browns, announced yesterday.

CHICAGO WHITE SOX SIGN NO-HIT HURLER OF MUNICIPAL LEAGUE

The Chicago White Sox have signed Hurler Tesreau, ace of the Vellie Municipal League club, it was announced yesterday. Tesreau joined the White Sox here last week and left with them following their series with the Browns.

The new Chicago recruit attracted attention last Sunday when he hurled a no-hit game for the Vellies. In his other three starts in the Muny League this season he let his opponents down with four, five and four hits. In these four games he piled up a record of 49 strikeouts.

Tesreau is 20 years old, stands 5 feet 11 inches and weighs around 170 pounds.

TOM HEENEY, CHALLENGER, SOUGHT GRUBSTAKE AND GOT GOLD MINE

NEW ZEALANDER PICKED TO MEET TUNNEY CAME TO U. S. HOPING ONLY TO EARN PASSAGE HOME

Story of Fighter Who Rose From Bottom to Top in a Year

THE POST-DISPATCH presents herewith the first installment of the life story of Tom Heeney, New Zealander, who will battle Gene Tunney for the world's heavyweight championship in July. Heeney will tell, in chapters appearing each Sunday, how he fought his way to the top of the heap of "hopes" within one short year, and later will describe his training activities for the title bout.

By Tom Heeney

As Told to a Representative of the Post-Dispatch.

"TUNNEY MATCH MADE CABLE WHEN YOU RETURN—HARVEY."

"BEST NEWS I EVER RECEIVED—TOM."

The first was the message handed to me in Paris. It was from my American manager, Charles Harvey, informing me that I was selected to fight Gene Tunney for the heavyweight championship of the world.

The second was my answer.

The word came on April 1—April Fool's day, which seems to be my lucky day.

Just a year ago on that same day I fought my first main event bout in an American ring. It was with Paulino Uzcudun, the Basque woodchopper.

I thought of it when I read the cablegram. I was in Paris, France—the country where, a little over a year ago, I had chased about after Paulino, seeking a match. His manager, Francois Descamps, couldn't see me, and I'm no wisp of a fairy at that. How lucky for me he couldn't!

It was partly to get a crack at the Spaniard that I crossed the Atlantic. I had no idea of meeting the world's champion. A thousand-dollar grubstake, enough to pay my passage back home to New Zealand, was in the back of my mind.

Three-quarters of the globe I had traveled—fighting my way around. I was heavyweight champion of New Zealand, Australia, South Africa and Ireland. But in America, I knew, were the great boxers.

Sought Revenge Bout.

"It'll be none of my doings." I said, in leaving England, when they suggested I might look for a scrap with Tunney. "I'll not go about demanding a chance at Tunney. I think the fair way for any invader is to meet the challengers.

"I'll take my place among them and if I can't fight my way out, then where do I come off to annoy Mr. Tunney."

"But there was one fellow I wanted to meet. He was George 'Blackie' Miller, who had spread the news he knocked me out on the other side.

"It didn't help me with the promoters when I mentioned it. "I want to get him in the ring with me. He is sailing under false pretenses,' I told the American officials at Madison Square Garden.

"What black looks they gave me! Good Lord, I thought I had committed murder!

Harvey told me outside, and he seemed very sad: 'Blackie Miller is a third-rater here,' he mourned. "I'm afraid McMahon of the Garden thinks the same of you.'

"I never did meet Miller but neither did I forget him. No man has ever knocked me out and I didn't like the idea of this fellow stating he did.

Heeney Knocked Out First Opponent He Met in America, Charlie Anderson

Sure enough, my first fight in America was with a 'third-rater.' It was Charlie Anderson, a Negro. He had been Dempsey's sparring partner and what respect I had for the great Dempsey! Hadn't he knocked out Carpentier in four rounds, the unbeatable Frenchman, we thought, who had finished off our Beckett and Bombardier Wells.

"But I was glad to get any kind of a fight. Things were not looking up just then.

"On short notice I was put in to take the place of Arthur de Kuh, who was sick. I licked the colored fellow until in the ninth round the referee stopped the fight, giving me a technical knockout.

"We were in the semifinal spot that night and I dressed quickly and sat through the main event that followed.

"And here I am now, a little more than a year later, booked with Gene Tunney, the world's champion.

"He landed without an overcoat on a nickel," the papers say. "A poor Australian blacksmith, and today he is at the gateway of $1,000,000."

As for that I might say I had more than a nickel in my pocket when the doctors at Ellis Island stuck their sticks down my throat. To be honest, I had $400. Besides I did have an overcoat—and what a good one it was.

"'Tis a cold country you're going to," they told me in England. So I bought myself a leather-lined ulster.

"It'll provide sufficient warmth at the North Pole," said the shopkeeper. How right he was. I haven't worn it since I've been in New York.

And last of all, I'm not Australian. I was born in New Zealand of Irish parents. From County Cork they came, the same lovely spot that gave McAuliffe, the unbeaten lightweight champion of the world, to this country.

"U. S. Fighters Like Others."

I never thought I would get this chance at the world's heavyweight title. Harvey used to tell me I would, but I had heard before how Americans were prone to exaggerate.

I like to fight and I just kept on fighting. I soon found, as Harvey always told me, that American boxers were not supreme, as we Britishers believed.

"They have two arms, a head, a body and two legs," he said, "and so have you. Go out and lick them."

Nine fights in all I had. The shortest was with Jim Maloney. In the first round he passed out. I think it was Dempsey who inspired me to send over the knockout punch.

He was there that night—it was in Madison Square Garden — the first time I had ever seen him. I couldn't speak, when I shook his hand. And how my heart jumped with joy when he congratulated me.

To think that I, Tom Heeney, a hick from the Kangaroo bush of New Zealand should ever have ears to listen to words of praise from the master of the ring! That sure sent me along on wings after that.

And now that I have the chance at the championship—the first Britisher in years to get it—all my people can rest assured that I won't let them down when I face Tunney.

It'll be a fight—or Tom Heeney ain't Irish.

Marquette Wins Conference Meet

By the Associated Press.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 2.—Amassing six points in the final event, Marquette University broke a tie with Michigan State College and won the annual track and field meet of the Central Collegiate Conference today. Marquette was first with 56 points, Michigan State, last year's winner, was second with 51.

Notre Dame, with 41 points, was third. Others finished as follows: Grinnell, 13; Lombard, 7; Carroll, 3; Loyola, 1. Armour Tech did not score a point. Marquette and Michigan State were tied with 50 points each when the final event, the javelin throw, was started.

The local school won first and fourth to clinch the championship.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Eleanor Goss of New York, No. 5 in the national women's tennis rankings, today was named to captain America's team in the sixth annual Wightman cup matches at Wimbledon, June 15 and 16. America won the cup last year at Forest Hills.

Appointment of the New York star came as somewhat of a surprise in some tennis circles where it had been expected the honor would go to the national and Wimbledon champion, Miss Wills.

Miss Wills, however, had expressed a preference to concentrate on her playing responsibilities, leaving team details to other hands. Miss Goss probably will play only in the doubles, leaving the singles assignments to Miss

AT LAST AN IRISH CHALLENGER

—By S. Carlisle Martin

Bobby Jones Says--

WHENEVER I begin to describe matches in which I have taken part, I always feel that I ought to apologize for writing about my own play. The fact is that I have what I regard as a valid excuse. Concering matches in which I have no part, what I say has no more value than the words of any other trained observer. There is evident to me no more than is seen by any other spectator. But I am able to look at my own matches with different eyes and can bring my readers into a closer contact with the players, a circumstance which may or may not please them. At any rate I feel that the more intimate touch which I am able to give furnishes reason for digging up from past years matches which are of no particular historical interest but were well played and interesting.

Jones' Most Exciting Match.

I HAVE always remembered my match with Chick Evans at Memphis in 1920 as the most interesting and exciting contest in which I have ever engaged.

We met in the semifinal of the Western Amateur championship. I had won the medal and Chick was favored as the ultimate winner so our meeting aroused quite a bit of interest. The morning round, however, was tame. We finished all even, each scoring about 73, only moderately good golf on the Memphis course.

Starting the afternoon round Chick was a bit more than I could handle. A birdie three at the ninth put him two up, and after halving the tenth he increased his advantage to three at the twenty-ninth when I failed to get a chip-shot dead.

I should like to remember that I was aroused to a last-minute rally by the familiar "indomitable fighting spirit" we read about so often. But as we stood on the thirtieth tee, I had no other thought than that the match would end in the ordinary course of things a few holes later and in Chick's favor.

Three Holes in Row.

BUT somehow things began to happen. My second shot at the thirtieth hole, a number four iron, left me an eight-footer for a birdie three and I holed it to become only two down. In order to be honest I must admit that the shot did not come off as I played it. The hole was tucked away on the right side of the green behind a large bunker, and not caring to take the risk, I tried to play to the center of the green. There was a good illustration of the wisdom of playing for the center of the green when there is danger at the side. Few shots go exactly as intended and an error may be just enough to put the ball on the flag. If I had aimed for the hole I should have been far enough off to be bunkered at the right.

On the next hole Chick missed a six-footer after going wide with a long approach putt and I won with a par four. I was much encouraged now and the gallery was becoming excited.

Chick's pitch to the thirty-second green left him 20 feet away, while mine mysteriously flopped down two feet from the hole. I won that one with another birdie and the match was square. The crowd was yelling now like a baseball gathering and running down the fairways at top speed. Chick and I were becoming excited too, as much by the gallery, I think, as by the stand of the match.

I thought for a moment that I was going one up at the next hole. You see, Chick's position was now the hard one, for he was slipping away holes, and my star was rising. His iron shot stopped a full 10 yards off the green and I had a holable putt for another birdie three. But Chick gamely chipped up to six feet and holed it while I was missing mine.

The next hole nearly ruined us both and in the end was halved. Chick was bunkered over the green with his tee shot and I was in the his situation at the right. We both left ourselves 10-footers and we both holed them.

The Unexpected Turn.

THE thirty-fifth hole saw the final turn of the match and it was a thrilling and to me an unexpected turn. The hole was about 450 yards in length, requiring for us then two good wood shots. Chick's drive landed in the short rough to the right and mine just barely held the fairway on the same side. We both took spoons. I got on and again thought I had won when Chick hooked to a deep grass ditch along the left side of the green.

I was away although on the green. My long putt ran up about five feet below the hole. I remember feeling sorry for Chick as he set about playing his shot. He was obviously nervous and took much pains to study the ground. His effort was a good one under the circumstances but not alarming to me for it left him a difficult down-hill putt of about 15 feet. I could not see how he could make it at that stage of the match.

But down it went, and my heart came up at the same time. If you have had a fellow hole a putt you simply knew he couldn't make, you may know how I felt. A moment before I had stood there looking at a five-foot putt which I had to hole to win the match, for it was reasonably certain that that hole would settle matters. After Chick holed his putt, I saw a five-foot putt which I had to make to keep from losing the match, and I can tell you it looked a lot longer than it had a moment before. In my anxiety I stepped up quickly and missed it.

No Regrets at Loss.

THERE in a fraction of a second I had lost the match when I felt almost certain that I had won it We halved the last hole. Chick beat me one up, and I think I shall always recall that it was the best match I have ever played. No one has a right to feel badly or to waste regrets over the loss of a match that has been well played and hotly contested. That is one kind that victor and vanquished alike can remember with pleasure.

West Point Track Team Beats Navy

By the Associated Press.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 2.—First place in five field events and four on the track aided West Point track men today to bring the Naval Academy down to defeat and win the annual service school dual meet by the score of 84½ to 41½.

The midshipmen brought their score up by taking first in the dash events and hurdles, but fell down badly in the field events, when the cadets swelled their total by taking all three places in the several weight events. The middies won three places in the 100-yard dash, while the West Point huskies shut out the navy in the two-mile run, the discus, shot put and javelin.

"Whitey" Lloyd, Navy athlete star, was the only contestant to annex two firsts, winning the 220-yard dash and the high hurdles. In the low hurdles he was leading to the eighth timber but took a bad spill there.

Except in the quarter-mile, which McNurney, Army, won by a final jump at the tape, the cadets had little trouble winning the distance events and Rasmussen, West Point, nearly lapped the Navy in the two-mile.

WRAY'S COLUMN

May Stop the Yelpers.

ARLINGTON track, following the lead of the greyhound racing club that inaugurated the idea, has adopted the plan of holding fields of horses at the barrier until the final odds on the contenders in races have been computed and posted.

This is not of any actual benefit to John Cash Customer, but it stills his loud roars. Many pari-mutuel race track fans are not familiar with the fact that the bulk of the money wagered on races is placed AFTER the post odds have been hung up. This is due to two causes:

First, indecision of bettors and a desire to watch the trend of others' speculation, causes many investors to make their wagers just as the horses are about ready to go. A pari-mutuel clerk handles from $400 to $700 in the last ten minutes of the betting, officials say. Yesterday at the Fairmount track there were 92 booths in operation, and if the pressure was normal there is little doubt but that in the last ten minutes of betting on the Derby they handled more than $50,000.

Second, comeback money is sometimes dumped into the mutuels at the last minute, from Eastern exchanges, desiring to lay off of "hot" wagers or to beat down the price of a horse on which they are loaded up.

Between the two circumstances, both of which develop after the final computation is posted, there is sufficient money wagered to cause radical changes in the odds.

Under the Arlington plan, the late betting is ALL figured in and the public knows what the pay off prices will be before the race is run.

It would seem good business to adopt this plan at all pari-mutuel courses, Fairmount as well.

Jack Dempsey Passes.

THERE no longer is any doubt that Dempsey is through. Rickard says so and is willing to wager $50,000 on it.

So passes the fighter who was almost alone responsible for the development of the sport from a small-time affair into one of biggest of big sport businesses; who changed the character of the technical side of the sport from scientific defense to bone-crushing attack.

Dempsey was the first fighter to draw a $1,000,000 gate, and probably will be the only fighter in the history of the game for years to come to draw a maximum of more than $2,500,000 to a single show.

From Jeers to Cheers.

THE strange situation presents itself in the case of this internationally popular character., of a fighter who once was as intensely disliked as he now is appreciated, but who at the height of his unpopularity attracted $1,600,000 to one show. The fans came to jeer and remained to cheer him to the echo.

Dempsey's popularity today is not hard to understand. He fought earnestly at all times, tried to end each fight as quickly as possible, was willing to "trade" punches with any opponent and never took a backward step unless knocked back.

He remained unchanged and uninflated by success.

If he is retiring now, as indicated, the public will regret it because it will be long before another fighter willing and able to carry the fight will arise to replace him.

Hunter Loses Again.

PROBABLY the Davis Cup players who will go into action in Europe will include either Hennessy or Lott in the singles, for Francis Hunter once more has proved that he is unequal to stopping the French. Cochet, second string for France, beat Hunter Friday.

The American team which will face Italy, with its improved leader, De Morpurgo, will probably consist of Big Bill himself and either Lott or Hennessy for the singles, and Tilden and Hunter for the doubles. In the past this combination has not measured up to French quality. The only seeming hope of victory is for Tilden to win BOTH singles matches and Tilden and Hunter to capture the doubles.

Probably they will beat the Italians with this combination.

Measured by the past, the lineup is not sufficient to bring back the Davis cup in the challenge round.

Sounds Like Billy Sandow.

A GENTLEMAN named Joe Bowser, with whose wrestling connections we are not familiar, has written at length his views as to the leading 10 wrestlers of America. He picks them as follows, and in the order of their naming:

Ed Lewis, Malcewicz, Plestina, Mondt, McLeod, Stasiak, McGill, Stecher, Steinke and Londos.

From the lineup of the first seven men we would judge that the list was made up either by Billy Sandow or the manager of Joe Malcewicz—but Mr. Bowser will have to explain.

The list, in fact, is a roundup of Billy Sandow's mat circus, until we reach the last three. Our underground wires have not informed us whether or not the last three have joined the big tent. Jack Curley says not.

It Will Never Happen.

ONE of the real interesting features would be to bring these 10 men into a tournament, EACH PUTTING UP $5000 OF HIS OWN, in an elimination event, the winner to take all the pot and the gate receipts to be divided among the participants in varying percentages, according to where they finished in the tourney.

The only way in which the members of this outfit can convince us that they are doing their best is by putting their own bank rolls back of their efforts.

And that will be never.

MISSOURI GOLF TOURNAMENT TO BEGIN WEDNESDAY

The qualifying round Wednesday morning will inaugurate the Missouri State championship golf tournament at the Riverview Country Club.

All the available first-class amateur talent in the State is entered, including Harold R. Wilson of Swope Park in Kansas City, defending champion; a number of other Kansas City golfers; representatives from Fulton, Columbia, Sedalia and Jefferson City and the four St. Louisans who made the semifinal round of the St. Louis district meet — Jim Manion, who eventually won the title; Clarence Wolff, Bryan Winter and Dick Bockenkamp.

Four-man teams have been entered, as follows: Jim Manion, Bill Mertz, Don Anderson and Robert Dunn, Normandie; Chris Kenney, Sid Le Gear, Bill Medart and Clarence Wolff, Sunset.

BLACK MARIA	120	3	3	3²	4¹	8¹	8¹	9	L. Fator	5-1

Dolan, well up from the start, moved up stoutly entering the stretch, shook off Chance Play and drew away to win with speed in reserve. Chance Shot, under restraint to the far turn, moved up when called upon and finished well. Scapa Flow responded to pressure when called upon, finished fast through the stretch and outlasted Chance Play at the end. The latter displayed good early speed, saved ground and had no excuses. Brown Flash, away slowly, moved up with good courage, but hung in the final drive. Filemaker went well and had no excuses. Nimba was outrun and would not extend herself. Kentucky II was outrun. Black Maria stopped badly.

Odds: Dolan, win 25-1, place 10-1, show 5-1; Chance Shot, place 8-5, show 4-5; Scapa Flow, show 8-5.

By the Associated Press.

BELMONT PARK, N. Y., June 2.—Before 20,000 racing fans, E. F. Cooney's Dolan, paying 25 to 1, easily won the Suburban Handicap here today. His victory was a distinct shock to the big crowd, and for a moment there was absolute silence. But after it had realized a long shot had taken the big race, cheering broke out among the long shot players.

J. E. Widener's Chance Shot was second and William Jefford's Scapa Flow third. The race was worth $13,675 and the mile and one-quarter was run in 2:06 3-5.

Best Horse the Winner.

The race was clear of all interference and the best horse won. The start was good and Chance Play jumped away to the lead and attempted to race the field off its feet. He managed to kill off Black Maria and File Maker, but at the far turn, Dolan began to move up.

Dolan slipped through on the inside and when the field straightened out in the stretch Dolan shot to the front, drew away and won by four lengths. Chance Shoe took the place by half a length from the fast closing Scapa Flow.

Frederick Johnson's Brown Wizard, well played, made a show of the field in the first race, winning in a romp over Shepherdess, with Roodles third. Brown Wizard rushed right to the front, made all the pace and won by three lengths. Shepherdess gained the place by four lengths from Roodles.

Jolly Roger Carries 172 Pounds.

Mrs. Payne Whitney's Jolly Roger, recognized as the best steeplechaser in the country, added further laurels to his brilliant career when he led home a good field of timber toppers in the Corinthian Steeplechase, run over the two-mile course. He ran the distance in 3:46 and earned for his owner $3400.

Jolly Roger carried the crushing impost of 172 pounds, ran along with the pace, and when ready simply breezed to the front and won by three-quarters of a length. Bangle gained the place by six lengths from Rabel. Jolly Roger was ridden by the English jockey, George Duller, and the boy rode an excellent race on the favorite. Jolly Roger made one or two poor landings, but Duller quickly straightened him and he lost no ground by the bobbles.

The Rancocas Stable won its usual race a day when Black Curl, 7-to-10 favorite, won the third race, a seven-furlong sprint, running the route in 1:25. Lace was second and Ingrid third. Black Curl broke running and L. Fator, who had the mount, made use of his early advantage. He raced Lace into the ground then drew away, but the last sixteenth Fator had to use the whip freely. The favorite won by a length, while Lace took the place by four lengths from Ingrid.

Lady Capulet, well played, scored in a romp in the fifth race, a dash over the five furlongs route. Donnay was second and Bag Piper third. Lady Capulet jumped away to the lead, made all the pace and won by three lengths. Donnay got the place by a head from Bag Piper.

The last event was won by Dear Lady, with Okay second and Little Asbestos third.

Arlington Park Opens.

ARLINGTON PARK'S annual spring race meeting of 24 days will begin tomorrow with the American National Premier Handicap, one mile, the feature. The Premier, worth $5000 in added money, drew 18 good horses and will be run as the sixth race. Eight races are on the card. Frederick M. Grabner's Chicago is assigned top weight of 126 pounds. Flat Iron, owned by Stuyvesant Peabody, will carry two pounds less. Other stars named to start are: Crystal Pennant, winner of the rich Coffroth Handicap, and his stable mate Sankari, recently purchased from the Rancocas Stable. Edward F. Seagram's Rolls Royce, Sir Harry and Gaffsman; Reigh Olga, an entrant in the American Derby, and O. Viau's Florence Mills and Flaherty.

Blackwood and Billy Culbertson, entrants in the Premier Handicap, are also named for the fifth race, an allowance affair for 3-year-olds that have not won $1500 three times this year. The colts will probably be withdrawn from the Handicap in favor of the fifth race.

To Distribute $500,000.

APPROXIMATELY $500,000 will be given away in stakes and purses during the 24-day meeting. The richest stake on the program is the $25,000 added American Derby, carded for next Saturday. Other stakes to be run are: Juvenile, Rush Handicap and Turf and Field Handicap. The American National Futurity, $15,000 added, will be run during the fall meeting, which opens Aug. 27. Four $2000 overnight handicaps will also be featured during the Arlington spring meeting. One is for 2-year-olds at six furlongs. It is a claiming affair.

Arlington Park is 23 miles from the center of The Loop, Chicago, and consists of two tracks, a mile and an eighth oval and a mile oval. There is a seven furlong chute on the mile and an eighth track. The grandstand at Arlington can seat 18,000 persons. The American National Jockey Club, which operates the track, is a member of the Illinois Turf Association.

Fashion Stakes at Belmont.

THE Fashion Stakes, for 2-year-old fillies, at four and one-half furlongs, is featured at Belmont Park. Fifteen good youngsters are entered with the fast filly Atlantis top weight. She is assigned 119 pounds. Among the other horses entered are Stupendous, Vanish and Courtly. The secondary offerings are the Richmond and Ornament Handicaps. The former, at one mile and one-sixteenth, drew seven entrants, while the Richmond, at six furlongs, drew 12. Vito, owned by A. C. Schwartz, is top weight in the Richmond and Sandy in the Ornament.

Many fast workouts were noted at Belmont Park this morning among the candidates for the American Coaching Club Oaks and Belmont Stakes. Bradley's Peggy, owned by Miss Peggy Bailey, niece of Col. E. R. Bradley, turned in one of the fastest trials of the year when she went a mile and three-eighths, in preparation for the Oaks. Bradley's Peggy was clocked in 2:24 handily. Nimba, winner of the 1927 Oaks, ran the distance in 2:19 4-5, only five seconds faster than the trial of Bradley's Peggy.

Bateau Shows Well.

WILLIAM JEFFORD'S Bateau, daughter of Man o' War, and Harry Payne Whitney's Twitter, candidates for the Oaks, also turned in good trials. Bateau went a mile and one quarter, driving, in 2:06, while Twitter was caught the 10 furlongs in 2:09 3-5, handily. Victorian, winner of the Preakness and Withers Stakes, and probable favorite for the Belmont Stakes, did a mile and an eighth in 1:52 3-5, driving. Tantivy and Groucher, other Whitney horses, also showed good speed. Groucher did three quarters in 1:13 3-5, driving, while Tantivy went a mile, driving, in 1:40 1-5.

NEGRO TENNIS MEET TO OPEN TOMORROW

The first city-wide tennis tournament for Negroes will open in East St. Louis tomorrow on the courts at Fifteenth and Bond streets. The event will include men and women's singles and doubles, mixed doubles and juniors.

The tourney is being sponsored by the East St. Louis Negro Tennis Club.

The finals will be played Friday and Saturday. Thirty players have registered. The East St. Louis Board of Parks and public play grounds will award medals to the winners.

Junior C. lost rider and ran away a mile before the race.

SEVENTH RACE—Mile and an eighth:

Scarlet Brigade	115	6	6	7	5¹	7	7	J. Berry	21.63

Demon broke in motion and, showing good speed under hard urging, held sway for entire distance, but was ridden hard in stretch. MacFogle was in close quarters for first furlong, but moved fast when clear, only to tire near end. Sporting Blues went prominently for most of the way, but tired in last sixteenth. Thistle Coot showed a good effort. Rio Panchita dropped out of it after first quarter. Others were always outrun.

$2 mutuels paid: Demon, win $5.58, place $3.04, show $2.50; MacFogle, place $3.56, show $2.42; Sporting Blues, show $2.96.

Big Bill Thompson	113	8	7	10	11	10	10	F. Francis	18.83

Rockslide, who was in front of much the best, moved into lead when called on and won with much in reserve. Duckweed was taken back and raced wide but came fast in the last furlong. Lady Fanshawe began tiring after reaching the stretch. Up and Down, poorly handled, Arabian came from last. Lady Braxted was weakly ridden. Big Bill Thompson was done after three quarters.

$2 mutuels paid: Rockslide, win $5.00, place $3.42, show $3.26; Duckweed place $3.52, show $3.38; Lady Fanshawe, show $3.00.

SEVENTH RACE—$1000, claiming, 4-year-olds and up, one mile and seventy yards: Start good; won driving; place same. Went to post 6:15; at post 1 minute. Winner, br. g. 5, by Trojan-Belle Deamond. Trainer, L. M. Holmes. Time, :24 3-5, :49, 1:14 1-5, 1:39 4-5, 1:44 2-5. Value to winners: $700, $200 $100.

Hec began slowly, was far out of it for half a mile, but came with a big rush through the stretch and drew away from Sweep Net in the last 70 yards. Sweep Net showed fine speed for three-quarters before tiring. Famine raced well and ran a mile. Scotland Forever was away slowly and lacked his customary high speed. Gaffney was done after half a mile.

$2 mutuels paid: Hec, win $7.26, place $3.26, show $2.98; Sweep Net, place $3.54, show $2.98; Famine, show $4.08.

Motorbus Club Plans Outdoor Show June 13

Three inter-state bouts will feature the first 1928 outdoor amateur boxing tournament to be staged by the People's Motorbus A. C. at the club's arena, 3547 Pine street, June 13, if negotiations with officials of clubs in Chicago, Cleveland and Cincinnati are sucessful.

George Wilsman, matchmaker for the Motorbus Club, announces that he is planning to stage a heavyweight, middleweight and lightweight bout in which the pick of the local stars will compete.

John Schwake of the South Broadway A. C., local heavyweight title claimant, who defeated Jack Day of the Motorbus team last month, will provide the St. Louis side of the debate in the interstate heavy bout. A suitable opponent is being sought for Al Stillman of the Motorbus team, who went through to the finals in the National A. A. U. tourney at Boston to win a place on the team of boxers to be sent to the Olympics. This bout is planned as the main attraction. Reggie Wood, Motorbus A. C. lightweight, plans to meet Jimmy Konerman of Cincinnati. Ohio state title holder, if Wilsman is successful in gaining Konerman's consent to the bout.

EASTER STOCKING FINISHES FIRST IN KENTUCKY OAKS

By the Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 2.—Easter Stockings, owned by the Audley Farm and trained by Kay Spence, won the $10,000 Kentucky Oaks, for 3-year-old fillies at one mile and one furlong, the closing day attraction at Churchill Downs. Pink Lily, the representative of the Fox Catcher Farms, was second, and W. E. Hupp's Reverie's Gal third. The daughter of Sir Barton—Irish Lassie, netted her owner $9140, and covered the nine furlongs in 1:51 3-5, and paid $2.72 for $2.

Easter Stockings was the first to show after the barrier went up and led the field all the way back to the wire, but was tiring badly, getting the decision by half a length over Pink Lily, who was racing well at the end. Reverie's Gal had to be hard urged to save the show money from Aleader by a length.

Thelong shot players got a real thrill in the first race, when Lady Basil led her field to the wire by three lengths and paid $167.84 for $2. Honest, grouped in the field, was a neck in front of Aada Adler, the latter getting the show by a length.

Enthusiastic Edward galloped to an easy victory in the third race over the six and one-half furlongs route. Cleora was second by two lengths over Tangram. The latter saved the show by a neck, but his rider, W. Kern, received a suspension of 10 days for rough riding.

HEADLIGHT ATHLETIC CLUB TEAM CAPTURES WESTERN A. A. U. MEET

HAGGARD TIES OSBORN IN HIGH JUMP AND SHATTERS RECORD FOR THE DISTRICT

By Gerald Holland.

Harry Riddicks' Headlight Athletic Club, which has developed into one of the strongest athletic organizations St. Louis has ever known, scored a decisive victory in the annual Western Amateur Athletic Union track meet at the public schools stadium yesterday afternoon.

The Headlight club scored 52 points in the men's division, which was 23 more than its nearest rival. In the women's division, the Headlight entrants ran up a total of 37 points. The Pacific Athletic Club, which was second, scored only four points.

The Headlight teams greatly outnumbered the entries of the other organizations. Harry Riddick, however, did provide the small crowd with the few good performances. His stars, Aubrey Cockrell, sprinter from Texas University, and Rufus Haggard, a teammate of Cockrell at Texas, gave individual exhibitions.

Haggard Breaks Record.

Haggard was the only entrant able to break a record. He bettered the existing mark of 6 feet 5¾ inches. The high jump with a leap of 6 feet, 5⅞ inches. The old record had been standing for several years. Harold Osborne of the Illinois A. C., a veteran allround athlete who holds the world's and Olympic high jump records, gave an exhibition, and achieved the same height as Haggard. Both made unsuccessful attempts to break the world's record.

Osborne is the originator of the "Osborne Roll" which Haggard employs.

Catherine Maguire, national high jump champion, and holder of district records in the shotput and broad jump contributed 15 points toward the Headlight team score by taking firsts in those two events.

Cockrell Wins Dashes.

Aubrey Cockrell won the 100-meter and 200-meter dashes without great difficulty. In the shorter race he was away fast and finished with yards to spare.

The meet had no significance as far as the Olympic tryouts are concerned. The only entrants from this district are likely to be those sent by Headlight Athletic Club at their own expense. Harry Riddick has indicated that he will send Rufus Haggard, Aubrey Cockrell, Catherine Maguire and Dee Boeckmann to the meet in Iowa City where athletes will qualify for the national trials at Cambridge.

Victor Fite, another recent acquisition of the Headlight Club, ran a very nice race in the 500-meter run, beating Orlon Page of the Pan-Olympians by a wide margin in nearly lapping the third man. Robert Spencer of McKendree College. In the two-mile race at Coliseum last winter, Fite was second to Page.

Argentina Beats Belgian Olympic Soccer Team, 6-3

By the Associated Press.

AMSTERDAM, June 2.—Argentina, which defeated America, 11 to 2, early this week, won its way into the semifinals of the Olympic soccer competition today by defeating Belgium, 6 to 3. The South America champions will play the winner of the match between Portugal and Egypt, to be played Monday.

The South American team is an odds-on favorite to defeat either Portugal or Egypt, although today's contest with Belgium indicated the danger of overconfidence.

The Belgians gave such an excellent account of themselves that when the score was tied at 3 to 3, soon after the beginning of the second half, many spectators wagered on the losers. Argentina's superior experience and unbeatable defense finally carried the day.

The winners took the lead from the kickoff, carrying the Belgians off their feet by kicking two goals in three minutes.

The Belgians fought hard and refused to falter until the Argentines scored their fourth and fifth goals within five minutes late in the second half. The sixth goal was placed in the net one minute before the close of the game.

JUNIOR TENNIS TOURNEY WILL OPEN SATURDAY

By Davison Obear.

The annual St. Louis District Tennis Tournament for juniors and boys will open next Saturday afternoon according to an announcement made last night by Martin Telle, chairman of the local junior committee. All matches in the tournament will be played on the public courts in Forest Park near the Jefferson Memorial Building.

Any player who did not attain the age of 18 years on January 1, 1928 is eligible to enter the District Junior Event. The boys event is open to those who did reach the age of 15 years on January 1, 1928. There are no District events for girls. Entries will close at 5 p. m. Thursday. Players may enter thorugh officials of park tennis clubs or at local sporting goods stores. Mail entries may also be sent to Martin Telle, 700 Security Building. The entry fee is 50 cents for each player.

The present St. Louis District Junior Singles champion is Junior Boehmer, protege of William T. Tilden, Davis Cup captain. Several years ago Tilden became interested in young Boehmer and since that time has given the local boy much instruction of value. Boehmer will defend his title in the coming tournament.

Tietjen Many Title Holder.

In addition to Boehmer among other prominent players expected to compete are Vernon Tietjen, William Bascom, Robert Semple and Joyce Portnoy. Tietjen is the holder of the Municipal Junior championship and was leading player on the Washington University freshmen squad this past spring. Bascom in addition to being a former district boy champion is captain of the John Burroughs School tennis team. Bascom played for the Ferris Tennis Club in interclub matches last year.

Robert Semple is a new comer to the junior ranks. He was a member of the Principia Academy tennis team this year. Semple will play with Bascom in the junior doubles and this combination is expected to go far in the tournament. Joyce Portnoy is a former Municipal boy champion and for several years was leading player on the Soldan High net team. Portnoy has just completed his freshmen year at Washington University.

Tennis Notes.

Lottie Hagemeyer, former municipal champion, has been named captain of the women's team of the Forest Park Tennis Club. Mrs. Melicent Baehr, Missouri Valley champion, played the No. 1 singles position in the past two interclub matches in which the Forest Park team was victorious. Miss Hagemeyer and Ruth Bailey are the other two singles players on the squad.

Karl Hodge, first 10 local player and vice president of the St. Louis District Tennis Association, will compete in the annual Texas State championship which opens tomorrow at Houston. Hodge recently played an exhibition match at New Orleans, forcing D. K. Murray Southern champion, a close battle.

The public park tennis clubs will play their third round matches in the interclub tournament today. O'Fallon Park with 10 victories and no defeats heads the men's division, with Fairgrounds and Forest Park tied for second with 9 won and 1 lost. In the women's division, Forest Park, Fairgrounds and O'Fallon are in a tie for first place with 10 victories and none lost. The schedule for today is as follows:

Men's Division.

Forest at Oakland.
Kingshighway at Carondelet.
Sublette at Fairgrounds.
Tower Grove at St. Louis.
Sherman at O'Fallon.

In the women's division the only match expected to be played is that between Forest Park and Oakland. The women's teams played a schedule just the opposite from the men.

HORNSBY, BATTING .415, LEADS BOTH LEAGUES

Rogers Hornsby's part in the Cincinnati-Boston batting press at Braves Field yesterday, insufficient to give the home team a victory, nevertheless raised the Rajah's own personal batting average to .415. Hornsby leads not only the Big Six, but also both major leagues. His bit yesterday was a double, a single and a home run.

The rest of the Big Six languished, five players having only three hits to divide among them. Paul Waner, with one of these, remained second only because Ruth went hitless. Cobb's one hit was sufficient to send him into fourth place ahead of Frisch.

The standing to date:

Player.	G.	AB.	R.	H.	Pct.

WESTERN CREWS LEAVE FOR POUGHKEEPSIE

BERKELEY, Cal., June 2.—University of California's varsity and freshmen crews and three Washington crews, the varsity, junior varsity and freshmen, left today for the East, where they will race in the Poughkeepsie regatta.

Belmont Stakes at Mercy of the Whitney Horses, Victorian and Groucher, in Saturday's Race

By Clement Glaub.

With Reigh Count, winner of the Kentucky Derby, declared out, the East is practically assured first money in the rich Belmont Stakes, to be decided at Belmont Park, next Saturday. Reigh Count was kicked while at the post in the Derby and was taken out of training last week. With Reigh Count withdrawn, Harry Payne Whitney's Victorian, Preakness winner, stands a good chance of adding to his already large earnings. Victorian has not raced since the Withers Stakes but has been training daily for the Belmont Stakes and is in fine shape for the gruelling mile and one-half gallop.

Had Reigh Count been shipped to Belmont for the Stake the 3-year-old championship of 1928 would be decided, Victorian, best horse in the East and Reigh Count, peer of Western thoroughbreds, have shown great distance ability and can race on any kind of course.

In the Preakness Victorian won by a nose in a hard drive but in the Withers he was just galloping to beat a fine field by three lengths in the slop. Reigh Count's best effort this year was in the Derby when he defeated a large field over a sloppy track by three lengths handily.

Strolling Player a Starter.

The Belmont Stakes will draw a large field of crack Eastern thoroughbreds while a few from Western points will be shipped to New York for the race. Whitney will send Victorian and Groucher to the post and they will probably compete with a band of proved distance racers. Strolling Player, the good English bred colt, which cost Admiral Cary T. Grayson close to $61,000 as a 2-year-old, will be strongly played to defeat Victorian. Sun Edwin, owned by Arden Farms Stable, is also expected to start. He was not entered in the Preakness or Derby and has not met many good horses this year. He is training well and barring unforeseen difficulties, will face the barrier in the Belmont.

Other Eastern racers classed as prospective starters are: Sun Meddler, Tara's Hall, Propus, Mowlee and Oh Say. Among the Western horses eligible are Dr. Wilson and Frank G. Menke, owned by the Canyon Stable of which Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight boxing champion is part owner.

Chance Shot, racing in J. E. Widener's silks, accounted for last year's running of the Belmont Stakes and earned almost $61,000

Semifinals to Be Played Tomorrow

Semifinal games in the elimination series for the championship of the Public School Baseball League and possession of the Post-Dispatch trophy will be played tomorrow.

The program calls for a game between Lyon and Webster on grounds No. 1 in Tower Grove Park and another between Adams and Walnut Park in public high school stadium, Kingshighway and St. Louis avenue.

Results of last week's games were as follows: Adams 5, Benton 2; Walnut Park 7, Roe 6; Lyon 12, Mason 2; Webster 6, Fanning 4.

L'Ouverture won the championship of the Negro schools and possession of the St. Louis Argus trophy by beating Waring twice 19 to 1 and 9 to 3.

Hamm Jumps 25 Feet.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., June 2.—Ed Hamm, Georgia Tech star broad jumper, hurtled himself 25 feet in the southeastern Olympic tryouts here this afternoon to better the Olympic record held by Butterson, American. Butterson's mark was 24 feet 11¼ inches.

Stanford Men Star in New Events

By F. G. VOSBURGH,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, June 2.—With a different set of stars in the leading roles, the Stanford University track team renewed today its assault on height, time and distance with some of the finest performances ever seen in the East.

Whereas they did their record-breaking in the shotput and discus in winning the Eastern intercollegiates a week ago, these athletes from the Far West competing in the New York A. C. games at Travers Island, today, turned their attention with most surprising results to the high jump and the javelin throw.

Clearing 6 feet 6 inches for the first time in his competitive career, the Stanford high jumper, Bob King, National A. A. U. and new intercollegiate champion, turned in the greatest leap recorded since the new jumping standards were adopted two years ago. Despite the present rules which make the bar a hair-trigger dislodged at the slightest touch, King cleared it at 6 feet 6 with some to spare. He missed at 6 feet 7.

It remained for a Stanford team mate, Leo Kibbe, whose achievements in other meets had been somewhat obscured by those of his mates, to produce the other highlight performance of the day. Never in his life before had Kibbe thrown a javelin more than 200 feet, but today he outdid himself by getting the shivering spear away a distance of 209 feet.

15-YEAR-OLD GIRL VICTOR IN BOAT RACE

CHICAGO, June 2.—A 15-year-old high school girl, Mary Allcott Richardson of Chicago, today piloted her small displacement boat through stormy waters to win the 106-mile outboard motor boat race from Milwaukee to Chicago.

In her victory she out-skippered more than four score men. So stormy was the course that only five boats finished. One contestant, William E. Lyman of Cleveland, was almost drowned near the finish when his boat capsized.

Check! The Spring suit problem is solved—unless you wish to go a little farther and get another click. Many men find it wise to buy two or three suits at once. Cheaper in the end, because alternating gives the goods a chance to contract where the strain has been. Suits wear better when they are not worn constantly. And the wearer is better dressed.

DANGER

Your tongue is the best barometer of your physical condition. Look at it every morning before breakfast. If it is coated with white, yellow or brown coloring, and does not have a clean red appearance you are constipated and not well.

Heed Its Warning

Constipation causes more ailments than all other diseases, and is the result of not having a daily bowel movement. Sick headache, indigestion, biliousness and sallow complexion follow. New Religious Service Over Station KSD Begins Today

Replaces the National Youth Conference Program—Hour of Fine Music to Be Sunday Afternoon Feature.

A NEW religious broadcast—the Summer Radio Church—will begin over KSD at 12 noon today. The National Youth Conference has been discontinued for the time being, as has the Interdenominational Studio Service. Two other new features—Sixty Musical Minutes and a recital by Genia Zielinska, coloratura soprano, and Winifred Cornish, pianist—will be broadcast over KSD this afternoon.

The Summer Radio Church is sponsored by the Federal Council of Church and is interdenominational in character. It will feature a 20-minute address by some prominent clergyman and music by a mixed quartet, whose members are Rhoda Arnold, soprano; Hazel Tuthill, contralto; Grant Kimball, tenor, and Ernest Naftzger, baritone. George Vause will be musical director.

The program for the first Radio Summer Church broadcast today follows:

Hymn, "Oh, Day of Rest and Gladness."
Invocation.
"O Come, Let Us Sing to the Lord" . . . . . Tours
Scripture reading.
Response.
Hymn, "God, My King, Thy Might Confessing."
Prayer.
Response Chorale, from the oratoria "Elijah" . . Mendelssohn
Anthem, "The Lord Is My Shepherd" . . . . . Rogers
Hymn, "Beneath the Cross of Jesus."
Sermon.
Hymn, "Take My Life, and Let It be Consecrated, Lord, to Thee."
Anthem, "He Sendeth the Springs" . . . . . Wareing
Benediction.
Doxology.

Tonight's Atwater Kent concert to be broadcast over KSD at 7:15 will be given by the male quartet composed of Victor Edmunds, first tenor; George Rasely, second tenor; Erwyn Mutch, baritone, and James Davies, basso. They will sing these numbers:

Rolling Down to Rio . . . . . German
Passing By . . . . . Purcell
Sweetly Blows the Breath of Spring (Madrigal) . . . . . Stewart
Ah, Moon of My Delight Lehmann
Mr. Raseley.
(a) Scandalize My Name

Station Cut Planned Not Likely to Aid Reception

Most of the 162 Transmitters Slated for Denial of Licenses Are Not Powerful Enough to Cause Interference.

By THOMAS STEVENSON.

WASHINGTON, June 2.

THE latest move of the Federal Radio Commission to reduce the number of broadcasting stations will not materially improve reception, say Government engineers who are assisting the commission in working out a new allocation. They say it is a "step in the right direction, but it does not go far enough."

The commission has notified 162 stations to show cause why their licenses should not be canceled. It is estimated that a large percentage of these stations will be forced to close down through failure to prove that they serve "public interest, convenience or necessity."

Too Many 500-Watters.

Too many of the stations are of such low power that they do not cause interference. Of course, the eliminations will remove a lot of dead wood, but it is of a kind that never has caused much trouble.

The present cause of interference, the engineers say, is that there are too many stations of 500 watts or more power. It is the more powerful stations that cause the trouble, that create interference over an area sometimes taking in the entire country.

Engineers estimate the interference range of 500 watt stations as being up to 1000 miles; of 1000 watt stations, up to 1500 miles; of 2000 watt stations, up to 2000 miles, and of 5000 watt stations as taking in the entire country.

But stations of 250 watts or less power do not interfere over very large areas. At least 50 stations of this class could operate on a single channel without interference, it is held, while only two stations of 500 watts power can share the same channel without interfering with each other.

If the commission refused to permit any station to use more than 250 watts power, it would be possible to license 4500 such stations on the 90 channels without interference.

That, of course, would end reception of distant programs because the program range of such stations is even less than the interference area.

KSD Arranges For Broadcasts Of Conventions

KSD, radio station of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, has completed arrangements with the National Broadcasting Co. to broadcast the details of both the Democratic and the Republican national conventions.

An elaborate network of wires has been arranged between Kansas City and Houston and the N. B. C. studios in New York and back again to KSD and allied stations.

Graham McNamee and others of the best announcers of the N. B. C., and the most skilled engineers and operators of the chain will be on duty continually during the conventions. Trained newspaper reporters will assist the announcers, to make sure that a complete word picture of the conventions will go on the air.

As the bulk of the regular network broadcasting takes place between 6 and 8 p. m., central standard time, this is not expected to interfere with the conventions broadcasting.

Microphones will be placed throughout the convention halls, so that there will be plenty of "atmosphere" in the broadcasting.

The N. B. C. is to provide musical programs, so that whenever there are quiet times at a convention there will be something on the air for listeners.

An empty fish bowl can be converted into a loud speaker. Lower a single receiver gradually into the bowl and a point will be found where the music simply roars out. This point will vary with the size of the bowl, but is usually only a short distance from the bottom.

KEEPING YOUR CAR MODERN

H. Ledyard Towle, Director, Duco Color Advisory Service, Tells How to Keep Up With the Color Trend in the Automotive Field.

THE present-day motorist has learned, in many cases, that he becomes tired of the colors of his car after a while, no matter what they are, and longs for something new. Just because his car was lacquered a most delightful color in the beginning is no reason why he wants to keep it the same color as long as he drives it.

Each spring brings new ideas. The color trends on other cars along the road tell a new story. There is no end to the lovely and delightful hues that can be combined to make an automobile a thing of beauty as well as being a joy forever.

The motorist, perhaps in smaller cities, who has seen his car parked in front of his house for a year, finds that both of them are becoming tired of looking at it. What can he do about it? He can turn his car in and get another. Perhaps he doesn't want to do that. He can have the whole finish done over again in other and newer tones. Perhaps he thinks that is too much to do, particularly inasmuch as the finish of his car has had care and is just as good as it ever was. What then?

The answer to that situation is found in what is coming to be a more or less growing custom. He can have the look of his car changed, new life injected into its appearance, new fancies expressed and satisfied. He can give his car the festival air of spring to go with his new clothes and his wife's new hats. He does ing the trim. The result is an expression of his reasonable desire for something new and at the same time, if discreetly accomplished, he has added to the original beauty and delight of his car without going to any very considerable trouble.

The family sedan, for instance. Possibly it is blue, with black fenders and perhaps wheels touched with red to give a contrast. This is a good sound combination of color. The only trouble is that the owner is tired of it. He leaves the body color just as it was—a good substantial agreeable blue. But he has the black fenders changed to some lighter color and his wheels lacquered blue to agree with the body. Then perhaps he has the moldings along the side of his car touched with cream. You would hardly know it to be the same car.

Perhaps he has a black sedan. One tires soon of black, although it has a certain feeling of permanence and dignity. He wants a change. He gives heed to the latest color trends and then has his black fenders lacquered a St. James gray and the same color it by the simple process of changused on the top. Then he has a belt of color either on or above and below the belt molding along the sides of his car. A lively cheerful contrasting color running from the tip of his hood, back across the cowl and all along the

Good Fishing Is Found in All Streams in the Ozarks

Fly and Bait Fishermen Will Find Two Good Locations in the Platin and Joachim, Both Near St. Louis.

By ROBERT HENRY HALL
Automobile Editor.

SINCE the fishing season opened officially last Wednesday, this writer has been besieged by numerous persons wanting to know where and how to go to places where the piscatorial tribes hold forth.

Now, it isn't an easy thing to direct one to a certain place and to say that fish can be caught there. One fisherman literally "catches 'em where they ain't," while the other can't get a strike in a heavily-stocked stream.

The chronicler's experience has been mostly with fly fishing streams and he has fished almost everyone of note in Missouri. A fly stream, you understand, is no place for the sluggard who would sit on the bank with cane pole and baited hook waiting for the fish to come along. This type of fisherman had better stick to the lakes and sloughs.

There's always been a controversy over the relative merits of fly fishing and "plug" fishing-that is bait casting in which wooden minnows or spoon spinners are used—which will not be reopened for discussion here. The same kind of stream, however, is sought after by both these types of anglers, and, most of them are not in proximity to St. Louis.

The best fly and bait fishing is found in the deeper Ozarks in streams which are not relentlessly haunted by the rank and file. There are two, however, long pets of the chronicler, which are within 50 miles of the city, and they will produce as many fish as the better known streams such as the Current, Jack's Fork, the Pineys, the Courtois or the famous Riboudoux, because, for some unknown reason, fishermen have not in the past frequented them.

I am referring to the Joachim and Platin Rivers, both of which Dr. Henschell, the eminent authority, names among the finest of Bass waters in Missouri.

This writer was out the other day on the Joachim at Benson's Mill, near Hematite, and in the course of a half mile of wading had in his creel five bass averaging a pound to a pound and a half, three goggle-eye aggregating two pounds weight total and a few perch.

The Motorist can go to Hematite, seven miles west of Festus, on

Travel Togs A Woman Can Take on Tour

TRAVEL togs that pack into the smallest possible space and come out of bags without a wrinkle are the natural result of the modern motor age.

The weavers have contributed tissues of jerseys and etamines, wool crepes such as crepella and asperic, silk crepes such as georgette, crepe marocain and crepe have made these uncrushable fabrics in to slight, exquisitely-designed costumes with nothing bulky and nothing puffy about them.

A "compact" travel-bag is just as necessary today as the face-compact. It may contain as many as 14 costumes if one chooses wisely.

For afternoon wear there is a gown of printed crepe de Chine, a skirt of black georgette, a blouse of the same with long sleeves and a jabot front, a skirt of white georgette and a blouse of the same with a coat of black georgette and small black felt hat. Any woman may look smart for a number of days in these combinations.

For evening there are two blouses, one of nail embroidery and one of white georgette with the black and white skirts that serve for the afternoon blouses. The black georgette coat has a very complete trimming of white ermine which can be snapped in to turn into a full-length evening coat.

Beige tones dominate morning costumes which consist of a lynx-trimmed coat, pleated skirt and sweater striped with blue. There is also a sweater with long sleeves striped with red and a red-striped scarf to match and a blue-striped sweater with scarf of the same.

How to Go On That Trip Through the Old Dominion

Most Direct Way Is Via Buffalo—Then There Is a Choice of Routes Through Adirondacks or Via Albany Highway.

TO drive to Montreal is like stepping in your automobile at home and stepping out abroad with the brief formality of a friendly customs line instead of a broad ocean intervening.

This is a delightful objective for the summer tourist from St. Louis—it is in the North, easily accessible by a few days of traveling and, above all, a place replete with an individual and characteristic foreign atmosphere. Montreal is France; Montreal is England; least of all, Montreal is, not the United States, but a cosmopolitan city enlivened a bit by the bustle of the States. Fact is, Montreal is Canada, but a Quebecian nook of the dominion, brightened by Gallic gayety and religious fervor, and shot through with staid British solidity; withal, a stronghold of the maple leaf.

Though it is a great industrial, commercial and financial center and of world prominence as an inland seaport, Montreal is a city for pleasure in summer and winter. In and near it are plenty of places to golf, fish, swim and indulge in all the other midyear sports, and the attractive Laurentian Mountains are not far north. The majestic St. Lawrence River alone, dashing past the great island holding the city, can afford pleasure for many days, either in long boat trips, shooting the famous Lachine Rapids or otherwise.

Most persons would require four or five days at least for the drive from here to Montreal. The most direct route is by way of Buffalo, N. Y. (on which one may take advantage of an overnight boat trip on Lake Erie, from Cleveland or Detroit, with one's car in the hold). Thence there is a choice of routes, includnig the St. Lawrence Valley, the heart of the Adirondack Mountains or the main highway north from Albany. Other courses may be followed east from here, like the National Highway. Then ther is a route through Canada between Detroit and Monteal. All the ways are scenic and all the roads are good.

The chief border towns, or "ports," in New York are Trout River (near Malone), on the way from the central Adirondacks, and Rouse's Point (near Lake Champlain) on the route from Albany. It is necessary to show the small Missouri (or other state) registration certificate to cross the border, but the routine of customs and immigration ispection—even for those returning from a land where liquor is legal—is simple and short.

No sooner is the traveler across the line than the province of Quebec begins to offer little evidences of the transfer to a strange and interesting domain. The highway is different, narrower but perhaps neater than the one before. There are no route numbers but the way is shown by whitewashed poles. Warning signs all are in two languages, with French first, for a great portion of the population speaks this tongue principally if not entirely. Indeed, companies of actors journey from Paris to Montreal to fill theaters with people who appreciate the drama.

Approach to Montreal on the route from Malone, N. Y., provides a remarkable view of the terrain. The motorist glides over a little hill and there bursts upon his vision the broad sweep of the St. Lawrence, with the town of Lachine on the far side. A big ferry,

ALLEN SPEAKS AT SESSION OF G. M. DIVISIONS

Representative of Sloan Addresses Meeting of the St. Louis Personnel.

All General Motors Corporation, division officials, employes and families of St. Louis met in a gigantic convention at the Moolah Temple, 3821 Lindell boulevard, Friday, June 1. Approximately 1800 persons were present at the meeting, and from all indications the announced purpose of the meeting—to closer cement the relations of the various divisions—was successfully put over.

The principal speaker at the meeting was Floyd A. Allen, personal representative of Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of General Motors Corporation. Executives of local G. M. divisions, and factory chiefs of other cities were present at the meeting.

The meeting was sponsored by the General Motors Executive Club of St. Louis, an organization to which all officials of G. M. divisions in St. Louis belong. J. T. Harris of the Fisher Body Co. here, is president.

An interesting feature in connection with the meeting was the showing for the first time in St. Louis of the film, "General Motors Around the World," showing the the gigantic activities of the corporation in all parts of the universe. Seven camera crews took trips totaling 100,000 miles to obtain the picture, it is said.

General Motor divisions represented at the meeting were: Chevrolet Motor Car Co., factory; Fisher Body Co., factory; Olds Motor Works, factory branch; General Motors Truck Co., factory branch; United Motors Service Corporation,, factory branch; General Motors Acceptance Corporation branch; General Exchange Insurance Corporation, branch; Oliver Cadillac Co., distributer; Vesper-Buick Co., distributer; Mississippi Valley Motor Co., Oakland-Pontiac, distributer, and the Del-Home Light Co.

New Motor Laws.

Motor vehicle laws in Wisconsin allow only three adults in the front seat of any motor car. No person allowed to ride on fenders, the hood, running board or any part of the car other than that part intended for riding purposes.

NOW A REAR ENTRANCE

AN ENGLISHMAN perfected this rear entrance for an automobile and it has caught on in London, where many cars are thus being built. Could there be any advantage to it in crowded traffic?

Studebaker Car Tops Uniontown Hill at 60 M. P. H.

Commander Sedan Carried One Passenger and Driver on Test.

On May 26 a stock model Studebaker Commander sedan, with a standard optional gear ratio topped the famous Uniontown, Pa., hill at a speed of 60 miles an hour. Although the hill has for years been a mecca for ambitious motorists and motor manufacturers seeking to test the climbing ability of their cars, such a speed has never been equaled, says Studebaker Corporation bulletin.

"One passenger in addition to the driver was carried over the hill at 60-mile speed. With a capacity load of five, the car crossed the summit going 54 miles per hour. To demonstrate further the Commander's extraordinary climbing ability, the car made one trip loaded with 14 passengers (eight inside and thre standing on each running board)—a total weight of 2296 pounds. With this tremendous load it topped the hill at 31 miles per hour.

"To avoid interference with traffic, the runs were made at 4 o'clock in the morning. The tests were timed and observed by the automobile editors of the three Pittsburg newspapers—H. W. Dietrich of the Sun-Telegraph, Allen C. Rankin of the Press and U. M. Manning of the Post-Gazette.

"Previous to the tests the speedometer of the sedan was checked at speeds of 30, 40 and 50 miles per hour by Motor Cycle Policeman Louis Keebler of the Pittsburg Police Department and certified by him to be accurate. The check was made with his motor cycle speedometer, which was checked and tested the same day at an authorized speedometer service station."

Oil High in Mexico.

Motorists situated in the rich oil area of Mexico have to pay nearly twice as much for oil as motorists far from the field in the United States. The reason is that the crude oil has to be shipped to the United States for refining and then back to Mexico for sale.

Chrysler-Dodge Merger Not to Affect Dealers

Each Plant to Continue to Make Own Line and Merchandise It.

Although Chrysler Corporation has acquired the Dodge interests, no amalgamation of Dodge and Chrysler dealer organizations or any disturbance of either of them as they are now constituted is contemplated, E. G. Wilmer, president of Dodge Brothers, Inc., telegraphed Frank Tate, president of the Tate Motor Car Co., Dodge distributer here, yesterday.

Present passenger and truck lines of Dodge and Graham will be produced without interruption and their future development will be strictly in accordance with the standards on which Dodge business has been built, Tate said Wilmer telegraphed.

Merging of the two lines has materially strengthened their relative positions in the industry, and is already reflected locally in Dodge sales, Tate says.

Dodge sales in the St. Louis territory on the whole are exceedingly greater this year than last year, the gain being about 50 per cent, Tate reported.

6235 Employes Now On Olds Payroll

A new high employment peak was reached in May by Oldsmobile. The combined payrolls of the Oldsmobile factories and the Fisher body plant, located on Oldsmobile property and devoted exclusively to the manufacture of Oldsmobile closed bodies, now totals 6235. This is the largest number of employes engaged in the manufacture of Oldsmobiles during the more than 30 years' continuous production by this veteran company.

In addition to employing a record number of persons, more than a third of the Oldsmobile employes are working from two to three hours a day overtime. These include the motor plant, axle division, sheet metal and, in fact, practically all manufacturing and inspection departments. One department, the enameling, is working double shifts.

Even with this peak employment and overtime work, the Oldsmobile production has not kept pace with the demand for cars.

Production and sales of Oldsmobiles since the first of the year have been nearly 40 per cent greater than during the same period in 1927. Both in March and April new high records of production and sales were established, the April production reaching 11,089 cars.

300 M. P. H. Soon Possible.

According to Prof. Low, an English scientist, it will be possible to drive 300 miles an hour in a completely inclosed automobile in the future. The vehicle will consume only half the gasoline cars require today, will be fitted with radio telephone and television, and will be so easy to operate that a driver can see and speak to his friends at home while traveling. Folding wings, he says, will eventually be fitted to cars, thus enabling motorists to make continental and trans-Atlantic trips.

AIR OLYMPICS TO BE HELD IN DETROIT

Aero Engineers and A. S. M. E. to Meet Concurrently June 28-30.

DETROIT, Mich., June 2.—The Detroit Air-Olympics promises to mark a scientific milestone with the announcement that the American Society of Mechanical Engineers will hold its annual aeronautical session concurrently with the Olympics.

Four major events are scheduled for the program that has been arranged by the Detroit Board of Commerce for June 20. They are the National Air Tour, the Gordon Bennett International Balloon Race, the National Model Airplane Contest, and an exhibition of glider flying. The A. S. M. E. convention will hold its session June 28 to 30.

From 500 to 1000 aeronautical engineers are expected to attend the 1928 meeting, including men whose names bulk large in aviation achievements. Among these will be F. Handley Page, famous English plane builder; William B. Stout, head of the airplane division of the Ford Motor Co.; Harold Caminez, designer of the popular engine that bears his name, and Carl B. Fritsche, vice president of Aircraft Development Corp., Detroit. Capt. George Hubert Wilkins of recent Arctic flight fame also is expected to attend.

Six technical sessions will be held, with outstanding authorities slated to address each meeting. The sessions will be devoted to studies in transport, power plant, design, airway and airships, wood problems and a general meeting. The convention opens on June 28, closing with a "field day" at the Ford Airport on June 30. The various events of the Olympics program are awaited by the engineering fraternity as their first opportunity to study all types of aircraft in a single programm.

A big event of the convention will be the annual dinner, to be held on the opening day. This is the meeting at which Capt. Wilkins is scheduled to speak. Alex Dow of Dertoit national president of the A. S. M. E., will preside. Guests of honor will be famous aviators and pilots of the balloons coming here for the Bennett race. A joint session also will be held with the model plane builders at which Prof. A. Klemin of New York University will demonstrate the 20,000-photographs-a-second motion picture film of the Japanese Aeronautic Institute.

The A. S. M. E. has 2000 members. Because of the great program of events arranged for this year's convention, the forthcoming meeting is expected to be the largest in the organization's history.

The National Air Tour will blaze a trail to some 25 cities this year, over a route 6000 miles long. Fourteen states will be visited by the aerial voyagers. More than a score of ships are expected to enter.

Sixteen pilots from eight countries will take part in the international balloon race. Three bags each have been entered by Germany, France, Belgium and the United States. England, Switzerland, Denmark and the Argentine will be represented by one entry each. America has won the Bennett trophy for the past two years. Foreign pilots are putting forth every effort to prevent a third victory this year, which would mean permanent possession of the coveted trophy.

More than 500 boys from practically every state will compete in the various events of the model airplane tournament. Trophies will be given in both indoor and outdoor competitions. Winners in both sections will go to London then to take part in the international contest there.

Oakland Service Men to Wear New Standard Uniform

Garb Is to Be Adopted by Stations All Over Country.

An army of something more than 15,000 men, representing the service station personnel of the Oakland Motor Co. throughout the United States, is being outfitted in a standard uniform.

The new service garb includes one uniform for the "privates" of Oakland's shop army and another for the "officers." The former will wear coveralls of special two-tone twill—powder blue with trim on pockets and collar of dark navy blue. The "officers," or floor men will wear a long coat of similar color and materials. Both the mechanics and the floor men will wear hats to match their uniforms.

According to R. A. Armstrong, service manager for the Oakland Motor Car Co., the decision to uniform his nation-wide organization is the latest development in a unceasing campaign to raise still further the standards of Oakland-Pontiac service.

Oakland Service Men to Wear New Standard Uniform

Garb Is to Be Adopted by Stations All Over Country.

An army of something more than 15,000 men, representing the service station personnel of the Oakland Motor Co. throughout the United States, is being outfitted in a standard uniform.

The new service garb includes one uniform for the "privates" of Oakland's shop army and another for the "officers." Plumber Aids Fat Lady.

When the entire police force of Burbank, Cal., with the able cooperation of the fire department, could not free a fat woman who became stuck in the rumble seat of a parked automobile, a plumber was engaged to cut away the rear of the car's body. She said, "There ought to be a law against those silly little seats."

At Lambert Field

THERE is news of particular importance to St. Louis aviation in the announcement by Postmaster General New last week that the new air mail rates—5 cents an ounce instead of 20, as at present—will go into effect Aug 2.

The reduction will mean a substantial increase in the volume of mail carried on the Chicago-St. Louis route and will assure a heavy shipment on the St. Louis-Omaha route. Further to stimulate the air mail, a special Air Mail Week will be observed on the St. Louis-Chicago route late this month or early in July.

Hugh McNally, traffic manager of the Robertson Aircraft Corporation, visited Springfield and Peoria, last week to arrange for the details of the week, which is to be sponsored by civic organizations.

Knight and Shelton in Crash.

Harry H. Knight, one of Col. Lindbergh's financial backers on the Trans-Atlantic flight and W. Gentry Shelton, who is recovering from a fracture of the ankle suffered in a parachute jump, figured in an airplane crash Monday which, paradoxically, revived Knight's interest in aviation.

A few days after the crash, Knight signed with Parks Airlines for a flying course. He has already had some time in the air, but had grown rusty for lack of practice, which explains why he failed to level off Monday when he and Shelton approached the ground for a landing.

Coming in a bit too steep the Waco-Nine in which they were flying hit and bounced. It came down on one wing and went over on its back with Knight and Shelton underneath. Neither was hurt. About $500 damage was done to the ship, which is the property of Frank O. Watts Jr. Knight took responsibility for the accident and immediately bought another Waco, a Ten, this time, for Watts. The old Waco was traded in on the deal, so that, for this crash at least, everybody was satisfied.

"Maiden Wichita" Traded in.

The first new production plane that ever made its home at Lambert-St. Louis Field—O. E. Scott's Travel-Air—is to be flown back to Wichita this week by Scotty and traded in on a new Whirlwind.

The old ship, in which Harold M. Bixby, chairman of the board of the Chamber of Commerce, has an interest, is the first to be manufactured by the Travel-Air Co. and was accorded the dignity of a name, "Maiden Wichita."

Scott, who is field manager, says the plane has been flown 1400 hours, which would give it a total of about 110,000 miles. Nevertheless it is still in good shape and has been in service continuously.

Girton Expected Back Soon.

Milt Girton of the Von Hoffmann Aircraft Corporation, who is at the Wright factory at Paterson, N. J. waiting for the completion of an overhaul job on one of the Von Hoffmann Ryan broughams, is expected to return during the coming week. He dropped down to Paterson to have his engine gone over after a flight to New York with four passengers.

"Doc" Kinkade Departs.

"Doc" Kinkade, the mechanic who tuned the engines of Lindbergh, Chamberlin, Byrd and Haldeman for their trans-Atlantic hops, left the field Tuesday after a stay of more than a week, during which he overhauled the Whirlwind engine on Oscar Johnson's Travel-Air.

It was Kinkade whom Commander Byrd described in a recent magazine article as a mechanical genius and the man most singly responsible for the success of the trans-Atlantic flights. "Doc," whose real name is R. Harold Kinkade, was with Byrd on the North Pole expedition and is to accompany him this fall on the trip to the Antarctic. For all his eminence in aviation, Kinkade worked almost unnoticed at the flying field.

Robertson May Get New Job.

Dan Robertson, chief instructor for Robertson Flying Services, has been a frequent passenger on the air mail route during the past several weeks and rumor has it that he is being groomed for a job as mail pilot. He has had more than 2000 hours in the air.

East Side Airport Week.

This is Airport Week in East St. Louis and a special campaign is being made to get visitors to Parks Airport. Larry Allen, who has promoted the occasion has arranged for a stage show in one of the East St. Louis motion picture theaters and has arranged to place an airplane on the stage.

As usual the Parks Airlines will give two aerial shows today, the first at 10:30 a. m. and the second at 2 p. m. "Lucky" Jack Merrell will entertain the visitors with wing walking and will conclude the show with a parachute jump. There will also be a travel-air race with Claude Brayton and Frank Wigton contesting. Wigton was the winner of last Sunday's contest.

Won Carnegie Medal.

Wigton, incidentally, is the winner of the Carnegie medal awarded him for landing a burning airplane and two passengers in Ponca City, Ok., in 1923. He was a test flyer for the army during the war and now claims more than 6000 hours flying time.

Parks Airlines, in which he is an instructor, has 96 active students, the largest class of student flyers in the St. Louis district. Seven instructors are kept busy teaching flying at the East St. Louis field.

Road Films Are Offered Free by Federal Bureau

Picture Shows Change of Highway Conditions Over Last 30 Years.

"Wheels of Progress" is the title of a new educational motion picture produced for free distribution by the United States Department of Agriculture. The film compares the highway transport conditions of 30 years ago with those of today and shows the tremendous strides that have been made toward rapid and individualized transit as a result of road improvement and the development of the motor vehicle.

Oldsters will chuckle over the road and street scenes of the nineties. The sedate young society belle in chip bonnet, puffed sleeves and trailing skirts paying afternoon calls in her victoria. Bicycle girls in bloomers and tam-o'shanters—new women they were called—and the more serious male devotees of the wheel in their caps and sweaters. Working men walking to their places of employment, their full dinner pails swinging. High-hatted and frock-coated bigwigs of business entering a marvelous new eight-story skyscraper. The farmer with his truck-laden wagon on his way to the city on market day.

Then the first suggestion of a change! The farmers' somnolent progress is disturbed by a snorting, plunging montrosity, a '98 automobile—accent on the third syllable, if you please—and there is re-enacted the turbulent little scene of familiar memory to those who lived in those wonderful days at the turn of the century. The tooting horn; the shying horse; the irate driver, and the exchange of lurid compliments as the "motor car" passes in a cloud of dust.

The wheel of progress is turning, and as the picture proceeds it turns faster and faster. The sedate young lady of the nineties is now a modern, short-skirted matron who brings her sport model roadster to a stop before a spacious suburban home and trips lightly up the steps. The workman enters his small closed car at his comfortable little suburban home and quickly reaches the factory in the congested city. The farmer, also has learned to drive and his home 20 miles from the city is less than an hour's ride.

"Everywhere everybody rides" reads one title, and then the picture shows the variety of services performed by motor vehicles—from the spotless car of the President of the United States at the White House to the dilapidated machines of a band of gypsies encamped at the side of a road. The various uses of motor trucks, including the fire engine, are also shown.

"Wheels of Progress" is an entertaining and instructive film that will enliven any motion picture program. It is one reel in length and requires less than 15 minutes to show. It is one of the educational films prepared for the Bureau of Public Roads by the Office of Motion Pictures of the Department of Agriculture.

Other films illustrate the methods of constructing the various types of Federal-aid roads, and show the spectacular and hazardous engineering work on the Western National Forest roads. A special series of films, recently issued, and described in detail below, picture the superb scenic attractions of the national parks and the difficulties encountered by roadbuilders while constructing motor-ways into these mountainous areas. Other films show the progress of highway research and tests during the past decade.

All of these motion pictures are furnished free of charge, except for the regular transportation cost which the borrower is expected to pay both ways. They are available to the general public, as well as to State highway departments road organizations, automobile clubs, colleges, schools, churches, theaters and other agencies. In all cases it is necessary that a reliable person assume responsibility for such charges, and for the safekeeping, proper use and prompt return of the films, all of which are of standard theatrical width.

Applications for permission to borrow the films should be addressed to the Office of Motion Pictures, Extension Service, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. Applications should be made as far in advance as possible, and should specify several alternative choices of subjects and dates. The period of loan requested should be no longer than is necessary. Schedules of proposed showings, or other definite information indicating the use proposed for the pictures, should accompany the application.

Divided Front Seat for Victory "6"

Production of a limited quantity of Victory Six sedans, both de luxe and standard models, with divided adjustable front seats, has been announced by Dodge Brothers, Inc., through the Tate Motor Car Co., local Dodge distributer. Essex Mirrors public choice

Here our mirror reflects Detroit—where automobile values are better understood than anywhere in the world—and where the Essex Super-Six outsells any other "Six" by greater margins than any other first choice ever enjoyed.

But the dramatic and startling thing is that no matter where you hold your mirror to the cities, it will show with slight variations, the same overwhelming Essex preference. It is a preference more outstanding than was ever held in the 6-cylinder field, in all automobile history.

World's Greatest Value altogether or part by part

To know the overpowering conviction of greatest value held by Essex owners is merely to see Essex beauty, to examine Essex quality, to sit inside and feel Essex comfort—to ride and know Essex performance.

Here is the simple and sovereign answer to the question of automobile satisfaction.

The ideal transportation achieved in the Greatest Essex Super-Six was long foreshadowed in the series of individual superiorities by which Essex towered above the field, its vivid brilliance of performance reveals in a single ride a smoothness and quiet, a road-skimming ease and soaring exhilaration that is actually like flying.

Greater in power, more versatile in all performance, larger, roomier and more beautifully appointed, the New Essex Super-Six gloriously earns its richer reward in the greatest popularity of Essex history.

CHEVROLET DEALER OPENS NEW BUILDING

Hilmer-Belcher Plant on Kingshighway Cost $150,000.

The Hilmer-Belcher Chevrolet Co., formerly located at 1162 South Kingshighway, held formal opening of their new building at Kingshighway and Vandeventer avenue yesterday.

The new building, costing approximately $150,000, comprises 45,000 square feet of floor space, of which 15,000 square feet will be storage space on the roof, 15,000 square feet on the second floor to be used mainly for service, and 15,000 square feet on the main floor.

On the first floor, facing Kingshighway with a window space of approximately 155 feet, is located the new car display room. This room comprises 4200 square feet of floor space, sufficient to accommodate display of 20 to 25 cars.

The used car display room with 60 feet of window space and with a floor space of over 2500 square feet faces on the Vandeventer side. One of the two conveniently located car entrances provides easy access to the used car showroom.

Offices are just beyond the showroom. To the rear of the offices are located the parts department and the quick service rooms. The parts department, covering close to 500 square feet of floor space, is equipped throughout with the latest improved bins and racks cacording to the specifications recommended by the parts department of the Chevrolet Motor Co. A complete stock of Chevrolet parts is carried.

The quick service department is equipped for the handling of all small repair jobs such as adjusting and washing will comprise a total of 6500 square feet of floor space.

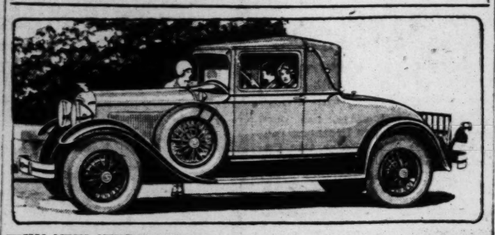
A ramp service leads from the first to the second floor, where all the major repair jobs will be handled.

Another ramp from the second floor to the roof will provide a storage space for used cars. This space will also be used in favorable weather as a clearing house for the service room, where customers' cars may be stored until such time as they call for them.

5-Year Old Drivers.

Due to the failure of the Legislature of Idaho to adopt a proposed new automobile code, after Jan. 1 children as young as 5 years old may drive the family car. Heretofore it has been unlawful in Idaho for any person under 16 years of age to drive a car.

A NEW STUDEBAKER MODEL



THIS NEW STUDEBAKER cabriolet model is now available on the President, Commander and Erskine Six chassis, the factory announced last week.

Pierce Chief Talks On Riding Comfort

To fill the needs of a large percentage of motorists today, an automobile must be fitted with the same degree of comfort and luxury found in the modern home or office, said T. J. O'Rourke, Pierce-Arrow passenger car sales-manager. The modern man and woman spends a big portion of time in a car and it is necessary for them to have every convenience in driving. The Pierce-Arrow sales executive cited as proof of his statement, the outstanding response on the part of the buying public to the new Pierce-Arrow club brougham priced at $2750, at Buffalo.

"The instant popularity of the club brougham is based, I believe, on the fact that it provides every convenience for the man or woman who lives a great deal in a car. An automatic chassis lubrication system operating with a foot plunger, four Houdaille shock absorbers governing the springs, fender headlamps for safety in night driving, controls grouped for ease of handling—these are features of the club brougham which are vastly important to the modern motorist," said O'Rourke.

Safety is another important factor, according to O'Rourke, who showed how Pierce-Arrow has provided this in an engine with fast acceleration that will whisk one out of danger, and in air cooled four-wheel brakes that are extraordinarily positive and powerful.

A Service Schedule.

A good schedule for keeping a car in first-class mechanical condition and operating it economically, is as follows: Twice a year have carbon removed, valves ground, and engine tuned up. Every three months, have brakes inspected, and adjusted if necessary. Twice a year take car to authorized electrical service station and have ignition, starting, and lighting systems inspected, and minor work done. Check lubrication according to the chart.

Studebaker Retail Sales Increasing

SOUTH BEND, Ind., June 2.—Retail deliveries of Studebaker cars by dealers for the first 20 days of May were 23 per cent greater than the corresponding period last year, it was announced here today.

Since September, 1927, every month has shown an increase in the sale of Studebakers over the corresponding months of the previous year.

The rapid progress Studebaker is making in sales is closely paralleled by the progress it has made in establishing new speed and endurance records during the past nine months. The most notable of these records was made last fall when the Studebaker Commander traveled 25,000 miles in less than 23,000 consecutive minutes. Nothing on earth has ever traveled so far so fast.

KEEPING YOUR CAR MODERN IS EASY WITH NEW FINISH

body. The note is echoed a little on the wheels. He hardly knows his own car. He has achieved something new. It is beautiful, it is lively, he no longer owns a black car. Yet the main part of his automobile is just as black as it ever was.

Or he has a sport touring car of El Paso tan. Then, tired of the dusty tan of which he was so proud a year before, he has the fenders lacquered black, the moldings touched with Mountain Ash Scarlet and the wheels accented with the same color. His sport car has become sporty. And yet the amount of change he has accomplished is very small. It is merely that it is a change and a sound change. Not eccentric. But different. There are many motorists who are doing something like this every year.

PLAN FURTHER EXPANSION OF WHIPPET OUTPUT

TOLEDO, O., June 2.—"More than 110,000 Whippet four cars have been built and shipped since Jan. 1," John N. Willys, president of the Willys-Overland Co., said here today. "Orders on file for this model at the present time total 30,000 and we have never been within 20,000 cars of equaling demand since the second week following the announcement of the present prices.

"Extensive plans are being made to materially enlarge the present production schedule on the Whippet four and new factory units are rapidly being completed to take care of this production.

SMALL PLANT HERE TO STAY, SAYS GARDNER

Local Car Chief Argues the Big Organization Versus the Little.

Vast increase of wealth and an astonishing demand and discrimination on the part of the American public for quality and distinctiveness in all their possessions is proving a boon to the moderate size manufacturer in the opinion of Russell E. Gardner Jr., president of the Gardner Motor Co.

In a current public announcement this manufacturer, whose production is confined to eight-in-line automobiles exclusively, asserts that the future of the smaller plants instead of being destined to pass into the hands of a few gigantic organizations, holds a happier role—that they are, and will continue, to play a part especially cast for them by the economic demands of the times.

In the announcement, Gardner quotes Babsom, Forbes, and other economists as unanimous in the conclusion that there is a very distinct place for smaller and moderate size concerns well financed and enjoying capable management.

"There is no doubt," he says, "but that more and more American families want and insist upon having non-standardized, distinctive, custom-made articles. As more and more people become well-to-do or rich, they naturally spend money on things of distinction—things that are different from those owned by people less fortunate than themselves. Women are especially fond of acquiring possessions of the 'exclusive' type.

"Americans, from all reports, have been paying unparalleled prices for books, paintings, and art objects of all kinds in Europe and this country. This is one indication of this trend. One often hears that the specialty shops are much more profitable than the retailers who appeal only to mass buying. Products of new design always go quickly. Fancy overshoes, recently introduced for women, is an example. The zipper overshoe was another.

"In considering the future of the moderate size company, it would be folly to overlook the most important economic factor bearing upon the advantage and disadvantage of the huge organizations versus the smaller ones.

"The most striking example of the inflexibility of a huge company has been furnished by Ford. Having made only one fixed product for years, when it found itself compelled to make a radical change, this organization proved unfortunately lacking in its ability to readjust its functioning within a period that a smaller concern would have regarded as most reasonable.

"The smaller, younger, more alert concern is on tip-toe every moment, keen to switch its activities into whatever style the public desires. It accepts the fact that if it is to survive, it must be capable of moving quickly, of seeing and seizing new ideas, of instantly giving the buyer what he wants. That, fortunately, is our position."

Omitted	126"	Six Sedan	1995
AUBURN	125"	STRAIGHT EIGHT Sedan	1695

If you think this is exaggerated, we invite you to COMPARE and DRIVE the Auburn Straight Eight Model 88 in competition with ANY and ALL of the above cars and SEE FOR YOURSELF. THAT TEST is the ONLY way to make sure YOU will get the MOST for YOUR money.

See what $1695 BUYS;

The strongest frame under any automobile.

Seven inches deep. Three inches wide. And doubled half way back from front. Radiator remains steady at all speeds.

Not six but EIGHT cylinders. And a STRAIGHT Eight at that. More horsepower than any stock car per size. Faster, smoother, more flexible.

Dual carburetors and manifolding. Improved head and port design. Bohnalite steel strut pistons and Lynite rods give maximum efficiency with minimum weight and less pressure on bearings therefore longer wear.

THIS motor stands up and endures at its peak indefinitely. Thermostatic heat control.

Ozone-proof high tension ignition wires.

Wires housed in nickled conduits. Coils mounted to insure they are always dry. Cam and lever type steering. Not even the smallest car steers and parks easier than Auburn.

Transmission, clutch, universal joint and axle have all been improved and brought up to new degrees of efficiency and endurance to be on a par with the greatly increased horsepower of the motor.

Four wheel, hydraulic internal expanding brakes.

Compensating cylinder on brakes. This means the pressure system is connected with an auxiliary supply tank that keeps the braking lines full, insuring instant, easy and positive action at all times.

Bijur chassis lubricating system. One push with foot and you thoroughly lubricate 21 points in the chassis. Only Auburn, Packard and Rolls Royce have this priceless improvement.

Four hydraulic Lovejoy shock absorbers.

Bumper brackets cast integral with ends of the frame vastly increasing its strength and resistance.

Headlamps 13 inches in diameter.

Steering wheel of large diameter but small rim, easier to handle.

Switch lights on steering column with spark and gas throttle. Most convenient arrangement. Of hammered silver too.

Steel running boards. Front of cowl is metal and forms brace between sides. Metal roof quarters. Door frames and door sides are metal covered. Brewster non-glare windshield.

The seating ANGLE is the most comfortable you ever sat at. Try it and see. Upholstery springs are of de luxe type and only genuine curled hair is used.

The controls are most conveniently located. You drive with LESS EFFORT than any other car. Find THAT out for yourself too.

No "reaching" for lever. It is right there. All controls are located on instrument panel including the starter button.

No scuffing of shoes searching for the starter on the floor. If you stop your motor on a hill, keep your foot on the brakes and start with the hand-button. THAT is safety. All pedals are rubber covered to protect ladies shoes.

And you get all of this and MORE for $1695.

But the final test of ANY automobile is WHAT it does and HOW it does it with YOU at the wheel. Compare and drive this Straight Eight Auburn Model 88.

We MEAN it when we say that its value is so great; that it gives so much MORE for so much LESS than any comparable automobile, that all we have to do is to let it SELL ITSELF.

No wonder this Model 88 is selling "like hot cakes"—there never was such a marvelous performing, enduring, car of such overwhelming value offered any where near the price.

If THAT sounds like exaggeration—remember our promise—make the car ITSELF prove it, or you won't be asked to buy.

GOOD FISHING IS FOUND IN ALL OZARK STREAMS

U. S. 61, for good gravel roads, leave the car at this point and wade the river, either up to Victoria or down to Bailey or Soloca and return, and if the water is not too clear have a full creel by late afternoon. Plenty of safe parking space is to be had at Benson's Mill, and there are even several cabins to be rented if the fisherman wants to stay over night.

The channel of this stream is only hip deep, but holes with eight and 10 feet of water are along one shore line, and it is in these places that the large bass are found. This stream, let me repeat, is nonproductive for the shore fisherman.

The Platin has not been tried out as yet this year, but reports say that it is well stocked. In character, it is like the Joachim and specifically a wading stream. To reach it, the fisherman continues on U. S. 61 beyond Festus and 10 miles beyond turns off on State No. 25—the St. Genevieve road. Three miles from the Federal highway one comes upon stream and from this point the stream can be waded for six or seven miles.

There are no other streams in proximity to St. Louis as good as these streams. The Meramec—unless fished in at its upper reaches, from St. Clair and beyond—is good only for bank fishing. For this method of fishing, the Culver and Femme Osage rivers, west of St. Charles, off the Boone Lick road, also are very good at this time of the year, since they have been well stocked by the overflow waters of the Missouri. Some good fishing, too, is being reported had in the little Creve Coeur Lake.

As said before, the best streams are in the Ozarks. Of these, the writer believes the Niangua, flowing out of the Osage at Linn Creek—on U. S. 54, about 25 miles south of Jefferson City—is to be numbered among the best. It has many scenic and angling attractions for the lovers of both. Ha Ha Tonka, Corkery's Mill, Blue Spring, Sand Spring and Bennett Spring State Park, are some of the best-known haunts of this river. The roads leading to these places are all in good condition and accommodations are at least as good as the average. Between Bennett's Mill and Buffalo—on U. S. 54, 15 miles beyond Linn Creek—good fly fishing may be in Grass Creek.

The Current River also is a famed fly-and-bait stream, as well as offering excellent opportunity for the shore fisherman.

Van Buren, in Carter County, is perhaps the logical point for vacationists to establish headquarters while fishing on the Current River. Van Buren is on an excellent highway leading from St. Louis. The route is over U. S. 61 south through Flat River to Fredericktown, thence via U. S. 67 to Poplar Bluff, and west on U. S. 60 to Van Buren.

The Current River at this point is a swift, clean and cold stream, receiving most of its water from the Big Springs overflow several miles away in Big Springs State Park. It is filled with a myriad fish that rise to any sort of bait. Bass are plenteous, as are jack salmon (Northern pike), goggle eye, and the several varieties of bream. And the fishing, by the way is not congested.

There are other Ozark streams which will probably produce as large catches as the Current River, but they are more frequented. Near Houston—on U. S. 63, about 40 miles south of Rolla—splendid fishing may be had on the Big Piney River, with bait and fly. From Hooker, on U. S. 66, about 16 miles southwest of Rolla—a trip may be made down the Big Piney to Waynesville on the Roubideaux, a stream famous for bass and crappie.

Northwest of Waynesville, just out of Swedeborg, are Schlicht Mill and Cave Lodge, both presenting alluring possibilities to anglers. Splendid results also may be obtained by fishing the Gasconade near Hazelgreen—on U. S. 66, 15 miles southwest of Waynesville. Out of Stoutland and Richland, the latter of which is due north of Hazelgreen on a county road, the West Glaize Creek may be reached, and a visit to this particular stream should result in a loaded creel.

North and east of Linn Creek—on the route back to St. Louis—there is good angling out of Bagnell, Tuscumbia and Henley. Farther north, on the Osage, and a few miles east of Jefferson City, is Osage City, out of which a number of excellent fishing holes are accessible.

Between Argyle and Freesburg—on U. S. 63—flows Marais Creek, which is known to many a bait caster as a fine bass stream.

Bourbeuse River—a name which brings the thrill of pleasant memories to those who have fished the stream—strikes the Meramec River near Moselle and may be reached out of Union, St. Clair and St. James on U. S. 66, from St. Louis.

There is little lake fishing in Missouri. Taneycomo, in the southwestern part of the State beyond Springfield, is a good place, but too far from St. Louis unless one has several weeks to pass on the trip. Lake Killarney, three miles south of Arcadia, is the best of the lakes near St. Louis, being only 97 miles distant. It produces bass, crappie and goggle-eye. It is also an ideal place to pass the week-end, good lodging facilities being found at Shroeder's Arcadia Mountain Resort.

Iron Mountain Lake is only fair. Creve Coeur is worse, and that's about the end of the story.

U. S. NO. 70 TO BE RELOCATED IN ARKANSAS

Will Eliminate Flood Conditions Between Little Rock and Memphis.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 2.—Relocation of the low stretch of U. S. 70, the Little Rock-Memphis highway between Brasfield and Dagniar has been assured through action of the State Highway Department in advertising for bids in the project to be considered at its meeting June 14.

Approximately five and a half miles of earth embankment will be the first unit of the road, which will be known as the Brasfield cutoff. It was to be located south of the Rock Island railroad, leaving the present road open to traffic until the new project is completed.

Bids for the construction of concrete bridges will be received at a later meeting. The new section will be graveled as soon as completed and after being allowed to settle a year or two will be paved, Highway Commissioner Dwight H. Blackwood said.

The work involves clearing of 163 acres, grubbing of 87 acres and moving of more than 576,000 cubic yards of dirt. It is a bigger and more expensive project then construction of the Harahan viaduct as far as the cost is concerned because the total cost must be borne by the State while the Federal Government, the City of Memphis and Tennessee share in the construction of the Harahan viaduct.

The stretch of road which the new project will replace has been under water for several weeks at a time since the 1927 flood, which destroyed levees that previously kept backwater off the road.

It has been the basis of political squabbles and debates. When the Broadway of America motorcade passed through Arkansas it was stranded in the mud along the White River bottoms dear De Valls Bluff for several hours due to the detour necessitated by Highway No. 70, the Little Rock to Memphis road, being several weeks under water.

Polish Editors Tour Cadillac Factory

In the course of a tour of the country to gather information for an American edition of "Kurjer Poranny," a national Polish daily newspaper, three representatives of the paper, E. Chwatczynski, B. Mlynarski and M. Pisarek, recently visited the plant of the Cadillac Motor Car Co., Detroit. The special American number is being prepared with the co-operation of John B. NEW HIGH COMPRESSION ENGINE in the Fine Car of Low Price develops 55 H.P. without special fuel

High-compression performance without the use of special fuels! Power generated in a smooth constant flow that has been compared to the steady, stageless pickup of an electric motor! Sparkling acceleration—power—speed for every emergency—high-speed steadiness—marked economy! These are the performance qualities assured by the new, larger, high-compression engine of the new Oldsmobile.

This great new power plant represents years of work and over a million miles of testing on the part of Oldsmobile engineers. They introduced a cylinder head of special General Motors Research design that permits high compression with ordinary fuels. They ribbed the crankcase and cylinder block both horizontally and vertically to prevent distortion and maintain accurate, permanent bearing alignment.

They added those features of advanced engineering in a combination which automotive critics and engineers have pronounced fully two years ahead—such features as crankcase ventilation, controlled cooling, pressure lubrication, oil filter, air cleaner, fuel pump, full automatic spark and thermostatic charging control.

Then, to provide fine-car performance to an even more marked degree, they devised a new method of rubber mounting for the engine—new methods of silencing the chassis and the interiors of the smart new Fisher bodies.

Drive the new Oldsmobile once—and you will know why its brilliant performance has become a matter of common knowledge—why it is being proclaimed all over America the Fine Car of Low Price—and why thousands of buyers today are choosing Oldsmobile.

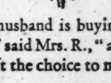
Mrs. R . . . chooses a new car



"My husband is buying me a car," said Mrs. R., "and he has left the choice to me."

She looked over the new Oldsmobile on the salesroom floor, examining the upholstery, the fittings, the finish—and then stood off a little way from the car.

"Frankly," she said, "I had almost decided on one of three higher-priced cars. I had no idea that a car of this price could even compare with them. But you have exactly the same appointments and equipment; the upholstery and finish are every bit as good, and I really think your lines are better."

Then Mrs. R. drove the new Oldsmobile—throttling down to a walking pace in high where the traffic was thick, then swiftly taking the lead when openings appeared.

"Either I have turned into an exceptional driver over night," she exclaimed, "or this is the easiest handling car I have ever been in."

When we returned to the showroom Mrs. R. asked what gave Oldsmobile such handling ease and such performance—and showed keen interest when the new features of Oldsmobile design were explained.

"I see no reason for even considering the larger, more expensive cars," she said finally. "This Oldsmobile very evidently has the self-same qualities—and in a far more convenient size for driving. I have never felt more confident in my ability to meet any driving situation than at the wheel of this Oldsmobile. I like its smart air and the splendid finish of everything. And in addition I have a number of uses for the several hundred dollars I'm saving."

RAWSON MADE MOON PLANT SALES CHIEF

Auto Executive Formerly Was With Stutz and Elcar Firms.

R. A. Rawson, former assistant general sales manager of the Moon Motor Car Co., here the past week, was appointed to be general sales manager of the plant, officials announced yesterday.

Rawson has been active in the automotive field in executive capacities for many years. At one time he was manager of merchandising for Stutz, and in 1925 became vice president of the Stutz Indianapolis branch.

In 1926 he was made general sales manager of the Elcar Co., and in November, 1927, came to the Moon Motor Car Co. as assistant general sales manager.

HOW TO GO ON A TOUR THROUGH OLD DOMINION

flying the Union Jack, will carry the car to that place, but it is more interesting to coutinue on the south banw, through villages that look like bits of old France, to the 67-year-old Victoria Bridge. The royal mountain that is the backbone and the glory of Montreal surves with the river. On it shine the roofs of fine homes, the great bulk of St. Joseph's Oratory and, above all else, a tremendous cross. By night, this is a fairy vision of lights twinkling in a dim, shadowy distance.

Close beside the highway, loud enough to drown out any motor, thunder the rapids, foaming and rushing over awesome rocks.

Once over the long bridge, the motorist picks his way through the old streets of a busy waterfront and climbs the hill to the center of metropolitan life. Architecture likely is the first thing to attract his attention as something different from the States. Public buildings, the older hotels and other structures are: Victorian English; some dwellings and stores are undeniably French; the newer big places bear the stamp of America, but many buildings, notably apartment houses with exposed outside stairways, seem indigenous to this city.

It is necessary only to gaze in a few shop windows to realize more completely the amtosphere of the community. One may display sporting goods peculiar to the climate; the next, clothing direct from Bond street, London, and another the product of a French bakery. One of the nearest approaches to Americanization noticeable is in the syndicated "features" of the newspapers, but these are alongside intimate news of the British Empire that generally misses the press of the States.

Every sign is in French as well as English—"Bureau de Poste" proves on further reading to be the Postoffice. Even the movie subtitles are in two tongues. On the crowded streets, the faces of the people show the rosy cheeks of native Anglo-Saxons, the dark visages of French-Canadians, the occasional features of Englishmen and Frenchmen, and surprisingly few Americans. If many of the women do seem to lack style sense, the men sport sticks and bowler hats. The matter of liquor, sold under Government regulation, does not obtrude itself, and the signs of "biere" and "beer" appear as just a part of the pitcure. It is only when some overly exuberant American makes a foolish spectacle of himself that the traveler is reminded forcibly of the contrast with home.

There are fine hotels, one claiming to be the biggest in the Empire. All sorts of interesting restaurants, from French to kosher, are available. People dress for dinner, and the big cafes indulge in flunkeys in knee breeches. The stores are excellent, whether art or a topcoat is sought, but some of the prices seem high. Living costs are not bad for those on vacation, however.

As good a way as any to get a first acquaintance with the city in one's own car is to get the Convention Bureau's log and follow it about the queer old thoroughfares and the handsome new ones. It leads past a startling number of churches, Catholic and Protestant, and of religious schools and the like; into a beautiful suburban district, up Mount Royal, among charming residences which look over a great spread of the river valley; into the old city of history, past Mount Royal Park, where only horse-drawn cabs may drive; through St. James street, the Canadian Wall street; across the Place d'Armes, where stands the imposing statue of Maisonneuve, founder of Montreal in 1642; to old Notre Dame Church, a masterpiece of Gothic design and old-fashioned, huge interior, and to the vine-clad Anglican Cathedral.

No visit to Montreal is complete without going to St. Joseph's Oratory, which is a gigantic church high on the west side of the mountain, growing slowly with the years. It was founded as the result of the power of one Brother Andre as a Miracle Man in healing the sick and the lame. The ascent from a terraced garden is made on 150 stone steps, which hundreds of the faithful climb on their knees daily, devoutly praying as they go.

Montreal has many miles of good streets and an efficient trolley system, where the fare is 7 cents by day but 10 cents after midnight. It is about as big as St. Louis, claiming a population of 1,000,000 in the metropolitan area, but Canada has fewer automobiles in proportion to people than the states, and traffic there is less congested and more leisurely than here.

These are but fleeting glimpses of some of the attractions, charms and vistas of a truly "different" city. A visit there will long be remembered.

Brockman Talks At Meeting of Service Chiefs

Col. Phil H. Brockman, president of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association, and distributer of the Peerless car, told members of the Service Managers' Bureau of that association Thursday night that "the customer must be pleased regardless of cost" in the automobile business as well as in the restaurant business. He was quoting the slogan of a St. Louis downtown restauranteur.

Brockman was the principal speaker at the monthly meeting of the Service Managers' Bureau and was introduced by Capt. Robert E. Lee, managing director of the bureau, as the only man who ever served four times as president of the Automobile Dealers' Association of St. Louis. Brockman spoke of co-operation within and without the service shop and the efficient repair of motor cars so as to please customers and profit dealers.

Girard C. Varnum, general manager of the St. Louis Safety Council, warned his hearers against permitting any carelessness among mechanics repairing motor cars. "There is the possibility," he said, "of leaving out a cotter pin or omitting a nut which might bring about a terrible accident and fatalities and all because the mechanic forgot or the inspector was careless." He showed how highway accidents and hazards made for sales resistance for motor cars.

Lee explained the workings of the St. Louis Traffic Fine Bureau, which is shortly to be instituted by the police and the city courts. Resolutions were passed on the recent death of Joseph J. Madden, service manager for Willys-Overland, Inc. Nearly 100 service managers for as many automobile dealers attended the meeting, which was presided over by James Hershfelt, service manager of the Vesper-Buick Auto Co., who is chairman of the bureau.

Angelica Auto Co. Opens New Plant

The new sales and service building of the Angelica Auto Co., Oakland-Pontiac dealer, at 4231 North Grand boulevard was formally opened yesterday morning. The building, recently erected at a cost of $75,000, is one story high and built of brick. It has a frontage of 64 feet on Grand boulevard and a depth of 114 feet.

The original building of the Angelica Auto Co., at Twenty-first and Angelica streets will be continued in operation as a storage garage, repair filling station and tire store, according to Charles M. Burmeister, president of the firm.

At its new sales and service station the firm has a showroom 64x38 feet, facing on Grand boulevard, to display seven automobiles. Alongside the building is a lot 52x114 feet which is to be used in the display of used cars.

Charles Burmeister is president and treasurer of the company, and William Burmeister Jr., is secretary.

Lambert-Graves Buys Kingchester Car Co.

The Lambert-Graves Motor Car Co., Oldsmobile distributer in the St. Louis metropolitan territory, the past week purchased the Kingchester Car Co., Olds dealer, at Manchester avenue and Kingshighway, of which A. J. Brock was president.

The company will be continued in operation under its old name, and W. W. Miller, former branch manager for Lambert-Graves retail store, 2233 Locust boulevard, has been made manager in full charge, according to Sam B. Lambert, president.

5 Record Months

THE GREATEST IN 20 YEARS OF WILLYS-OVERLAND HISTORY

MAY SALES SET NEW HIGH MARK

With May reaching a new high peak—Whippet and Willys-Knight sales continue to mount, month after month, week after week, day after day.

The five months just completed were by far the greatest in all Willys-Overland history. In spite of the fact that April had produced the greatest sales on record, May established a new mark with an increase of 14% above the previous record-breaking month.

The perfected Whippet Four, at greatly reduced prices, is a tremendous national success. The new Whippet Six—the world's lowest price six-cylinder motor car—is paralleling the Whippet Four in popular acceptance.

The recently announced low price of the Willys-Knight Standard Six has resulted in greatly increased demand for this splendid car. Sales of the Special Six and the Great Six continue in unabated volume.

Come in and see the Willys-Knight and the Whippet Four and Six lines. And for early delivery it will pay you to place your order now.

The Tire Supreme

Firestone

Gum-Dipped TIRES

HOLD ALL WORLD RECORDS for Speed, Safety and Endurance

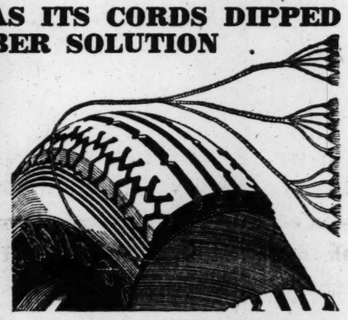
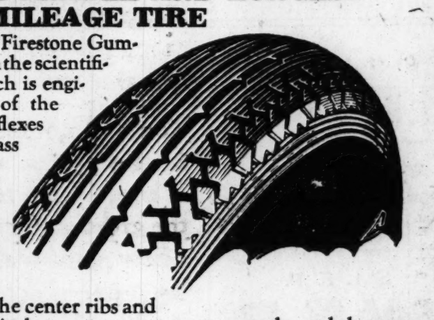
How has it been possible for Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires to sweep aside all the old records in every field of motoring and set up an entirely new standard for judging speed, safety, endurance and mileage? Such outstanding performances on all types of cars and commercial vehicles, on brick, board and dirt speedways as well as under the same everyday driving conditions that every motorist meets, could only be brought about by the most advanced tire engineering the world has ever known. Never before in history have such feats been accomplished, because never before have there been tires so perfectly designed for each motoring need—with such balanced construction from beads to tread—with every part of the tire engineered to function perfectly in the service for which it is built.

THE ONLY TIRE THAT HAS ITS CORDS DIPPED THROUGH A RUBBER SOLUTION



Here is a single cord from a Firestone Gum-Dipped Tire untwisted to show how it is composed of small cords and strands. It takes millions of cotton fibers to make up these cords for a tire, and each must be thoroughly insulated with rubber to prevent friction and heat, in the carcass—the greatest enemy to long tire mileage. Firestone engineers found that by dipping the cords of the tire carcass in a rubber solution, every fiber of every cord is saturated and insulated with rubber, adding the greatest flexibility and strength, and unifying the whole structure of the tire. Gum-Dipping made the Full-Size Balloon Tire practical by adding the extra strength for the extra flexing strain. That is why Firestone Gum-Dipped Balloons—the original low pressure tires—have held outstanding leadership for more than five years.

THE MOST DURABLE AND LONGEST MILEAGE TIRE



The amazing mileage of Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires results from the scientifically designed tread which is engineered to the contour of the Balloon Tire carcass—it flexes uniformly with the carcass at every point of contact—it is compounded of the toughest, most wear-resisting tread rubber possible—this tire does not weave or sway under load. It does not rut wear and because of the center ribs and provision for rubber displacement, wears more evenly and longer than any tread in the world.

THE SAFEST TIRE

Experienced race drivers will not trust their lives or risk their chances of victory on any other tires. Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires have enabled drivers to make higher speeds, with safety, than ever before possible. Imagine the terrific strain, pressure and flexing imposed upon Gum-Dipped Tires when Ray Keech recently broke the world's record at more than 207.5 miles per hour. Yet following the race the owner of this car wrote that the tires were in perfect condition.

The tread of the Firestone Gum-Dipped Balloon Tire is scientifically designed for low pressure giving the greatest amount of non-skid when it comes in contact with the road. This is the result of its great flexibility, permitting the tire to yield freely and cling to the road. Notice the narrow rider strips and small non-skid projections which permit this tread to flex freely with the new Gum-Dipped carcass.

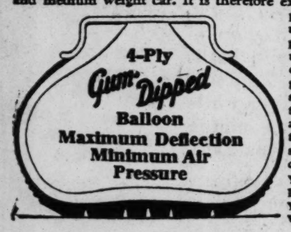
THE MOST COMFORTABLE TIRE

The world's first practical low pressure tire—the Full-Size Gum-Dipped Balloon, was pioneered and developed by Firestone. No manufacturer has ever been able to duplicate this tire, either in the low, comfortable pressure it accommodates, or in the amazing mileage records it has established. Only Firestone has been able to give motorists true balloon tire comfort, absorbing every obstacle in the road without sacrificing long mileage.

A Firestone Gum-Dipped Tire That is Supreme for Every Class of Service

For Light and Medium Weight Cars

This tire is designed and engineered to the needs of the light and medium weight car. It is therefore extremely flexible, of limited ply construction, made unusually strong by the extra process of Gum-Dipping and uniformity in cure. It is generously over-size and will give you greater comfort, safety and economy than any tire in the world of heavier and more bulky construction. Do not decrease your speed, increase your gasoline consumption or wear out your tires prematurely by putting a heavier tire on your light or medium weight car.



For the Heavy Car

Firestone has also designed a special tire with extra plies of cord fabric and heavier and tougher tread, especially for heavy cars. Naturally, this tire requires additional air pressure, and while the carcass is Gum-Dipped and flexes uniformly under load, yet its degree of deflection is less because of its heavier carcass, thicker tread and necessary higher air pressure.

For Commercial Cars, Trucks and Buses

For motor vehicles of still greater weight and carrying capacities, the carcass is made still heavier, using from six to fourteen plies (depending on size) of cord fabric and a thick heavy tread. This tire is also Gum-Dipped by the special process and makes this tire more flexible and durable than any other tire in its class, yet it is engineered especially for commercial vehicles. This is the best tire that money can buy in its class, but if you want comfort, safety and economy of operation on passenger cars don't use this thick, heavy tire.

The Mark of Quality

Indianapolis 500-Mile Race

Decoration Day, May 30, 1928, for the 9th consecutive time, Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires won the famous Indianapolis Sweepstakes.

207.5 Miles Per Hour—The Fastest Time Ever Made On Wheels—Made On Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires

Ray Keech, driving the enormous and tremendously heavy 36 cylinder 2500 h.p. Triplex Special, on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires, set a new world's record when he averaged 207.5526 miles per hour at Daytona Beach, Florida, April 22, 1928.

Frank Lockhart did not have his car equipped with Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires—and no other cars in the speed trials at Daytona Beach were Firestone equipped, except Ray Keech's car.

Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires Have Won Every National Championship Race Since 1920

Dave Lewis won 200 mile race at Atlantic City, in 1927, at average speed of 130.58 miles per hour without a stop—on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires.

One-Half and One Mile Dirt Track Records

Frank Lockhart made an average of 80.826 miles per hour in a 100-mile race at Cleveland, in 1927, breaking all dirt track records, on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires.

Car Owners' Records

H. A. Porter, New York City, writes he is amazed at Firestone mileage. He has driven his car 42,000 miles on Firestone Gum-Dipped Balloons, including trip from coast-to-coast.

G. T. Meinzer, Chicago, Ill., has driven 53,586 miles on a set of Firestone Gum-Dipped Balloons and has just equipped with a new set of these wonderful tires.

Eugene A. Boether, Lodi, Calif., calls Firestone mileage "phenomenal." A set of Gum-Dipped Balloons on his car have run 57,000 miles and he states they are good for 5,000 more.

Coast-to-Coast Passenger Car Record

Ab Jenkins, in 1927, drove his Studebaker Commander on Firestone Gum-Dipped Balloons, from New York to San Francisco for a record of 77 hours and 40 minutes.

Coast-to-Coast Truck Record

"Cannon Ball" Baker, in 1927, drove a 2-ton GMC truck, fully loaded from Atlantic to the Pacific—3,693 miles in 137 hours and 36 minutes. This fastest and longest truck run on record was made on Firestone Gum-Dipped Heavy Duty Pneumatics.

Endurance Record

In 1927, three Studebaker Commanders, (two roadsters and a sedan) on Firestone Gum-Dipped Balloons made 25,000 miles in less than 25,000 minutes. The roadsters finished in elapsed time of 22,968 minutes, or an average speed of 65.31 miles per hour; sedan finished in 24,200 minutes, or 61.98 miles per hour.

At Atlantic City, April 23, 1928, two Studebaker Dictator Roadsters, on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires, finished 5,000 miles in less than 5,000 minutes. The first roadster finished in elapsed time of 4,751 minutes, or an average of 63.138 miles per hour; the second finished in elapsed time of 4,892 minutes, or an average of 61.312 miles per hour.

Passenger Bus Record

The Black Diamond Bus Line, Brownsville, Texas, report a set of Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires on a 20-passenger bus, ran over 83,000 miles.

Johnson Storage & Distributing Company, Fort Worth, Texas, received 63,000 miles continuous service on set of Firestone Heavy Duty Truck Tires.

Taxicab Record

Harbor Taxi Co., Ashtabula, Ohio, report over 61,000 miles service on a set of Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires.

William R. Rothwell, Detroit, Michigan, taxicab operator, drove 71,000 miles on a set of Firestone Gum-Dipped Balloons.

ELEVEN-STORY G. M. RESEARCH UNIT PLANNED

New Detroit Building Is to Occupy Entire City Block.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, June 2.—The Argonaut Realty Corporation, a subsidiary of the General Motors, announces that bids have been asked for to construct an 11-story building to be occupied by the General Motors Research Division.

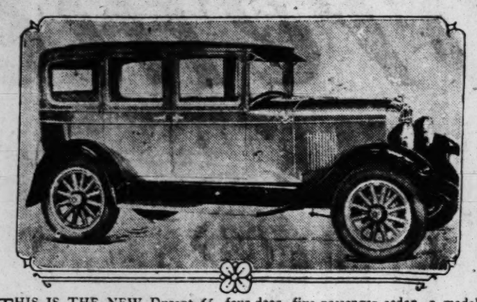
The building will contain approximately one-half million square feet of floor space, including the basement. It will occupy the entire block on Second boulevard, extending 210 feet on Milwaukee and 180 feet on Baltimore streets. It will be connected with the General Motors Building by a subway under Milwaukee street. The material to be used will be brick with limestone trim and polished granite base.

On the Second boulevard side will be a show room two stories high, the balance of the first and second stories to be occupied by United Motors Service.

The present Research building, at the rear of th Geeneral Motors Building, will be absorbed for office purposes by General Motors Corporation, its divisions and subsidiaries. This building has not met adequately the needs of the research organization since that division moved to Detroit from Dayton, O., three years ago, and concentrated all of its operations here. "For the last two years the research activities have been spread over three different buildings.

Officials of General Motors Corporation are intensely interested in the work of the research department, considering it one of the most important activities of the corporation. The desire to bring all of the work under one roof, in proximity to the main office of the corporation, and the unsuitableness of the present Research Building for many of the research experiments, prompted the decision to erect a separate structure.

THE NEW DURANT 65 SEDAN



THIS IS THE NEW Durant 65, four-door, five-passenger sedan, a model which performed very successfully in a test trip the past week. The line is on display by the Central Star Sales Co., 2929 Locust boulevard, and by other dealers of the line here.

Durant 65 Sedan Performs Well on Ozark Test Trip

Little Car on 110-Inch Wheelbase Can Speed Along at 65 M. P. H., and Is Extremely Powerful on Hills, Observer Finds.

By the Auto Editor.

The past week the writer took one of the speedy little Durant 65 models out on a test run through the Ozarks. The car, a five-passenger sedan, was provided this department through the courtesy of Earl W. Ferris, president of the Central Star Sales Co., Durant dealer on Locust street.

The Durant 65 models are termed Silver Anniversary models, and represent the concentration—during the months since he came "back on the job to stay"—of W. C. Durant's 25 years' experience in the automotive industry. The outstanding features of this new Durant car is its unit powerplant rubber-mounted, which pushes the car along at 65 m. p. h.

These new Durant models are distinguished by their clean simplicity of line, and the smart originality of color combinations. Riding comfort in keeping with the handsome appearance is assured by long springs, four shock absorbers and deep, well-shaped seat cushions.

The entire 65 line is mounted on a very short chassis. Only 110-inch wheelbase. With in mind, consider the fact that it not only is capable of 65 m. p. h., but can be held at this speed for mile after mile. Most cars of that wheelbase would be hard to keep on the road steadily at 55 m. p. h. The answer to the Durant's easy driving is its almost perfect balance, coupled with an extremely low center of gravity.

Aside from its speed on a straightaway course the car is a great little hill climber. Some of the toughest hills in the Ozarks were taken at high speed with the car in high gear and there was no evidence of faltering.

The powerplant has six cylinders and is of the L-head type, the head being detachable. It has a 2⅞-inch bore and 4¾-inch stroke. Its total piston displacement is 185 cubic inches, and it develops 47 h. p., at 2800 r. p. m.

The matter of gasoline consumption is another thing worthy of comment. The Durant 65 motor is exceptionally economical. A total of 8½ gallons of gasoline were consumed on the 200 miles the car was driven. Thus about 23 miles to the gallon were averaged.

Finally, acceleration should be commented upon. The getaway is exceptionally speedy, 45 m. p. h. speed can be acquired in second gear, and after high gear is entered the car can be sent along at the rate of 10 miles per hour increasing speed per each 9 seconds. In other words, if the car is traveling at 45 m. p. h. in just nine seconds a 55 m. p. h. speed can be had. That's the basis of a good sales talk for Durant salesmen.

Used Car Market Improving, Dodge Officials Believe

Improved conditions in the used car market are evidenced by the delivery of approximately 5718 used cars by the Dodge Brothers' dealer organization in the United States last week, according to W. F. Hufstader, director of used car sales. A turnover of used car stock is being maintained once every five and one-half weeks by the company's dealers.

"Automobile dealers are realizing that the used car is essential instead of a necessary evil in the conduct of their business," said Hufstader, "and they are paying much more attention to the sale of this type of automobile. They are reconditioning the used cars, offering guarantees on performance and using many unique merchandising plans.

"Enterprising dealers are making every effort to take used cars in on trade at a fair value rather than at inflated prices simply to get a new car sale. Expert appraisers are able to estimate a car's value closely approximating the market conditions, and dealers are realizing that a sale isn't really complete until the car traded in is disposed of."

The used car situation over the country is showing great improvement, according to Hufstader. Since the first of April there has been a decided movement of cars from the hands of dealers. Used car sales are reported "heavy" from the New York, San Francisco and Boston districts. Sharp upward trends have been noted in Indianapolis, Denver, Milwaukee, Washington and Des Moines, while a steady improvement continues in Kansas City, Memphis, Seattle, Dallas and Detroit.

$6,330,000 GAS TAX PAID TO STATE IN 1927

Auto Club Secretary Shows How the Money Was Spent.

Motorists of Missouri paid a total of $6,330,983 in the form of tax on gasoline in 1927 at the rate of two cents per gallon, according to Matthew F. Morse, secretary of the Automobile Club of Missouri.

"This amount," according to Morse, "constitutes the proportion the State collected of the total of $258,966,851 in revenue produced by the gasoline tax throughout the United States last year."

"Of this total amount, $182,095,503 was available for the construction and maintenance of State highways under the supervision of the State Highway Departments and $55,440,161 was apportioned to counties for local road purposes. All but 4 per cent of the next receipts were allotted for road purposes, including the payment of interest and retirement charges on highway bonds. The yield of the tax constituted an important contribution to the total highway revenue," he said.

Morse said that the tax was collected in every state but Massachusetts and New York, the rate ranging from two to five cents per gallon.

A. C. Peters Made Sales Promotion Chief for Nash

New Executive Was Associated With Packard for Thirteen Years.

KENOSHA, Wis., June 2.—Announcement was made today by H. M. Salisbury, export sales manager of the Nash Motors Co., of the appointment of A. C. Peters as export sales promotion manager.

Previous to joining the Nash organization, Peters was associated for 13 years with Packard, three years as their traveling foreign representative and the last three years as sales and advertising manager of Packard Motors Export Corporation of New York City.

During the last six years Peters has devoted his entire efforts to automobile merchandising in the export field. His record being one of unusually successful achievement.

Two-Car Families Increase.

Figures available today show that 1,700,000 families in the United States now own two or more automobiles and there is every indication of a continued increase. Consequently, motor car manufacturers are regarding this rapidly growing second car market with significance.

Many Visit U. S. Parks.

The number of visitors to the national parks and monuments during the travel year ended Sept. 30 reached a total of 2,797,840, according to a statement issued by the Department of the Interior today. These figures exceed by 482,935 the high mark of 2,314,905 reached last year.

Hup Head Describes New Motor Points

Smoothness of performance, a feature generally recognized as reaching its supreme expression in eight cylinder automobiles, is ascribed by Hupp engineers in the case of their Century Eights cars in large degree to the compactness of the motor installed in this model.

The Century eight engine measures a fraction less than 31 inches over all and is said to be the shortest straight eight engine used in the industry.

This exceptional compactness, the engineers explain, is made possible by a combination of several engineering details, prominent among which are a unique arrangement of the eight cylinders and a special crankshaft design.

"The arrangement of cylinders in pairs," says Frank E. Walsh, engineer of the Hupp Motor corporation, "permits the use of a much shorter crankshaft and makes a straight eight motor more compact than any other eight-line motor.

"The Hupmobile Century [illegible] L-head engine is the shortest power plant ever devised in this [illegible] Because of its compactness it eliminates tendency to crankshaft distortion and vibration and yields superior performance and [illegible] life."

Despite its comparative shortness the Hupmobile Century [illegible] crankshaft is one of the heaviest known in the industry. It weighs 99½ pounds, or about 50 per cent more than the average crankshaft designed for the same work. Its weight and rigidity, together with its exceptionally fine balance, the engineers claim, are further aids to this engine's super smoothness.

DEMAND FOR U. S. CARS INCREASING

Auto Chamber Figures Show 40 Per Cent Gain in Exports.

An advance of 40 per cent in consumption of automobiles of U. S. Design in the markets of the world is reported in the March figures as compared with February by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

The March world-consumption figure was 71,251 while the total for the first quarter, was 163,653. The total for the entire year 1927 was 640,500. The first quarter of 1927 was 150,195; but the strong showing of March this year leads to the expectation in the industry that the first half of 1928 will register a marked increase over last year.

This total of world consumption is the figure now being generally used in the automobile industry in place of the term "exports" because of the change in practices of operation and merchandising. Not more than 60 per cent of the U. S. cars bought abroad are actually shipped in complete form from U. S. ports. Hence, the export figures are only a partial picture of overseas trade. To this figure one must add the assemblies or cars abroad, and also the production of American automobiles in factories in other countries.

Among the reasons for the continued demand for motor transportation abroad, in the opinion of American motor makers, is the growing attitude of teamwork to promote more markets for all nations. Since there are only 29,500,000 motor vehicles in the world for 1,800,000,000 people, the first job of the various nations is not competing with one another, but in joining together in enlarging the total volume of motor sales, in which all will share.

In this connection, Dr. William Scholz, general manager of the Associated Automobile Manufacturers of Germany, is in this country studying promotion methods of the industry. He has been spending some time in Detroit where the American manufacturers have invited him to visit the plants at will, and make note of the production methods. Following this, Dr. Scholz will spend a week at the headquarters of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce in New York, where he will have an opportunity to see in detail the operations of that body in its various departments.

Malcolm Campbell To Handle Auburn

AUBURN, Ind., June 2.—Captain Malcolm Campbell, famous English race driver, who set a world's record for speed by driving his 12-cylinder Bluebird 206.956 miles an hour at Daytona Beach, Fla., is now affiliated with Auburn, Malcolm Campbell, Ltd., London, having been named distributer of Auburn cars in England.

Campbell, the sensation of the beach speedway, in his 900 horsepower Napier Bluebird, in February smashed the record made by Segrave in 1927 of 203.79 miles an hour, setting a one-way speed of 214.79 miles an hour. Subsequently, however, his record was beaten by Ray Keech, American.

Its features, too, are Chrysler features—obviously superior.

Spring ends anchored in blocks of rubber instead of the usual metal shackles. Four-wheel hydraulic brakes always perfectly equalized for safety. Seven-bearing crankshaft in perfect balance, etc., etc.

Why not get the feel of the Chrysler "62"? Your first experience will thrill and delight you. Every time you drive it, you'll endorse it.

WHAT'S NEW IN CARS AND EQUIPMENT

UNUSUALLY SMART LINES characterize the new Falcon-Knight Grey Ghost speedster, soon to be on display here by the De Luxe Motor Car Co., local distributer. It accommodates 4 passengers. Note the top on the rumble seat.

Roadster Added To Moon Six Line

The Moon Motor Car Co. has announced the 1929 standard roadster, priced at $1295, factory. The standard 6-72 is a brand-new line, constructed on the same luxurious lines of the 6-72 Royal, but created to meet a popular price demand.

The 6-72 standard roadster is available in three color combinations—Chinese red and black, green and fawn and blue and straw—these color schemes being set off by ivory door panels. The entire upper surface and offset panels of the rear deck are finished in a contrasting color to that of the body. Fenders are full crowned and are finished in a lustrous black enamel, as are also dust and splash aprons. Aluminum step-plates on rear fender and spring horn provide entry to rumble compartment.

The front and rumble compartments of the car are finished in pigskin pillow-type upholstery. The top is of khaki and is trimmed in leather to match upholstery. Top bows are in natural wood with nickel plated supports. Instrument board is in two-tone burl walnut effect, ivory striped. Instruments are grouped in a single glass oval, indirectly lighted.

New Falcon Roadster Announced

Announcement of a new Falcon-Knight "Gray Ghost" speedster was made here this week by executives of Falcon Motors Corp., builder of the Falcon-Knight line of 6-cylinder cars. This new model, according to the officials, strikes a new note of accomplishment in the production of modish cars. The Deluxe Motor Co., distributer here, will display it shortly.

The new car is finished in a two-tone gray. All the hardware and trappings are nickeled while the genuine pin gray leather upholstery adds materially to the smartness.

The collapsible top is a special Burbank type, wind and rain proof. The front floor boards and running boards are covered with pyramid aluminum matting.

A rumble seat is built into the rear deck and accommodates two extra passengers. Following the distinct innovation first introduced in the original "Gray Ghost" speedster last year, the new model also has a special canopy over the rumble seat which provides protection from sun and rain. When not in use the rumble seat with the canopy folds compactly into the rear deck.

New Car for Studebaker Line

Three new cabriolet models available on the President, the Commander and the new Erskine six chassis are announced by Studebaker Corp. All three models are characterized by extremely low and graceful body lines, and are finished in new, attractive color combinations.

The President and Commander models seat four passengers, comfortable seats for the extra two-some being provided in the roomy rear cockpit. Ample luggage space for bags and golf clubs is available in the rear deck of the Erskine cabriolet, as well as in the side-opening luggage compartments of the President and Commander.

The new President state cabriolet is an unusually distinctive car. The long 131-inch wheelbase, the length of the hood over the 100 horsepower straight eight motor, and the graceful curve of the rear deck accentuate its beauty. Other features are a smartly tailored top with landau bows, deep window reveals, broad body belt finished in contrasting color, and a new cadet type visor. The wide crown fenders

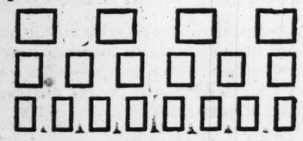
now leads the industry
in straight-eight production and sales

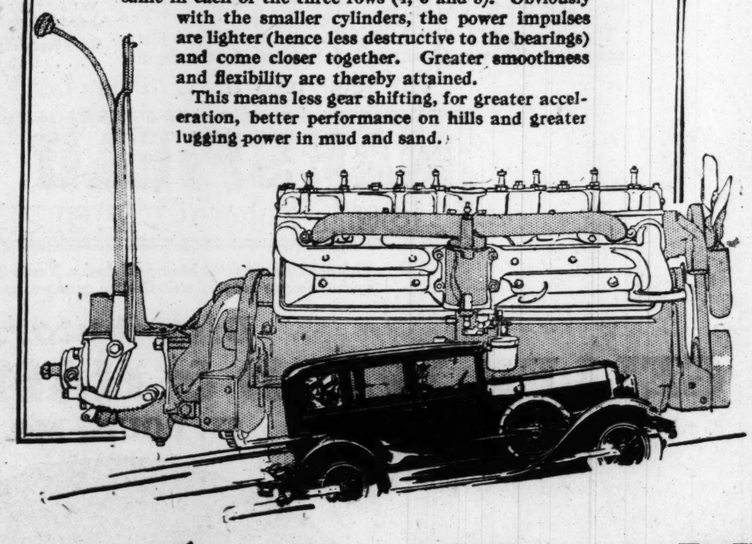
First the Four—Then the Six
now THE STRAIGHT-EIGHT

Years of engineering research, the experience of the Speedways and the evidence of nearly 25,000 Marmon straight-eights now in the hands of owners give proof conclusive that straight-eights do out-perform any other type of motor equipment.



The diagram shows how the power output of an engine may be divided. The total area of the rectangles is the same in each of the three rows (4, 6 and 8). Obviously with the smaller cylinders, the power impulses are lighter (hence less destructive to the bearings) and come closer together. Greater smoothness and flexibility are thereby attained.

This means less gear shifting, for greater acceleration, better performance on hills and greater lugging power in mud and sand.



1st PLACE is never an accident. Over a period of months Marmon has entrenched itself in first place among all producers of straight-eights by offering two new cars which, in beauty, performance and comfort, surpass anything that has been offered to date at anywhere near the price.

Here are a few of the more important facts:

A new kind of power and pick-up that your previous car has not had—far more snap and go. That's due to a strictly modern, perfectly-carbureted, straight-eight engine that produces more power per cubic inch of displacement and more power per pound of car weight than any other car we have record of.

Riding quality that gives new significance to the Marmon slogan of years' standing—"the easiest riding car in the world." That's accomplished by long, flexible springs that monopolize all but about 20 per cent of the wheelbase length; spring ends mounted in large rubber knuckles, rather than metal shackles; and Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers instead of the conventional snubbers.

Easy to handle, easy to park. Short turning diameter enables you to turn completely around, without reversing, in the ordinary street. That's because the straight-eight design permits a narrowing of the frame in front.

Economical to operate. Uses less gas than any six of corresponding power. That's because of the modern high-compression type of motor in which every atom of gas is converted into actual power.

Everything about these cars spells extra value.

Extra-rigid frames.

Running boards of steel—rather than wood.

Four wheel brakes that afford more actual braking surface per pound of car weight than most other cars.

Cooling and lubrication designed not merely for ordinary driving but for the hardest conditions of mountain and desert.

The low, modern appearance that everybody wants. Lots of room for five passengers. A wealth of appointments and conveniences never found before in cars of similar price.

RADIO HEARING FRIDAY, JUNE 8, IN KANSAS CITY

Federal Commissioners to Confer With Broadcasters in Mid-West States.

Broadcasters of Missouri and Kansas who have been notified that their licenses will not be renewed, and others likely to be affected by other changes that the Federal Radio Commission will make in reallotting wave lengths and power permits, may discuss the matter with Commissioners Pickard and Sykes in Kansas City next Friday.

The two commissioners have arranged the following schedule: Tomorrow, in Chicago; Wednesday, at Des Moines, Ia.; Thursday, at Lincoln, Neb.; Friday, at Kansas City, Mo.

They plan to take up especially plans for consolidating stations, dividing time and removing transmitters from cities to the country.

The Chicago conference tomorrow is likely to be the most heated, for Illinois is slated to lose nearly half of its stations and a number of wave channels.

A total of 91 stations in the fourth zone, in which are both Missouri and Illinois, have been notified that their licenses will not be renewed unless they can show good cause why the commission should be lenient.

Three St. Louis stations have been told that the commission sees no valid reason why they should continue on the air. These stations are KFQA, of the Principia; WMAY, of the Kingshighway Presbyterian Church, and KFWF, of the St. Louis Truth Center. KFQA and WMAY are on the air only an hour Sunday nights. KFWF broadcasts Sunday and Thursday nights regularly and occasionally goes on the air several nights a week.

KWKC, Kansas City, and KGBZ, St. Joseph, Mo., also must show cause or get off the air. WMAY, KWKC and KGBZ are 100-watt stations. KFWF is authorized to use 250 watts. KFQA is licensed to use 1000 watts.

The largest Illinois stations which have fallen under the ban are WMBB-WCBD, Homewood, 5000 watts, and WTAS, Elgin, 3300 watts. Both are really Chicago stations. WLIB, which WGN, Chicago, uses to hold the 405-meter wave, and WQJ, which WMAQ, Chicago, uses in the same fashion, also are slated to go off the air. Other Illinois stations affected by the order are:

The usual variety concert will be broadcast from the stage and studio of the Capitol Theater, in New York, at 5:20 over KSD.

The Biblical drama of David and Bathsheeba, the first part of which—the king's falling in love with Bathsheeba and the plot to do away with her husband, Uriah—was broadcast last Sunday night, will be concluded at 7:45 this evening over KSD.

As will be recalled last Sunday night the drama progressed to the point where Uriah was sent by David to the Israelite army carrying the instructions that would insure his death. The radio audience will be taken to the seige of Rabbah, where Uriah is thrust into the forefront of battle and slain.

The old prophet, Nathan, however, has learned the secret of Uriah's death. He bides his time until after King David has married the woman of whom he became enamored when he saw her bathing in the pool in his garden. Thus it happens that the love of the two is shattered when their son dies in fulfillment of a prophecy by Nathan.

Superheterodyne Logic.

Where three stages or more of intermediate frequency amplification are employed in a superheterodyne, the receiver will be found to function best when the filaments of the intermediate tubes are operated on four volts or less for the 201-A type of tubes. In some cases the reduction of the "B" voltage on the intermediate stages will also increase the sensitivity of the receiver to a remarkable degree. The principal effect, however, is increased stabilization—a virtue conspicuous by its absence in superheterodynes of average design.

NOTED NEGRO SINGERS TO BE KSD FEATURE

RADIO TRADE SHOW LIKELY TO SET RECORD

Special Train Will Be Run From St. Louis to Chicago Next Sunday.

Indications are that the second annual radio trade show at Chicago, which will open Monday, June 11, will draw fully 25,000 manufacturers, jobbers and dealers to the elaborate exhibits that will not be open to the public.

Arrangements for a special train to the show have been made by W. P. Mackle, executive secretary of the St. Louis Radio Trades Show, whose delegation will be headed by its president, Julian Sampson. Mackle also has reserved a number of rooms in the Hotel Stevens, where the show is to be held. Radio dealers outside of St. Louis, especially those in Missouri, Oklahoma, Arkansas and parts of Illinois whose railroad connections are naturally via St. Louis, are invited to travel on this special train, which will depart at midnight next Sunday. Mackle is desirous of getting the reservations for train and rooms in immediately.

How to Go to Show.

"A dealer can relieve himself of all details," says Mackle, "by sending name, address and business connections to W. P. Mackle, St. Louis Radio Trades Association, 207 Syndicate Trust Building, St. Louis, and writing if he will go on the special train and if he wants a room reserved. Dealers who do this will find their tickets for train and berth awaiting them at Union Station, St. Louis, and on arrival at Chicago will be met by a reception committee. They also will find their rooms reserved and their show credentials at the Stevens Hotel. Dealers who are not going Sunday night can have rooms and show tickets reserved by the association by sending their names to us."

Added interest will be lent to the show by the holding of conventions in Chicago by the Radio Manufacturers' Association, the Federated Radio Trades Association and the Radio Wholesalers' Association.

"I'm always welcomed back.. Mansfield mileage is the answer"

THE MANSFIELD SALESMAN

"I GET a hearty hand and a big, broad grin from every man who handles Mansfields. Because, Mansfields are just that kind of tires. They make friends for me, because they make friends for the dealer.

"I know! I'm continually in touch with motor car dealers, garages, tire and accessory shops and hardware stores! I sell them hundreds of other things—bolts to bicycles, files to fences. Our selling cost covers all these items. Mansfield's share is very small.

"The savings of this low-cost selling come back to you in a better, longer mileage tire. You get better tires, safer tires, longer mileage-tires, than you could possibly have at ordinary tire prices.

"Take my word for it! Mansfields are more than just good tires. They're great tires! Try them. A year from now you'll be amazed at the story of tire mileage your speedometer tells."

You can't build thousands of extra miles into a tire without spending thousands of extra dollars. Mansfield tires do cost more to build. And this added cost of production is saved for you by the record, low-cost distribution effected through selected hardware wholesalers throughout America.

In Mansfield you get tires that actually cost more to produce .... at no added cost to you.

Helpful Information about RESORTS and TOURS

The Post-Dispatch Resort and Tour Bureau has entered its fourth year of greater usefulness to the traveling public in St. Louis and the Great Southwest. Each year's added experience, in personal contact with thousands of travelers, has developed a constantly increasing efficiency for the Bureau and a greater ability to render better service.

Preparations for the Season of 1928, which were under way for months, are now complete. Bureau employes have accumulated up-to-date information. Map makers have collected the most recent available facts about highway construction; railway and steamship companies are notifying the Bureau of every schedule change as soon as it is made; resorts, hotels and camps have supplied new information and every other possible avenue of information has been explored and facts recorded so that the Post-Dispatch Resort and Tour Bureau of 1928 is now better equipped than ever before.

What Are Your Vacation Plans?

Do you want to go North, East, West or South—near or far? Do you want to travel by train, steamboat, steamship or automobile? Whether your plans are definite or indefinite, the Post-Dispatch Bureau will help arrange all details. Railroad, sleeper, steamship or hotel reservations will be made if desired. The best automobile routes and interesting side trips will be suggested.

This service is free—the Bureau has nothing to sell except some very handy and reliable state maps which sell for a dime each, an atlas of the United States which sells for half a dollar, St. Louis and Vicinity Maps which sell for 20c and a St. Louis Street Guide which sells for 25c, but you will not be urged to buy any of these unless you want them.

The opening session of the Radio Manufacturers' Association

LEADERS AT RADIO TRADES SHOW

Tuesday morning, June 12, will bring addresses by C. C. Colby, president of the R. M. A.; Ira E. Robinson, chairman of the Federal Radio Trade Association; Earle C. Anthony, president of the National Association of Broadcasters; Harold J. Wrape of St. Louis, president of the Federated Radio Trades Association, and Merlin H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Co., which operates Stations WEAF and WJZ and furnishes programs for the Red and Blue networks. Wrape will preside over the sessions of the Federated Radio Trades' Association and the Radio Wholesalers' Association.

The annual R. M. A. banquet will be held Thursday night. There will be no speeches, but a number of nationally known radio and stage entertainers will take the places of the usual orators. Graham McNamee, Philips Carlin and other well known announcers are to be at the microphone, as it is planned to broadcast from the banquet between 9 and 11 p. m. Among he artists engaged for the banquet is Charles Marshall, tenor of the Chicago Opera.

Paul B. Klugh, vice president of the Zenith Corporation, has been made chairman of the reception committee.

The show committee is headed by Maj. Herbert J. Frost of New York, vice president of the Kolster Radio Corporation, and the actual management of the show is in the hands of G. Clayton Irwin, one of the managers of the annual radio shows that are held each fall in New York and Chicago.

Activity in Broadcasting.

This activity on the part of radio men is having a wholesome effect upon the radio business during the summer. The fear of a summer slump is abating considerably and hopes for a continued steady business during the summer months rose higher when it was learned that advertisers who have been using the chains of the National Broadcasting Co. will almost without exception continue to broadcast on a regular schedule. The reason is that the NBC will hold out no hope to an advertiser that should he drop his broadcasting during the summer, he could get back on the air with as satisfactory a time period in the fall.

(1) H. H. Frost, chairman of the Radio Manufacturers' Association Show Committee. (2) C. C. Colby, president of the R. M. A. (3) Henry C. Forster, chairman of R. M. A. Convention Program Committee. (4) Harold J. Wrape of St. Louis, president of the Federated Radio Trades Association. (5) M. H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Co. (6) Bond B. Geddes, executive vice president of the R. M. A. (7) C. Clayton Irwin, manager of the Chicago Radio Trades Show. (8) M. F. Flanagan, executive secretary of the R. M. A.

Examination for Radio Service Men on Tuesday

Trades Association Sponsors Move to Improve Repair and Maintenance Work.

The first step toward improving radio service work in St. Louis will be the examination by the St. Louis Radio Trades Association of service men who work independently and for dealers. This examination will take place Tuesday at Hotel Mayfair.

The purpose is to raise standards of work and workers. Men who qualify in the first examination will be given registration cards signifying that they are recognized by the Radio Trades Association. As radio service workers whose knowledge and work is up to a definite standard.

Following the examination, there will be special instruction on many departments of service work and on characteristics of new equipment coming on the market.

Special review examinations are to be held so that the instruction will be stamped on the service workers' minds.

The new activity is in charge of the Technical Committee, of which George W. Van Sickle Jr. is chairman.

The V-Shaped Antenna.

For best results the antenna should run in a straight line, but, if the antenna is stretched from one corner of the front of the house to a pole in the center of the rear, and from there to the opposite corner on the front, very good results can be expected. The lead-in should be taken from one end of the wire at the corner of the house.

Y. M. C. A. Quartet to Sing Daily on KMOX

A male quartet is to sing each morning at 6:50 and at 7:20 o'clock in the inspirational period of the Y. M. C. A. Health and Happiness hour on KMOX next week. The quartet will replace the talks by St. Louis business and professional men. It will sing sacred music under direction of George W. Campbell, general program director for the Downtown Y. M. C. A.

Campbell, who recently came to St. Louis, was formerly director of the Omaha Apollo Club and the Chicago Y. M. C. A. College Glee Club. Other members of the quartet are Damon Kerby, Howard Jackson and Wayne Bowers.

The string quartet will be featured during the Roxy's Stroll broadcast at noon today. Its members are Yascha Bunchuk, 'cellist, who plays a $30,000 instrument; Henri Nosco, first violinist, who comes from France; Ovadi Julber, second violin, and Max Pilikoff, viola. They will play the Canzonetta from Mendelssohn's string quartet.

Viola Philo, soprano, and Harold Van Duzee, tenor, will sing a duet from "Carmen." Douglas Stanbury will sing "The Pauper's Drive," and Gladys Rice will sing a ballad with the Roxy male quartet.

This feature may be tuned in on KYW, WOC, WHO or KVOO.

New G. M. Series On KSD Tomorrow

The first of the summer series of General Motors family parties will be broadcast tomorrow evening over KSD at 7:30. The length of these concerts has been reduced from one hour to one-half hour for the summer, but the number of stations in the network will remain the same—32.

A distinctive program of French music will be given in commemoration of the exploits of Cadillac and LaSalle, the French explorers whose names are linked in the history of early Colonial days with the development of the great American-Canadian territory contiguous to Detroit.

To Improve Tone of Cone Speaker.

The tones from a cone speaker can be improved by fastening the instrument to the beam of the ceiling. All cones can thus be improved by increasing their vibrating surface, although the large sizes show the most gain. A beam ceiling is ideal as a means of making this addition, as it provides the necessary air space behind an open type cone and causes the ornamental beauty of the whole to be increased rather than detracted from. The hardwood floor of the room offers similar possibilities, to which the pedestal or base can be securely fastened; also mantelpiece, panel walls, or in fact any extended wood surface to which rigid accoustical connection can be made. One or more wood screws should be used to effect the connection, the mounting block or base of the speaker being held to the surface firmly.

When a receiver fails to operate despite the fact that all tubes are lighted up, trouble may be found in the batteries being run down, defective tubes, eliminators not giving correct voltages, or broken connections.

Seek Way to Put Scenery On Air in Radio Plays

French Broadcasters Trying to Devise Sound Effects That Will Help to Create Complete Illusion.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, June 2.—The curtain is going up at the "radio theater"—that is if researchers of French wireless engineers are successful.

Broadcasters want to put the whole theater on the air, even the scenery. Noises to indicate back drops, wings and borders are being sought. Convinced that such easily produced effects as a pistol shot and a dull thud do not break the monotony of continuous recitation, experimenters desire to develop a series of sounds that will send an entire scene over the ether.

They tried a one-act sketch, "The Last Valois," but encountered many unforeseen difficulties. Not only was the "scenery" rather scant, but what there was of it often conflicted with the spoken words. Result—a tranquil episode in a tranquil spot came out of the loud speaker like a mob scene.

This led to the conclusion that actors must have "radio voices" just as movie stars have "camera faces."

"The radio voice is one whose wave is most nearly horizontal," said an official report of the performance.

"Rich vibrating voices can not be transmitted. Flat dry voices are perfectly audible. In a sketch like the one we have given the sound for scenery is super imposed on the voice. Voices must stand out clear and distinct from the setting or the performance will fail."

STATION CUT IS NOT EXPECTED TO AID LISTENERS

celed, 50 are of less than 100 watts, 45 are of 100 watts, three of 150 watts, two of 200 watts, 24 of 250 watts, one of 300 watts, 23 of 500 watts, two of 1000 watts, one of 1500 watts, one of 3500 watts, and one of 5000 watts.

In other words, 134 of the stations notified never have figured as interference factors, and probably never would, except possibly to local listeners with unselective receivers.

Of the 28 stations notified that use 500 watts or more power, three are merely dummy broadcasters, that is, they are merely used as auxiliary or stand-by transmitters for a principal station under the same management. That is true of KFKX, WLIB and WQJ. At least one of the stations is a daytime broadcaster only.

United Military Band, at 8:15 o'clock:

Of course, elimination of even 20 stations of 500 watts or more power is bound to result in some improvement, but the elimination of many such stations, or the requirement that they divide time, will be necessary before there will be a real improvement, the engineers say.

In eliminating the 134 stations under 500 watts, about the only thing accomplished by the commission was to reduce the number of paper licenses, they contend. But at least one end will be served, they add. That will be to determine the extent the commission may go in reducing or eliminating stations.

Illinois is most affected by the notices sent out by the commission, 38 stations having been warned. New York is second with 15.

Opposition Expected.

Many members of Congress, particularly those from sections affected, are expected to oppose the attempt of the Radio Commission to eliminate 162 broadcasting stations.

Most of the stations are expected to attempt to prove that they are serving a public interest, and they are soliciting the support of their Senators and Representatives in persuading the commission of their value.

It is not believed at the commission that all of the stations warned will be eliminated. It is thought that in all probability some of them will be able to show reason why they should be permitted to continue. But the burden of proof will be on them.

The notices were sent out by the commission in extending to Aug. 1 the licenses of stations which expired on June 1.

The commission has set Monday, July 9, in its offices in Washington, as the time and place for a hearing for stations protesting their elimination.

Saturday—Beulah Crowell's Federated Juniors.

'Singing Fireman' on KMOX Thursday

Howard Melaney, the "Singing Fireman," is to broadcast over KMOX next Thursday.

While he sang always while he worked, because he liked to sing and liked his work, Melaney never had an idea that his voice would entertain others until one day, while busy on a locomotive at the Miles City station, he looked up to see an assemblage of passengers applauding his song which he intended only for himself.

Soon afterward he was induced to go to Minneapolis, Minn., where he was introduced to officers of WCCO radio station. He sang for them.

That afternoon the listeners of the Northwest heard the "singing fireman" for the first time. Since then Melaney has sung at many radio stations and his bookings are to take him to many others in the next few months.

Radio Experts Placed Contracts for 400,000 Majestic Sets—

Why?

Leading distributors of radio, the real experts, who have millions of dollars invested in the distribution of radio—who are "made" or lose their all according to the judgment they use in picking merchandise—were invited to the Majestic factory. They came to Chicago, these men—the most critical audience, perhaps, that ever gathered for a radio demonstration and, because they had so much at stake, perhaps the most skeptical audience as well.

They saw Majestic, they heard it, they compared quality and prices with every known make of radio receiver now on the market or announced for the coming season. And within five weeks they signed contracts for 400,000 Majestic all-electric radio receivers!

They sought the best, the finest, and the most economical radio FOR YOU—the millions of radio fans who wish beautiful radio, exceptional reception, yet at a modest price—and they contracted for 400,000 Majestics to be distributed to you through leading retailers the country over.

When YOU see Majestic, when YOU hear Majestic, when YOU marvel at its simplicity of construction, its selectivity, its amazing tonal qualities, brought to you through the Majestic dynamic power speaker, your only question will be this: "How can Majestic produce such wonderful values at such low prices?"

The answer is simple. Everything about Majestic IS Majestic—cabinets, chassis, speakers, power units—everything is made from beginning to end in the six great Majestic factories, and every Majestic set has 94 different inspections covering every individual part of the set, as well as the completed instrument operating under actual broadcast conditions. Then it is ready to be delivered to your dealer, and eventually to you.

Radio descriptions have run the gamut of the dictionary. Superlatives in print have come to mean nothing. It is what you see, what you hear and what you KNOW that counts. When you see Majestic, when you hear Majestic, when you price it—then YOU'LL KNOW it is the radio receiver you have been wanting and the radio receiver you can afford.

Radio Trade Notes

The Atwater Kent plant, the largest in the radio industry, recently went on a new production schedule that was 500 a day larger. The Atwater Kent Co. reports that it is turning out 1250 sets and speakers a day at a time when ordinarily the radio manufacturing business is at a standstill. The factory turned out 200,000 receivers and speakers in the first four months of this year. The company will produce its two millionth set this fall. New machinery is being installed in the 15½-acre plant at Germantown, Pa.

The United Radio Corporation announces a new Peerless dynamic speaker in three models, each with a rectifier element providing for light socket operation, and each able to handle the output of any tubes. The 7-A cone speaker is continued in its Gothic cabinet. A new model is a built-in speaker table using the 7-A speaker. One of the Peerless dynamic speakers is in a Gothic cabinet. Another is in a built-in table model. The other is for manufacturers to install in consoles.

Jules W. Beneke Co. has been appointed factory representative for the new Tyrman "50" portable receiving set. This is a 5-tube model, using one shielded grid tube, and has a self-contained loop.

A basic radio patent, which is said to cover a principle used in suppressing oscillations in nearly every tuned radio frequency receiver in use today, has been granted to Joseph D. R. Freed, president of the Freed-Eisemann Radio Corporation. He has turned the patent over to the Freed-Eisemann Co. The patent is granted for "means of eliminating reactive coupling in radio circuits." It concerns a bypass condenser method. Millions of sets to be made this year are alleged to be using the method covered by the patent.

Further details about the Flewelling short wave adapter, to be used with any radio set, are coming through from the A. C. Dayton Co., which has bought the rights to manufacture it. Hitherto such adapters have been plugged into the detector socket of a set, thus using only the audio stages of the receiver. It is reported that the Flewelling adapter is plugged into the first socket of a receiver, thus benefitting by the radio frequency amplification as well as the audio stages. Anyway, the adapter is said to have made possible reception of the new Dutch station operating on the 32 meter channel, as well as rebroadcasting of programs from 5SW, England.

The adapter is in two types. One is for use in battery or eliminator sets using the 201A tubes, or in AC sets having a 226 AC tube in the first R F stage. The other model is for use with receivers using 227 AC tubes in the first RF stage, or it can be plugged into the detector socket of any standard AC set.

Three coils, covering the 21-25 meter, the 30-36 meter and the 55-65 meter bands, on which is most of the short-wave broadcasting activity, come with the adapter, which should reach St. Louis within the next two or three weeks.

"Every indication points to a trend toward the dynamic speaker and the 250 tube during this season," said Hal P. Shearer, general manager of the Splitdorf Radio Corporation, at a recent meeting of Midwest jobbers. "In fact, I may go so far as to say these are the outstanding developments of the season.

"The engineers assure me that the 250 has a greater carrying capacity than the 171 or 210 tube, with a greater possible undistorted response on low notes. In non-technical terms, the 250 has greater 'handling' power. I might explain this by likening this 'handling' to the manner in which a high-powered automobile operates. Such a car distributes its power well and it is the reserve that causes the smooth running of the engine. So, too, in radio. There is less chance for a tube like the 250 to permit distortion on any frequencies, high or low. The low is generally where the trouble comes."

Several new Balkite products, in addition to the new receivers, are to be exhibited at the Chicago radio trade show June 11. Among them is to be the Balkite "Symphion." Secrecy has been maintained as to the "Symphion," but the Fansteel Products Co. says regarding it that "we believe the Symphion to be the greatest instrument in music."

RADIO SCHOOL FOR ADULTS IS BRITISH PLAN

Courses in Broadcast College With Group Listening Recommended.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 2.—Education by radio for adult listeners is proposed by the British Broadcasting Co.

The plan is an outgrowth of talks to schools which have been broadcast for some time. A special committee, which has been studying the possibilities of adult education over the air, has recommended establishing courses in what might described as a radio college.

The committee members say introduction of the regional station scheme, which provides that the broadcast transmitter in Great Britain be replaced by five high-powered stations, will provide a favorable opportunity to start educational programs without cutting down entertainment programs.

A British university is considering the advisability of granting degrees to listeners who complete specified regular courses.

A system of group-listening is recommended, such as already exists in connection with British schools, to which lessons in music, history and languages are being broadcast, and examinations held.

Among All Sixes In St. Louis because of the value they provide

In placing the Oakland All-American and Pontiac first among all sixes and combinations of sixes in St. Louis and St. Louis County for the first four months of 1928—

St. Louis motor car buyers display a preference for these two great General Motors cars which clearly reflects the buying tendency throughout America.

And this widespread tendency to buy Oakland and Pontiac Sixes in ever-increasing numbers in turn reflects the value which these two cars provide.

Here are two sixes which represent the most advanced type of engineering design. Here are two sixes which offer the discoveries and developments of General Motors Research Laboratories together with the stamina and endurance acquired on General Motors Proving Ground. Here are two sixes that enjoy all the advantages of Fisher bodies in roominess, staunch construction and modern American style. Little wonder that they are making such rapid strides toward leadership in St. Louis and in every city and village in the United States.

Right here in St. Louis, Oakland sales for the first quarter of 1928 were 100 per cent greater than Oakland sales for the corresponding quarter of 1927. And for the same periods Pontiac sales were 96 per cent greater this year than last.

The causes for these tremendous increases are to be found only in the impressive values which Oakland and Pontiac Sixes provide. Come in. See them and drive them and you will surely agree!

FINE weather is all that is needed the summer outdoor season of o which starts tonight, a most auspici the Garden Theater on the Olive Street a great adventure of presenting musi here, for several years Shakspeare, a attract enough cash customers to mak night, on the vast stage in Forest Pa it gets going with a big production o a cast of well-known artists, many o ark organization.

Sinclair's opening bill at the Gard success, "Sally," in which the comical M asons. Errol, and other members of e present presentation.

Altogether it looks like a big sum public. The Municipal company wi weeks are scheduled at the Garden. The Municipal Theater alone expec an 600,000 persons during the 12 cess of $400,000.

ASED on Anthony Hope's popular n of Zenda," and now known, for mu cess Flavia," the opening week's ounds in all the color and romance read 30 years ago and with the dra ay such a hit.

Harry B. Smith contributed a rring libretto around which Sig und Romberg, one of America's st fertile composers, has woven rich light opera score. The pro ction, one of the largest ever ered in New York, opened in w York at the Century Theater 1925 and enjoyed a run of more a year.

Because of the scale upon which was staged, it was found im acticable to take it upon the d, but Municipal Opera with chorus of 56 St. Louis boys and s and a symphony orchestra of can produce it on a scale even eeding that of New York.

THE story of the novel has been consistently adhered to, unfolding the romances, adventure and ghty exploits of Rudolph Rassendyl in a mythical kingdom. As most every reader will remember, assendyl, because of his similarity face and figure, is mistaken for Crown Prince of Ruritania, by the Prince's own courtiers. aders of the novel will also re mber the really exquisite scene parting in which Rassendyl, ing protected the life, honor, dignity of the distressed Prin Flavia, has at last his final ing with her at the scene of rst meeting in the forest of ania.

ere it was that he first spoke moving line to Flavia. "I could thee, Love, so well, loved I not more." She then supposed to be the Prince, but in the when in the last memento of ng Rudolph speaks the line the Princess throws herself his arms knowing who he is,

Second Thoughts on First Nights

By Allison Smith

NEW YORK, June 2.

THE silly season this year is late in starting. There is a hallowed, if unwritten tradition that along about the middle of May all theater-goers, capable of the slightest cerebral reaction, vanish as if by magic from Broadway, leaving the stage to those amiable, dumb and perspiring audiences who are incapable of understanding any sentiment more profound than "Vo-do-dee-o-do." There are "Follies," "Scandals," "Vanities" and "Gaieties" now in rehearsal but thus far the actual opening of the revue season has been as retarded as the dogwood in the woods that are 45 minutes from Broadway.

There has been, however, the familiar entrance cues for those familiar offerings which can turn any period of the year into a silly season if they arrive in close enough numbers. There was, for instance, that Monday night a week ago which brought in "Get Me in the Movies," "Skidding" and "Dorian Gray."

From time to time an idea gets abroad among our restless farce-makers that it would be real funny to burlesque Hollywood. For once, however, in the face of the most recent effort to ridicule the silent drama the movies have scored heavily. For there isn't a director in all Hollywood who would accept a scenario as futile, as silly and as devoid of all comedy sense as the piece which slowly unwound itself under the faintly ominous title of "Get Me in the Movies."

WITH humorous and slightly malicious intent, it strives to depict a typically hilarious evening with the screen stars. Its big comic situation is based on the fact that the violent and perfervid author of a scenario called "Scorched With Passion" turned out to be Sterling Holloway.

This white-faced and attenuated young man, whose touseled yellow head gives him the general aspect of a frightened chrysanthemum, has emerged from the Garrick Gaieties where his agile dancing and gift for mimicry were apparently enough to arouse the optimistic suspicion that he had the makings of an excellent comedian. While the play lasted, this assumption seemed a cruel error though any brief derision on this point is unjust to Mr. Holloway after brief consideration of the play.

For it is one of those rapid-fire farces whose humor may be fairly represented by the moment when the scenario writer is asked "What's the high point of your play?" and answers (amid side-splitting laughter), "A peak in the Rocky Mountains." It drags out such illuminating contributions to movie satire as the baby-talk ingenue who is a tough girl in real life and the siren who is ordered to "slink" by her doting mamma.

Our loyal efforts to follow the plot were complicated by the frantic hope that the hard-working if baffled young leading man might finally stop these tiresome gyrations and sing "In My Mountain Greenery" again. There were moments when we suspect that Mr. Holloway hoped so, too.

SO THE last laugh comes from Hollywood where the exports can be bad indeed, but never quite as bad as this one. A little experience in the allied arts of the stage and screen often does disclose the amazing fact that the stage at its worst can produce atrocities undreamed of on the studio lot. You are spared the spoken lines, for one thing. And when the movie plot grows unbearable, you can always look at the scenery.

THE same week brought "Skidding," a Drama League prize winner and a mildly engaging picture of life in an Idaho town. The title concerns the difficulty these days in keeping the family as an institution together, in other words, in keeping it from skidding on the dangerous thoroughfare of our present century. This hardy, though not particularly illuminating idea, made for a fairly amiable evening with Marguerite Churchill doing more than her share to give the cast—and the story for that matter—a semblance of reality that had its basis in sheer sympathy for the character she played.

THERE was also, on that same night, "The Picture of Dorian Gray." This masterpiece was transported from Wilde's novel to the stage of the Biltmore without spilling a single epigram. The lines are all there and the characters and for the most part, the incidences of this most sinister of fantasies.

Through the freakish perversity of most adaptations, however, the entire quality of the tale has been changed. The fiendish Sir Henry Wotten has been turned into a benign and somewhat stuffy granduncle and the ravishing and de-

Summer Opera Starts Tonight

Garden Theater to Be the First to Get Under Way With Production of the Musical Comedy "Sally" With Leon Errol in His Old Role While the Season of Municipal Offerings on the Stage in Forest Park Starts Tomorrow Evening With "Princess Flavia" Being Done on a Big Scale.

FINE weather is all that is needed now to make the opening of the summer outdoor season of operas and musical comedies, which starts tonight, a most auspicious one. This evening out at the Garden Theater on the Olive Street road, Charlie Sinclair begins a great adventure of presenting musical shows on the pretty stage there, for several years Shakspeare, and things like that, failed to attract enough cash customers to make the effort pay. Tomorrow night, on the vast stage in Forest Park, the Municipal Opera season gets going with a big production of "Princess Flavia" presented by a cast of well-known artists, many of whom are new to the Forest Park organization.

Sinclair's opening bill at the Garden will be the former Ziegfeld success, "Sally," in which the comical Leon Errol starred for several seasons. Errol, and other members of the original cast will be in the present presentation.

Altogether it looks like a big summer for the amusement-loving public. The Municipal company will stay on for 12 weeks, while 10 weeks are scheduled at the Garden.

The Municipal Theater alone expects to play to a total of more than 600,000 persons during the 12 weeks with cash receipts in excess of $400,000.

BASED on Anthony Hope's popular novel and play, "The Prisoner of Zenda," and now known, for musical purposes as "The Princess Flavia," the opening week's attraction in Forest Park abounds in all the color and romance that made the novel so widely read 30 years ago and with the dramatic intensity that made the play such a hit.

Harry B. Smith contributed a stirring libretto around which Sigmund Romberg, one of America's most fertile composers, has woven a rich light opera score. The production, one of the largest ever offered in New York, opened in New York at the Century Theater in 1925 and enjoyed a run of more than a year.

Because of the scale upon which it was staged, it was found impracticable to take it upon the road, but Municipal Opera with a chorus of 56 St. Louis boys and girls and a symphony orchestra of 50 can produce it on a scale even exceeding that of New York.

THE story of the novel has been consistently adhered to, unfolding the romances, adventure and chivalry exploits of Rudolph Rassendyl in a mythical kingdom. As doubtless every reader will remember, Rassendyl, because of his similarity in face and figure, is mistaken for the Crown Prince of Ruritania, and by the Prince's own courtiers. Readers of the novel will also remember the really exquisite scene in a garden in which Rassendyl, having protected the life, honor, and dignity of the distressed Princess Flavia, has at last his final meeting with her at the scene of their meeting in the forest of Zenda.

Here it was that he first spoke the burning line to Flavia, "I could have, Love, so well, loved I not thee more." She then supposed him to be the Prince, but in the garden in the last moment of the play Rudolph speaks the line and the Princess throws herself into his arms knowing who he is.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE.

NEW YORK, June 2.

IF it wasn't so hot I'll bet a cookie I could think up a neat wheeze about the New York woman who has a motor coat made from the hair clippings of her kennel of prize-winning dogs.

Nothing so utterly prostrates New York as a sudden shower. Business comes to a full stop. People herd, in the manner of sheep and cattle in a storm, under the awnings and in doorways. And they will not move until the skies clear.

New York's Avenue A was immortalized in a song, "The Belle of Avenue A." Now it's no more. Its name has been changed to York Avenue.

An actor whose eccentricities have brought him much publicity —which was the idea—recently went to a night club, stopped proceedings and read a chapter from the Bible. He then presented the volume, which had stamped on its cover "Property of the Hotel Blank," to the hostess and the hilarious night clubbers thought that certainly was a hot one.

Out our way a crowd that would stand for such sacrilege would be called "white livered," and it is a peaceful and not particularly religious community at that.

Mark Twain, observing humanity in his ripe maturity, remarked that it might have been a good thing if Noah and his family missed the boat. I feel that way lately.

The world in general, and New York in particular, has grown entirely too snippy. If it were not for my people, I'd be astraddle a camel and trekking off somewhere across the Sahara at this moment.

Just when I feel I might be amounting to something, the wind is taken out of my sails. Today I ran up against one of those marine-trained movie ushers again. My resolve to get a seat I had paid for was completely knocked into a cocked hat by his uppishness. I found myself following him, poodle fashion, to stand up with the rest of the morons behind a rope until he decided I might sit down.

If I were the Barrymores I think I would be pouty, too, at the play "The Royal Family." No one seeing it doubts at whom it is aimed. It is a satire that sends audiences away with an unholy disgust for the original of the stage caricatures.

Walter Winchell tells of a boy friend taking his girl into a drug store to purchase some cough drops for her cold. The clerk was out of cough drops and suggested: "Why don't you try menthol?"

"Oh," she explained, "I am all right mentholly!"

How to Kill Off a Movie Star

Jannings Being Kept in Same Line of Parts Too Long And Public Is Already Tiring of His Somber Dramas After Seeing Three of Them—Hollywood Wakes Up and Begins to Take the Talkies Seriously, While a Hunt Is On for Screen Stars Who Can Speak as Well as Act.

AS might have been expected Emil Jannings' newest picture, "The Street of Sin" which was shown at the Ambassador last week, did not attract the attention of the customers to the extent that the earlier offerings of this star did. Jannings, a fine actor, probably the best actor playing before the cameras, is quite likely to be ruined as a box office card in much the same manner as other popular stars have been ruined. He made a tremendous hit in his first films shown in this country playing the part of a downtrodden man in a somber, heavy story. Immediately Hollywood seized upon him as the man to play those sort of roles always but unless he gets a different type of drama quickly he will be relegated to the discard and the movie magnates, never very far sighted, will dismiss the matter with a word or two to the effect that "the public is tired of Jannings."

Bill Haines, a young star of great promise, has been tremendously hurt by the same sort of policy. Bill was put into a picture in which he played a Smart Alec type of young man and made a hit. Since then he has played no other sort of part and the public is tired—not of Haines but of the parts he plays.

It will be too bad if Jannings goes the same way. Here is a great actor—and a great actor can play anything. The producers should take warning from the way things went at the Ambassador last week and give him another sort of a part to work with. True he has not the personal appearance to play sheiks but there are other types in which he would appear to advantage and he is too fine an artist to be lost to the screen at a time when fine artists are few and far between.

CONSIDERABLE has been said in these columns lately about the coming of the talking films and now, all of a sudden, comes the word that Hollywood has become voice conscious. Out there one sees studios heretofore devoted to nothing but silent drama bustling with preparations for sound pictures, and one hears casting directors grumble: "Sure, she's young and she's beautiful, but where's her voice? We gotta have voices in this business."

To picture-goers who have been looking at and listening to sound-pictures for the past year this sudden interest in voices may seem to have developed rather late in the game. The fact is, however, that most producers have been content to sit back and wait, or experiment quietly, while watching the public's reaction to Warner Brothers' Vitaphone productions and the Movietone news reel introduced by Fox.

Apparently nearly everyone has been convinced that the sound-picture is really coming, for First National has drawn up an ambitious sound-program for the year, including the filming of a grand opera, "La Tosca," and a musical comedy, "Okeh;" Paramount-Famous-Lasky, FBO, Universal, United Artists and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer have announced their intention of going into sound-productions before autumn; Johnny Hines plans to explore the comic possibilities of sound-films by giving his next picture, "The Girl Friend," a voice; and others are taking one look at the hand writing on the wall and calling for estimates of sound-picture production costs.

What makes all this rather embarrassing to producers and their casting directors is that heretofore it has been possible to satisfy the public demand for youth and new faces with very young and very inexperienced players who were fortunate enough to photograph well. Now the voice must be as beautiful as the face; and anyone who has looked at very many beautiful faces knows how seldom the voice matches the face.

First National plans to meet the emergency with a school of elocution for its younger players. Stage-trained voices, say those who have been making sound-pictures, do not entirely fill the bill. Radio voices would come nearer to satisfying the requirements. In fact, the day may come when girls in Iowa or Missouri or Pennsylvania will break into the movies via their home-town radio station. Angelic voices will be passports to Hollywood.

THE announcement here last Sunday that Joseph P. Kennedy, the motion picture magnate, had been taken into the Keith-Albee-Orpheum fold came at a time when the talkies were being pretty generally discussed in movie circles. Just 32 years ago, when the tremendous entertainment success of motion pictures was unthought of and talking pictures not even dreamed of, it was a vaudeville man who introduced the films to his public and started a form of amusement which is forcing the varieties to take a back seat.

The motion picture was regarded as nothing but a toy at its inception. E. F. Keith saw it in France, the country of its early development, where it received the flowery baptismal name of the cinematograph. Mr. Keith imported a couple of machines, to the great wonderment and skepticism of Americans, who realized the innovations and progress he had made in the amusement field, but who figured that with this newfangled device he was going just a little too far.

On May 18, 1896, these machines were introduced simultaneously into his Union Square Theater in New York and into his big house in Boston. The pictures flickered and jigged, but they caught the attention, making even blase Boston sit up. They had a nervous twitching to them, because the makers of films in those days had rather arbitrarily decided that 14 pictures, or "frames," to the second were the right number to be shown. Subsequent experiments showed that 16 per second was the right number—the standard maintained today. But in those days they were hardly a sight for sore eyes.

Moreover, the projection was faulty, and since the single reel which provided the picture wasn't run through the projector on geared sprockets—as in the modern system—the scenes constantly veered and twisted about in a form of St. Vitus dance. The general quivering effect produced on the screen—a common linen sheet—gave the impression that the picture was likely to turn into jelly at any minute.

BECAUSE of the various defects motion pictures were regarded by the knowing ones as a novelty that would quickly disappear whenever the optics of the public could stand them no longer. Yet pictures caught hold and steadily grew better, despite everything the wise ones could say against them. Mr. Keith, who called his first affair the Vitascope to avoid the tongue-twisting French name of Cinematograph, bought new machines and introduced improvements until screen entertainment was indelibly printed on the popular mind.

At the time of the first Keith entertainment Kennedy was a small boy of 8 years, running around Boston in knickerbockers and already turning his restless energies to various odd jobs that seemed likely to get him nearer that million. Subsequently young Kennedy saw his first moving pictures in Boston, without having the slightest idea at the time that he might some day become connected with the business.

and sobs out her undying love for him.

Romberg has set this romance with a fine score, one of the glowing features of which are the songs for the mighty Soldiers' Chorus. Throughout Romberg is at his best in his characteristically tuneful melody.

The entire cast will be seen in the production, and because of the numerous speaking parts in "Princess Flavia," twenty-four St. Louisans of the chorus will be entrusted with minor roles.

AS SAID before the initial offering at the Garden Theater tonight is "Sally," with Errol as the principal comedian; Vera Myers, prima donna and Irving Fisher principal tenor. These players costarred in the original Ziegfeld production of "Sally." Others in the cast are: Lillian Crosman, John Cherry, Dorothy Humphreys, John Park, Joseph McCallion and Claude Arches. The chorus, composed entirely of St. Louis boys and girls, numbers 60.

The entire company has been rehearsing day and night for the past 10 days and there is every indication that tonight's opening will reveal a perfectly trained chorus, an exactly coached cast and a tout ensemble of beauty. The production has been staged under the personal direction of Sinclair. The dance specialties were conceived and directed by George Pionath.

"SALLY" is the story of a waif who rises to fame and fortune as a member of the Follies. The comedy element will be taken care of by Errol and John Cherry. The book is by Guy Bolton, lyrics by Clifford Grey and music by Jerome Kern and Victor Herbert.

Mason Peters, business manager of the Garden, promises many surprises to those who have visited the theater in past seasons. Improvements have been made to provide for the comfort and convenience of the patrons and to perfect the working arrangement for productions. An entirely new set of footlights has been installed, traps have been built in the stage to provide unusual effects in staging and lighting.

DURING the past year the Municipal Theater Association has made improvements costing $15,000, bringing the total expenditures for the development of the Municipal Theater in Forest Park into one of the finest outdoor stadiums in the world to approximately $200,000. The changes this year include the painting of the 10,000 seats, erection of an electric sign, the construction of a new stage floor and of two new stage docks, permitting more expeditious handling of stage sets and a resultant decrease in the length of intermissions; improvements in the sound amplifying system, modernization of dressing rooms and installation of new machinery in the scenic studios.

Only five of the principals of the new company have previously appeared on the Municipal Theater stage.

The five favorites to return include William McCarthy, second comedian, appearing in the cast for the seventh consecutive year; Bernice Mershon, contralto, who will be remembered for her performances in 1925 and 1926; Charles E. Galagher, basso, a member of the first casts in 1919, 1920 and 1921; Dorothy Seegar, who returns for ingenue roles following her success of last summer, and Joseph Royer, who likewise was popularly received in the single production of "Tales of Hoffman" last year.

A DISTINCTIVE feature of the municipal cast will be the appearance of three prima donnas, each of whom will play a conspicuous part in virtually every production. Leonora Allen, former star of the Chicago Opera Company and concert singer of note; Alice Mackenzie, light opera artist and last summer prima donna of the Atlanta (Ga.) Municipal Opera Company, and Patricia O'Connell, a member of "The Student Prince" and "Countess Maritza" opera companies, are the three feminine leads.

Sam Ash, the new tenor, comes from successes in "Rose Marie," "Katinka" and other works. Florenz Ames, principal comedian, has provoked laughs in such hits as "Sky High" and "The Great Temptations," and Lee Daly, comedian, has appeared with numerous light opera companies.

In keeping with the large percentage of new faces in the cast, the chorus of 96 St. Louis boys and girls will boast 60 per cent newcomers, and the moulding of the productions into perfect wholes will be in the hands of new directors, Alonzo A. Prince, general stage director, who has produced shows for Arthur Hammerstein and Florenz Ziegfeld, and Leon Rosebrook, musical director who is an accomplished musician and composer.

MUSSOLINI FIBS TO KREISLER

ROME, June 2.—When Mussolini invited the Fritz Kreislers out to the Villa Torlonia, his summer residence, the Austrian artist asked the Duce what had become of his collection of violins, and if he ever played a few anatches of old and favorite airs to relieve his spirit after putting aside the day's work. Mussolini's reply was a smiling negative.

"Your great man is a fibber; he's a real fiddler!" exclaimed Frau Kreisler to her husband once they were well outside the villa. "Didn't you notice that bump on the left side of his neck? Just like your own, my dear! You don't get bumps like that unless you consistently stick violins under your chin!" Mussolini later admitted to friends that he had "diplomatically denied" playing because he was afraid "the master" would ask him to perform in turn.

Behind the Screens

HOLLYWOOD, June 2.

SCENES showing an audience watching a play or a musical comedy, or night club glimpses picturing the song-and-dance routine reputed to amuse the weary business man, have long been popular in the movies. The movie theater prologue, however, seems to have been ignored until now. Anyway, the prologue scene in "Leave It to Me," the latest Glenn Tryon-Patsy Ruth Miller comedy, is credited with being the first appearance of such a prologue as part of the motion picture. Tryon portrays an amateur detective who chases his own finger prints through various comic situations, including the prologue which he unwittingly embellishes with his sudden appearance from the wings, and Miss Miller is a motion-picture star appearing in the prologue of her own picture.

Due to the custom of photographing the same scene in a picture from several angles and repeating it several times after rehearsing it several times to begin with, the eating of a meal in front of the camera can become a rather filling experience. Ralph Ince was directing Frank Mills in a scene calling for the latter to devour with relish an order of fried eggs. Before the shooting was over Frank had consumed more than a dozen eggs, and they were not tasting so good. Whereupon the director, with tongue in cheek, crept away to a telephone and asked Mrs. Mills to serve fried eggs for dinner that night. She did so, and when she noticed her husband's weary look she tried to cheer him with household gossip. "What do you think?" she said. "Our canary laid an egg today!"

There was a time when an actor could hang a false beard on his face and consider himself made up for the movies. Many are the changes that have come over movie make-up since that day.

Make-up experts nowadays are not satisfied unless their work deceives the offscreen observer as well as the spectator who sees the finished film, and their technique is as complicated as that of the surgeon.

The new make-up department on the Fox lot, in fact, reminds one insistently of a hospital. It is spotlessly white and gleaming, like a surgery word. Rouge and cold cream and grease paints are treasured carefully in glass cabinets like those that shelter the antiseptic instruments of a hospital operating room, and even the crepe hair of which false whiskers and moustaches are made is guarded in a white-enameled container too slippery to afford a foothold for germs.

In such an atmosphere the application of a bit of rouge or the delineation of an eyebrow in charcoal assumes the importance of a major operation, and one almost expects the white-smocked make-up expert to administer an anesthetic before putting a false moustache on the hero's lip.

Seldom are the chairs in a business office labeled with the names of those who are supposed to occupy them; yet everyone in the office knows whose chair is which, and the office boy hardly ever sits in anything but his own when the boss is around. On a motion picture set, curious to relate, nearly every chair behind the camera has a name painted on it; but seldom does anyone sit in his own chair. Casual inspection of Bebe Daniels' set the other day revealed Clarence Badger, her director, occupying the chair labeled "Hilda"—Miss Daniel's maid. Hilda was sitting in the star's chair; the star was occupying the script girl's seat, and the still-cameraman was sitting in the director's chair. Nevertheless, it is a great moment in one's motion picture career when a sign-painter paints one's name on the back of a chair.

It may be news to some film fans that the man who raised Douglas Fairbanks into the air on a magic carpet in "The Thief of Bagdad" also is raising a family of seven picture players, each of whom has been appearing in the movies since infancy. He is Coy Watson, who began as a property man with Mack Sennett in 1912 and later developed into a piano-wire expert; that is, a specialist in the art of making actors seem to fly or float in air by means of wires invisible to the camera.

Watson contributed his first child to the screen when the youngster was nine months old. Now the lad, Coy Jr., is 15 years old, and has three sisters and three brothers also working in pictures. All of them are playing in "Taxi 13," just now with Chester Conklin, who was one of the comedians on the Sennett lot when Watson first worked there. Gloria Swanson used to work on the Sennett lot, too, and Louise Fazenda, so there is a Gloria and a Louise among the seven Watsons.

One of the most unusual collections in the film colony, which is developing many ardent collectors of books, engravings and antiques, is the phonograph record collection of Joseph W. Farnham, title writer. An entire room in Farnham's home is devoted to filing cases for the records, which include Caruso's earliest recordings as well as some by his predecessor, the late Tamagno, and many rare foreign records.

The air around Hollywood is full of planes participating in air pictures, but that is not the only sign that the movies are sprouting wings. A neighborhood exhibitor whose theater frequently gets previews of new pictures uses a captive balloon to signal "preview tonight" to his regular customers. If the balloon is anchored about 1000 feet above the theater during the afternoon preview-hunters for miles around know where to go at 8:30 p. m.

Second Thoughts On First Nights

cadent Dorian emerges as a healthy, puzzled youth with a Middle Western accent and an undergraduate manner. Such is the dramatic power of the plot that, however, the audience watched sat through the piece in breathless enjoyment of stirring melodrama. And amid all its inherent absurdities, no one there was moved to raise one twentieth century laugh.

It is a temptation not to succumb resisted on returning to the play some 15 years after. At this second glance much of it reads like an impish and exaggerated burlesque of its own esthetic pose and particularly as a burlesque of Wilde's own vivid and unquestionable genius. It is hard to read that this sort of thing found an answering echo of derision in old England through which it had previously wafted. But apart from the dependable "Punch" and the unescapable Gilbert and Sullivan (with a later sideswipe from Robert Hitchens in "The Green Carnation") good old Great Britain seemed to be at that time equally divided between those who viewed stoutly with alarm and those who were set to walking down Piccadilly with a lily in their hand.

NEVERTHELESS, once into the book and with its heavy-scented asphodel scented mood about you, the power of its imagery still remains. Moreover, most of the epigrams are as "scintillating" as the book-jacket would have you believe and the plot (for all its obligation to "The Wild Ass's Skin") still stands alone as a piece of inspired fantastic invention.

After last week's performance one naturally veers to the decision that it cannot be revealed in a stage play. But if some imaginative director were given a free hand with its scenes, what a movie it would make! Assuming, of course, that the director was really inspired and not of the type who would be moved to pose Lon Chaney in the place of the distraught and malevolent portrait.

Second Thoughts On First Nights

cadent Dorian /emerges as a healthy, puzzled youth with a Middle Western accent and an undergraduate manner. Such is the dramatic power of the plot itself, however, that the audience we watched sat through the piece in breathless enjoyment of straight melodrama. And amid all its 1890 absurdities, no one there was moved to raise one twentieth century laugh.

It is a temptation not so easily resisted on returning to the book some 15 years after. At this second glance much of it reads like an impish and exaggerated burlesque of its own esthetic period and particularly as a burlesque of Wilde's own vivid and imperishable genius. It is hard to realize that this sort of thing found an answering echo of derision in the England through which it was previously wafted. But apart from the dependable "Punch" and the unescapable Gilbert and Sullivan (with a later sideswipe from Robert Hitchens in "The Green Carnation") good old Great Britain seemed to be at that time equally divided between those who viewed it stoutly with alarm and those who were set to walking down Piccadilly with a lily in their hand.

NEVERTHELESS, once into the book and with its humorless asphodel scented mood about you, the power of its imagery still remains. Moreover, most of its epigrams are as "scintillating" as the book-jacket would have you believe and the plot (for all its obligation to "The Wild Ass's Skin") still stands alone as a piece of inspired fantastic invention.

After last week's performance, one naturally veers to the decision that it cannot be revealed in a stage play. But if some inspired director were given a free hand with its scenes, what a movie it would make! Assuming, of course, that the director was really inspired and not of the type who would be moved to pose Lon Chaney in the place of the distorted and malevolent portrait.

THE REV. M'CORMICK TO DELIVER ADDRESS

The Rt. Rev. Francis W. Howard, Bishop of Covington, Will Preach Baccalaureate Sermon.

St. Louis University, with the three girls' colleges, Webster, Fontbonne and Maryville, which are a part of the university corporation, will hold commencement exercises this week.

The Rt. Rev. Francis W. Howard, Bishop of Covington and secretary of the National Catholic Educational Association, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon for St. Louis University at 7:45 p. m. today at St. Francis Xavier Church. At 9:30 a. m. today solemn high mass will be celebrated at Webster College, with a sermon by the Rev. Thomas M. Knapp, S. J., dean of the university college of arts and sciences. The baccalaureate sermon at Fontbonne College, with mass, will be delivered at 10 a. m. by the Rev. F. V. Corcoran, and the sermon at Maryville College, with solemn benediction, will be preached at 3 p. m. by the Rev. James B. Macelwane, S. J., dean of the graduate school of the university.

The university commencement will take place at 10 a. m. Tuesday in the gymnasium. The Very Rev. P. J. McCormick, professor of education in the Catholic University of America, will deliver the address. The exercises will be followed by a luncheon for all graduates as guests of the Alumni Association, at 12:30 p. m., at Hotel Coronado. The alumni dinner will take place Tuesday evening at the Coronado.

Wednesday will be class day at Maryville. Commencement will be held at Fontbonne at 10 a. m., with an address by Judge John B. McGoorty, of the Cook County (Chicago) Superior Court, and at Webster College at 3 p. m., with an address by the Rt. Rev. Francis C. Kelley, Bishop of Oklahoma.

Maryville College commencement will take place at 4 p. m. Thursday, and at 6 o'clock that evening the formal program for commencement week will close with a dinner at the Coronado, sponsored by juniors of the School of Commerce and Finance.

30 DAYS FOR TRAFFIC OFFENSE

Edward Krapf Failed to Obey Policeman's Stop Signal.

Edward Krapf, 5049 Dewey avenue, was sentenced yesterday to the Workhouse for 30 days for failure to observe the "reasonable direction" of a police officer.

Patrolman Jenner of Magnolia Avenue Station testified he was on duty directing traffic at Theresa and Park avenues March 8 while school children were crossing, and that Krapf failed to stop his automobile when signaled to do so by the policeman. Krapf was overtaken a block from the crossing, it was testified. He appealed.

HARD OF HEARING CONFERENCE

The Ninth Annual Conference of the American Federation of Organizations for the Hard of Hearing will open June 18 for a 4-day session at Hotel Chase.

Dr. Stacy R. Guild of Johns Hopkins University will speak on "The Progress of the Otological Research Laboratory of the Johns Hopkins University," Dr. J. Humphrey, director of hygiene in the St. Louis public schools, will speak on "The Hard of Hearing Child," and Dr. Knight Dunlap, chairman of the division of anthropology and psychology of the National Research Council, will talk on "The Interest of the Council in the Hard of Hearing." Other speakers of prominence will be heard at the meeting.

Shunned... until she learned the truth about body odor

THAT EVENING, huddled in one corner of her couch... Margaret was sobbing as if her heart would break.

So Alice found her when she burst into her room unexpectedly, to borrow a book.

"Oh, Alice, please tell me," Margaret pleaded, "why is it that other girls get more attention from men than I do? Why do even the girls avoid me so?"

For a moment, Alice hesitated... what could she say? Then suddenly she decided. The kindest thing to do was to tell Margaret the truth... body odor.

BODY ODOR... Margaret was horrified. So that was why she couldn't keep any friends; that was why she was always left out of things. And to think that she had never even suspected. Well, she knew now... and it wasn't too late. She wouldn't let body odor make a social failure of her.

Now easy to end body odor

Nothing can ruin our chances of social and business success more quickly than body odor. The faintest hint of it destroys all our attractiveness—and turns people against us.

Yet no one is safe from body odor. We must perspire—or we'd die. Even on cool days our pores give off invisible perspiration—often as much as a quart of odor-causing waste every 24 hours.

Our own sense of smell soon becomes deadened to this unpleasant odor. But how shockingly noticeable it always is to others.

Yet there's a simple way to keep safe—a way so delightful that millions rely on it—Lifebuoy. Just wash and bathe regularly with this purifying toilet soap—it deodorizes all pores—keeps you fresh.

Lifebuoy's bland and abundant antiseptic lather guards health, too—by removing germs. Keeps complexions radiantly fresh, smooth as satin. "For every toilet purpose—Lifebuoy is best," declare men and women everywhere.

Note its clean scent

You will learn to love Lifebuoy's pleasant clean scent, which tells you Lifebuoy purifies, and which vanishes as you rinse. Use Lifebuoy a week and you'll use it for life. Get some today.

Debutantes of Next Fall Make Plans for Coming Out

Thus Far the 1928 Group Is Not So Large by Half as That of Last Season, but Announcements Indicate Interesting Social Events for Autumn and Winter.

ALTHOUGH the last formal social season is still fresh in the memory of the debutantes who participated in its gaieties, tentative arrangements are being made for the next, which begins as usual immediately following the Veiled Prophet ball. As has become the custom in the past few seasons when the debutante circle has widened, invitation lists are compiled during summer sojourns and dates are sometimes set months in advance to avoid a conflict.

Thus far the 1928 debutante group is not so large by half as that of last year, the largest in St. Louis' history, but the following list forecasts an interesting season.

Miss Mary Merwin Shepley, attractive young daughter of Mrs. Arthur B. Shepley, will be presented to society at a party at the St. Louis Country Club next season. Miss Shepley is a Mary Institute graduate and Miss Porter's School in Farmington, Conn., and spent the last year abroad with her mother and Miss Anne West. She will depart the latter part of June with her mother and brother, Arthur, for Bar Harbor, Me., to occupy their summer home with Mrs. Shepley's mother, Mrs. Ephron Catlin Sr. of Vandeventer place, with whom they are making their home temporarily. Near them will be Dr. and Mrs. Edward Lawrence Keyes of New York, the latter another daughter, formerly Miss Emily Catlin Shepley, who also have a home at Bar Harbor.

In the fall Mrs. Shepley will take possession of her home at 50 Westmoreland place, which has been leased for a year to Mr. and Mrs. Marion Lambert.

Miss Anne West, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William T. West of 48 Westmoreland place, will be one of the attractive buds of next season. She is a graduate of Mary Institute and Miss Porter's School at Farmington, Conn., and spent several months later traveling in Europe with Mrs. Arthur B. Shepley and the latter's daughter, Miss Mary Merwin Shepley, who also is to be a debutante. Miss West will be formally be presented to society at a dinner dance Nov. 20 at the St. Louis Country Club.

The West family will depart June 16 for Watch Hill, R. I., to spend the summer with the exception of Allen T. West Jr., who will sail June 16 for Germany to study.

Miss Ellen Walsh Bates, niece of Mrs. William Maffitt of 4315 Westminster place, will be one of the feted of the debutantes. She was educated at Georgtown College, in Washington, D. C., and spent the last year in travel abroad with Miss Eleanor Church, and a group of out-of-town young women, chaperoned by Mrs. Atwell T. Lincoln.

Miss Eleanor Clark Church, third daughter of Mrs. Rolla Wells of 25 Westmoreland place, will be introduced to society at a ball at the St. Louis Country Club. She is a graduate of Mary Institute and spent last year abroad. Mr. and Mrs. Wells have a cottage at Wequetonsing, Mich., and will depart with their family for that resort the last of June.

Another debutante of the coming season is Miss Nancy Blair, second daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Vilray P. Blair of 5 Kingsbury place, who will be presented at a tea soon after the Veiled Prophet ball in October. Miss Blair is a graduate of Mary Institute, attended Washington University last year, and spent this school year in Paris attending a French convent. She will return in the fall. Following the close of school, June 12, she will travel with her grandmother, Mrs. Edmund H. Blair and her anut, Mrs. Boyle Price, both of whom are in Paris at present, and will return to St. Louis in the fall. Miss Blair is a sister of Miss Kathryn Blair, a debutante of this season.

Miss Almira Steedman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Steedman of 32 Westmoreland place will make her bow to society. She attended Miss Hourigan's School in New York after her Mary Institute days and is

Tea for Graduate Of Mary Institute

ONE of the parties for a Mary Institute June graduate will be a tea at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon to be given by Mrs. Charles Cummings Collins for her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Cummings Collins. Sharing honors will be her cousin, Miss Camilla Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Collins, a June graduate of John Burroughs School.

The party will be at the home of another daughter, Mrs. Knox Taussig, 4605 Maryland avenue. The decorative colors will be lavendar, the class color, combined with pink. The young women will wear the lavendar shaded frocks in which they danced in the May Pole festivities.

Those assisting will be Miss Hope Pangman, Miss Margaret Hemmingway, Miss Pauline Lumaghi, Miss Jane Meier, Miss Elizabeth Morfit, Miss Mary Taussig, Miss Catherine Annan, Miss Louise Cason, Miss Estelle Sanford, Miss Mariella Cartwright, Miss Ruth Rothschild and Miss Holmes Tracy.

Following the tea a few of the young women assisting, with their escorts, will stay for dinner and bridge.

Wedding of Miss Lammert Postponed

CARDS were issued last week recalling the invitations for the marriage of Miss Mary Elise Lammert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Lammert Jr., of the Denny road, and Elliot Kingman Ludington of the Price road, because of the illness of Miss Lammert's father. The marriage, which was to have taken place yesterday afternoon in the garden of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lammert, has been set for the latter part of the month.

MISS ALICE RODES of Bowling Green, Ky., who will be a bridesmaid at the wedding, June 22, of Miss Elizabeth Thomas and George F. Baer Appel of Philadelphia.

Parties in Country For Younger Set Week End Feature

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Goddard of Brentmoor, Mr. and Mrs. Warren F. McElroy, and Miss Kathleen Sheldon Give Outings for Their Guests.

THREE parties in the country during the week end held the interest of the younger set. Yesterday about 40 guests including several debutantes and their escorts were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Warren Goddard of Brentmoor at the Dardeen Hunting Club. They assembled at the Goddard home at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and motored from there.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren F. McElroy of 23 Portland place ,and their daughter, Miss Ruth McElroy entertained a party over the week end at their country home near Hannibal, Mo., in honor of Miss Loraine Grover, debutante daughter of Mr. James Hamilton Grover of the Greystone Apartments.

Miss Kathleen Sheldon, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Sheldon of 14 Kingsbury place, will give a picnic today at the country place of Warren M. Chandler at Chesterfield, Mo., for her guest, Miss Katherine Brady of Philadelphia.

Invitations have been sent by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nagel of 19 Lenox place, for the marriage of their daughter, Anne Dorothea, to William Grout Barrett, next Saturday, at 4:30 o'clock at Christ Church Cathedral. Cards are enclosed for admission to the church.

Dr. and Mrs. Vilray P. Blair of 5 Kingsbury place and their family will spend the summer at the cottage in Fish Creek, Wis. Their debutante daughter, Miss Kathryn, and her young brother, John will depart by motor June 11, and Dr. and Mrs. Blair and other members of the family will leave June 15.

Miss Josephine Moffitt, daughter of Mrs.

Miss Natalie Moffitt, another daughter, is completing her junior year at Smith College, and will remain until the last of June to serve on the committee for graduation.

Miss Frances Blayney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Blayney of 240 Linden avenue, Clayton, will return home June 11 from Bryn Mawr College. She will remain for commencement June 7 and will spend a few days with friends in Washington, before returning. Miss Blayney made her debut last fall and returned to college to complete her studies.

Invitations were received yesterday to the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Thomas, niece of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Mepham of 4457 Westminster place, to George F. Baer Appel of Philadelphia, son of Judge and Mrs. William Nevin Appel of Lancaster, Pa. The ceremony will take place Friday afternoon, June 22, at 5 o'clock at Christ Church Cathedral with Dean William Scarlett officiating. Miss Thomas will have as her maid of honor Miss Rachel Appel, a sister of the prospective groom. The bridesmaids will be Miss Louise Goddard and Miss Anne Sipple of St. Louis, Miss Alice Rodes of Bowling Green, Ky., and Miss Marie Louise Hanson of Philadelphia. Mr. Appel will have as his best man William L. Lusk of New York. The groomsmen will be Edmond G. Thomas, brother of the bride-to-be; T. Frederick D. Haines of New York; Charles M. Spofford of Evanston, Ill.; William N. Mallory of Memphis, Tenn.; John Locke of Dayton, O.; C. Morton Stewart Jr. of Baltimore; Cecil I. Crouse of Germantown, Pa.; John Dern of Salt Lake City, Utah; Owen J. Wister of Philadelphia, and Derrick A. January of St. Louis. A reception for the members of the two families, the out-of-town guests and the wedding party at the St. Louis Country Club, will follow immediately after the ceremony. The young couple will make their home in Haverford, Pa., a suburb of Philadelphia, after Sept. 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Meredith Kauffman of 51 Portland place and their young daughter, Miss Janet, who is a student at Smith College, will spend the late summer abroad. They plan to sail Aug. 1. Miss Kauffman will visit friends in the East before returning to St. Louis about June 20.

Miss Marceline Reyburn, daughter of Mrs. Charles Fletcher Sparks of 6320 Wydown boulevard, is expected home this week from a trip to Europe. Miss Reyburn accompanied Mrs. Peckham of Cleveland, O., and her daughter, Miss Phyllis Peckham abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Sparks will open their summer home at Hyannisport, Mass., in June.

Miss Katherine Smith, daughter of Mrs. Jay Herndon Smith of 6500 Ellenwood avenue has as her guest Miss Mary Ellen Selden of Minneapolis, Minn. Miss Selden will be the guest of honor at an informal dinner Tuesday, for which Miss Elise Whittemore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton L. Whittemore of 6420 Forsythe boulevard will be hostess.

Mrs. Smith has leased a house at Manchester, Vt., for the summer and with her family will go there the last of the month.

Mrs. Charles McLure Clark of 15 Hortense place, who has recently returned from a visit with her daughter, Marchesa Giovanni Carignani of Naples, will depart early in July for Hot Springs, Va., for the remainder of the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott McNutt of 72 Vandeventer place, and their small son, Francis Scott McNutt, will depart next Sunday for Ogunquit, Me., where they will spend a month. July 14 they will sail on the Saturnia for Trieste, and will spend the remainder of the summer with Mr. McNutt's aunt, Mrs. Francis McNutt, at her castle, "Ratzotz," outside of Brixen, in the Tyrol.

Miss Anne Sipple will be the third debutante in the family of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Sipple of Brentmoor. She is a graduate of Mary Institute and attended the Finch School in New York City the past year. She will accompany her parents and sister, Miss Katherine, to Hyannisport, Mass., the last of June to open their summer home. Another sister, Mrs. Arthur Gorman Lambert of Washington, D. C., Mr. Lambert and their small son, will join them for the season.

Miss Mary Ambrose Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Sheppard Smith of 4334 Westminster place, will come out next season after illness postponed her debut last year. Miss Smith was educated at the Visitation Convent in Washington, D. C., and spent last year abroad. The summer plans of the family have not been made.

Miss Isabelle Brooks Bond, daughter of Mrs. H. Wheeler Bond of 17 Vandeventer place, will make her debut. Miss Bond was graduated at Mary Institute and completed her education at the Finch School in New York. She is a sister of Miss Mary Scudder Bond, a bud of several seasons ago.

Miss Alice Chapman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben G. Chapman Jr. of 58 Kingsbury place, will interrupt her college career at Smith for a formal season in society. She has just completed her second year after attending Mary Institute and after a visit with Miss Mary Benedict in Denver, will join her family on a Western ranch for the summer. Miss Chapman will make her bow at a reception early in October.

Miss Mary Scudder Hallett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis A. Hallett of 59 Kingsbury place, plans an informal debut next season. She is a graduate of Hosmer Hall. She is a granddaughter of Mrs. Elisha G. Scudder. According to tentative plans, the family will spend the summer in Hyannisport, Mass.

Added to the list is Miss Jane Tyler Messick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlton Messick of 4228 Maryland avenue. Miss Messick graduated from Mary Institute a year ago and is now in Europe with her mother. They are traveling through England and on June 5 will go to Scotland to visit Mrs. Evan Fraser-Campbell, a relative of Mrs. Messick, at her home, "Dunmore" on Lock-Fyne. They will return home the last of June.

Miss Elizabeth Washington Ferguson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John David Ferguson of 6525 Washington boulevard, will make her debut. She is a graduate of Mary Institute and attended Miss Bennett's School in Millbrook, N. Y., the past year. She will visit friends on Long Island before returning home June 12, and later will accompany her family to a Northern resort for the summer.

Miss Katherine Koerber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Koerber of Hampton Park, is one of the attractive young women who will be presented to society next winter. She graduated this month from Holton Arms in Washington, D. C., having left Mary Institute before graduating to go East to school. She will return home today accompanied by her parents, who attended the exercises, and will bring with her two classmates, for whom she will give a tea June 10. They will depart for their homes in the East June 13.

Miss Elizabeth Fusz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene A. Fusz of 6925 Delmar boulevard, and a younger sister of Miss Marie Reine Fusz, a debutante of the season just passed, has joined the ranks of next year's buds. She attended the Sacred Heart Convent at Manhattanville, N. Y., and later Washington University. She will sail soon for Europe with her sister and a group of friends, to be in Europe until the season opens. Miss Fusz will have as her guest tomorrow Miss Juliana Frauenheim of Pittsburg, who will be here two weeks.

Miss Janet Lawton, daughter of Mrs. Maude M. Lawton of the Forest Park Hotel, will make her debut, although arrangements have not been made. Miss Lawton and her mother will spend the summer at Eaton's Ranch and will depart in June. She attended Miss Evans' School and Briar Cliffe Manor, Briar Cliffe, Pa., and last year completed her studies in Paris.

Miss Isabell Kirkpatrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Kirkpatrick of 6301 Washington boulevard, and Miss Harriet Moreno, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Moreno of Beaumont, who spent their Mary Institute days together, returned home yesterday from Ogontz School in Philadelphia, where they have been for the past year, and will both be debutantes next season. The summer plans of the families have not been made.

Mr. and Mrs. Moreno and their family will take the boat trip from San Francisco to New York this summer.

Miss Lulie Simmons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Welch Simmons of New York, formerly of St. Louis, may return to St. Louis to make her bow with her former schoolmates. She is a niece of Mrs. Charles Parsons Pettus and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Wright.

fund of Constitutional Hall in Washington, D. C. A letter from the president-general, Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau, was read, appointing the regent, Mrs. Calfee, to represent Missouri on the committee to erect a suitable memorial in Washington to the four women, who in 1890, founded the D. A. R. organization.

The program for the afternoon was the reading of a Victorian sketch by Mrs. Donald MacDonald, and several piano selections given by Miss Cora Robinson.

The St. Louis Chapter will celebrate Flag day, June 14, by marking a court in the Gold Star Tree Court of Honor on Kingshighway Memorial boulevard, in co-operation with the National Society, World War Registrars. The program will be announced later. The chapter also will take part in the closing exercises of the Americanization Department of the Board of Religious Organizations on June 15 at the Ben Blewett Public School. A flag will be presented to each of the 12 women who will become American citizens at that time, a silk flag of their newly adopted country.

For the State conference to be held in St. Louis in October, the St. Louis Chapter will be chairman for Music and Program, Hospitality, Pages and Publicity.

The Twentieth Century Art Club observed the annual play day at "Carson Hurst" the country home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Carson McCormick at Sulphur Springs, Mo., Monday. Tables for a picnic luncheon were spread on the lawn. The luncheon was followed by games and contests. The home was decorated in a profusion of garden flowers and tables for bridge were arranged throughout the house and on the lawn. A large number of club members and guests were present.

The June meeting of the W. C. T. U. Federation will be held Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at Luecock Lodge, 3628 Delmar boulevard. Word has been received by the local organization that Dr. Ella A. Boole, president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be in St. Louis Sunday, June 10. Arrangements are being made for Dr. Boole to make two addresses while in St. Louis.

The Clara Barton Tent No. 7, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War will hold its memorial service for deceased comrades and members Tuesday at Soulard Library.

The Uandi Literary Club closed its 1927-28 season Saturday, May 26. The party was held at the Gatesworth Hotel, being attended by 90 friends of the club. Following dinner, the rose-laden tables were removed to make a parquet seating arrangement for the audience. The entertainment following was given by 16 club members in the guise of black face minstrels.

After the minstrel show, Mrs. George C. Gephart repeated the doggerel read at the annual luncheon. As a close to a program the minstrels staged a scene of a colored movie unit making. "The Lion Tamer's Daughter." The party was in charge of Mrs. E. G. Lasar, Mrs. Robert E. Grote, Mrs. L. L. McCormack and Mrs. Mira Medsker.

WHY~

You must Insist on genuine Nestle Circuline for a Perfect Permanent

HAIR is divided into ten classifications according to its texture. And there is only one method of permanent waving in existence which takes account of this scientific fact—Nestle Circuline!

In this method, there is a different-strength waving lotion for each hair classification—permitting your hairdresser to select the strength lotion that exactly suits the texture of your hair.

These are the reasons why more and more women every day are insisting on a Nestle Circuline Wave. They are why you must insist on Nestle Circuline—and why you must make sure that your hairdresser uses genuine Circulines.

Ask your hairdresser to let you see them. Then you can be sure your hair is not being waved with borax, ammonia or any other harmful ingredient. Read below how you can recognize genuine Circulines.

GENUINE Nestle Circulines are little cigarette-like tubes wrapped in glassine paper and stamped with the name "Nestle Circuline," and its number.

You will see your hair-dresser immerse them—one for each curl—in a beaker of clear, fresh water. She will be glad to explain to you exactly the reasons "why."

NESTLE Circuline PERMANENT WAVE

Women will soon read more about the Test-o-meter, a brilliant new invention for testing hair. Created by Mr. C. Nestle, originator of permanent waving. Both the Test-o-meter and Nestle Circuline are approved by the Society for the Advancement of Hair and Beauty Science.

CHILDREN and Calcium Compound

Have you any dietary problems with your children? Perhaps calcium compound's corrective properties would speedily put their systems in shape to eat anything they want. And calcium wafers will certainly keep their bowels poison-free, normally active and clean!
Don't give growing boys and girls harsh cathartics; you will give them the cathartic habit, if you do. A calcium wafer or two will just as effectively overcome the sluggish condition and tend to prevent its return. Let a doctor explain why.
A five-day test will prove to you very conclusively the system's need for calcium compound, and the decided benefit in these little wafers. Your druggist has them—the test size for pocket is 10c. The family size, 60c.

The bewilderment arises in the part from this: The proposal for home complete and absolute renunciation of war made by a nation which owes its birth to war, and has grown by war, to nations whose whole history is one long story of war is—if one is to take words in their ordinary meaning —extremely radical, fundamental, revolutionary. It is a proposal which, had it been made 15 years ago, would have been received by those who now discuss it so respectfully with a derision and a contempt which would have smothered it in a day; and it is made moreover by a Government which no one would describe as either radical or revolutionary in its general method and outlook, which has declined to co-operate in proposals fundamentally much less radical and which has preceded the proposal to renounce all war by building new cruisers and greatly increasing its navy.

Problem of the Future.

Has then some vast and fundamental change taken place in men and nations these last 15 years or within the last few weeks? No one believes it. Are then these undertakings, to which we are all invited to subscribe, meaningless, and will the treaty suggested by Mr. Kellogg (Secretary of State) leave things exactly as they were?

I do not think so. The treaty of itself will leave most of the problem still to solve, and if there is to be no sequel it would indeed be without practical effect. But I believe that if this treaty goes through and is signed by the nations as it ought to be, it is bound to lead to other things, and those things will be extremely important.

Let us see the position.

The proposals do not carry definitions of the words they use, of such words as "renouncing war." But we know, in any case, that that does not mean renouncing the right of nations to defend themselves. We might honestly undertake as individuals never to use violence to settle our differences with our neighbors and to trust to the law for protection of our rights. Yet we should resist the burglar and never dream that in doing so we had broken the rule against violence, or the undertaking to decide our disputes by law.

Something else is implicit: If one party to the bargain breaks it, the first is no longer bound by it.

So the "unqualified renunciation" is not quite so unqualified: We may wage wars to defend ourselves, or if the other side begins it first.

Right of Self-Defense.

If we regard the League as a political entity, a nascent Federation, it may very fairly also claim this right of self-defense, claim that an attack upon one member —even if made by another member—is an attack upon all, upon the whole society, which is thus, under these qualifications, justified in defending itself.

Now, if we were at all clear as to what defense is, the undertaking to wage only defensive war would of itself be extremely valuable. If no one made attacks no nation need defend itself and wars would end.

Among the many falsehoods induced by the atmosphere of war is the one which usually gathers around the word "defense." We imply that it means

Kellogg Plan to End War Is Step to Code of Rights, Says Norman Angell

Definition of "Defense" Necessary to Make Proposal Effective, Says Student of World Polity.

Author of Several Works on International Politics.

THOSE of us who, like the present writer, have for very many years watched at close quarters—or participated in—past efforts to eliminate war, experience a strange mixture of emotions in attempting to judge the precise significance of the Kellogg proposals: Hope—a little qualified by the feeling that "it's too good to be true"—some bewilderment, some fear, great hesitation at any critical analysis lest that be taken for coldness and tend to promote rejection of these proposals, which would be disastrous.

The bewilderment arises in part from this: The proposal for complete and absolute renunciation of war made by a nation which owes its birth to war, and has grown by war, to nations whose whole history is one long story of war is—if one is to take words in their ordinary meaning—extremely radical, fundamental, revolutionary. It is a proposal which, had it been made 15 years ago, would have been received by those who now discuss it so respectfully with a derision and a contempt which would have smothered it in a day; and it is made moreover by a Government which no one would describe as either radical or revolutionary in its general method and outlook, which has declined to co-operate in proposals fundamentally much less radical and which has preceded the proposal to renounce all war by building new cruisers and greatly increasing its navy.

Problem of the Future.

Has then some vast and fundamental change taken place in men and nations these last 15 years or within the last few weeks? No one believes it. Are then these undertakings, to which we are all invited to subscribe, meaningless, and will the treaty suggested by Mr. Kellogg (Secretary of State) leave things exactly as they were?

I do not think so. The treaty of itself will leave most of the problem still to solve, and if there is to be no sequel it would indeed be without practical effect. But I believe that if this treaty goes through and is signed by the nations as it ought to be, it is bound to lead to other things, and those things will be extremely important.

Let us see the position.

The proposals do not carry definitions of the words they use, of such words as "renouncing war." But we know, in any case, that that does not mean renouncing the right of nations to defend themselves. We might honestly undertake as individuals never to use violence to settle our differences with our neighbors and to trust to the law for protection of our rights. Yet we should resist the burglar and never dream that in doing so we had broken the rule against violence, or the undertaking to decide our disputes by law.

Something else is implicit: If one party to the bargain breaks it, the first is no longer bound by it.

So the "unqualified renunciation" is not quite so unqualified: We may wage wars to defend ourselves, or if the other side begins it first.

Right of Self-Defense.

If we regard the League as a political entity, a nascent Federation, it may very fairly also claim this right of self-defense, claim that an attack upon one member—even if made by another member—is an attack upon all, upon the whole society, which is thus, under these qualifications, justified in defending itself.

Now, if we were at all clear as to what defense is, the undertaking to wage only defensive war would of itself be extremely valuable. If no one made attacks no nation need defend itself and wars would end.

Among the many falsehoods induced by the atmosphere of war is the one which usually gathers around the word "defense." We imply that it means the defense of territory, of our homes and firesides. But plainly, in the case of the great and highly organized states "defense" means—and in the ever shrinking world of multitudinous contacts must increasingly mean—a great deal more than the mere security of the national territory from invasion, which indeed hardly enters in at all.

In some six or seven hundred years about the only country in the world where the British army has never had to fight a foreign foe is Britain. So with America, short as is her history as a sovereign state: of all the foreign wars which she has fought, or been near to fighting, not one was to resist invasion. (Her first war as an independent State was in the Mediterranean; her second about sea rights; her third, against Mexico, ended in vast additions to national territory; her fourth, against Spain, was not occasioned by an incursion of foreign troops—nor her long war in the Philippines, nor the war against Germany, nor Nicaragua.)

Defensive Warfare.

We may, without irony, plead that all these wars, British and American alike, were defensive. For defense, in international affairs, means the defense of the national interest, the national right. And that may be jeopardized, genuinely jeopardized, as much on the other side of the world as at home. And in an anarchical society, like that of the nations today, where each member claims to be sovereign, defense comes inevitably to mean the right of each to be judge of his own rights, with power to enforce his judgment.

Obviously, therefore, a renunciation of war "except for defense," will mean extremely little until we have some agreement as to what defense means and what aggression is.

But that this is indeed the problem would surely emerge once there had been general subscription to this undertaking to renounce war. The very fact that things would go on much as before, the same military rivalries and alliances, the same difficulties about disarmament, would bring home to the public the nature of a further disastrous oversimplification, akin to that touching defense. So many of us feel—and demagogues habitually exploit the feeling—that war is caused by the deliberate intent of consciously evil men; and that if we could get rid of these con- Great Renunciation the world sciously malevolent designs by a would know peace.

The real tragedy of war is that those who make it usually feel honestly, however mistakenly, that they have no other alternative; that if they are to do their duty by their state and its interests to protect it from the menacing power of a rival or secure for it and its posterity a fair share of the world's resources then they must insist upon the right to keep open that canal, ensure access to the sea or those ore or oil fields; another party invokes other rights, nationality, or sovereignty, or self-determination. There is "conflict of two rights," which, aided by human tempers, pugnacities, rival loyalties, makes war waged "defensively" by both sides inevitable.

An individual may decide to go to war except defensively will not reach the core of such difficulties as these. There needs effort of a more constructive kind. We have yet to decide more clearly than we have done what are the rights of nations: how they can be reconciled with each other; find out what are the necessary rules of the road for nations, and how it can be made more advantageous for the would-be recalcitrant to keep them than to defy them.

The first rule of all, of course, would be the rule of third party judgments in disputes, the rule of operation of such a code. One that no nation, party to a dispute, should claim the right to be the judge because it happened to be the stronger and call the assertion of that claim "defense."

This treaty if signed will almost inevitably bring us nearer to the positive service, moreover, it performs. With the authority of the most powerful state in the world, it proposes a new juridical principle as the basis of international life. Heretofore, war, even if

THE SAD PRINCESS OF RUMANIA

Helen, Deserted by Prince Carol After Series of Bereavements, Lives Quietly in 8-Room 'Palace,' Devoting Herself to Charity and to Training Her Son, 6-Year-Old Michael, to Be a Good King—Never Hears From Husband and Does Not Wish to See Him Again, But Still Wears His Ring—Seldom Meets the Former Queen Marie.

By JAMES A. MILLS,
Staff Correspondent of the Associated Press.

BUCHAREST, June 2.

THE Sad Princess might well be the title by which Princess Helen of Rumania will be remembered in history. The deserted wife of Prince Carol, and mother of the boy King of 17,000,000 people, she is said by her intimate friends never to have known real love or happiness save in the affection of her 6-year-old son, King Michael.

Charming, estimable and attractive, her only interests in life now are her son and her work in the Red Cross.

Helen's life has been a succession of sorrows. The first came when, as a girl of 17 years in Greece, her grandfather, the late King George I, was killed by an assassin's bomb. Then, a few years later, she witnessed the death through an accident of her favorite brother, King Alexander. Subsequently she saw the dethronement, exile and death of her father, the ill-starred King Constantine.

It was during her father's exile in Switzerland that Helen met the young Prince Carol, who was later to bring so much anguish and bitterness into her life. At the end of the World War she saw her uncle, Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany, follow her father into exile.

Carol Deserts His Wife for Bucharest Woman

After her marriage in Bucharest to Prince Carol, which was believed by all to be a political alliance promoted by Queen Marie, Princess Helen witnessed the banishment from the Greek throne of her elder brother, King George. Then came the death of her beloved grandmother, Queen Mother Olga, and finally, the tragedy that filled her cup of woe to the brim—Crown Prince Carol, to whom she had been married only four years, deserted her to go with the red-haired Madame Lupescu, daughter of a Jewish merchant of Bucharest.

What kind of a girl is this Princess, who has tasted so bitterly of the sorrows of life, and whom fate has robbed of Queenship over one of the richest states in Europe? An Associated Press correspondent, after a day spent in the sad Princess's palace in Bucharest, records these impressions:

First a luncheon with the tall, stately, gracious Princess and her affable, democratic brother, former King George of Greece. Both like the company of Americans, because, they say, they are "more natural and likeable than other folks."

Helen Dresses Simply; Still Wears Carol's Ring

Helen has just celebrated her thirty-second birthday, but her luxuriant golden hair, which she wears semi-bobbed, her wistful blue-gray eyes, fair complexion and graceful figure make her look younger. She dresses simply and her only articles of jewelry are a pearl necklace, the gift of Queen Marie, and the wedding ring given her by Carol.

The table is set for five, with Michael sitting next his mother. The hostess' simplicity and ease of manner disarm any restraint. One feels he is having an everyday meal with the family at home. In its interior the so-called "palace" resembles nothing so much as an old Colonial mansion in the South. There is no throne chair for the King; only a baby's high chair.

The menu is simple. Michael, wearing a tucker and bib, like an American 6-year-old, finishes a plate of mashed potatoes and askes for "more." At his side, looking up pleadingly for another cookie, is "Brown Mumbo," Michael's favorite spaniel and inseparable companion.

Helen chats pleasantly about her surroundings, and remarks that she prefers small, cozy homes to great, kingly palaces. She has her choice of three palatial residences, but she likes best this modest eight-room house on the Chausee Kisilev, Bucharest's "Fifth avenue."

Likes to Read Women's Publications From U. S.

Round about the dining room are the latest number of American women's magazines and other publications. In the outer room

King Michael of Rumania, from the likeness which now appears on all Rumanian stamps, and his mother, the Princess Helen, whose husband, Prince Carol, is an exile from the homeland.

are scores of books by American authors, for, although Helen speaks six languages, she prefers to read and to speak English, for five generations the family language.

Luncheon over, her Royal Highness invites her American guests into the lovely garden at the side of the house, meanwhile cautioning Michael, or "baby," as she invariably calls him, that he must be off to his lessons.

In the sun-flooded garden, we meet Helen's beautiful young sister, Princess Irene, who will be married soon to Prince Shaumburg-Lippe, nephew of the King of Denmark, and Prince Paul, Helen's youngest brother, who is planning a trip to the United States and Canada, and asks details about steamships, railroads and hotels.

"Will your Royal Highness tell us something about your life for the American people?" the correspondent ventures.

The Princess declines to be quoted, but she allows the correspondent to say that all her time now is taken up with the care and training of Michael and with charitable work. Before her marriage, the Princess was intensely fond of outdoor sports. She was an expert yachtswoman and swimmer. But now that Prince Carol has deserted her, and Michael has to be trained for the throne, she has no desire for such recreations. When the weather permits, she takes a morning gallop into the countryside.

Rumanians Call Her 'Princess of the Poor'

We learn from Helen's own lips that being a Princess and mother of a King is no sinecure. All her days are occupied with official audiences, the training of her son, and with multiform activities on behalf of schools, hospitals, clinics and charitable organizations. Her constant works of charity have earned for her the title in Rumania of "Princess of the Poor."

Princess Helen has one particular hobby, her special training school for nurses, patterned after a famous institution in the United States. Most of the students are poor girls, who throughout the two-year course are boarded and trained without charge. The graduates are known in Rumania as "Princess Helen's Girls." The Princess keeps contact with them long after they have left the institution.

She does not care about social functions, and rarely accepts an invitation to a dinner or party. The only functions she gives at the palace are afternoon teas, to which she often invites members of the American colony in Bucharest.

Princess Helen sees ex-Queen Marie seldom—not because there is any estrangement between them, but because their personalities, temperaments and interests differ radically. Helen is silent, shy, timorous. Marie is radiant, lively, vivacious, brilliant. Helen lives only for Michael. Queen Marie seems to live for the world. The two personalities do not mix. But royal mother-in-law and deserted Princess get on very cordially, nevertheless.

No Letters From Carol, Who Sends Gifts to Son

Princess Helen rarely speaks of Prince Carol, and then only with forebearance and moderation. But it is known that she has obliterated the eccentric Prince from her life and wishes never to see him again. Carol never writes to her, but he sends to little Michael, who resembles him greatly, toys, story books and other presents. The Princess' friends believe she will never remarry, preferring to center her love and devotion, once already blighted, upon Michael, in whom her whole heart and soul are passionately absorbed.

Her royal highness has two ladies-in-waiting and two secretaries, all of whose time is occupied in assisting the Princess dispose of her large volume of court, state and personal correspondence. Princess Helen receives many letters from persons in the United States asking for photographs and autographs, and often expressing sympathy for her in her lonely existence. Little King Michael himself receives scores of letters from children in America asking him about his kites, dogs and toys.

After inviting her American guests to tea, Princess Helen takes leave of her visitors with a warm handshake and a charming smile. King Michael and his pet dog run to her side and join in the farewell.

Says Michael Studies Hard to Be Good King

"Please don't write a lot about me or Michael in the papers," she admonishes the correspondent, as she hands him an autographed photograph of herself and of Michael. "Just say we are living very quietly and simply; that Michael is studying diligently; that I am trying to raise him to be a manly, honorable youth and an exemplary King."

One felt in the Princess' farewell words a rankling allusion to the boy's father, who, leaving mother and child to their fate, spurned the Rumanian throne.

As the Americans left the royal gate, Helen smiled sweetly and bowed again, while Mihai waved his little handkerchief and shouted, "Don't forget the kite,'" the correspondent having promised to send him an American box kite.

BIG JOB DONE BY CONGRESS BOTH IN SOLID LEGISLATION AND UNCOVERING FRAUDS

Continental Bond Deal and Hearst's Spurious Mexican "Documents" Among Notable Exposures—More Vetoes Than Usual.

By Charles G. Ross,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 2.

SOLID legislative achievement, as well as the political maneuvering that always comes in a presidential election year, marked the session of Congress which ended last Tuesday. The session was notable also for the work of several investigating committees, particularly those which disclosed the fraudulent character of the Hearst Mexican "documents" and uncovered sensational new facts relating to the disposition of the $3,000,000 Continental Trading Co. slush fund.

Outstanding among the bills passed was the long-debated flood control measure. Committee hearings on the subject began a month before the opening of Congress in December, but it was not till the middle of May that the controversy was definitely closed by the President's approval of a compromise measure. It looked for a time as if disagreements between the President and Congress would throw the whole project on the rocks and necessitate the calling of an extra session this summer.

The act authorizes an appropriation of $325,000,000 for controlling the waters of the Lower Mississippi and sets up a board of three members to decide between conflicting engineering plans. Limited local contributions are to be required for the section of the river between Cape Girardeau and Rock Island, but with respect to the rest of the lower river the act says that the states and levee districts have already contributed their share.

Thus the President won a victory through the affirmation of the principle of local contributions, but lost on his original contention that the flooded States should bear one-fifth of the cost of the control project.

Power Interests Get Surprise.

Long before the session started it was evident from the activities of lobbyists in Washington that public utility questions would bulk large in the debates. The fight of the utility interests was directed against the passage of three measures—the Walsh resolution for an investigation of the power industry, the Boulder Canyon Dam bill and the Norris bill for Government operation of the power and nitrate project at Muscle Shoals, Ala. Walsh's demand for a senatorial investigation was thwarted, but only at the cost of a resolution sending the inquiry to the Federal Trade Commission.

What looked like a victory for the power interests has turned out otherwise. The Trade Commission, which had been counted upon to make only a gesture, surprised nearly everybody by embarking promptly upon a searching investigation. Hearings already held by the commission have uncovered a vast deal of evidence showing the nation-wide use of money by the power interests in an effort to control public opinion. Special propaganda devoted to getting arguments against public ownership into school and college textbooks has been brought to light.

Norris Wins Victory.

Revulsion against the methods of the power interests, as revealed by the Trade Commission, was one of the factors in bringing about the approval of the Norris plan for Government operation of Muscle Shoals. First the plan went through the Senate, and then, in modified form, under the name of the Morin bill, through the House. Differences were adjusted in conference and the bill was sent to the President near the end of the session. Norris declared that the compromise bill was a fair and workable solution of the Shoals problem.

Its passage was a remarkable personal victory for the Nebraska Senator against odds that for a long time appeared insuperable.

He was almost alone when he began his fight seven years ago to keep the shoals in the hands of the Government.

The session adjourned without approval or disapproval of the Muscle Shoals bill by the President. It is a moot question whether the bill thereby was killed automatically or whether the President can still make it law by signing it within 10 days after it was presented to him. President Cleveland took the position that he had 10 days in which to sign, regardless of whether or not the first session of Congress adjourned in the interim. A similar ruling was made in the Wilson administration by Attorney-General Palmer. The validity of the laws signed by Cleveland and Wilson after mid-term adjournments has not been challenged in the courts, but the importance of the Muscle Shoals bill is such that, if the President should sign it, the question probably would find its way into the courts for definite determination.

Some authorities, including

Summary of Session's Work

AMONG the important bills passed at the session of Congress just closed are:

Appropriating $325,000,000 for Mississippi River flood control.

Making $222,495,000 tax reduction, including the repeal of the tax on automobiles.

Directing the immediate return of 80 per cent of private property held by the alien property custodian.

Raising the pay of 135,000 federal civil service employes, a total of $20,000,000 a year.

Reducing postal rates.

Renewing federal aid road appropriations for two years.

Extending the life of the radio commission.

Increasing to $15,000,000 the capital of the Inland Waterways Corporation.

Providing for Government operation of Muscle Shoals.

THE more than 20 investigations ordered or concluded embraced:

The Reed slush fund committee, the report of which caused the Senate to refuse to admit Senators-elect Vare of Pennsylvania and Frank L. Smith of Illinois.

The Teapot dome committee, which uncovered the details of the fraudulent Continental Trading Co. (Ltd.).

The inquiry that disclosed the fraudulent character of the Hearst Mexican "documents."

Public Utilities inquiry, turned over to the Federal Trade Commission.

AMONG the 13 vetoes by President Coolidge were:

Increasing postal employes' pay. (Passed over veto.)

Making allowances to fourth-class postmasters. (Passed over veto.)

Placing emergency Army officers on the same retirement basis as those of the regular army. (Passed over veto.)

McNary-Haugen farm relief bill.

On the Nature and Limitations of Law.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE League of Nations Covenant was drafted in its present succinct and supposedly more legal form by two lawyers—Lord Philpots of England and our David Hunter Miller.

But their job was merely to formulate in brief terms ideas which had survived to clash of minds in the commission on League of Nations under the Paris Peace Conference. There seems to be no doubt that Wilson was by no means alone in demanding that the covenant should not be a "lawyer's covenant." This demand, if I understand it, did not reflect a slur against the juristic profession. It did reflect an honest criticism of the philosophy of law which the average lawyer appears to entertain. I say "appears" because, of course, the average plain man that is inextricably mixed with every lawyer reacts very much like the average layman no matter what his legalistic double may say.

The question concerning the nature and limitations of law, as you have well and frequently contended, is naturally a lay question—the jurist's province arising only after the governed have indicated how much law they will stand for. But the lay world is prone to reject this simple and ungingered view. Argument appears to be ineffective against the force of habit.

Jay's absurd view contrasts so sharply with the modern view expressed so lucidly in the British "Commentary on the League of Nations" at the close of the Peace Conference in 1919, as to warrant repetition.

Recognizing that one generation cannot hope to bind its successors by written words, the commission has worked throughout on the assumption that the League must continue to depend on the free consent, in the last resort, of its component states. (From the preamble of the aforementioned commentary.)

And here is Jay's view, taken from The Federalist:

Others, though content that treaties should be made in the mode proposed, are averse to their being the supreme laws of the land. They insist, and profess to believe, that treaties like acts of assembly, should be repealable at pleasure. This idea seems to be new and peculiar to this country, but new errors, as well as new truths, often appear. These gentlemen would do well to reflect that a treaty is only another name for a bargain, and that it would be impossible to find a nation who would make any bargain with us, which should be binding on them absolutely, but on us only so long and so far as we may think proper to be bound by it. They who make laws may, without doubt, amend or repeal them; and it will not be disputed that they who make treaties may alter or cancel them; but still let us not forget that treaties are made, not by only one of the contracting parties, but by both; and consequently, that as the consent of both was essential to their formation at first, so must it ever afterwards be to alter or cancel them. The proposed Constitution, therefore, has not in the least extended the obligation of treaties. They are just as binding, and just as far behind the lawful reach of legislative acts now, as under any form of government.

S. D. MERTON.

Navigation on the Missouri.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I SEE the Federal barge line is contemplating extending its service into the Missouri River. Experience has taught private owners that towboats and barges won't do on the Missouri. To detail the equipment needed, I am neither a pilot nor engineer, though I have been assistant clerk on several Missouri River boats of small dimensions plying between St. Louis and Arrow Rock with Heckmann Brothers of Hermann.

The Heckmanns are considered the best Missouri River pilots of the present day. They can read water as you read the evening news. Their boats around 100 feet in length, drew four feet loaded and 2½ feet light and it was all they could do in low water—say 4½ to 5 feet on shoals—to make the crossings, breaks and bends without going aground. The channel would probably be at Musick's Ferry going up and at Black Walnut coming down.

Going aground in Missouri River is no "playhouse," when you have to run a line out on a sand bar and establish a "dead man," as they call it, for a hitch-post to spar off of, especially during the mosquito season. So what will a towboat of 155 feet pushing a couple of 200-foot barges do in the narrow crossings and shoals of the Missouri? Pilots come first, short boats of wide beam and light draught come second, and red tape third on the Missouri.

WHERE THE FARMER LANDED.

Suggestion that farmers in the Middle Western states march upon the Republican National Convention at Kansas City and present their grievance en masse is not meeting with acclaim in the big agricultural states. There are two opinions about it: (1) the partisan opinion that the motive is to embarrass the party; (2) that no matter how many farmers went the industrialists would still control the convention.

Such is the plight of the farmer. He has nothing to hope for from the Republican party, to which he has remained steadfast throughout the decline of his industry; nor is it likely that there is any other political quarter to which he can turn. That is, the farmer is the orphan of American economics. Prof. Dodd, whose recent article in the Century was probably the most penetrating review of this phenomenon that has been attempted, says the American farmer must inevitably become a peasant. In his opinion there is no way in which the country can return to the point at which the farmer was left to shift for himself while industry and labor jointly feathered their nests. Their status in the country is fixed; that of the farmer is unfixed. This is not a situation that the farmer can change either by working from the inside, as he has done in the struggle for the McNary-Haugen bill, or from the outside by organizing a third party or joining the Democrats. His postulate, whether within or without, is the same. He wants to be taken care of; but since neither industry nor labor will give up anything to take care of him, and they constitute together a greater political force than his own, he is perforce lost.

That is where the farmer has landed. It is a place toward which he has been headed, as Prof. Dodd shows, since the Civil War. There have been a half dozen farm revolts, but they have never affected the farmer's status. He has gone steadily down, down, down. There is a degree of truth in his statement that the tariff is his undoing, but it is not true that the tariff alone has brought him to his present pass. If the tariff were abolished the effect would be not so much to lift the farmer up as it would be to pull industry and labor down. It is for this reason that the Democratic party cannot give the farmer what he wants when the Republican party, as it has just done, turns him down. The Democratic party can lower the tariff, but it cannot do more than lower it. If it did it would alienate the non-agricultural elements within itself, and these are a considerable part of the Democratic party.

In the opinion of the Post-Dispatch the farmers would gain nothing by marching upon Kansas City. To give them what they want the Republican party would have to destroy itself, and as some of the farm leaders foresee it is not going to do anything of the kind. The farmers will do better by marching to the polls next November and voting the Democratic ticket. That would be an effective protest against one-sided privilege. It will also afford them a measure of relief, and more than that they cannot expect. No civilization has been able to equalize opportunity for all its citizens, and our own civilization is not going to be able to do it. The farmer is essentially unorganized, whereas industry and labor are closely organized and therefore able to write their own tickets for their services to society. The farmer cannot do that, and he never will be able to do it. The wheat farmer's ticket, for instance, is written in Liverpool.

The farmer can only organize so far as possible and trust to fortune for the rest. Sometimes, as Prof. Dodd has shown, fortune is kind. It is kind when there is a great war and food prices rise. It is unkind in peace, and not even our own bellicose world can fight all the time.

REAL TAX REDUCTION.

It is being generally said that the new tax law does nothing for the little fellow, but we beg to dissent. It took the tariff off foreign built yachts, and if that isn't thrusting bread into hungry mouths we are puzzled to know what is.

The tax on foreign-built yachts has been a great hardship to the poor. It was in our opinion comparable to the famous tax on bread. If the country knew history as well as it should it would not have to be told that we came within a hair of some bad yacht riots.

Anyway, the poor got what they wanted, and they can now go yachting.

HIGHWAYS OF THE FUTURE.

It is the opinion of Mr. E. J. McIlraith, a staff engineer for the Chicago surface lines, that we are fast coming to the one-way highway. He thinks traffic, already severely taxing the two-way highway, is to become so heavy that where there is now one trunk road there will in time be two.

That is, indeed, quite a romantic look ahead. It is undeniable that automobile traffic, as great as it is, is going to increase very rapidly. The average highway is already too narrow for it. A slow car, or a team, occasions dangerous congestion. The one-way pavement would obviate the perils of traffic on a two-way pavement. It would enable those who want to drive slowly to do so without getting in the way of high-speed traffic. The average travel speed upon American highways is going up. It would be far-sighted of the country to consider, as Mr. McIlraith has done, how the highways of the future are going to take care of it.

WILLIAM Z. FOSTER'S PROGRAM.

William Z. Foster is the presidential nominee of the Communist Party of America. In his speech of acceptance, Foster said:

> We must build a soviet government in the United States. It will come and behind it will stand a red army.

It is doubtful that the tiny group of Communist Party adherents in this country, or even Foster himself, believes that anything like this is going to happen. His declaration was just a piece of political bombast bearing no relation to actuality or good sense.

Our 100 per centers, however, will immediately seize upon this foolish statement as something to take with dead seriousness. The Key Men of America will work themselves into a frenzy over it. The D. A. R. will tremble. Professional fascists will cite this as proof of their contentions that America is in imminent danger of bolshevism.

We advise those who are prone to nervousness on the subject of bolshevism to keep this incident in mind until next November, and by way of reassuring themselves, look up the number of votes cast for Foster in the election.

—BUT THE PATIENT DIED.

When young Clarence Dillon bought the Dodge company for $146,000,000 a couple of years ago, we were told a new Titan had arrived on Wall street. Dillon's name and the particulars of his career were broadcast throughout the nation, together with photographs of that famous $146,000,000 check, and little boys everywhere decided to be geniuses like Dillon when they grew up.

One is not so sure but that the Dillon ballyhoo had something in it. It will be noted that, promptly upon purchase, Dillon resold the Dodge company to the public for $160,000,000; that is to say, he permitted the public to finance it and hold the bag. The difference—$14,000,000—represented underwriting costs and Dillon's profit. But while the public made it possible for Dillon to swing this huge transaction, he kept control of the company himself. This was done by issuing to himself 500,000 shares of Class B voting stock; the other issues had no vote, and, of course, no control of the property.

All of this is in accordance with the best traditions of modern financing, and we daresay there was not a flaw in Dillon's banking technique. The sad part of the story—not to Dillon, but to the people who bought the new Dodge securities—is that the Wall street Titan did not know anything about the automobile business. What in the hands of the Dodge brothers was one of the country's great industries began to fizzle out when Dillon took hold.

It has now fizzled its last fizzle, so far as the present management is concerned, and it is to have new life breathed into it by a real automobile man, Walter Chrysler. In the meantime, holders of Dodge stock have learned that a man can be a great banker but a washout as an industrialist. Dillon's brilliant feat in buying the Dodge company will no doubt continue to be told, but the story will take its place with that other classic: A fine operation, but the patient died.

Will Mr. Coolidge make Muscle Shoals one of the monuments of his administration?

THE SENSITIVE ELEPHANT.

Mr. George Clark of London, whose business it is to train animals, spent 15 minutes of his time, the other day, laying a rhinoceros whip across the gray leather bulk of an adult elephant. The animal, objecting to Mr. Clark's procedure, let forth a series of screams worthy of its stature, the neighborhood was aroused and so was a magistrate, and the trainer was fined $10.

The defense introduced another trainer who insisted he had known elephants who would bellow at sight of a beetle, and that one elephant of his acquaintance would indulge in piercing screams if it were chastised with a pencil or a wisp of straw, the theory being that not the beast's hide but its feelings were hurt.

Despite this expert testimony, the offending trainer was fined, and we are glad of it. What if the elephant felt no physical pain? what if it merely protested because of outraged emotions. An elephant has as much right to self-respect as anyone else. Besides, we strongly suspect what was the unkindest cut of all. It was that the whip was made of rhinoceros hide. Maybe the elephant didn't know the particular rhinoceros whence came the whip, he probably had never had any trouble with that particular rhinoceros. Even so, no elephant of character or consequence would submit to being lashed, even figuratively, by a rhinoceros. Any mahout could tell an elephant trainer that.

Hornsby is back in his old place at the top of the National League batting list. (Some of the sporting writers who said he was done, please copy.)

MOTOR MERGERS.

The merger of Chrysler and Dodge Brothers has flushed a flock of rumors as to other prospective combinations. Pierce-Arrow and Jordan are reported to have carried their negotiations well towards consummation. Packard is said to have made advances to Reo. Conjecture vaguely promises further alliances.

The Chrysler-Dodge consolidation is a fact of moment. This enterprise, in point of magnitude, now ranks third in the industry, General Motors being first and Ford second. If that intangible, morale, could be entered in the books, it is possible, we think, that the rating might be revised.

Walter Chrysler is today the Napoleonic figure of motordom. Nothing more miraculous has occurred in auto annals than his transformation of the moribund Maxwell company into the blazing success embodied in the name of Chrysler—the car that leaped in sales from twenty-seventh to third in the twinkling of a few years. Here is a career comparable, it seems to us, to the romance of Ford or the imperial conquest of General Motors. And Chrysler's star is in ascendant.

Further, Chrysler's meteoric swing invites public opinion to qualify a conviction, or impression, it had subconsciously arrived at, namely, that by the "law of the jungle," the destined survivors in motordom were General Motors and Ford. This "new Richmond in the field" enunciates an old truth that no Colossus, however vast his resources, is secure in his supremacy. The country has seen the suzerainty of Ford waver and finally fall under the battering assault of General Motors, until Model T was at last junked and a modern product fabricated to meet modern requirements.

In other words, there is nothing static about industrial leadership. The doctrine of divine right does not obtain. The automobile is repeating economic history. The names of Vanderbilt, Gould, Hill and Harriman, which were a sort of royal family to the youth that is now middle-aged, have disappeared as the railroads' reigning houses. And though the two Titans of motordom are robustly dominant, the story of Chrysler redrafts the message that commanding ability will achieve command.

It is essential to progress that the law of the survival of the fittest shall continue vitally operative. The day of big business is here, and tomorrow will inescapably be a day of bigger business.

Nothing was done in the new tax law for the persons whose incomes range from $15,000 to $70,000 a year. The members of Congress, who make $12,000 a year, probably felt that these people had already done all that was necessary for themselves.

Mexico is to adopt the metric system. It is going to be interesting to go down there in a few years and see how all these reforms work out.

"A NEW TAX BILL PASSED BUT NOT THIS WAY!"

The Farmer's Plight

Senator From Nebraska Sketches the Distress of the Farmer in the Middle West; Farm Lands Have Depreciated in Value; Tenant Farmers Are Increasing; No Benefit From the Tariff; High Railroad Rates; Everyone Should Be Interested in Helping the Farmer Gain His Rights.

GEORGE W. NORRIS in The World Tomorrow.

THE farm situation is serious. The value of farm lands and farm buildings has decreased enormously since 1920. The return on capital invested is far below that of industrial capital. The prices received by the farmers for their products are far below his actual needs. On the other hand farmers pay heavier taxes in proportion to their incomes than any other group. The result of all this is that 40 per cent of the farmers are tenants who cultivate two-thirds of the improved acreage of the country. Literally millions have left the farm in the decade since the war, and others will follow. Thousands of farms have been put under the auctioneer's hammer and sold for a song. Banks in the agricultural regions have found it increasingly difficult and dangerous to lend money on farms. Scores of them have come to grief on that investment. The more powerful of them are accumulating an ever increasing farm area which makes large numbers of farmers almost feudal appendages to wealthy banks. There is real distress in the farm region of the Middle West. The farmers have a real grievance.

This distress is not due to inefficiency. The American farmer could no doubt increase his efficiency by the further use of machines, fertilizers, etc. The enormous possibilities of American agriculture were demonstrated in part during the war emergency when more intensive cultivation was a necessity. But the problem of today is not that of production. The farmer produces too much as it is. This drives down prices and in order to gain more, he produces still more, thus driving prices still lower. The problem is in distribution, in marketing.

This serious situation on the farms by which far reaching inequalities have been created and great discontent generated, is not of the farmer's making, nor did it arise through his neglect or inability. In the same way it cannot be remedied by any concerted action of the farm group. There is in the situation much that has arisen through political action, and therefore much that can be remedied in like manner. It may be true that the ultimate solution lies in the field of economics and will be achieved by the farmer, but politics and economics meet more often and more closely than is usually conceded, and political action can help to solve, at any rate relieve, the present distress.

It is generally conceded that the farmer ought to participate in any advantages which the manufacturer and laboring man derive from the tariff. But he does not. For the farmer is compelled to buy in a protected market and to sell in the world market. For that reason he does not benefit from the tariff. The manufacturer raises his price to the tariff level and has no foreign competition to meet until he goes above that level. Meanwhile the added cost produced by the tariff is passed from manufacturer to jobber, to wholesaler, to retailer, and is finally collected from the consumer. Each in turn adds a little to the price, so that the ultimate consumer pays more than the tariff.

The situation is quite different with the farmer. In the principal staple food products the farmer produces a surplus year for year. His market is not only the United States, but he must sell his surplus in the competitive field against the wheat of India, the Argentine, Russia, and other parts of the world. Despite the fact that there is a tariff on wheat, the price of wheat in the United States is determined by the price of the world market. If we produce a surplus of 200,000,000 bushels of wheat, this margin sold at world prices fixes the price in the U. S. A. Thus the great overproduction deprives the farmer of all benefits of the tariff.

Consider further the very high cost of distribution paid by the farmer. Freight rates are passed on by the manufacturer in the same way as the cost of the tariff, until they are paid by the ultimate consumer. But the farmer is at the end of the road. He pays freight rates for what he buys, but he cannot pass on his freight rates. Whenever he sells anything the purchaser deducts freight as the first step. Thus the farmer pays twice. More than that, his freight bill has been increased from 50 to 75 per cent on everything he bought and sold since the war.

There is also the matter of marketing or distributing the farmer's crop. Thousands of middlemen wax fat by levying tribute on the products of the farmer as they pass through his hands. The farmer receives in the neighborhood of $10,000,000,000 for his goods, while the consumers pay about $30,000,000,000 for them. Some way can surely be found by which the farmer shall get more than a mere third of the price paid by the consumer.

The cry has gone up that the farmer is in politics. To one that knows, this sounds like a poor joke. Big Business is in politics. The railroads are in politics. All the trusts are in politics. Not only are these combinations in politics, they are in dirty politics. They are spreading propaganda from one end of the country to the other, deceitful in its nature and false in its very origin, and the peculiar thing about it is that all the expense, running into hundreds of millions, is charged to either the producer or the consumer, or both. The best illustration of this at present is the Power Trust which pours out money almost like water. It is attempting to prevent the full development of Muscle Shoals and is demanding a rakeoff when the power of the Colorado is developed. Men who want to preserve the great natural resources for the people are ridiculed and wherever possible driven out of public life.

If the farmer is in politics, it is because he has a deep interest in regaining a fair chance for a living, in wiping out his debts, and earning a fair return on his products. This interest is shared by every patriotic citizen. Farmers are the backbone of the nation and any serious ill threatening them is certain to affect the entire country. But aside even from that every real American ought to be deeply interested in helping this class, now trampled underfoot, regain those sacred rights which our forefathers supposed they had put in the fundamental law when they declared our independence.

Big Job

Senator Norris, maintain that if the President takes no action on the bill before the expiration of the 10-day period, which will be at midnight between next Thursday and Friday, it will automatically become a law. According to this theory, a "pocket veto" of a bill is possible only after the end of a Congress and not at the end of the first session.

The Boulder Canyon Dam bill, providing for the construction of a dam in the Colorado River for irrigation purposes, for the protection of the Imperial Valley against floods, and the development of power, was passed by the House but talked to death by a filibuster at the end of the session in the Senate. Heading the fight against the bill were the Arizona Senators, who declared that it did not properly safeguard the rights of their State. The bill will come up in the next session as unfinished business with good prospects of passage.

Tax Reduction $222,495,000.

Much of the time of both houses was occupied with debate on the tax reduction measure. As finally passed, it carries a reduction of $222,495,000. The important provisions of the bill are as follows: Reduction of the corporation tax from 13½ to 12 per cent; increase of the corporation tax exemption from $2000 to $3000; repeal of the automobile tax; increase of the admissions tax exemption from 75 cents to $2; increase of the earned allowance from $20,000 to $30,000. The bill increases to 25 per cent the tax on prize fight tickets costing more than $5.

Notable failures of the administration in connection with the tax bill were represented by the retention of the estate tax, which was the price exacted by the Republican insurgents for their support of the bill, and by the repeal of the automobile tax. The Senate at one stage of the proceedings adopted an amendment by Senator Norris for publicity of income tax returns, but later reversed itself.

Big Job Done by Congress

The Senate at one stage of the proceedings adopted an amendment by Senator Norris for publicity of income tax returns, but later reversed itself.

Of prime importance was the passage of the bill authorizing the immediate return of 80 per cent of the German private property still held by the Alien Property Custodian and the payment of American claims against Germany in amounts up to $100,000.

Farm Relief Veto.

The McNary-Haugen farm bill, which has been before Congress in various forms for the last six years, made its way through both Houses for a second time, and for a second time was vetoed by the President.

Seldom has any measure met with such severe executive condemnation. An unsuccessful effort to override the veto was made in the Senate.

Though the President vetoed the McNary-Haugen bill on the ground that it provided an unwarranted subsidy for one class of citizens—the farmers—at the expense of the rest of the public, he found it consistent with the policy of the administration to approve the Jones-White shipping bill, which was characterized by its opponents as carrying a disguised ship subsidy. This bill aims to encourage the upbuilding of a private merchant marine by granting loans to operators at low interest rates and by authorizing ocean mail carrying contracts on a basis which it is estimated will cost the Government $14,000,000 a year.

Another successful bill affecting transportation was that increasing the capital of the Inland Waterways Corporation, which operates the barges on the Mississippi and Warrior rivers, from $5,000,000 to $15,000,000, and allowing it to extend its operations to the Illinois and Missouri rivers.

Railroad consolidation legislation was again urgently recommended by the President in his opening message to Congress, but did not reach consideration on the floor of either House.

Early in the session, the Navy Department, with the approval of the President, submitted a program to Congress calling for 74 new vessels to cost $740,000,000. The program aroused strong opposition throughout the country, with the result that the House provided for the building of only 15 cruisers and one airplane carrier, at a total estimated cost of $274,000,000. The construction bill was caught in the Senate jam at the end of the session and failed to get through.

Marines Stay in Nicaragua.

Numerous attacks were made on the American intervention in Nicaragua, but all efforts to put through amendments to the naval bill looking to the withdrawal of the Marines met with defeat. The prevailing view was that the United States must keep the Marines there in order to carry out its promise to supervise the forthcoming elections.

Reapportionment of representation in Congress was again shelved. As a result of the steady evasion of this question by Congress since 1920, there will be no reapportionment to bring the make-up of the House into line with the changed distribution of population till after the census of 1930. Meantime, the rural districts have more representatives than they are entitled to. Missouri is doomed to be the heaviest loser when a reapportionment bill finally is passed.

For the fourth time the Senate, by an overwhelming majority, approved the Norris amendment to abolish the lame-duck session of Congress. The proposal received a simple majority in the House, but failed of the two-thirds necessary to bring it before the states.

Vetoes Unusually Numerous.

The closing days of the session saw a storm of vetoes by the President. Altogether, 13 measures were thrown back with his disapproval. The number established a new record for recent years, but fell far short of the 116 which President Cleveland sent to Congress during the session of 1885-86.

President Coolidge was sustained in his veto of a bill authorizing the appropriation of $10,500,000 for roads across public lands in the West. He was sustained also on a minor measure creating the rank of bandmaster in the army.

Three measures passed over his disapproval were the bill placing disabled emergency army officers on the same retirement basis as regular officers, the bill granting a 10 per cent increase to postal employes doing night work, and the bill providing rent, fuel, light and equipment allowances to fourth-class postmasters.

One important nomination by the President, that of John J. Esch for reappointment as a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, was rejected during the session. Esch was attacked because of his change of vote in the lake cargo coal case.

More Than 20 Investigations.

More than 20 investigations were ordered by the Senate during the session, but only a few of these were completed. Among the most important was that which established the falsity of the Hearst "documents" and exonerated four Senators who were described in these papers as the intended recipients of money from Mexico in return for their support of Mexican policies.

The investigation of the fraudulent Continental Trading Co. showed that Harry F. Sinclair, one of the four oil men who divided its profits, used part of his share in helping to pay off the deficit left from the Republican national campaign of 1920. The devious methods of Will H. Hays in attempting to cover up the large Sinclair gift were brought to light.

These and other disclosures, together with the findings of the Reed committee which resulted in the barring of Senators-elect Smith and Vare from the Senate, led to the introduction of numerous bills for the regulation of campaign expenditures. None of these reached the stage of final action, but the Senate did adopt a resolution for an inquiry into the expenditures for presidential candidates in the current campaign. This investigation is now going forward. It has shown to date an expenditure of $312,744 in the interest of Secretary Hoover and of $106,382 in the interest of Gov. Smith—both modest sums in comparison with the amounts uncovered by a similar investigation in 1920.

Among the resolutions adopted by the Senate, none provoked a more lively debate than that by Senator La Follette putting the Senate on record against any violation of the anti-third-term tradition for Presidents. Another highly interesting resolution, also of Progressive origin, requested the Supreme Court to allow Donald R. Richberg to appear as an attorney in the important St. Louis & O'Fallon valuation case. Senator Norris was responsible for this unique action by the Senate.

Largest Pay Increase.

The largest pay increase measure approved by both houses was the Welsh bill raising the pay of 135,000 Federal Civil Service employes by about $20,000,000 a year. Two important public building bills were passed and signed. The first of these increased to $265,000,000 the amount authorized for public buildings outside of Washington and the second permits the acquisition of sites in Washington for new Federal buildings.

The President on the last day of the session signed the postal rates reduction bill, which is estimated to cut postal revenues by about $16,000,000. Other important legislation of the session included a $15,000,000 act for new hospital facilities for World War veterans, the extension of the life of the Radio Commission for one year and the renewal of Federal aid road appropriations for two more years.

Passage of the Federal employes retirement bill was blocked in the House by Representative Small of New York, chairman of the Rules Committee, who pocketed a special rule adopted by that committee to permit its consideration.

Appropriations carried in the nine regular supply measures enacted during the session totaled more than $2,900,000,000, or 15 per cent more than the corresponding appropriations during the first session of the previous Congress. When to this amount are added the permanent and continuing appropriations, the amounts carried in the two deficiency acts of the session, and the amounts in miscellaneous acts, the total made available for the rest of the present fiscal year and for the next fiscal year reaches $4,750,000,000.

avowedly aggressive and predatory, has been legal, with its "laws" and conventions. That fundamental principle is to be abandoned. With the abandonment of the right of private war in the international field (which even the covenant did not completely wipe away) goes the abandonment of the old philosophy (the influence of which has been at times Satanically powerful, and not alone in Germany) which regards war as the expression of immutable biological law; and struggle for life; a means of ennobling nations; of regenerating them, purifying them . . . Not a few Bishops, many editors and most notes used to subscribe to that sort of thing. Mr. Kellogg commits America to a better political philosophy and way of life. It is not a small achievement. It is a first step, and others will now be easier to take.

$400,000 ACREAGE DEALS IN COUNTY SET NEW RECORD

W. C. Ferris Buys 160 Acres on Natural Bridge, Near Lucas and Hunt Roads, for $250,000.

WILL SUBDIVIDE FOR ELECTRIC EMPLOYES

Arthur Dickey Acquires 35 Acres on Geyer Road at Figure Said to Dwarf Previous Records.

By Berry Moore.

Three tracts in different parts of St. Louis County with an estimated value of nearly $400,000, have changed ownership within the last week. Record prices have been established in each instance.

The largest of these is the Louis G. Nelson tract of 160 acres on the Natural Bridge road just east of the Lucas and Hunt road, which has been purchased with subdivision plans by Wheaton C. Ferris, president of the Olive Street Terrace Realty Co., for an announced consideration of $250,000. The Mercantile Trust Co. handled the transaction in connection with the Green E. & R. G. Scott Realty Co.

The other two tracts consist of 22 acres at the southeast corner of Clayton and Denny roads, purchased by Mrs. Belle Tholen of Highpoint, Minn., for $3000 an acre, and 35 acres on the east side of the Geyer road between the Clayton and Manchester roads, by Arthur Dickey of the Dickey Construction Co.

The Clayton and Geyer tract was owned by Jack Dubinsky, who purchased it in 1927 for approximately $1500 an acre, it is said. The price realized by the resale is typical of the new values being established in this part of St. Louis County.

Price Dwarfs Records.

While not disclosed, the price paid by Dickey dwarfs all previous records for inside ground on Geyer road, north of the Clayton road, according to Proetz & Schnell, real estate agents who effected the transaction. Incidentally inside ground on Geyer road was sold for less than $500 an acre two years ago, which shows the speculative advantages of real estate investment in the suburban field.

The Natural Bridge Road tract is to be disposed of in lots to suit by the Ferris organization, which has subdivided and marketed four extensive tracts in that part of the city with notable success. It will be known as the "Electric Home Site" to be made available as homes for employes of the proposed General Electric plant, for which 155 acres on the Bircher road has been acquired, and which would give employment to 2500 people.

Dominate Electric Plant District.

Wheaton C. Ferris states in an advertisement in the Post-Dispatch today: "We and our clients now own more than $4,000,000 worth of property in the vicinity of the proposed new General Electric plant site, and consequently we dominate the situation in this district."

H. A. Griese, general sales manager of the Ferris organization, says that applications now being received indicate that about one-fourth of the property will be absorbed by its regular clients within the next few weeks.

The tract, which is one of the most picturesque adjacent to the city, was surrendered by its former owner only because of its proximity to the site of the General Electric project, which made the land too valuable to be thus retained.

The tract purchased by the Minnesota woman has a frontage of more than 1000 acres on the Clayton road and is one of the most attractive west of Denny Road. The Geyer Road tract, purchased by Dickey, is just north of and adjoins the Edward L. Bakewell development, which extends from the Geyer to the Denny road.

On Scale of Bakewell Tract.

Plans have not been disclosed in connection with these purchases. It is understood, however, that Dickey has plans for subdividing and developing his tract on a scale with the Edward L. Bakewell development, which has set a high standard for the transformation of this district. This refers especially to the Hager, Von Gontrad and other residences recently completed or under construction on this tract, as well as to the Carl Lawton home under construction on the east side of Denny road and involving a cost of $200,000.

Former United States Senator George H. Williams has not disclosed his plans in connection with the 43½ acres of ground of the estate of the late Eliza A. W. Clymer, adjoining the Log Cabin Club, re-

Walker will compose a syndicate which will subdivide the tract, which lies a quarter of a mile south of the Clayton road and adjoining the Log Cabin Club. The Log Cabin Club was regarded as the logical purchaser of this tract. The property was bid in at $1500 an acre, a total of $67,819.15, at the special commissioner's sale. The heirs had expected to get $2500 an acre for this property.

REALTY CONVENTION AT LOUISVILLE JUNE 19

Biggest Stag Party in History of Such Gatherings Planned for Visitors.

One of the largest stag parties in the history of conventions is being arranged for visitors to the twenty-first annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards in Louisville, Ky., June 19 to 22, the Louisville Real Estate Board's Convention Committee has announced.

Bruce Hoblitzell, chairman of entertainment, says suggestions of every person in the vicinity of Louisville who had knowledge of what a "party of men only" would require were taken into consideration in planning the entertainment. The party will be held at the Kentucky State Fair Grounds on Wednesday night of the convention week, starting at 5:30 p. m.

There will be a duplication of the 1928 Kentucky Derby. Just who or what will represent Reigh Count, Misstep and Toro was not divulged. Then will come a mule race with riders representing different cities. Wrestling matches and boxing bouts have been booked. All kinds of food, prepared by the best cooks in Kentucky, will be served with liquid refreshments to match.

3000 ATTEND OPENING OF ELDORADO PROJECT

More Than One-Third of Lots in New Subdivision Sold, Promoter Says.

More than one-third of the lots in William L. Heckmann's Eldorado subdivision were sold from the opening announcement of last Sunday. The field force was busy answering questions and closing lot sales. Heckmann estimates that more than 3000 persons responded to his invitation last Sunday to attend the opening.

Eldorado is in northern St. Louis County on the Larimore road. It is the section of the county that wil be tapped by a 100-foot State highway. Highways, boulevards and bridge construction in this north end are just beginning to be recognized by the investing public.

Two bridges now are under construction in this district, one across the Missouri River, and the other across the Mississippi.

A great deal of activity is evident in this section, as a number of new homes has been constructed in the last year. The St. Aloysius Parish Church is building a modern school. The cornerstone is to be laid today. The ladies of the church will serve supper.

GRAND AND KANSAS BUILDING PURCHASED

C. W. Pfimmer Acquires Unfinished Apartment and Store Property.

A modern two-story business building comprising two large stores and 24 apartments, in course of construction at the northeast corner of Grand boulevard and Kansas street, has been purchased by Conrad W. Pfimmer, president of the South Side Chevrolet Co., through the Christian Brinkop Real Estate Co.

The property was a frontage of 258 feet along the east line of Grand, and extends eastward along the north line of Kansas street 227 feet to the east line of Tennessee avenue, on which it has a frontage of 258 feet. It is opposite the Grand boulevard entrance to Carondelet Park and Holly Hills.

The building is 10 stories high and is of modern fireproof construction. It contains 100 suites of one and two rooms, with bath and shower. Both passenger and freight elevators are included in the equipment.

The building occupies 150x120 feet of the site, which has a frontage on Maryland of 150 feet and on Euclid of 215 feet. The new owners, it is understood, contemplate the erection of an addition t othe building on the adjoining unoccupied part of the site on Maryland avenue.

Approximately $150,000 a year was derived from the building by its former owners, who operated it exclusively as a hotel. The new owners will not lease the building, it is said, but will continue its operation as a hotel.

A bargain was struck in the purchase at this price, according to real estate men. The value of the site has undergone a very substantial appreciattion since the erection o fthe building, which it is contended could hardly be reproduced for the purchase price.

The building is virtually grouped with some of the most representative structures of its type in the city.

The building was promoted by Graves, who has acted as manager of the hotel. He was formerly a real estate operator.

FAIRMOUNT HOTEL BUILDING AND SITE CHANGES HANDS

Syndicate Headed by Steven C. Rodgers Purchases Maryland and Euclid Corner for $600,000.

The Fairmount Hotel building and site, at the northwestern corner of Maryland and Euclid avenues, was purchased yesterday by a syndicate headed by Steven C. Rodgers, an attorney, for $600,000. It was owned by the Fairmount Hotel of which J. W. Graves was president and erected in 1924.

CONSTRUCTION BEING PUSHED ON CABANNE APARTMENTS

Construction is being pushed on the two 12-family apartment buildings at 5820-26 Cabanne avenue. The new apartments will be of three, four and five rooms, with colored tile walls in bathrooms, all modern equipment, including showers with mixing valves, colored steel kitchen equipment, automatic refrigeration, Murphy beds, modern plumbing and electric fixtures. Certified steam heating is installed. The two buildings are part of a $2,000,000 building program which V. H. Rhodes, building constructor, has on for this year, the eight-story Winston Churchill apartment on Cabanne and Belt avenues now is under roof and will be ready for occupancy late this summer. Eugene J. Aitheimer, Williams & Calmer, Inc., 817 Chestnut street, are the agents.

KNIGHT ESTATE TRANSFER TO M. C. STEINBERG FILED

The deed has been filed conveying the Knight estate on the Warson road south of the Clayton road to Mark C. Steinberg, stock and bond broker, who recently purchased the property through Cornet & Zeibig.

The estate comprises 28 acres of beautiful rolling land landscaped under the direction of Manning of New York. The residence, containing 20 rooms and six baths, is of fireproof construction. It was designed by Lindabergh, the well-known Eastern architect and designer for many New York homes.

Harry F. Knight of Knight, Dysart & Gamble was the former owner.

M'ELROY-SLOAN FACTORY BUILDING AT WASHINGTON AND 21st, SOLD FOR $200,000

Activity Also on Delmar and North and South Kingshighway Shown in Week's Sales.

Washington avenue, Delmar boulevard and North and South Kingshighway sales last week were noteworthy as showing aroused speculative interest in property in those sections.

A five-story building at the northeast corner of Washington avenue and Twenty-first street, was purchased yesterday by LaBue Realty and Investment Co., of which George T. Burdeau is president, through Isaac T. Cook & Co. It was owned by the McElroy-Sloan Shoe Co., which formerly occupied it as a factory. The price, it is understood, was about $200,000. The site has a frontage on Washington avenue of 75 feet and on Twenty-first street of 137 feet. Comprising 51150 square feet the building is equipped with automatic sprinkler, passenger and freight elevators. It is now vacant but several offers for it involving long leases are under consideration by the new owners.

The 100 by 157 feet at 5877-79 Delmar boulevard was purchased for $80,00 by the urdeau Realty Co., of which George T. Burdeau is president. The site is occupied by a one-story building which is to be enlarged and altered. LeGrand Jones, Inc., handled the transaction. The property was owned by the Weber Motor Co.

Walter J. Stinde purchased a recently constructed building containing large store and four flats at 6172-74-76-78 Delmar boulevard, on a lot 93 by 114 feet for $70,000. John Meyer was the grantor. This section of Delmar boulevard is being widened eight feet on both sides to conform to the width of the street west of Skinker and east of Hamilton. This improvement, together with the opening of the viaduct over the Wabash Railroad tracks at Delmar and Hodiamont, scheduled for July 18, is expected to have a tonic effect on Delmar. This refers especially to the section which has been handicapped by the closing of the street during the construction of the viaduct. Plans have been completed for a $250,000 passenger station for the Wabash.

Contracts have also been let for the paving of Skinker road north of Delmar boulevard, as an outlet to the north by way of Hodiamont avenue. There has been manifest interest in property in this section of Skinker in anticipation of the wholesome effect of this improvement.

The sale of the southwest corner of Kingshighway boulevard and Minerva avenue to a client of the M. J. Slonin Realty Co. is announced by the Franciscus Realty Co. The site has a frontage of 112 feet on Kingshighway with a depth of 65 feet on Minerva and is improved with two residences.

The southwest corner of Kingshighway and Thekla has been purchased by the Rossi Realty Co. It is occupied by store and an apartment building erected by J. Charles Mueller Investment Co., who was the grantor in the transaction.

PLAN APPROVED TO ENLARGE FRANCIS PARK

Letters From City Officials Read to Southampton Development League.

The last meeting, until fall, of the Southampton Development League, was held at the assembly room in the Buder School Friday evening. Letters were read from Mayor Miller, Park Commissioner Pape and Alderman Krueger of the Twenty-fourth Ward, commending the proposed purchase of additional ground to increase the area of Francis Park, a tract of land at the northeast corner of Eichelberger and Donovan roads, containing about 60 acres of virgin land.

The Park Commissioner advised that the demand for funds for care and operation of the closer-in parks, made it impossible to give the problem its proper attention at this time, that there had been several studies made as to its advantageous development and that there was an item of $50,000 for preliminary development program provided in the bond issue, and that an ordinance would be introduced at the beginning of the fall session of the Board of Aldermen, so that this fund would become available for work there the spring of 1923.

It was suggested that several studies of the area had been made by the City Plan Commission, and that the chairman is desirous of all utility service being installed at once, so the park can be properly drained before it is made a public resort.

Wherry Creek sewer, that has so long held back this district, is now practically completed, and the people who purchased in this district many years ago are beginning to develop their homesites. A large increase in population by fall is anticipated. The Buder School, notwithstanding it was enlarged to its full quota of rooms last year, is filled, and the new population will make it necessary to increase the facilities by this time next year.

DUBUQUE BUYS MANCHESTER TRACT AS AN INVESTMENT

E. M. Dubuque has purchased a tract of 38,483 square feet on the south side of Manchester avenue in the 6900 block and running through the Wabash Railway. The tract has 121 feet on Manchester, with a depth of 300 feet extending to the Missouri right-of-way on which it fronts with 151 feet.

The sale was handled by H. G. Moehle, real estate agent, representing Donk Bros. Coal & Coke Co. in co-operation with the John Dockery Real Estate Co. acting for the purchaser. The purchase was made as an investment.

Important Notice!

For Clients Only

This announcement is addressed to our 10,000 clients in St. Louis, who have been doing business with us during the past twenty-two years, and to whom we owe our success. We appreciate your patronage and we intend to show our appreciation in a substantial manner.

You will read in the news today that we have just bought another large tract of land in the immediate vicinity of the huge General Electric Plant that will cost $75,000,000.00 and employ 25,000 men. We, with our clients, now own more than four million dollars' worth of land adjacent to the new plant. Consequently you and we dominate the situation in this district and there are substantial profits to be made if we cooperate closely.

Our success is due to just one fact. Our clients make money. We want more success. So it was up to us to find some way that our clients could make more money. We have found the way.

We have a startling proposition to make to you. Our new subdivision will not be formally opened to the public for thirty days. In the meantime we want all of our old customers to see the property and learn how we propose to make more money for both of us by closer co-operation.

Our new field office at 6921 Natural Bridge Road is open today for clients only. Be sure to come out and see us today.

Take Kirkwood-Ferguson car and get off at Nelsonia.

ENVIRONMENT DOES MAKE A DIFFERENCE

Would Living Like This Appeal to You?

WOULD you value a pretty home in the center of a large, private and artistically laid-out and developed suburban park, surrounded by trees and garden spots, on a winding drive that leads away to quiet exclusiveness from off the noisy, crowded highways? Would you value a place where your youngsters could romp and play over a vast open acreage in an environment conducive to robust, health and moral well-being? Would it mean anything to you to live bordering a fine country club where you, your family and your house-guests could enjoy golf, swimming, tennis, horseback riding and social contacts the whole day long? Would you like to live in a preferred location to which you could point in justifiable pride as your address? Would these things appeal to you? If they would then you and your family are such folks as deserve to live in the beautiful Osage Country Club Grounds...this superb, twentieth century suburb, planned for modern American families like yours. And, because we want you to live in Osage Hills, we have arranged a plan of home-ownership that will fit right into your needs and wishes. Ask about it! No obligation. By all means drive out Big Bend Boulevard and see this development...TODAY!

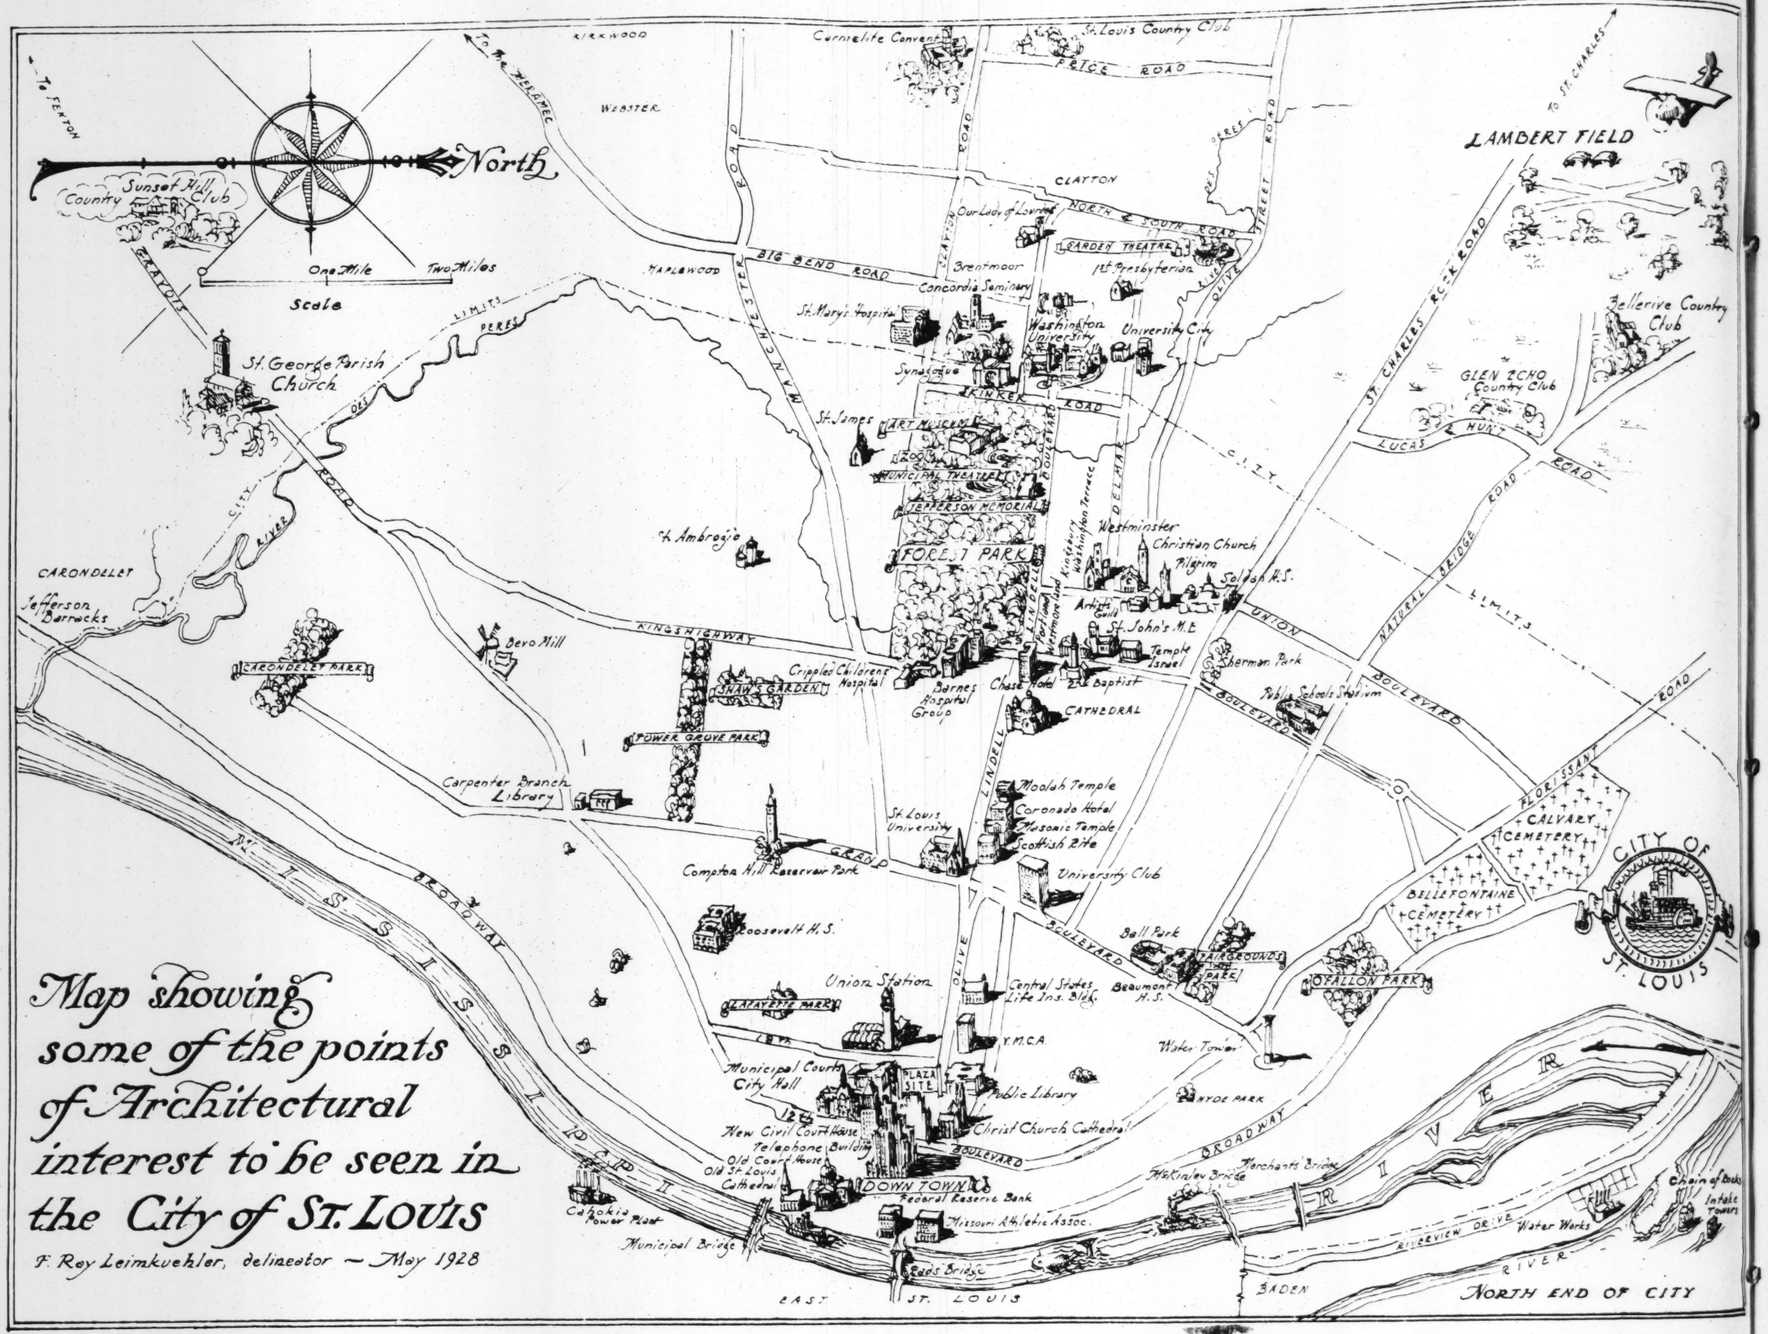
Looking at St. Louis Through an Architect's Eye



Map showing some of the points of Architectural interest to be seen in the City of St. Louis

F. Ray Leimkuehler, delineator — May 1928

F. Ray Leimkuehler Points Out the Significant Buildings of City and County.

By a Member of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

THIS sort of a map is what architects and such fellows call a decorative map. Obviously, it is quite different from one of those prim, prudish affairs one looks upon when one wants to find just wnere the proposed neighborhood sewer expects to go. The latter is a map and nothing more. It is a forthright affair, and one of high integrity. But it isn't much to look at unless you have a flair for statistics.

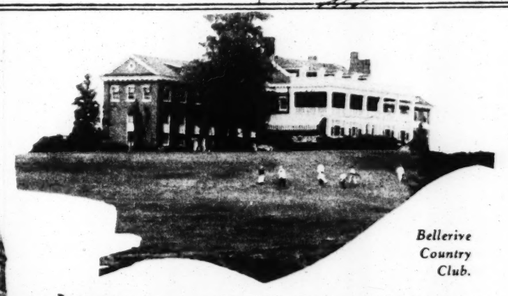
The above map is, of course, something entirely different. It is the sort of thing an architect does when he turns to art. A decorative map is no respecter of inches. It shows buildings and street widths and fishes out of all proportion to their true relation to size. It depicts such buildings and parks as please the delineator's fancy; it leaves whole blocks vacant and many a proud thoroughfare unmarked. But ever so often you discover some structure towering high above all else. And, undoubtedly, therein lies a decorative map's charm.

Mr. F. Ray Leimkuehler, who drew this map of St. Louis, was moved to do so by the recent convention held here by the American Institute of Architects. After he had finished it, he had it printed, considerably reduced, and it was distributed to the visiting members of the architects' association. Mr. Leimkuehler is a graduate of the Washington University School of Architecture. For a time he studied at the Beaux Arts in Paris, and in 1920 he obtained his master's degree at Washington University. He now practices his profession in St. Louis.

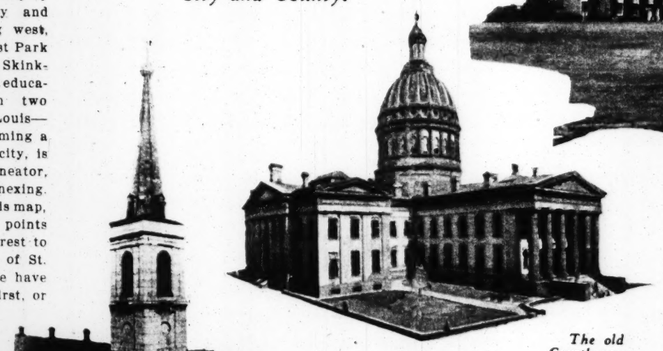
His map may be divided into parts. There is the downtown group of buildings surrounding the plaza site; there is the midtown section, hovering around Grand boulevard. Go west a little farther and we arrive at the uptown group, here designated chiefly by the churches of Kingshighway and Union boulevards. Continuing west, but glancing to the left, is Forest Park and its significant places; cross Skinker boulevard and we are in the educational group. There remain two wings—South and North St. Louis—and at the top of the map, forming a sort of ruff around the upper city, is St. Louis County, which the delineator, for one, had no difficulty in annexing.

Mr. Leimkuehler, in labeling his map, tells us it shows "some of the points of architectural interest to be seen in the City of St. Louis." In what we have chosen to call our first, or downtown, group of buildings, three noticeable structures are the new Civil Courthouse, the Bell Telephone Building and the Missouri Pacific Building. The latter two are, it would seem, of especial architectural significance, for, while the high majority of structures show the influence of some past architectural type, these two tall structures are American and contemporary American. They are the product of the day we live in, both from the architect's standpoint and from that of the engineer. As for the new Courthouse, topped by its temple, it is decidedly classic in its inspiration.

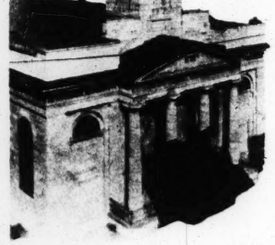
Not far away is the City Hall. It shows the French influence; it is reminiscent in its general atmosphere of the Hotel de Ville in Paris. But going a few blocks to the north we reach Christ Church Cathedral. And we have jumped to the Gothic type of architecture, late Gothic in this instance, and Gothic is, of course, notable for its great arches. Another structure the delineator marks importantly on his map is Union Station. And, architecturally, it is something altogether different again. For—we do not allude to the sheds in the rear, where steaming engines pant and puff, but to the great pile fronting on Market street, the building proper—it smacks of the architecture of those days when the Romans left the firm imprint of their legions' heels over Europe. It is something Romanesque. It is not too far a call to think of it and the walled city of Carcassonne as having some likeness, some similarity in appearance.



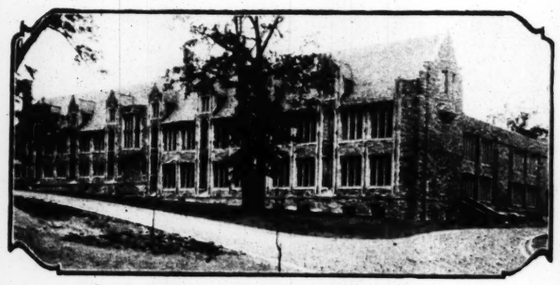
Bellerive Country Club.



The old Courthouse.



The old St. Louis Cathedral.



Administration Building, Concordia Seminary.

Back to Olive street and west to Grand; then over to Lindell. Particularly arresting to your eyes are the Scottish Rite Cathedral and, a bit above it, the Masonic Temple. Both of them classical in precedent, both of them harkening back to the mighty days of Greece and Rome. But proceeding up Lindell, your eyes to the right, and getting into what we have nominated the uptown section, looms up the imposing bulk of the St. Louis Cathedral. It is quite as famous for its inside as for its exterior. Its mosaics are of considerable importance. As for the time it springs from, that is Byzantine. That is, it is Byzantine in the feeling it creates, in the atmosphere it recalls. For it is very difficult to classify buildings as to style; they are reminiscent of this type or of that, but our modern buildings are very rarely absolutely true to the styles we so often place, without reservation, upon them.

Out on Kingshighway boulevard is the Second Baptist Church, with its high tower rising toward the sky. Perhaps, in passing it, you have casually observed that its brick seems a bit soiled at the base, and that its brick is lighter, i. e., not so touched by dust and grime, as it rises up. That effect isn't caused by soot and dirt and the work of the elements. In that way was the church built. Built with the bricks darker at the bottom and graduating into lighter shades as they went up.

Now, this Second Baptist Church shows the Venetian-Gothic influence. An odd combination, you may say, and odd it is. But for it there is a reason. For the people of Venice, great traders that they were, sailed far and wide, and, so doing, they took to themselves the ideas of all the lands of the civilized world. And while this church, in places, is markedly of Gothic precedent, its high tower is Venetian. There is no doubt about that. Diagonally across from the Baptist Church is Temple Israel, with its tall columns. It is of the Corinthian classic order.

A good hike out to the educational group—Washington University and Concordia Seminary. Both of them "Collegiate Gothic" of the best.

Nor should the elementary and preparatory schools of the city be overlooked. They suggest the English manor style—the newer schools—and are highly considered. The Municipal Theater, the Art Museum, Jefferson Memorial are all reminiscent of the classical tradition. Going to the South Side, Bevo Mill is Dutch, what with its tower and its paddles and the rest of the building, too. And the Carpenter Branch Library, at Utah place and Grand, murmurs of the Italian, of the Florentine. On the North Side of the city is Beaumont High School, good work and in the St. Louis school manner; and the water tower, high on a hill that slopes to Broadway. That is, in part, St. Louis within its limits. Going out into the county there is Sunset Hill Country Club and its rustic work, and St. Louis Country Club, Italian in feeling.

That fish you see in the Mississippi, proceeding so seriously down the river towards Eads Bridge, is not a whale. Mr. Leimkuehler says it is a cat fish.

Offered Herself FOR SALE in MARRIAGE

But Though Beatrice Albert Has Received the Freedom From Poverty and Suffering That She Sought for Herself and Family, Her Savior Refuses to Press any Romantic Claims.

William W. Goynes.

Mrs. Fannie Albert mother of Beatrice.

Beatrice Albert.

Beatrice sorts out her marriage offers.

The Albert home in Siren, Wisconsin.

By M. W. CHILDS

Of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

MILWAUKEE, Wisconsin.

IF, THREE months ago, you had told Beatrice Albert that at the end of that time she would find herself established, with her father and mother and younger brother, in a pleasantly furnished home, in a quiet, tree-shaded street in Milwaukee, quite free from financial worries, she would have laughed at you. And her laughter would certainly have been justified.

Until very recently, there has scarcely been a day that the Albert family has not been threatened with want of such ordinary necessities as food and shelter. Last February the fortunes of the family were at the lowest ebb they had ever reached. Mortgage holders threatened to take over the scrubby 40 acres of cut-over land near Siren, Wisconsin, in the northern part of the State, from which the father had tried to wrest some sort of living. Beatrice's brother, Lyman, had been seriously hurt in an accident and she had come home, giving up her job in Duluth, Minnesota, when news of the misfortune came. It was feared her brother might die. Thus, her income—she had made fairly good wages, tieing sacks in a cement factory, and sent the greater part of the money home—was stopped, and so was her brother's. It seemed that there would not even be enough money for the little bit of food they needed, to say nothing of paying for the medical attention the boy required. Faced with this desperate situation, Beatrice, who is 19 and has been the virtual head of the family for four years, sat down and, in her even, regular hand, wrote this letter to a Milwaukee newspaper:

"Lois Smith, pretty 19-year-old Wisconsin girl, is willing to sacrifice love for money that her aged parents may have a home. Lois is willing to marry any man of good moral character for $6000."

She instructed the Postmaster at Siren to send all mail for "Lois Smith" to her, saying nothing of her plan to her parents.

The results have been little short of amazing. Hundreds of letters began to pour into the Siren Postoffice. The newspaper, of course, promptly sent a reporter and a photographer to the little town. A few days later her picture, with a story, appeared in the Milwaukee papers. More letters flowed in, coming from almost every state in the Union and even, in one instance, from a lonely sailor, in port at Havana, Cuba. There were offers of marriage, of assistance, of a home.

But in one letter, as tangible evidence of good faith, was a postal order for $25. That letter was from William W. Goynes, who gave his address as the National Soldiers' Home, which is just outside Milwaukee. It was obviously the letter of a man with serious intentions, an earnest and forthright man.

That, it happens, is the sort of man Goynes is. And once he had made up his mind to help the Alberts, neither hell nor high water could stop him. He was once a Texas rancher, and he has spent nine rather lonely years as Postmaster of the Soldiers' Home, where there is only the monotonous day-by-day routine that is inevitable in an institution. As a Texan, he has some very decided ideas about womanhood. He explains it this way:

"Women should be pure. But there's so many obstacles in their way. And we all know that men are men. You've got to face that fact. Now, I decided that Miss Albert was not the kind of girl who should have to do this sort of thing. She just shouldn't have to do it. I said to myself that it was up to me to help her."

ON THE Sunday that the story appeared he sat down and wrote one of the longest letters he has ever written. He didn't mince words at all. He talked straight out to this girl who was advertising for a husband. He explained that he had had a younger sister and knew what girls were like, and he wrote: "You sit right down there in that chair, Beatrice, and listen to what I'm going to say to you."

He said a great deal. He explained his idea about womanhood and he made it very clear that he was not in the market for a wife under any terms. He modestly added that if she once saw him she probably wouldn't want to marry him. But he made a very businesslike proposition. He explained that he had some property in Milwaukee—two houses, one of which was vacant—and he offered to finance the family in coming to Milwaukee and, until Beatrice and her brother could obtain work, let them occupy the house rent free, and for all this Beatrice had only to sign a note, payable part at the end of five years and the remainder at the end of ten. When he had finished, he slipped in the money order and mailed it.

But Beatrice, who was having considerable difficulty keeping up with her correspondence, merely sent the money back, with a rather formal note to the effect that his offer would be considered along with all the others. Now, this might have daunted an ordinary man. He would have said: "Oh, well, if that's the way she feels about it . . ." And there would be an end of it. But not William Goynes.

Those nine years here in the Soldiers' Home may be the explanation for the visit had just begun, really, Lyman said: "I want to go home." Goynes expressed his surprise. "I want to tell Beatrice about that house," he said. That was, of course, all to the good, and he left on the night train.

Still, Beatrice hesitated. She had advertised her willingness to marry, and she thought she should live up to this announcement. Goynes then made another proposition. He suggested that Beatrice and her family come to Milwaukee, as he had first proposed, as his fiancee. The engagement was to last six months, at the end of which time it could be terminated, if either party so desired.

That was the winning card. Beatrice and her brother came on a week in advance of the father and mother to get the house in readiness, and again Goynes set out to prove that as a benefactor he had no serious rivals. He gave Beatrice and her brother a free hand in choosing the furnishings for the house. His only requirement was that they be complete in every respect. He personally saw to this. Bedroom suites, a dining room suite, a phonograph, a spinet desk, curtains for the windows, a heavily upholstered lounge and matching chairs for the living room, a new gas stove, a new electric washing machine, even to pictures for the walls. The house was furnished throughout.

Everything was virtually in readiness on the day on which Mr. and Mrs. Albert, both over 70 years old, bent and toilworn, were to arrive. After the barren cut-over country that had finally defeated their stoutest efforts, the little house seemed nothing short of paradise. They had disposed of all their personal property, the only thing they brought with them being the pet dog.

THAT was a week or so ago. When they have all become a little more accustomed to city ways, Beatrice, Lyman and possibly her mother are going to look for jobs. The father is so badly crippled by rheumatism that work is almost impossible for him. They are adjusting themselves very easily to their new circumstances. But it still seems all slightly unreal to them. They find it difficult to believe that all the bright new things in the house are really theirs. Mr. Albert, who is a native Missourian and still affirms, despite their changed circumstances, that he wouldn't trade one rail fence in Missouri for the whole State of Wisconsin, can't get used to the comfort of the overstuffed furniture. Naturally, Beatrice and her brother are adapting themselves more readily.

As to her future plans, Beatrice is a little uncertain. "Mr. Goynes has been wonderful and I like him very much," she says. But the gentleman in North Carolina is still very persistent. She really isn't very certain about anything except that, miraculously, all their worries are for the time being at an end. She is profoundly grateful to Goynes, but she hasn't much to say about marriage. An offer has come to tour a chain of Wisconsin theaters, but this she has refused. "I wouldn't know how to do what they want me to do," she says.

AS FOR Goynes, his friends say he is a changed man. His theory about responsibility seems to have been a sound one—in his own case at any rate. His worries—and he exults in them—seem just to have begun.

There's the boy, for example. Lyman wants to become an electrical engineer. But how to manage it—that's the thing. And then, of course, there's Beatrice. She's the biggest problem of all.

"I just can't figure that girl out at all," he says. "She's nice to everybody else, but I don't know how she feels about me. And what's she going to do? I wonder if a business course wouldn't be the best thing for her?"

He sits in his little Postmaster's office in the headquarters building at the Soldiers' Home, thinking about these things all day long. Khaki-clad figures, veterans of a half-dozen wars, tramp in and out, inquire for their mail or buy money orders or mail out parcels, and William Goynes, smiles and efficiently, with the deeply ingrained habits of years, performs the duties of his office, but just let one word be said about responsibilities and you can soon gather what he has been thinking about. He has a strong fellow feeling for those men who turn their pension checks into money orders to send home to relatives who are dependent upon them.

Certainly his new worries have not made him overly solemn. His deeply lined face crinkles into a smile as he talks. "I'm no Daddy Browning," he says, and his grin broadens, "I don't know what will happen at the end of those six months. Confound it, what can you tell about women, anyway?"

WHEN the "HIGH PRIEST" of Chicago's Newest "Temple" WENT SOUTH with his Secretary

Now the State's Attorney Is Investigating the Activities of "Lahissa, the New Teacher," and His Followers Are Badly Disillusioned.

CHICAGO.

HIGH up in a loop hotel, above the roar of Chicago's streets and even above the fog and smoke blown in from the lake, there is a temple. The majority of Chicagoans are completely and peacefully unaware of the existence of this lofty institution. But to a handful—50 to 100 possibly—it has become, in recent weeks, a matter for the most intense concern.

Even the law, in the person of Joseph Nicolai, chief investigator in the State's Attorney's office, has exhibited a searching curiosity in the rites and practices of this modern temple. And this interest all goes back to the time when the founder of the temple went South with his attractive young secretary.

Before that, everything was going quite smoothly. The faithful were bringing in their contributions to the building fund, representing in some instances the savings of a lifetime pinched out of small salaries. There seemed a possibility that the temple might some day rise as high as Chicago's skyscraper church. Then Dr. Louis Conde, whose professional title is "Lahissa, the New Teacher," and who is high priest, director, bishop and principal deity of this new faith, found it necessary to go to Miami, Florida, for his health. Dr. Conde says, with funds from a contribution of $5000 made for his own personal use by a wealthy woman follower. For a pleasure jaunt, with the money they had given for the temple, say his disillusioned followers.

MEANWHILE, Assistant State's Attorney Nicolai is pressing the investigation, and he intimates that a grand jury may be interested in the evidence he is bringing to light in connection with charges of operating a confidence game which may be brought against Lahissa.

Behind all this trouble, Dr. Conde professes to see the figure of jealousy, green-eyed and hateful. Jealousy in the person of Miss Barbara J. Gode, whom Dr. Conde unhesitatingly calls "a repressed old maid," and who has been one of the most active complainants.

It was not always so. Once Miss Gode was among the most faithful disciples. She even worked for Lahissa for some six or seven months, with little or no salary, she says. "I believed he was Jesus Christ," she states now, quite frankly. "Christ was coming again and how did I know but that it was Dr. Conde?" It seemed that a number of the followers, the majority of whom were women, labored under this illusion. Lahissa disclaims any pretensions in this direction. "That is what the followers believed," he states.

Miss Gode was employed by Dr. Conde last September. She did stenographic work, but, as well, she went out to interview clients with whom Lahissa hoped to establish contact. Not long afterward Miss Ethel Decker was employed. Miss Decker comes originally from Sikeston, Missouri, where her family still resides.

SHE was a school teacher for several years, giving the courses in stenography and secretarial work, but tiring of this she decided to seek a position as secretary. She heard that Dr. Conde needed someone who could take down his lectures in shorthand and, seeking him, she had no difficulty in proving to him that she was a very competent and efficient person.

Besides these two there were other girls in the Lahissa Temple office, a most businesslike place, with card index files and typewriters in evidence. There were several girls, Dr. Conde explains, who had been found guilty of delinquencies in juvenile court and to whom he gave employment when they were on parole. "I try to bring out the beautiful in them," Dr. Conde says. "But it is very, very difficult."

Now, if jealousies had not grown up in this office it would have been surprising, for Dr. Conde's personality—his sharp, piercing eyes, the soft flow of his voice—is nothing if not magnetic. There were no open differences, however, except, possibly, little bickerings as to who would have charge of this and who should perform that duty. Business was good. Aging spinsters came and elderly men with tired, lined faces. They wanted to know how to become successful in business, how to be happy, how to make themselves loved, how to be cured of the backache. And Lahissa was never without an answer, glib and impressive. Some gave money for the temple, while others, the majority, perhaps, paid for "wisdom" in classes or individually and for the lectures which Lahissa gave on certain appointed nights.

Then in February the prophet became ill. This was shortly after he had received a $6500 check from a mysterious "Mrs. Smith." He spoke of tuberculosis and other malign diseases. It was necessary that he seek a warmer climate at once.

THE faithful followers may have demurred a little, but they, perforce, had to let him go. He took with him Miss Decker, who was by this time his most faithful attendant and a serious rival to Miss Gode.

In his absence Miss Gode acted as a sort of assistant shepherd, carrying on the work as best she could that Lahissa had begun in Chicago. She conducted meetings and sought to keep the faith alive. While in Florida Lahissa and Miss Decker sent for the latter's sister, Miss Grace Decker, who is a 17-year-old high school girl. "I wanted Miss Decker to have company," Dr. Conde now explains. The older Deckers, a prosperous landowning family and firm Methodists, are said to have demurred at first, but they finally gave their consent.

At last, in March, Lahissa returned to the temple, bringing with him the two Decker girls, both of whom he put to work in the temple office. But Miss Gode began to notice some very startling things. Lahissa was still so ill, it seemed, that he had to be brought to the hotel on a stretcher. Miss Gode now charges that he was "terribly intoxicated." Even more startling was the next discovery. She maintains that she saw Miss Ethel Decker giving the prophet a bath. In fact, she avers that she saw a great deal of nudity in the period that followed the return. Her earnest faith was gradually undermined. "You couldn't believe he was Christ and see him act that way," is what she now says. A short time afterward Dr. Conde's health demanded that he be removed to a Winnetka sanitarium, and again the faithful Ethel Decker accompanied him.

HER belief shaken, Miss Gode now began to have very strong and determined suspicions. Other followers became disgruntled. Together they went to the State's Attorney's office and, seeking to unravel the whole thing, Nicolai called all the interested parties together, and their testimony has been filed in the form of complaints. A great deal was revealed at these hearings.

"All I ever received for myself to date is about $300," Miss Gode testified. "He made no advances himself, but did talk of sex matters to me," she added. "He did not cure my ills, as he said he would." And yet she found it difficult to relinquish her faith. "When I worked for him all day I was never tired," she said.

Possibly the most grotesque and most pathetic case of all is that of Miss Bertha Kellerud, a spinster telegraph operator, who has spent most of her life ticking away at a key, sending other people's telegrams. "I gave him all the money I had, $1500, in my savings," Miss Kellerud testified.

"Why, he hypnotized me and I was absolutely under his power," she said. "I was powerless. I fought desperately; I was under his influence and I just had to give the money. I just gave it to him. I was irresistibly attracted to him."

"Has he helped you in any way, physically or mentally?" Nicolai asked. Miss Kellerud's reply was an unqualified "No!"

MISS GODE further testified: "Miss Grace Decker told me herself that she practices hypnotism, and she says how she gets seats in the elevated trains in the morning. She said: 'I hypnotize the men to give me their seats.'"

Relative to the nudity which she had witnessed, Miss Gode stated that Lahissa "thought it was just beautiful that there was no false modesty about Grace and Ethel."

Miss Mickie Kuencle, another follower, stated: "I thought he would make me brighter and I am just as dumb as I was before." She said she had given Dr. Conde $165, of which $140 was for the temple. She showed considerable spirit when asked if Lahissa had made advances to her. "I would have slapped his face if he had," she said.

Others told of their experiences. A. Barta said he had given $200 to find out how to better himself in business. Most of Lahissa's sessions had to do with his relations with his wife, he said, and he decided that the prophet was a "humbug" and obtained a $70 refund.

Dr. Conde, who also appeared at the hearing, scoffed at the complaints as they were made. He affirmed continuously that he is the victim of persecution as of old. He declared his love for Miss Ethel Decker, as she did for him, but they both stated that it was an admiration for each other's work and not an earthly love. Miss Decker admitted authorship of a letter in part as follows:

"Dear Lahissa: First, last and in between, I love you. . . . Just got up, took a cold shower and feel like a million dollars. All I need to feel like two million is you. As you say, the spirit does not satisfy like the body."

At the conclusion of the hearings, Dr. Conde was ordered to desist from his "teachings of universal peace and understanding" and to keep his women employes away from the hotel suite, pending outcome of the legal action.

But this did not long deter Lahissa. When this writer appeared at the temple, Miss Decker busily typed in the outer office. She is a most quietly efficient-looking secretary, with gray-blue eyes and a long, rather serious face, yellow hair clipped short and brushed smoothly back. She wears a smartly tailored costume. Dr. Conde later explained that he does not approve of gaudy or even brightly-colored costumes.

On word from Miss Decker, Lahissa, the New Teacher, appears from behind a mirrored door in all his glory. Not a glory, however, of mystic Oriental robes, but of perfect Occidental tailoring, of immaculate dove-gray spats and matching dove-gray tie, with a small crimson figure, a glory of long, primly curled locks of a dark brown that flow back well over his perfectly-cut collar. Smiling affably, he fixes you with a sharp gaze, bows you to a seat. Now, as to these troubles?

"Oh, they are nothing, nothing, nothing, nothing. Always the truth is resisted. I have had experiences in my 53 years in America. Oh, yes, I can tell you many things. I have been persecuted. They have stoned me. I have been sent out of some towns in boxcars." The voice rises and falls sonorously. Lahissa tells of his teachings.

"Oh, I like this younger generation. I love them all. They are wonderful. So free! I tell them: 'Don't let your papa or your mamma control your lives for you. Live your own lives.'

"I preach freedom. Normality. Away with repression. These Hindus go through the country preaching spirituality, always spirituality. And they come to me and say, 'I want to be spiritual! I want to be spiritual!'" His voice rises to a falsetto, and he mimics perfectly a mincing woman. "I tell them to come down to earth."

LAHISSA explains his origin. He comes from Tibet, it seems, and as to his age he is very uncertain. Details of that sort, he explains, are unimportant in Tibet. "If I told them the truth they would not believe me," he says.

"I tell them," he continues, "that it is here, here"—he taps his broad forehead—"that there is power. And not here," letting his hand rest on one arm that is thin and bony. He goes into the complicated financial arrangements of Lahissa Temple. The subtle distinction, for example, between money given for the temple and money given to him for services actually rendered. All these matters are very abstruse. Meanwhile, he has an excellent lawyer and is far from worried.

As to the bathing: "I was ill. I was very sick," he says. There was some difficulty about a nurse, he explains, and afterward Miss Ethel Decker and her sister gave him most loyal and devoted care.

Miss Decker's loyalty is certainly unquestionable. Miss Grace Decker has returned, temporarily at least, to Sikeston to see the graduation exercises of her high school class.

Miss Gode is far from satisfied with the whole situation. She doesn't want to persecute Dr. Conde, she says. She resents being made out a persecutor. But she says she wants justice done.

PARIS.

THE recent death of the young Viscount Trematon and the Spanish King's unsuccessful agitation for a divorce—events apparently unrelated on the surface—have combined forces to center international attention again upon the strange blood disease, haemophilia, a sinister and mysterious disorder which, since the time of Queen Victoria, has stalked European royalty like a curse.

In the case of Viscount Trematon, 21-year-old son of the Governor-General of South Africa, the significance of haemophilia was apparent. He died of it. Death from hemorrhage followed a few slight scratches on the cheek sustained in an automobile accident near Lyons, France. It was an injury that a person of ordinary health would not have noticed. But young Trematon was a sufferer from haemophilia and so all efforts to stop the flow of blood from even superficial scratches were in vain.

In King Alfonso's move to set aside his marriage to Queen Victoria Ena, a move he has just renounced because of opposition from the Vatican and the Court of St. James, the bearing of haemophilia was less apparent but no less real. He sought the annulment with a view to remarriage as a last hope of passing his crown along to a direct heir. With four sons and two daughters of his own, Alfonso faces the unhappy prospect of seeing the line of direct succession broken and of looking outside his immediate family for a suitable heir to the throne. Not one of his own children is eligible to wear the crown. His eldest son, Alfonso, Prince of Asturias, is a sufferer from the disease to such a degree that his succession is definitely out of the question. Three other sons also suffer from physical and mental handicaps traceable to bad blood, and his two daughters, while apparently healthy, seem destined to be avoided, so far as matrimony is concerned, by all the Princes of Europe because of the fear that they may be carriers of the royal curse.

THE disease, of course, never would appear in the daughters. That is one of its peculiarities. It never attacks women, but women inherit it and pass it along to their children. Men, on the other hand, suffer from it themselves, but do not transmit it directly. They pass it along to their grandsons through their daughters.

In Alfonso's family the affliction is believed to have come down through Queen Victoria Ena from her grandmother, Queen Victoria of England. Though Alfonso himself brought plenty of the bad blood of the Hapsburgs and Bourbons into the union, he cannot be blamed for the haemophilia curse. That had to come from the mother's side. He hoped, therefore, by remarriage into a more able-bodied line, to sidetrack the disease. Hence the annulment plan. In that move he admittedly had small chance of success. Not only was it strongly opposed by the Vatican, but even more vigorously by the Court of St. James. A confidential messenger sent to London to sound out the sentiment returned with word that the British people would resent as an offense to national pride and as an insult to the royal family any attempt to annul the marriage. Alfonso would have to solve his problem in some other way. So apparently the solution decided upon is that of making his nephew, Prince Alfonso, son of his eldest sister, the heir to the Spanish crown. Prince Alfonso is a young cavalry officer of robust physique.

It is not uncommon to find in royalty both physical and mental defects traceable to profligacy and intermarriage of relatives. Royalty fairly reeks with the taint of consanguinity. Usually, however, the ills are traced to profligate ancestors. One of the extraordinary features of the haemophilia curse, therefore, is that it is traced to one so blameless as Queen Victoria, the revered and honored "grandmother of Europe." Yet that is precisely the case. It has been established with a fair degree of certainty that she inherited it from her mother, the Duchess of Kent, and proceeded innocently to scatter it all over Europe. It has seemed most virulent in the present generation, with three of Queen Victoria's great-grandsons showing the most pronounced cases. Two of these, Viscount Trematon and Czarevitch Alexis of Russia, are dead, and the third, the Prince of Asturias, is in such delicate health that he is forced to wear a suit of rubber underclothing at all times to protect him from possible scratches. Murdered by the revolutionists, the young Czarevitch escaped long suffering and possible death from haemophilia, but he was an invalid from it throughout his short career and had to be carried even about the house. Circumstances of the death of Viscount Trematon perhaps indicate best how the sinister disease operates. He was a son of the Earl of Athlone and Princess Alice of England. His maternal grandfather was the late Duke of Albany, son of Queen Victoria, who was himself afflicted with haemophilia to such a degree that he died from hemorrhage which accompanied an ordinary minor surgical operation. His grandson, the Viscount, appeared to be a young man of fair health, but he lived in constant dread of injury, however slight. Any injury that would break the skin held the potentiality of being fatal.

EVENTUALLY he suffered that injury, as almost anybody is bound to do. His cheek was scratched slightly in a motor smash-up. But that was enough. It was impossible to stop the bleeding. The English court rushed Dr. Hewitt, a specialist in the treatment of haemophilia, to France in an airplane, but he was able to do nothing. The Queen of Spain, whose whole married life has been a tragedy because she passed the disease along to her eldest son, also rallied to the Viscount's aid with her court druggist, who had discovered what he believed to be a remedy. But he, too, was powerless. His treatment involved the chewing of a capsule, and the sick man was forbidden to chew, as that started the hemorrhages anew. The doctors talked of a blood transfusion operation, but recalling that the youth's grandfather had died from such an operation, they abandoned the idea and allowed nature to take its course.

For a month the patient lay with his head swathed in bandages and slowly bleeding to death. Exactly a month after the accident he died, the best medical talent procurable from two royal families having been unable to help him in the slightest. That is the way haemophilia works. Though it has been known for possibly a hundred years, it baffles the doctors as much today as it ever did. In a recent magazine article on the subject of haemophilia, a London specialist had this to say:

"People who suffer from this disease are known as bleeders. There is a popular belief that the abnormal tendency to serious hemorrhage on very slight provocation is the result of the victim being born with one layer of skin missing.

"The affliction, in reality, has nothing to do with the skin; it is an hereditary abnormality in the composition of the blood.

"The exact nature of this abnormality can be surmised, but the reason of its hereditary nature has so far baffled all investigators. The character of the hereditary element is of itself a conundrum, for there is a sex factor in operation.

"Thus, males suffer from the disease, but cannot transmit it to their sons, whereas females transmit it, but never suffer from it. It descends in the female line.

"A bleeder is a person who bleeds profusely from any slight injury and the resulting hemorrhage is extremely difficult to arrest. Bleeders usually have very bad teeth, but the extraction of a tooth is a most perilous adventure from which few really bad bleeders ever recover.

"There are, of course, degrees of severity in haemophilia. The worst cases are those which appear in early infancy. Apart from the risk to life occasioned by profuse external bleeding, a bleeder is a chronic invalid, who is a source of very serious anxiety to all concerned, for he may at any moment suffer from a profuse internal hemorrhage.

"The internal hemorrhages are specially liable to attack the joints, and if they are frequently repeated they cause very profound crippling. For some unexplained reason, the hemorrhages favor the night season. A slight scratch occurring during the day, a scratch which gave no trouble at the time, will start bleeding profusely during the night, so that the patient and his bed linen present an appalling picture in the morning. In bad cases, children seldom attain maturity, but in those less severe, a man may lead a useful life and beget children.

"Haemophilia came into the British royal family through Queen Victoria's mother, the Duchess of Kent. Only one of the Queen's sons, the Duke of Albany, suffered from the disease, but some of her daughters transmitted it. The little Czarevitch who was so brutally murdered was one instance of such transmission, and the Prince of Asturias is another. The disease, however, seems to have passed completely out of the British royal family."

In a measure, this strange and sinister disease was one of the principal causes of the overthrow of the Russian monarchy and the troubles that have beset Russia since that time. Far-fetched as it may seem, it was, in the same way, an indirect factor in America's entry into the World War.

THE young Czarevitch Alexis inherited it from his mother, who was a granddaughter of Queen Victoria. He was in such a delicate state from the day of his birth that the Czarina searched the entire world for a person who could heal him. Finally the notorious Rasputin appeared and, practicing some sort of religious sorcery, was able to help the boy—or achieve the appearance of having helped him—in some of his worst attacks. In that way he won the gratitude of the Czarina and ultimately drew her completely under his influence. At last his orgies among the ladies of the court and his meddling in state affairs broke down the confidence of the army and people in the Government and imperial family. The disaster of revolution followed. With very little stretching of the imagination it can almost be said that the Czarevitch's malady figured in America's entry into the war, for if Russia had been a stronger factor in the war America might have been able to stay out.

Before those frightful last days at Ekaterinburg in 1917, when the frail Czarevitch was killed as he wept for his slain father, there were 13 years of physical suffering endured by this unfortunate lad. After the croup and measles of early childhood came the usual falls and accidents of boyhood, but with the alarming difference that a violent hemorrhage followed the slightest cut. The Czar, who was deeply devoted to his invalid son, often had to lift him in his arms. In 1913, when the Romanoff dynasty had a tercentenary celebration, the heir to the 300-year-old empire had to be carried into the ceremonies in the Kazan Cathedral.

At 10 the Czarevitch was photographed at a table putting pins in a map, with an army officer and an attendant at hand to see that the child not only would understand the map, but that he would not stick himself by accident with these same pins. Even while very young the boy keenly felt his handicap.

"My father is the most powerful monarch in the world," he once said, "yet I cannot run about like other boys.

"I have heard that I am incurable. I want life and health.

"You are omnipotent, father. Save me."

The Czar always said that all he wanted for his weakling heir was a

TALES of REAL DOGS

Two Dogs, and What They Did and Couldn't Do.

By Albert Payson Terhune

HERE are the stories of two dogs, both of them acting as heroes but with far different results. Each of the tales gives one more example of canine love and sacrifice for humanity.

In Neshanic, North Carolina, last October, Mr. and Mrs. David W. Snook were building a new home. First they built the garage, in which they lived with their year-old baby, David, while the house neared completion.

Mrs. Snook spent much of her time in the almost finished house, cleaning and making it ready for occupancy. She had no hesitancy about leaving Baby David in the garage, in his crib, while she was away. For Betty was always with him.

Betty was a big Airedale dog, savage with strangers and a splendid protector, but utterly devoted to David. For hours at a time she would lie watchfully beside his crib. She was as secure a guard for the sleeping baby as a company of soldiers could have been, so far as letting any preventable danger come near him.

The garage stood on the Vauxell road, at Neshanic. On the afternoon of October 21, Mrs. Snook tucked David in his crib for a nap, and left Betty lying alongside the crib, on guard. Then, with pail and mop, she went over to the nearly finished house to wash the newly installed windows.

Meanwhile, from some unknown cause, probably from an oil stove, the garage had caught fire. Betty had sniffed the smoke at once, and had tried to drag David from his crib. She was not strong enough to get him out of the fast-burning building.

EASILY she herself could have escaped by leaping through the thin glass of one of the garage windows. But she could not carry David to the window and lift him through it. She would not save herself without saving the baby whom she adored.

Mrs. Snook, in the new house, also sniffed smoke. For a time she paid no special heed to it. Then, as it grew stronger, she glanced out of the window. She saw the garage in flames. Shrieking, she rushed thither to save her little son.

But when she drew near the heat and the smoke drove her back. The garage was one swirl of fire. No one could enter it. Half-suffocated from the reek of smoke and badly burned, Mrs. Snook reeled back. Presently neighbors flocked to the fire, but none of them could enter that furnace of roaring flame. At last the fire-fighting engines came up and played their streams on the blaze until little by little it died down and the charred building could be approached with safety.

The charred door was battered down and search-parties rushed in. There they saw a sight that told its own story. In the wreckage of the crib was David, burned to death. Above him, crouched the charred body of Betty, the Airedale dog.

Unable to save her little master, she had leaped up on the crib and had tried to shield him with her own body. There death found them both, the unfortunate baby and the faithful dog that chose to die with him rather than to escape to safety without him.

The terrier set up a terrible din.

The other of the two tales has a pleasanter ending.

Mr. and Mrs. D. B. King, of 29 Kalb street, Atlanta, Georgia, had a tiny rat-terrier named Teck, a mere insignificant mite of a dog that slept in the kitchen on the night of July 20, 1927. Teck awoke from his sleep to find the kitchen full of acrid smoke.

The house was afire, and it was burning rapidly. There was a kitchen window half open. Through this outlet Teck could have sprung to safety. But the little terrier did not think of himself. In a bedroom upstairs slept his master and his mistress.

To this room galloped Teck, barking at the top of his small lungs. He rushed to Mrs. King's bed and began to tear away the bedclothes, ever barking shrilly and frantically as he clawed at the sleeping woman. His din aroused her. In turn she waked her slumbering husband.

THE fire had gained such headway that they could not so much as snatch up their clothing, to say nothing of saving any of their household goods. They rushed outdoors barely in time to escape burning to death.

When the Fire Department failed to extinguish the conflagration and the house was in ashes, it occurred to the Kings to wonder what had become of the tiny dog which had rescued them from a horrible form of death. Everywhere they looked for Teck, loudly they called to him. The little rat-terrier, for the first time in his gallant life, did not come at their summons.

The couple were heartsroken. They were certain Teck had perished in the fire from which he had saved them. Then, down the street hurried Mrs. King's mother, Mrs. J. F. Chambers. Nobody knew how she had happened to learn of the midnight fire, as she lived several blocks away.

Quickly Mrs. Chambers explained. She had been fast asleep when a loud barking and an impatient scratching at the door of her house had aroused her. There, on the porch, Teck was dancing excitedly. He caught at her nightgown, pulling at it as if to drag her out into the street with him.

She recognized the frantic mute of a dog, and she realized something must be wrong at her daughter's home. So she dressed and hurried thither, to find the King house burned down and the Kings homeless. Teck had come for her, seeming to realize its owners need for her aid.

When Mr. and Mrs. King reached Mrs. Chambers' front porch half an hour later, they found Teck standing there with wagging tail, waiting for them.

IT WAS the best party the Kaltens had ever given. The night was warm and so fair that the stars seemed as close as the lanterns dotted through the garden. There was no breeze and under the roses and honeysuckle spread pools of scent, a rare delight. The two orchestras, one in the vast living room, now cleared for dancing, and one outside behind a screen of laurel, were an echo and emphasis for the gaiety.

As for the supper, there the Kaltens had been clever. It was served from the dining room, but there were many small tables on the outside. There was a rapturous number of hors d'oeuvres, bouillon, chicken mousse, salads, sandwiches, ices, sweets and, over all, flowed a bubbling river of champagne, good champagne. There wasn't any hard drinking. There wouldn't be at the Kaltens'. They didn't run with the fast set. All the same, the wine was heady, and the party took from it a glowing, radiant geniality.

"Joe and Irene have done it awfly well this time," said Mollie Rutter. She and Harvey Larimore were at the farthest table, one that was quite in shadow, and Mollie said this not because she was thinking of the Kaltens, or even of their party, but because, if she didn't make this sort of conversational remark, she'd have to say, "Darling, you can't imagine how much I love you," and someone might overhear and laugh at her. Not that Harvey would care. He was just as crazy about Mollie as Mollie was about him. They had only been engaged two days, and it couldn't be announced until fall, because she wanted to wait until everyone got back to town, and then do it with a fine splurge at the beginning of the season.

Harvey was ecstatically happy. Mollie was so slim and lovely, so wonderful to see, with her strange combination of golden-tan skin and golden-brown eyes and her shock of light-gold hair. He could look at her forever. And she was such a good pal. They would have a wonderful life together, he knew. His lovely girl! The best ever!

He smiled at her, but he did not answer her triflé about the Kaltens and their party. She smiled, too, fiddled with her vanity case and looked about her.

"TRUDE'S a wild woman tonight," she said. "She's giving old Sim Pardee the time of his life."

Harvey looked round at this, for Trude Gaines was his distant cousin and lived in the Larimore home. "She oughtn't to speak to Sim," he said indignantly. "He is a bad old egg."

Harvey frowned at his cousin. Trude was not a rare and subtle beauty like Mollie, but she was handsome and tall, with a proud head and glorious color. Simpson Pardee was leaning over the table toward her and she was laughing.

"I'll talk to her tomorrow," said Harvey.

Then he turned back to Mollie and lifted his glass. "But we won't bother about her or anything tonight. Here's to us, forever and ever."

They drank, their eyes deep in each other's eyes.

"Let's dance," said Mollie. She rose and led the way, her yellow chiffon, the color of her hair, floating delicately about her. As they passed, Trude Gaines suddenly stopped laughing, and, for a moment, her eyes and mouth were those of a lost, unhappy child. Then she pulled herself together and turned back to Sim Pardee's heaviness. But she refused him when he asked her to go in and dance, and she moved a little, so that she would not be able to catch that slanting glimpse into the living room, where Harvey and Mollie were moving to the soft, broken rhythm. She couldn't bear to see them, and she knew she must bear it.

The music played on, but the crowd began to thin. Irene Kalten and her husband came into the hallway, so that those of their guests who wished to say good night would not have to hunt for

IT WAS the best party the Kaltens had ever given. The night was warm and so fair that the stars seemed as close as the lanterns dotted through the garden. There was no breeze and under the roses and honeysuckle spread pools of scent, a rare delight. The two orchestras, one in the vast living room, now cleared for dancing, and one outside behind a screen of laurel, were an echo and emphasis for the gaiety.

As for the supper, there the Kaltens had been clever. It was served from the dining room, but there were many small tables on the outside. There was a rapturous number of hors d'oeuvres, bouillon, chicken mousse, salads, sandwiches, ices, sweets and, over all, flowed a bubbling river of champagne, good champagne. There wasn't any hard drinking. There wouldn't be at the Kaltens'. They didn't run with the fast set. All the same, the wine was heady, and the party took from it a glowing, radiant geniality.

"Joe and Irene have done it aw'fly well this time," said Mollie Rutter. She and Harvey Larimore were at the farthest table, one that was quite in shadow, and Mollie said this not because she was thinking of the Kaltens, or even of their party, but because, if she didn't make this sort of conversational remark, she'd have to say, "Darling, you can't imagine how much I love you," and someone might overhear and laugh at her. Not that Harvey would care. He was just as crazy about Mollie as Mollie was about him. They had only been engaged two days, and it couldn't be announced until fall, because she wanted to wait until everyone got back to town, and then do it with a fine splurge at the beginning of the season.

Harvey was ecstatically happy. Mollie was so slim and lovely, so wonderful to see, with her strange combination of golden-tan skin and golden-brown eyes and her shock of light-gold hair. He could look at her forever. And she was such a good pal. They would have a wonderful life together, he knew. His lovely girl! The best ever!

He smiled at her, but he did not answer her trifle about the Kaltens and their party. She smiled, too, fiddled with her vanity case and looked about her.

"TRUDE'S a wild woman tonight," she said. "She's giving old Sim Pardee the time of his life."

Harvey looked round at this, for Trude Gaines was his distant cousin and lived in the Larimore home. "She oughtn't to speak to Sim," he said indignantly. "He is a bad old egg."

Harvey frowned at his cousin. Trude was not a rare and subtle beauty like Mollie, but she was handsome and tall, with a proud head and glorious color. Simpson Pardee was leaning over the table toward her and she was laughing.

"I'll talk to her tomorrow," said Harvey.

Then he turned back to Mollie and lifted his glass: "But we won't bother about her or anything tonight. Here's to us, forever and ever."

They drank, their eyes deep in each other's eyes.

"Let's dance," said Mollie. She rose and led the way, her yellow chiffon, the color of her hair, floating delicately about her. As they passed, Trude Gaines suddenly stopped laughing, and, for a moment, her eyes and mouth were those of a lost, unhappy child. Then she pulled herself together and turned back to Sim Pardee's heaviness. But she refused him when he asked her to go in and dance, and she moved a little, so that she would not be able to catch that slanting glimpse into the living room, where Harvey and Mollie were moving to the soft, broken rhythm. She couldn't bear to see them, and she knew she must bear it.

The music played on, but the crowd began to thin. Irene Kalten and her husband came into the hallway, so that those of their guests who wished to say good night would not have to hunt for them. Motors zoomed softly up to the door.

"Shall we call it a day, old thing?" asked Mollie, breaking away from Wilse Donovan, who had cut in on her determinedly all evening, and seizing Harvey, who waited for her in the stag line. Harvey had no intention of dancing with anyone but Mollie. If he wasn't dancing with her he was watching her dance with the other men, and thinking how perfect she was, and how lucky, lucky, lucky for him that she loved him.

"Righto-o!" said Harvey. "I'll get the bus. Oh, wait a sec—I must see about Trude."

He rushed across the room, for Trude had, at last, come in for the dancing. "Are you all right?" he asked. "Is the car here for you?"

"I sent it home. The Grants said they'd give me a lift, and I didn't want to keep old Casey up."

"But you won't stay much longer, will you?"

"Oh, run along, Harvey, and don't try to play grandpa to me." She made a face at him.

When he had brought his car round he found Mollie in the hall with the Kaltens and Wilse Donovan and Tom Hunt and Edna Fairchilds, and a waiter, who was opening a fresh quart of champagne. "Just one more—sort of a stirrup-cup"——

Glasses were passed. "Here's luck!" "To the best hostess ever!" "To the best party!" "Mud in your eye!" (This from Tom Hunt.) They drank, laughing.

"I'm going to drive," said Mollie, as they got into the car.

HARVEY settled himself beside her, light-heartedly. He thought of how glorious life would be with Mollie, and how good it was to be young, and with plenty of money and good prospects in business, to have a girl like Mollie for a wife, and to build his future with her.

They turned onto the avenue that led to the city. They must go a short two miles down the road to Mollie's home. There was almost no traffic, so Mollie stepped on the gas.

A big suburban trolley car was going into town ahead of them. Four people were waiting for it under the glaring arclight, with the "Cars Stop Here" sign below—an old man, two young women and a little boy.

"Look out," said Harvey.

"They're all going to get on," answered Mollie, and did not slacken.

But they did not all get on. Even as she spoke, the old man and one of the women turned in front of the motor. There was a double impact, an anguished scream.

SOMEHOW, Mollie managed to get the car stopped. They got out, ran back. The trolley had banged on, unseeing, unknowing. Harvey lifted the old man. He looked up, horror-struck. "He's dead!"

He ran over to the woman, and a faint moan rewarded him. "She's alive. We've got to get help. I'll put her in the car and take her to the hospital—there's one about five blocks down"——

And then Harvey saw another car coming and waved to it frantically. It slowed, stopped, and he saw the Grants and Trude Gaines.

"We've run into a couple of people—I think one's dead," said Harvey. "Help me, Phil—the woman's alive—we must rush her to the hospital"——

The two women made little noises of horror, but, when Phil Grant and his chauffeur jumped out, Trude followed them. Mollie had backed the other car down. "Better take them both," said Trude. "There might be a chance"——

"Your man and I will go to the hospital, and you take my car and get the girls home, will you, Phil?" said Harvey.

"I'll take Mollie and Jane," spoke up Trude. "You go with him, Phil."

"Trude's right," said Phil Grant. "That's the best plan. Who was driving when you hit them, Harvey?"

"Why—Mo—" began Harvey; then he caught back the halfword. "I was, of course," he finished quickly. Mollie had said nothing. Through it all, she had sat on the running board of Harvey's car, a little crumpled figure of distress

The big car started on. "You want to drive, Mollie?" asked Trude, as the three women turned to the roadster. Mollie gave her a quick, suspicious glance. "No—you drive—I'm aw'fly upset."

"No wonder," said Jane Grant. "It's the most horrible thing. How did it happen, Mollie?" Trude pressed her arm warningly. "Don't ask Mollie about it now, Jane."

So the way to the Grants' was silence. "I'll run you over to your house and then go on home, Mollie," said Trude, when they had dropped Jane. "How do you feel—all right? Want me to come in with you?"

"I'm all right. Trude—d'you suppose they'll arrest Harvey?"

"Oh, maybe. You know, unavoidable accident, and all that, and he might have his driving license taken away from him for a while." Trude was talking more to reassure herself than Mollie.

MOLLIE turned a pinched face toward the other girl. "Trude, Harvey wasn't driving. I was. I hit them! I thought they were all going to get on the trolley, but these two walked out right in front of me—right in front of me. I couldn't stop. I couldn't"—her voice rose hysterically.

"Shut up. That's no good." Trude was frowning. Why had Harvey said he was driving? He had said it; she heard him distinctly. Was he afraid there might be real trouble? She looked round at Mollie with impatient pity. "Listen," she said, "you go to bed, and don't say anything to anybody about the accident, d'you hear?"

"I wish we'd gone right on and left them there. Then no one would ever have known who did it."

"Harvey wouldn't do that to a cat! And I don't believe you mean it. You're just unstrung, and no wonder. Don't worry, Mollie."

Mollie could feel Trude smothering her dislike, her jealousy, to put comfort and sympathy into her voice. There was no good feeling between the two girls, though they had kept a pretense of it going. "She's always been in love with Harvey," thought Mollie, and, in spite of her distraught condition, she knew a tingle of triumph.

MOLLIE was awakened by the raw shout of an early newsboy. "Extry! Extry! All about the double ottamobile murder!" She sat up in her bed, suddenly alive and awake all over.

"My heavens!" she exclaimed. "They can't mean me!"

They did not, it soon appeared, mean her. They meant Harvey.

Mollie felt herself go sick. She reached for the telephone. It took a long time to get the Larimore house. The line was busy, busy, and busy again. At last—the butler. Not until he found out who she was would he tell her anything. "No, miss, Mr. Harvey's not home. No, miss, Mr. Larimore's gone in town early this morning to see him. Yes, miss, Miss Trude is here."

Trude came to the telephone. Her voice was tired and impatient. "I can't talk."

Mollie answered: "Then I'm coming over to see you. I must know what's happened."

"You stay away," said Trude. "Wait until tomorrow. Or, I tell you, telephone down to Phil Grant's office and talk to him. But—b e—careful—what—you—say. D'you understand me? Be awfully careful!"

There had not been one word between them of the thing Mollie had told last night, but every inflection of Trude's was charged with it. Mollie felt warned, rebuked. And unimportant.

And where was Harvey? Why didn't he send her some word, some message? Perhaps Harvey was somewhere where he couldn't write or telephone! Perhaps something dreadful had happened to Harvey! Perhaps, perhaps—her imagination quickened to horrors. For the first time in her spoiled, careless, easy life, Mollie put another person's safety before her own.

If she only knew! To be in blind ignorance of danger is to double and triple fear. She would not call up Phil Grant—she might get nothing over the phone from him any more satisfactory than she had from Trude. She would go down to his office. Action is always a relief, yet it seemed to her that the taxi crawled. And then a pleasantly unconcerned and impersonal young woman told her that Mr. Grant was busy.

"He'll see me. I've come about Mr. Larimore," said Mollie, shrewdly.

Harvey's name was, as she guessed, an open sesame.

"Where is he? What's happened?" she demanded.

"HE'S in the city jail. He'll be there until after the hearing." Phil Grant was drawn and unshaven and anxious.

"In jail!" She disregarded his question. "Why don't you get him out?"

"He's got to stay there until after the hearing."

"Can I go to see him?"

"You certainly cannot, Mollie. You keep out of this."

"But, Phil, I must see Harvey. I must talk to him."

"Write him a letter. I'll take it to him. But don't try to see him. You'll only make things rotten for yourself, and a lot worse for him."

"But, Phil"— Mollie opened her lips, then closed them. She was going to say, "I was driving the car," but she could not. What would happen to her if she did? Perhaps she, too, would find herself in jail.

"Phil," she began again, "Harvey and I are engaged. I have a right to see him."

"I know—he told me. But that doesn't give you the right to make any more trouble and worry for him, Mollie. Now, write him a letter and I'll take it to him."

It was evident that Phil wanted to get rid of her. "But what is being done?" she blazed at him.

"As soon as the hearing's over we'll try to get bail fixed, and get him out." Phil was patient with her.

"Oh, then everything will be all right."

"I can't tell. He might be held for trial."

"Tried—in court?"

Phil Grant's patience gave way. "It isn't nothing, you know, Mollie, to kill two perfectly innocent people who have the misfortune to step before your speeding car. Of course, it was unintentional—but, even so, it was criminal carelessness, and the penalty for manslaughter in this State is 10 years. Now—I've got a lot of things to do, and I've been up all night. You can sit in my outer office and write to Harvey, if you like, right away."

She couldn't think of anything to write—"Darling, it is all too dreadful, and I hope you are not having a wretched time in that miserable place"—— She had gone so far when Philip Grant came out from his office.

"It's lucky you waited," he said. "Harvey's sent me a note and inclosed one for me to send to you. I'm going down to the hearing, Mollie, and I'll call you when it's over."

HE WENT off with a rude abruptness, Mollie thought. Not that it mattered, since she had Harvey's note.

"Dearest: Don't tell anybody that you were driving the car when the accident happened. Be sure and don't tell anybody. This is vitally important. It's all a dreadful mess, but, as soon as I'm bailed out, which will be after the hearing this afternoon, I'll call you up. Poor little girl, this is a dreadful bother for you, but don't worry, love, it will be all right. Remember, don't tell anyone you were driving the car, and don't even tell anyone you were in the car, and perhaps we can keep your name out of it entirely. You have all my love, and I'm thinking of you every minute.

"HARVEY."

That was all, a mere scribble on a piece of common yellow paper. Very unsatisfactory. However, it read as if he was sure of being out in time for dinner. Well, she'd go on home. She felt very tired and out of sorts all over. Might as well get some sleep and rest up for tonight. Better push along. She tore up the note she had begun to write to Harvey and went out.

And, all the time, it never occurred to her that she would do otherwise than as Harvey had directed.

It was a strange day. She had the feeling that the world was running away from her, spinning on, faster and faster, and leaving her behind, unnoticed, out of it all. Her head ached. "I must relax or I'll simply be a hag tonight," she told herself. "I never could have imagined anything so perfectly hateful and unnecessary and bothering."

She took a warm bath and got into bed. When she woke the sun was making the long, soft shadows of late afternoon across her bed, and Trude Gaines was standing beside her, very pale, her determined hands just ready to shake Mollie back to wakefulness.

"I MADE them let me in," said Trude fiercely. "Mollie, aren't you going to tell?"

Mollie sat up and rubbed her eyes, pulled her pale iridescent silk negligee about her.

"What is the matter? What do you want?" she demanded.

"Mollie, listen. The Judge has held Harvey without bail. He's to be tried for manslaughter."

"Oh, Trude!"

"Yes, and you lie here asleep! How can you? When you knew that he's taking the blame, that you're the real"——

Mollie put up protesting hands. "He said I mustn't tell a soul. He ordered me not to. And Phil Grant said I was to come home and keep still."

"He told you not to tell—when did he tell you?"

Mollie managed to point to Harvey's note, lying crumpled on the dressing table. Trude snatched it. "What difference does it make what he says? Are you going to let him go to jail, and take all the blame, and be called a murderer? If you do, you're a rotten coward, Mollie Rutter, and—and I'll tell myself."

The threat touched something pitifully weak in Mollie's soul. In a burning, searing flash she saw her fair, fastidious self behind iron bars. She screamed at Trude like a mad thing. "Don't you dare, don't you dare, Trude

Gaines! I shan't tell! Harvey told me not to, and, if you do, I'll say you lied, and he'll say you lied, too, and everybody knows you've been in love with him for years, and everybody knows you're so jealous of me that you could kill me, and everybody'll think you lied. You are lying, I say it now! You are lying! I didn't drive the car—I never touched the wheel!"

But Trude had fled, in a passion of horror and misery. Mollie fell back on her bed and began to cry. She was crying for her own cowardice, for Harvey's plight, for her smashed happiness.

SHE saw clearly what she must do. She must tell the truth. Her pride could never endure that Trude Gaines should think her a coward, no matter how much of a coward she was. And she saw herself dramatized, a great heroine, with everyone awed and admiring, stirred by her noble self-sacrifice. Besides, the law would do nothing to her. Judges and juries were always lenient to a woman, a pretty woman. She stopped crying and began to think it out exultantly. It would be rather a thrill, going to court and all that! How splendid it would be to save Harvey! So she reasoned, with a pitiful ignorance of herself, of reality. And, without further delay, she set about her new purpose.

It sometimes seemed to Mollie Rutter, in the days that followed, that she had walked unaware into a new universe, a universe where none of her old ways, her old standards, not even her young and charming self, mattered. Disregarding Harvey's command, she offered herself as the real culprit. To her amazement, her quixotism only annoyed the array of lawyers gathered to defend him. Moreover, it enraged her usually easy-going mother, who told her angrily that she was an utter fool; it was received with cold amazement by Harvey's father, and with a sort of indifference, as if it didn't matter. Her magnificent gesture simply fell flat. It didn't register. She suspected that it was thought inconvenient, almost a nuisance.

Only Harvey appreciated it. From the jail, awaiting trial, he could write to her, and she to him, and he wrote her with such tenderness, such solicitude, such forgetfulness of himself and his hateful predicament that she could hardly bear it. She answered him at length. Her day became the sending of letters to Harvey, the reading of his replies. She wouldn't go to parties, she wouldn't see people. It was all Harvey, Harvey!

It helped a lot that her friends knew of her bravery and appreciated it also, though Trude had said quietly: "You didn't tell until it was too late, and don't think that I forget it."

It was a wearisome, dreadful time. It seemed so unreasonable that Harvey Larimore should stay in jail all through that bright and lovely season.

THE case came promptly to trial. Harvey Larimore pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary for manslaughter, the maximum penalty.

By devious methods they obtained for Mollie a last glimpse of Harvey before he was taken to the penitentiary, and the sight of him, thin, haggard, with pain and bewilderment cut deep in his face, roused her to a new height of pity and abasement.

"Oh, if they'd only let me tell," she whispered agonizedly to him, clinging to him.

"Darling, it's the only thing I'm thankful for, that I can do this for you. I wouldn't have you go through what I've been through."

"But, Harvey, I'm so ashamed. It's too much. Maybe they wouldn't have done anything to me, if they'd known."

"Don't talk about it, Mollie. It was my car, it was just the same thing as if I'd been driving it. Your love is worth it all, you're worth it all to me."

"But Harvey, 10 years!"

"Don't worry about that, Mollie. It won't be 10 years. I can get a lot off by good behavior, and—and"—he choked. "Only keep on loving me, and I'll have strength to go through with it, Mollie. Only keep on loving me."

"My dear, my own, I'll love you always."

There was so little she could say. "I'll write to you, Harvey. I'll send you things."

"Nothing can be sent in, Mollie, and all your letters will be read."

"You mean I can't send you fruit and books and little presents? Oh, that's cruel!"

"Dear, if I have letters from you, that will be enough. And don't feel that you must shut yourself up in the house and go nowhere. I want you to have as good a time as you can; I want you to keep on doing all the things we both like, Mollie."

"Without you, I couldn't do anything."

"But I want you to, dear, I really do. It would make me even more miserable if I thought you were denying yourself any pleasure because I couldn't share it." He gulped. "Only don't forget me."

"I'll never forget you. I'll never look at another man, Harvey."

"There are days when they'll let people come and see me, Mollie. You'll come, won't you?"

"Every day, Harvey, every day they'll let me."

Then they said she must go. And she could not help it—she was relieved. All the while she was there she had the sense of being in prison, too, and it suffocated her. "I would die, if I had to stay there," she said, over and over again.

But she reminded herself that Harvey was suffering this for her. Never had she loved him so much. The least she could do for Harvey was to keep all her promises—and more. She'd devote her life to waiting for him, she'd do everything she could to cheer him.

A LIFE of devotion, she discovered presently, was a hearty bore. Nothing to do but write to Harvey, and nothing to write but vows of affection. It seemed heartless to go over to the club and play tennis or do a round of golf but, after all, she must keep fit. And there was sure to be someone to press her into a luncheon or dinner engagement. Harvey didn't expect her to sit at home and read or play solitaire! Surely not.

Of course, she went to see Harvey on the one monthly visiting day permitted. But, after the first time, she had to force herself to do it. That grim place, the warder within hearing, the distance across which she had to speak to Harvey, and Harvey himself, his eyes hollow, his skin sickly white. She was ill for a day after every visit. Oh, she pitied him, the miserable creature she saw there, with all her heart, but it wasn't Harvey, not her Harvey, the man she loved. She began to change, to find another self.

She saw Trude Gaines only at long intervals, for Trude had cut out parties and play stuff altogether, but, when Mollie decided to go to Florida for the two months of midwinter, she went to see Trude.

"I know you hate the sight of me," she said. "All the same, I know you'll do what I ask. Not for me, but for Harvey. I want you to see him in my place, and tell him I'm not well, and that's the reason I went away. I'll write him that, too. If he thinks I'm going away for a good time, it'll make him more unhappy than if he thinks I'm sick."

"You want me to back up your lies," said Trude. "You've got a towering nerve to ask me to do that, Mollie Rutter."

Mollie smiled, not a real smile, but a movement of the face. "You'll do it for Harvey. He needn't be any more unhappy than is absolutely necessary. That's why. You think I'm a rotten sort of person, don't you, Trude? If it's any satisfaction to you, I'm not very pleased with myself. But I've not got it in me to be a great heroine. Some people have steel in their souls, and some haven't. I haven't. Will you go and see Harvey, or won't you?"

"Yes," said Trude. She added, after a moment, slowly: "I don't like you, Mollie, but now I'm sorry for you."

"That's something," said Mollie flippantly, and took herself off.

SHE stayed away three months, instead of two, so three times Trude went to the penitentiary and saw Harvey. Three times she made convincing excuses for the absentee.

"You know, Trude," said the pale, strange wraith of Harvey, wistfully, "it's more comfort, somehow, to have you come than it is to have Mollie, because I've always so much to say to her and I can say almost nothing when she's here. And then I'm fearfully blue afterward. And it's hard to write letters, knowing they'll be read. I'm awfully glad you came in her place. You've made me feel better than I have for a long time."

"Truly, Harvey, truly?"

"Yes, truly. You and I always did understand each other. You know, Trude, I'm getting awfully interested in this place. What d'you think? They let me teach in the school! Can you imagine me teaching men as old as dad to read and write?"

His old self came back into his eyes as he talked.

"If there was only something I could do for you," she said at last.

"Maybe they'd let you send some books to the library. Will you find out, Trude?"

When Mollie came back Trude saw how she had changed. She was more beautiful than ever, but her beauty had lost its naturalness and its youth. Mollie had given up the younger set, too. Now and then she timed her stay at home so she could see Harvey, but these occasions came more and more rarely. Yet she would not cut off from him entirely. And, when the word went around that he was to be pardoned, she left a house party at Sim Pardee's Adirondack camp and came home to wait for him.

He had served little more than two years of his term. His lawyers had planned well and shrewdly. Quietly, but very cogently, the pardon was pressed. Presently it was given.

Harvey Larimore left the penitentiary to find his father waiting for him at the gate. He looked up at the blue fairness of the October sky and put his hand across his eyes.

"It doesn't seem true," he said. "I must be dreaming it."

THE elder Larimore sat with his frail old hand on his son's sleeve, but he kept his gaze straight ahead.

"You'll stop and see Mollie before we go home?" he asked.

Harvey hesitated. "Why—yes."

So Harvey Larimore, feeling very much like a ghost of himself, went into the familiar living room and found Mollie alone, waiting.

They moved toward each other, he held out his arms—and then—they dropped at his sides. They looked at each other as people do who see some curious resemblance to a friend in some strange face. Mollie spoke first. "It's no good pretending. It's over."

He could not accept it so simply. "Mollie, darling, you don't mean it. All the time I've loved you so." But the words struck hollow to his own ear.

"You see," said Mollie. "Yes, you do see. It couldn't be helped, Harvey. I couldn't keep on loving you. No woman can keep on loving a man she's injured as I've injured you. I let you take my blame. I said I'd devote my life to you. I wasn't honest, I wasn't strong. It was too big for me. Some people are like that, Harvey. I can't help it any more than I can help having yellow hair and brown eyes. But I couldn't marry you, and live with you, with the weight on me of owing you so much! Gratitude's horrible. And, more horrible still, you've shown me my own weakness, my own littleness."

SHE came nearer to him. "We'll part friends," she said. "You're the best man in the world, and I'll always think so. And you've had the best and worst of me. Harvey, tell me, you know what I've said is true? You haven't kept on loving me, really? There, in the prison, you must have come to see the truth of things?"

He waited a moment. "I suppose I did, Mollie. And yet, thinking of you, you were just the same. At first, I mean. Later, somehow, you—but I thought it would all come back just as it was before, when I got out again, when I saw you."

"But it hasn't come back?"

There was a long silence this time. "No, it hasn't come back," he said at last.

He went out to the car, shaken and yet with a greater sense of freedom. He had known, subconsciously, that this was coming, and he had dreaded it. Now that it had happened, he felt strangely cold, strangely empty and strangely fearful. If he and Mollie had so changed—would he find anyone stable and steadfast? The world was warped, awry.

Then he heard his father speaking. "We must get along home. Trude is waiting for you."

The coldness turned to warmth, the emptiness was suddenly filled. Faith returned in a sudden glowing certainty. Trude was waiting for him! Trude!

The Doughboy who Went A. W. O. L. and got Married

But the Complicated Romance of Private Perry Harlan Is Now a Real Success, for His German-American Daughter Has Come Home to Kansas City.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

KANSAS CITY, Mo.

ANNELIESE HARLAN, 8 years old, got in from Germany the other day. It was an unusual homecoming. Anneliese had never been home before. Her father got off a train with her in the big Union Station and pointed out a woman pacing expectantly up and down the midway.

"That's your mother," he told Anneliese, and the child dashed to meet her. German greetings flew thick and fast, for it was the extraordinary circumstance of a German child coming home to American parents. Her own parents, too.

Anneliese, even at 8, is still too young to realize fully the situation in which she finds herself. From babyhood she had been brought up by an aunt in the village of Weiler, near Coblenz. Until she arrived here she never knew her mother except through letters and photographs, or at least did not remember her. Until a few weeks ago, when her father went to Germany to get her, she hadn't known him, either. She was just a year old when they were compelled to leave her behind on the other side of the Atlantic. Now they are celebrating their triumph over unfriendly fates. For it seemed that the fates surely did conspire against the reunion of Anneliese and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Harlan.

Harlan's trip to Germany for his war baby represented his second triumphal invasion of the Rhine district. On the first occasion, he went with the United States Army of Occupation.

Harlan, a Kansas City youth, was too young to get in the army at the time this country entered the World War, though he tried to do so. He kept on trying, and about the time the armistice was signed he succeeded. He enlisted and was sent overseas. The excitement he had hoped to find was over then. All that remained was that afforded by occupation of the Rhineland. It consisted of drilling, mounting guard, peeling potatoes on K. P., going on an occasional patrol and guarding bridges.

The months dragged on. By the summer of 1919 it seemed to him he had been there for years.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Harlan (Mrs. Harlan was born Krautkramer) and their 8-year-old daughter, Anneliese.

PRIVATE PERRY HARLAN got homesick. He got to thinking about the good times he might be having back in Kansas City, Missouri, and the more he thought about it the more homesick he got. After "retreat" one night, he strolled out of the camp. He stayed out, debating whether or not to go back. Before he knew it, "taps" had sounded and he was A. W. O. L. That settled it. He wouldn't go back now. He would stay A. W. O. L.

So he started wandering, going nowhere in particular. One night he entered a small village—the village of Weiler it was—and found a merry-making in progress. The villagers were assembled in a beer garden, celebrating the founding of the village. Private Harlan joined them and in the course of the evening got acquainted with a pretty, dark-haired girl named Anne Krautkramer. She introduced him to her father and sisters and by the time the party was over he was in love with her. He stayed around the village for three days, falling more in love every minute.

Realizing at last that he was still absent without leave and in danger of being caught and returned to the guardhouse, he decided the best thing to do was to go back and brave his commanding officer's wrath and have it over with. Thereupon he trudged back to camp and reported to Captain R. O. Barton.

He was surprised when the Captain heard his "homesickness" story with sympathy and let him off. Thus encouraged, he ventured to tell of his romance and ask permission to get married. The Captain gave his permission.

So Private Harlan and Anne Krautkramer were married, the ceremony being performed both by the army chaplain and the mayor of the village while the villagers looked on and made merry again in the beer garden.

Assigned to special billets and excused from all camp routine except daily drill, Private Harlan found army life very agreeable. He became deeply attached to the German village and his German family. In 1920 the baby, Anneliese, was born. Then real trouble began. She was frail and weak to start with, weighing only 3 1-2 pounds. There was a battle to save her life. Again the Captain rallied to his aid and assigned him to office duties, which relieved him of drill. That enabled him to spend much time at home and Anneliese was saved. But other troubles were to follow.

As international affairs were straightened out, the United States began to recall the troops from the Rhine. Although he hadn't sought it, a place was alloted to Private Harlan and he was ordered to get ready to be sent back to America.

INSTEAD of pleasing him, that saddened him. He had learned to love Germany and wanted to remain. So while other doughboys were almost praying for an opportunity to go home, Harlan went A. W. O. L. again and stayed away until his boat sailed. Once more he made a clean breast of it and once more he escaped the guardhouse. But he was warned that such a thing wouldn't happen again. When the next boat was ready he must go.

The next boat was ready in a few days. This time he encountered another grief. Baby Anneliese, always a frail baby, was unable to make the trip. The only thing to be done was to leave her. He did that, taking his wife with him and leaving the baby in the care of Mrs. Harlan's sister, Mrs. Marie Salzig. She would keep the child until the Harlans could get back to Kansas City, find jobs and save enough money to bring the baby across.

And so the Harlans bade goodby to Anneliese and Germany in June, 1921. They landed in New York and Harlan was mustered out. A few days later they were home in Kansas City, looking for employment.

The first night he worked in a newspaper mailing room to earn $2.50. Next day he got a job that paid $5 a day but only as an extra. Then he went to work at $11 a week in a mail order house. His wife worked in a cafeteria and earned a similar pittance.

Harlan's health failed and he came down with an attack of appendicitis. He had to undergo an operation. That knocked him out of a job and took all his bank roll. After that they went to Wyoming for his health.

A few months passed and then they came back to Kansas City to renew the fight. This time he got work in a cold storage plant and when he had saved about $50 he suffered an injury that took all his money again.

For the third time, he renewed the battle. From then on he managed to stay out of the hospital, but saving was a slow business. Harlan was making only about enough to keep two people from starvation. Year after year went by and Anneliese meanwhile was growing up in faraway Germany.

IT WAS a hard uphill pull, but the Harlans finally saved $150, enough to get Anneliese back if someone would take care of her on the ship and train. They applied to the Travelers' Aid, sent a check to the International Immigration Society and then lost track of it. Nothing was done and Harlan finally got his money back last March. This time he started to Germany himself.

In Coblenz he bought Anneliese a few presents and was heralded in Weiler as the little girl's "rich American papa." All Americans are rich to the villagers. They never guessed what a struggle that trip had meant.

The Blight on Queen Victoria's Descendants

painless life and a painless death. Neither, however, was to be achieved.

Unlike the Czarevitch, the Prince of Asturias has not been an invalid from infancy. In early childhood he was active and studious. At the age of 3 his brightness was the subject of comment. But when, a few years later, a tooth had to be extracted and the loss of blood attendant was alarming, the taint of haemophilia became apparent. Quantities of salt had to be injected into the lad's royal veins to stop the hemorrhage.

SINCE then, King Alfonso and Queen Victoria Ena have spent a fortune in efforts to cure him. They have taken him yearly to all the great specialists in Paris, London and Berlin, but to no avail. He has not shown the slightest improvement. He has to be watched continually for fear that he will fall and hurt himself, and his parents live in constant anxiety. Three of his ambitions of boyhood have been abandoned. First, he wanted to be a soldier, then a sailor and, later, an aviator.

In 1926 the Prince was injured in an automobile crash in San Sebastian. The long illness that followed showed how closely haemophilia dogged his heels. Army training, what little there had been of it, had been futile in building up his constitution. And medical treatment had done as little. It is said now that his joints have become so affected that he cannot take exercise.

As it has long been apparent that the Crown Prince never will be strong enough to marry or assume the cares of state, the King, with the agreement of the Council of State, has secretly eliminated him from the succession to the throne, but that is only one of the Spanish royal family's worries.

DON JAIME, the second son, is stone deaf and has an impediment in his speech. Don Juan, the third son, and Gonzales, the fourth, both suffer from mental handicaps. Spain believes that, even should they be capable of ruling, it would be difficult to arrange desirable marriages for them and therefore impossible to continue the line of succession.

Not the least tragic side of the haemophilia curse in the family of Alfonso XIII is the plight in which it places his two beautiful daughters, who are approaching marriageable age. No European Prince has spoken for the hand of either, and it is probable that none ever will. They are marked.

"They may be infected with it, too, and their children after them would suffer," the old women are whispering in every court in Europe, and so the Princes have remained away.

It was the same way with the daughters of the unhappy Czar Nicholas, but their earthly troubles are over.

Special Face Powder Made for Oily Skin

Doctors say it is seborrhea (oily skin), that when neglected causes so many complexions to become coarse and ugly. But now you need not fear oily skin. A sure, quick way has been found to banish this horrid enemy of skin beauty.

For many years beauty specialists have used a perfect treatment for oily skin—a marvelous astringent for reducing the pores. But, to simplify the treatment, many chemists tried to blend that beautifying astringent with a face powder. They all failed to find out how to do it until it was at last discovered by the specialist who makes La-May Face Powder. That's why for the first time in your life you can reduce enlarged pores and correct oily skin by simply using face powder!

La-May (French, Poudre L'Ame) is now in the stores everywhere; in all shades in two sizes. You will find it goes on smoother, stays on longer and looks better than any other face powder. It does not show as make-up.

CAUTION: Ordinary face powders are not good for oily skin; they contain zinc stearate which makes them laxadermic (skin-relaxing)—the reverse of astringent. They open the pores so that the more you powder the more you clog the pores (especially if your skin is oily); the result is relaxed, open pores, then blackheads and often eruptions. No wonder millions of women are changing to La-May; even in Paris it is called the purest, finest powder known to science. Save this notice.

FIVE SISTERS
Whom the World Passed By

The Misses Council Have Never Ridden on a Train or Seen a Movie, Grow All Their Own Food and Make Their Clothes— and Have a Good Time at It.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

CHARLOTTE, North Carolina.

THE Misses Council, sisters, of Bladen County, live in the past. They have always lived in the past. The manner of life that prevailed in their girlhood is plenty good enough for them today. They have little patience with the short-haired and short-skirted women of today—nor with silks in place of the old-fashioned homespun.

They have never seen a moving picture or a bathtub or an electric light. Several of them have never ridden on a train—and don't want to. One has persistently refused to walk the quarter of a mile from their plantation to the railroad to see what a train looks like. They would not have one of those "new-fangled cookstoves in the house," maintaining that food tastes better when cooked in the open fireplace in the old-fashioned way.

Their house is old—very old. And it hasn't changed any in all the years they have lived in it, except to grow older with them. It is beginning to show the effects of wear, as do the old women who live in it. Their chimney is built of light-wood sticks, riven out and placed criss-cross, with clay in between and clay-lined inside. It doesn't sound very substantial, but it has withstood the test of scores of years.

THESE women still grow their own cotton and wool and do their own carding, spinning and weaving. They color their yarns with dyes made by boiling the bark of certain trees. Their clothing is all hand-woven and hand-made. Miss Martha possesses a calico frock that was a gift. This dress is much treasured and is worn only on state occasions. They make their hats out of cornshucks folded into triangles and stitched together. A dark band around the crown, also handmade, puts the finishing touch and renders them quite attractive.

Their bedspreads are also made at home. Some of them are most intricate in design and pattern. One in particular is ornamented with a large flower pot in the center, with a luxuriant plant growing out of it. The material is woven into three strips and the edges whipped together by hand. Then it is laid on a bedspread of the same pattern and a pewter plate rubbed vigorously over it. This leaves on the new spread a black imprint of the design under it. It is then tufted by felling over heavy broomstraw, with soft cotton thread. The straw is then slipped out and a small pair of scissors run inside to cut the thread through the loops thus left. It is very simple when you know how.

Antique hunters would be delighted with the treasures to be found in this quaint old home. Bedsteads corded with ropes and without springs are still in use in the Council home. The old ladies sleep in feather beds made from the down of their own geese. Their chairs, with untanned cowhide seats, are also made at home. For light in the evenings they depend on the glowing pine knots that burn in the open fireplace winter and summer.

The diet of this family is as simple as their other manner of life. They eat practically no kind of meat except pork, and this they cure themselves from their own hogs. They grow all their vegetables in their own garden, doing the work of cultivation themselves. Since they make their own clothing as well as raise their own food, money is about as necessary to them as ball gowns or shock absorbers.

Originally there were 12 children in the family, 10 girls and two boys. Only two of them ever married. But one by one they have died until but five remain. These five sisters live together in the same house that sheltered their father before them. They are surrounded by the same furniture that their mother used. They are now rapidly approaching the sunset of life, but are still "carrying on."

Until the Civil War the Councils were large slave owners and their broad acres yielded heavy harvests. But now the big pine trees are flourishing where once the corn and cotton grew. The forest is again creeping up to their door sill. It is the eternal struggle between man and nature being fought again—and this time nature is winning. The battle is going against these old ladies all the time.

They no longer try to farm the place except for their own needs. They will not market their stuff, and so have no money with which to pay for help. They are sufficient unto themselves. But they cannot beat the forest back with their feeble old hands. A little patch of cotton, a little patch of corn, and their vegetable garden are all they can manage. These, with their chickens and their hogs, supply their simple needs.

THEY are not downcast at the prospect before them. They believe that they will be able to look after themselves until the end. There is still considerable vigor in their old frames. They do not grow lonesome. They have always been satisfied in the company of one another. Sometimes a neighbor drops in for a visit of an hour or a day. Such an occasion is one of the bright spots in their quiet lives. Miss Martha puts on her handsome calico gown for such events. Miss Cora exhibits her latest bedspread. Sometimes passing boys will leave them a mess of fish from the nearby stream.

There is in their possession some of the most beautiful old furniture to be found anywhere. There are great pieces made out of the solid wood and without a nail in them anywhere. The owners cannot tell you the age of them. They were there before the memory of living man could record them. Perhaps it is in these old things that the last of the sisters will find a livelihood for her last days. These old pieces would bring in a handsome amount if properly marketed.

The progress of the world has never bothered the Misses Council. They do not know what is in the world outside of their own little circumscribed neighborhood. They seldom venture off their own land, which has been dwindling in size through the years until there now remains only the little patch of ground which they are able to cultivate, and the wooded area beyond. There are some fine old trees which beautify the place. But you would never guess their circumstances by visiting them. They will feed you chicken fried brown in the country style, with rich gravy over it. There will be great platters of sweet yams and vegetables. There will be corn bread, the taste of which will linger in your mouth for days like a delicate memory. There will be some old ham, cured in hickory smoke. There will, perhaps, be a dish of honey gathered by the bees from the sourwoods on the hillside. And the contagious laugh of these hospitable old ladies will make you glad you came and sorry when it is time for you to leave.

The Council sisters.

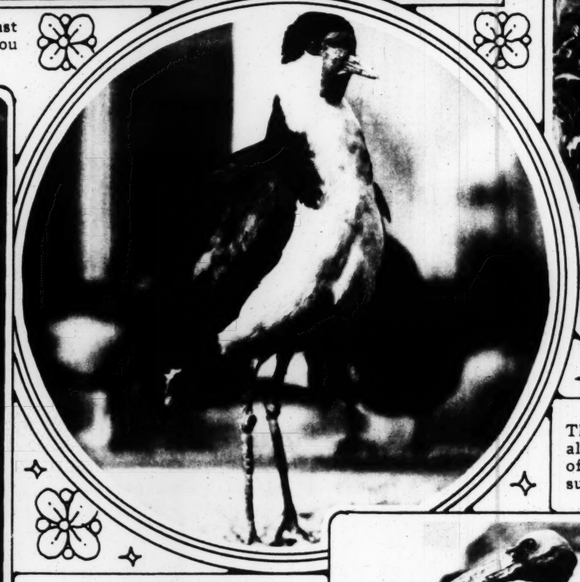
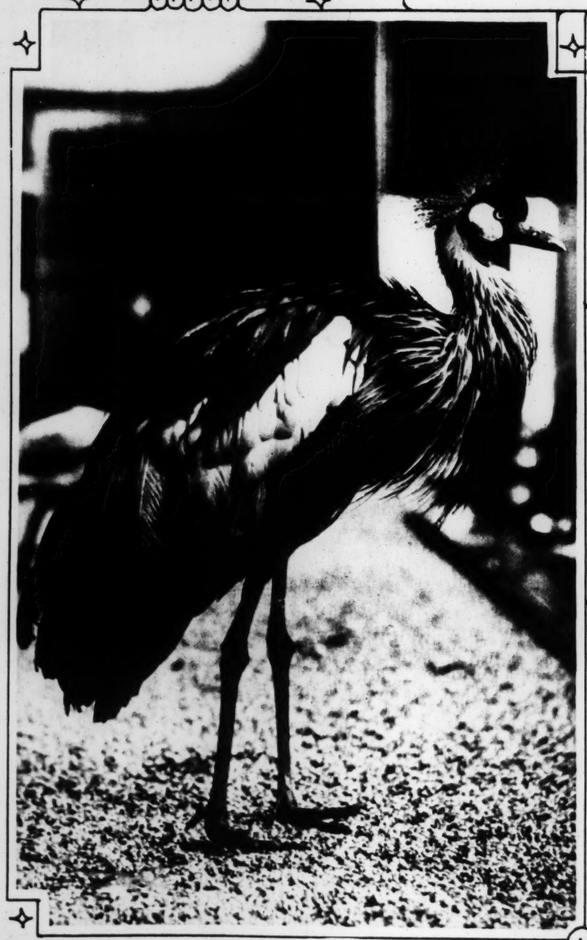
The swan is lordly in the water, the last word in feathered loveliness, but did you ever happen to see him on the land?

Highly praised, sometimes dreaded —the stork.

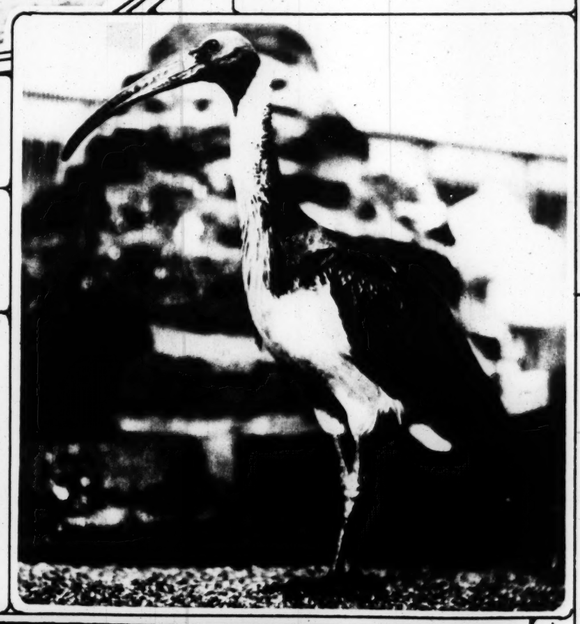


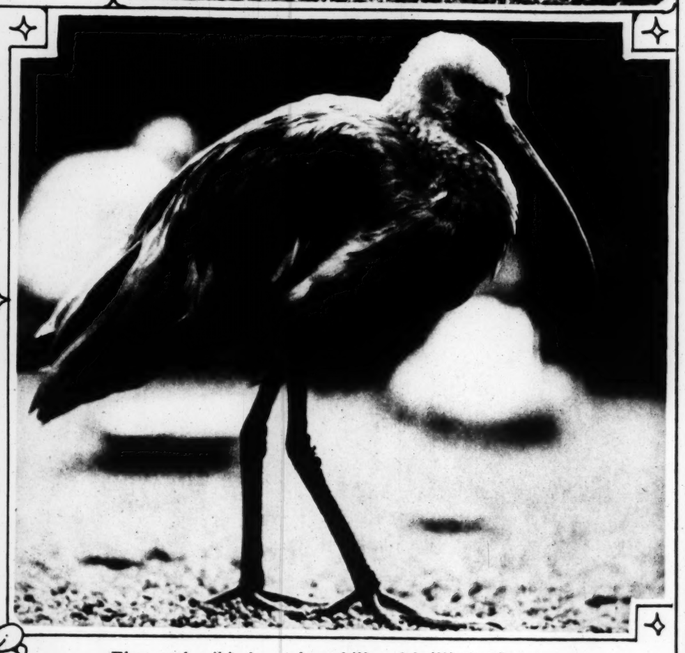
The wattled sandpiper, from Australia, with his white waistcoat and dark wings and sullen eyes.



The crown crane, with his gaudy feathers, loves to strut and give you every opportunity to admire his beauty.

This bird is called strawneck, because of the plumage which covers his throat, but really he belongs to the ibis family.





The scarlet ibis has a long bill and brilliant plumage.

No other WAVE is quite so lovely

EXQUISITE frocks from Lanvin, hats by Patou . . . nothing can adorn you with the smartness and loveliness lavished upon you by this distinguished permanent wave.

For years expert hairdressers searched for the perfect method of softening the hair. For it is in this step that beauty is bestowed on the hair.

Then E. Frederics perfected the Frederics Vita-Tonic Process. And what a wonderful discovery it is!

Without harming, staining, or discoloring hair of the most delicate texture and shading, this process creates soft, wide waves that gleam like sunbeams. And this attractive sheen remains as long as the wave lasts!

To be sure of the most beautiful permanent, insist upon the Frederics Vita-Tonic Process. Also see that your hairdresser uses the Frederics Permanent Waving Machine. Then and only then will you look your loveliest.

To identify the Frederics Vita-Tonic Process look for the name on each wrapper used in softening the hair.

"Let's Both Reduce"

It's so easy to lose fat

Excess fat is a serious blight, both to men and women. Not only to beauty, but to health and vitality. And multitudes in late years have proved that it can be ended.

Look about you. Note the slender figures which once were fat. You will see that some new factor has changed the old conditions.

Science, a few years ago, discovered a great cause of excess fat. It lies in a certain gland deficiency which greatly affects nutrition. Then a great medical laboratory developed the Marmola prescription. Now people have used it for 20 years—millions of boxes of it. The use has grown to enormous proportions by users telling others.

The good results are seen in every circle. Most of you have friends who know them. Ask them what Marmola does.

No secrets about it. A booklet in every box gives the formula complete and explains how the factors act. You will know that the loss in weight comes about in a natural, helpful way. By aiding to combat an abnormal condition.

Learn what Marmola means to you. If your mate is also over-fat, make a bargain to reduce together. Simply take 4 tablets daily. No abnormal exercise or diet is required.

Do this because of the 20-year record in which Marmola has brought new beauty, new joys to so many. You owe that to all who care for you. Start now.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. Any druggist who is out will order from his jobber.

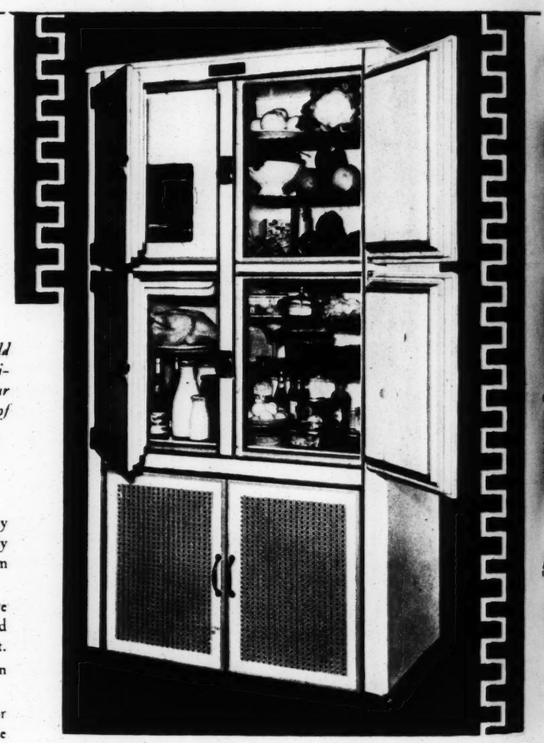
The physician speaks of his Kelvinator



The Kelvinator Company,
Detroit, Michigan.

Gentlemen: Having used our Kelvinator for three years, we would be very reluctant to do without it. It is convenient, economical, sanitary and is satisfactory in every way to the superlative degree. Our Kelvinator has never been out of order and practically takes care of itself. Very sincerely,

★ , M. D.

WHO should know better than a physician the many wholesome advantages of Kelvination? He is closely concerned with safeguarding the family health from the dangers of taint and spoilage in foods.

He is interested in Kelvinator convenience, too, for his hours are such that his Kelvinator Electric Refrigerator has no doubt furnished him many a tasty snack after some long vigil at the bedside of a patient.

He speaks of Kelvinator reliability . . . he who must in his own life be the very personification of reliability. . . .

You will come to count on your Kelvinator Electric Refrigerator too. People whose homes are Kelvinator-equipped soon learn the many delights and comforts of its crisp, clear cold. They learn to expect a goodness and freshness that cannot be had in any other way.

You may have Kelvination installed in your present refrigerator . . . for there is a Kelvinator cooling unit to fit every make and size. Or you may have it already installed in any of the famous Kelvinator Electric Refrigerators. They are made in all sizes and styles . . . in all finishes and shapes. . . . They are reasonably priced in keeping with capacity and design and a convenient plan of deferred payments may be arranged if you wish.

Your local Kelvinator representative will gladly show you these cabinets and explain to you the many advantages of Kelvination. Kelvinator Corporation, Detroit; Kelvinator, Ltd., London, England; Kelvinator of Canada, Ltd., London, Ontario.

★ The letters used in Kelvinator advertising are genuine. For obvious reasons we do not publish the names of the writers, but they are on file in our Detroit offices.

Long Beach, Calif.

"I AM ELEVEN. Nearly all my life I had a breaking out on my skin—it was awful because I couldn't swim much—and we lived just two blocks from the beach.

"But now that I've been eating Fleischmann's Yeast my skin trouble is practically gone and I have lots of pep and feel fine. Now we go to the beach every day—my dog and I—it's great fun. I won't forget that Yeast made me well."

Robert S. Lawson

"They Thought I Couldn't Keep the Job"

Plymouth, Mass.

"My family thought that business, with its nervous strain, was the last thing I should go into, in my run down condition.

"But at that time (shortly after my mother's death) parties did not appeal to me and I never needed anything so much to occupy my mind.

"So finally the doctor said that if I was determined I should at least build myself up by eating Fleischmann's Yeast. I began eating it every day.

"Well, I got the position I had set my heart on and not only did I hold my job, but was later made manager of the office. Today, thanks to Fleischmann's Yeast, I have energy enough to work all day and go to lots of dances in the evenings."

Olive A. Wilson

EVERY TIME you resort to drugs and exhausting cathartics you merely put off the day of reckoning. All drugs are a temporary measure at best—that is how they differ from Fleischmann's Yeast. Fresh yeast is a food—like any garden vegetable.

As your intestines are strengthened by eating yeast, food wastes are got rid of promptly, completely. Digestion has a clear track ahead! Appetite revives. Your very complexion proclaims a body internally clean.

Buy 2 or 3 days' supply of Fleischmann's Yeast at a time from your grocer and keep in any cool dry place. Also at many leading cafeterias, lunch counters, soda fountains. Write for the latest booklet on Yeast in the diet—free. Health Research Dept. N-960, The Fleischmann Company, 701 Washington St., New York.

Milwaukee, Wis.

"FOR 17 YEARS I was in such a condition from constipation and stomach trouble that every part of my body seemed affected. I was weak from the pains and dizziness—and growing worse. Fleischmann's Yeast seemed so simple that I was skeptical. But a friend finally induced me to try it. In three months my elimination was regular. My appetite is good, and I can again sleep well."

Mrs Emma C Cleveland

[RIGHT]

Cleveland, Ohio

"AFTER YEARS of suffering, I was finally being compelled to take a laxative every day.

"Naturally, with my condition as deeply seated as it was, I waved aside the advice of friends who urged me to try Fleischmann's Yeast. But nine months ago I was prevailed on to try it. Three weeks later I was able to discontinue laxatives. I am no longer troubled with indigestion or headaches, either."

J. F. Lowan

So simple—this new way to health:

Eat three cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast regularly every day, one cake before each meal or between meals: just plain, or in water or any other way you like. For stubborn constipation physicians recommend drinking one cake in hot water—not scalding—before each meal and before going to bed. And train yourself to form a regular daily habit. As you are benefited by eating Yeast, harsh, habit-forming cathartics can gradually be discontinued.

NEW ERA CREATED BY LEAGUE, SAYS HEAD OF COUNCIL

President Aguero Praises Spain for Returning to Organization, "Setting Good Example to World"

CHINESE PROTEST FILED AT GENEVA

Commercial, Banking and Press Organizations Assert Territorial Integrity Has Been Violated.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, June 4.—Immense practical progress in achieving good understandnig among the nations is the result of meetings of the council of the League of Nations, said President Aguero y Betancourt opening the first public meeting of the fiftieth session of the council today.

Observing that it was the golden anniversary of the council, President Aguero sketched its history. He said that in earlier days those who governed the destinies of peoples hardly knew one another or met only at official interviews, but that a new era had been created through the league.

Voicing satisfaction that Quinones de Leon of Spain, who sat on the first council, soon will return in consequence of Spain's decision to return to the League, Senor Aguero added:

"I address a special welcome to him, his country and his Government which set us a great example by proving to the whole world its unshaken fidelity to the ideal of peace and international co-operation by resuming effective collaboration with the League of Nations."

Co-operation with Latin-America in health questions "was approved by the council which adopted a resolution asking interested countries what they were ready to contribute to proposed studies of leprosy in Latin America in the way of facilities for investigation and financial support. The Committee of Investigation includes Dr. H. S. Cumming, Surgeon-General of the United States public health service.

The council accepted an increase from $50,000 to $60,335 of the 1928 subsidy of the Rockefeller Foundation for the epidemiological intelligence and public health statistics and adopted a resolution of thanks to the foundation.

A protest from commercial, banking and press organizations of China against the "Japanese invasion" of sections of the country, especially Shangtung, was filed here yesterday with the League.

The protest warned the League that unless justice is done to China, the League itself must bear a share of blame for the consequences.

Outside Council's Jurisdiction.

The League probably will have to assume whatever burden is attached to such blame as the Council has jurisdiction to discuss only appeals from governments recognized as members of the League. Pekin was in that class. A similar protest from the Nanking Government was ignored by the Council.

The business men's appeal was delivered personally to representatives of all nations on the Council, including the Japanese delegate, Adatchi and Chen-loh, who represents Pekin, by Hsi Chi-feng, who until two days ago was himself connected with the secretariat of the League.

Japan to Remain Aloof.

The Japanese delegation informed the Associated Press that "barring unforeseen circumstances" it would not initiate a discussion of the Chinese question here. The spokesman said that Japan was convinced that no good could be gained by such a discussion because of the uncertain situation at Pekin. He added:

"Japan wishes to see a solid government established at Pekin with which it can discuss the Shantung incidents and negotiate for withdrawal of the troops."

The protest charged Japan with disregarding the Washington treaty respecting China and the covenant of the League of Nations in that it had violated territorial integrity and political independence of the Chinese nation by sending military forces into Shantung.

"Would Japanese troops be allowed by the covenant of the League of Nations to kill Chinese who in self-defense, resist foreign invasion?" asked the protest.

Japan has been using the word "necessity" as a pretext for "aggression," the business men declared. They concluded their appeal by voicing a confidence that the League would find a way for peaceful settlement of the problem.

Crime Committee Would Leave Determination of Criminal Responsibility to Psychiatrists

Report Urges States to Follow Massachusetts and Colorado in Taking Insanity Hearings Out of the Hands of Incompetent Juries

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 4. — If the United States followed the logic of the psychiatrist in his diagnosis of the crime situation and reformed its criminal codes and court technique accordingly, far from helping the criminal, as has been mistakenly supposed, it would result in considerably greater social protection, asserts a report of recommendations of a special committee of the National Crime Commission, on the medical aspects of crime in relation to juries and the insanity plea.

"The utter absurdity of entrusting the difficult determination of the mental responsibility of an accused person for his acts to 12 laymen, admittedly unable to pass on the question from their own knowledge or training, has been made so manifest in the recent trial of George Remus in Cincinnati as to lead this committee to make this special report, "the announcement states." It is our hope that the interest and indignation aroused at the results of this trial will lead to a general demand on the part of the public that our legal procedure in this matter be entirely altered, and the committee desires particularly to call attention to the long step that has already been taken in this direction by the states of Massachusetts and Colorado, with most promising results in constitutionality.

"Sudden Insanity" Myth.

"Both states have adopted the same fundamental idea of removing the determination of the sanity of the accused from the jury and placing it in the hands of disinterested qualified experts in the study of mental diseases.

"If Ohio had such a law, we may be sure that Mr. Remus would not have been acquitted by the jury. Sound psychiatry recognizes no such condition as 'sudden insanity,' the excuse under which he escaped the penalty for his crime.

"The committee desires to emphasize its belief, after over a year's investigation of the subject with the assistance and advice of both physicians and lawyers who have given this matter years of thought, that instead of being the main issue in the conduct of a criminal trial, as it has so often appeared to be, the question of responsibility upon mental grounds should be disposed of before trial.

"The insanity plea is now used when all other legal means of saving the prisoner from the consequences of his act are exhausted, and it is highly likely that under a more adequate code and a more intelligent trial procedure, it will be only a secondary issue in the majority of cases. The experience of Massachusetts, which has adopted a new and much wiser course in the handling of capital cases than any other State, would seem to bear this out.

Average Jury Unqualified.

"Dr. Vernon Briggs, who sponsored the legislation making the reform of court procedure in such cases possible, reports that since the law providing for the mental examinations of persons accused of a capital offense and those indicted for a felony more than once, was passed in 1921, there has been an average of less than one case a year in which alienists have been employed by the defense in trials. It has effectually stopped the discredited practice of mental experts taking employment on either side of a capital case for large fees, and has saved the State costly trials in a number of cases.

Experts Advise 100 Judges.

"Those especially trained and expert in the study of mental diseases and abnormalities should be called on to help the judge dispose of the question of insanity, should it be raised, before, not during, the trial. He should not be the tool either of the prosecutor in his attempt to convict the prisoner or of the defense attorney trying to free him on the ground of his mental condition. Judges are beginning to appreciate this.

"A survey of our medical subcommittee now in progress shows so far that over 100 courts in 31 states are now employing psychiatric service in efforts to deal more effectively with the cases that come before them. There is also a growing use of such service with quite general recognition of its value on the part of American prisons, reformatories and juvenile institutions.

Psychiatric Aid for Courts.

"The committee desires particularly to call the attention of the public and those interested in immediate legislation for this glaring weakness in the criminal procedure to the following changes proposed by the American Psychiatric Association in respect to trial and procedure.

"Its recommendations include: (a) that the disposition of all misdemeanants and felons be based upon study of the individual offender by properly qualified and impartial experts co-operating with the courts; (b) that such experts be appointed by the courts with provision for remuneration from public funds; (c) that prisoners be discharged or released upon parole only after complete and competent psychiatric examination with findings favorable for successful rehabilitation; and (d) that the incurably inadequate, incompetent and anti-social offenders be interned permanently, without regard to the particular offense committed.

Provisions of Reform Laws.

"For those who have not followed the trend of reform in this direction, the Massachusetts laws briefly require, whenever a person is indicted for a capital offense or whenever a person is indicted for any other offense more than once, or has been previously convicted of a felony, that the State Department of Mental Diseases be notified, to the end that the defendant shall be examined with a view to determining the existence or nonexistence of any mental disease or defect which would affect his criminal responsibility.

"The department then files a report of its investigation and examination with the clerk of the court in which the trial is to be held, and the report is accessible to the Court, the District Attorney and to the attorney for the accused, and is admissible as evidence of the mental condition of the accused.

"The Colorado statute provides for the commitment of the defendant to a State hospital for mental diseases for observation for a period not exceeding one month, immediately upon a plea of insanity. The Judge may also appoint a commission of one or more physicians, specialists in mental diseases, to examine the defendant during said period, and he may call and examine these physicians as witnesses at the trial. After the period of observation, the case, in the discretion of the Court, may be either set for trial on the insanity issue alone and the defendant committed to the custody of the State hospital, or held for trial, dependent on the verdict of the jury, or be tried on the main case."

In making public the report, Newton D. Baker, chairman of the National Crime Commission, said the commission felt the report "to be particularly timely in view of the general attention attracted to the weakness of American criminal practice as regards the plea of insanity.

SMITH LEADS REED SEVEN DELEGATES IN WEST VIRGINIA

Official Count May Be Needed, However, to Decide Some of the Contests.

By the Associated Press.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 4—The fight for West Virginia's 16 votes at the Democratic National Convention remains undecided, almost a week after the State-wide primary last Tuesday. So narrow is Gov. Smith's margin over Senator Reed that the official count may be necessary to decide some of the contests.

The standing now is 11½ convention votes for Smith and 4½ for Reed. This represents a gain of one for Smith over the last tabulation Saturday.

In the presidential preference column the count is: Republican, 2173 of 2306 precincts, Senator Guy D. Goff, 120,519; Herbert Hoover, 106,033; *Democratic, 2145 of 2306 precincts, Gov. Smith, 74,869; Senator Reed, 70,777.

GENERAL MOTORS DIRECTOR TELLS WHY HE IS WET

J. J. Raskob Fearful of Growing Disregard for All Law That Prohibition Has Brought About.

ONLY CRIME NOW IS GETTING CAUGHT

Father of 12 Children and Director in Concern Employing 300,000 Workers Answers Critic.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 4.—John J. Raskob, chairman of the Finance Committee of the General Motors Corporation and director of corporations employing more than 300,000 men, made public yesterday a letter to Col. Patrick H. Callahan of Louisville, Ky., telling why, as a matter of good citizenship and the father of 12 children, he is opposed to prohibition. Raskob's letter is in reply to a letter from Col. Callahan he found awaiting him on his return from Europe a few days ago taking him to task for his connection with the National Association Against Prohibition.

Callahan, who is president of the Louisville Varnish Co., will be recalled through his attack upon the candidacy of Gov. Smith, April 21, in which he charged the Governor's friends with responsibility for the introduction of the religious issue into the campaign.

"The procedure of the Smith campaign constitutes, in my judgment," Callahan write at that time, "a distinct disservice to the Catholic Church and is a menace to the future political destinies of this country."

Two years previously Callahan addressed a letter to the Pope, asking him to order American Catholics to observe and help enforce the prohibition laws. The letter was denounced by Mgr. John L. Belford of Brooklyn as "imprudent and contemptible" and the product of a committee "of which 90 per cent of the members hate the Pope and nine and nine-tenths loathe and despise him."

Lack of Respect for Law.

Raskob's letter to Callahan says:

"I am not a drinking man (this does not mean I never take a drink), am a director in corporations employing over 300,000 workmen and have a family of 12 children ranging in ages from 5 to 21.

"The thing that is giving me the greatest concern in connection with the rearing of these children and the future of our country is the fact that our citizens seem to be developing a thorough lack of respect for our laws and institutions, and there seems to be a growing feeling that nothing is wrong in life except getting caught.

"I believe we should develop in our people and teach our young folks a sense of right and wrong, a desire to do right for right's sake, the advantages of unselfishness as exemplified by the Golden Rule and instill in them the spirit of liberty and freedom that our forefathers breathed when they framed the Constitution of these United States.

"We as a people seem to be losing all sense of respect for ourselves and our fellow men, with the result that in a thoroughly intolerant attitude we hesitate not a minute to secure an organized minority, or even a majority, to attempt by resolution or law, to impose our will on a large body of people in matters where no moral wrong is involved and where liberty is curtailed.

What Intolerance Has Done.

"The intolerant attitude of England toward the people of the 13 colonies resulted in rebellion and the great suffering of those colonists gave birth to a Constitution of the United States, which breathed of freedom and liberty. The spirit underlying the framing of the Constitution was one of tolerance and not of prohibition, and no police powers were delegated to the Federal Government and with the sole exceptions of the fifteenth and eighteenth amendments the states to date have delegated no police power to our Federal Government. Both the fifteenth and eighteenth amendments fail to square with the spirit of freedom which gave birth to the original document. A large number of people feel that a majority in this country have no more right to curtail their freedom with respect to drinking beer, wines or even spirits than they have to deny free religious worship. These people feel they do no wrong in the sight of God when they buy and consume beer, wines and liquors in spite of the law. They feel that those who have the money to pay for such beverages and have them

125,000 TAKEN INTO GERMAN HOME GUARDS

'Steel Helmets' March Through Hamburg in Military Order—Clergymen Address Meeting.

By the Associated Press.

HAMBURG, June 4.—In a display of strength of the Nationalist organization known as "The Steel Helmets," 125,000 men were mustered here yesterday at the convention of the organization. The City Park resembled a vast army camp.

A storm of "hochs" greeted the arrival of the commander-in-chief of the confederated organizations and members of his staff from all parts of Germany.

The muster started with addressses by Protestant and Catholic clergy. After the commander-in-chief had read his annual message, the forces were drawn up in military array and reviewed by the staff.

This evening, while enormous lights illuminated the scene, 25,000 steel helmeters marched into Hamburg from the suburb, accompanied by bands. A pyrotechnic display of war scenes, showing tanks and machine guns in action and battles between airplanes, brought the celebration to a close. Pictures of Frederick the Great, Bismarck and Von Hindenburg were outlined in the fireworks.

FEDERAL RESERVE REPORTS HIGHEST LEVEL OF CREDIT

May Discounts $800,000,000, Despite Effort to Check Loans for Stock Deals.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The highest level of credit ever attained by member banks of the Federal Reserve system was reached in the middle of May in spite of efforts of the board to check the increasing volume of bank loans for transactions in securities.

In a statement today, the board said that during recent months increasing pressure on member banks through gold exports, sales of securities by the reserve banks and advances in rediscount rates had not had the effect of arresting the rapid expansion of member bank credit.

"The policy of the reserve banks, however, has resulted in greatly increasing the indebtedness of member banks to the reserve banks," the statement added. "In the middle of May discounts by the reserve banks for member banks amounted to $800,000,000, the largest in more than four years, and in addition the reserve banks held $350,000,000 in acceptances purchased from the member banks and from dealers.

"That these banks, in turn, pass the pressure on to the borrowing public is evidenced by the rise in open-market money rates (7 per cent for call money today) and the closer scrutiny to which many loans are subjected. Unless a change occurs in the direction of gold movements or in the open-market policy of the Federal Reserve system, the only means by which the member banks will be able to reduce their debt at the reserve banks is a sale of investments or a gradual contraction of their loan account."

PARIS, June 4.—Air navigation is being taught for the first time in regular classes here. Every passenger plane must carry a licensed navigator beginning next year.

KNIGHTHOOD CONFERRED ON CAPT. WILKINS, ARCTIC FLYER

Similar Honor Bestowed by British King on Prof. W. A. Craigie of Chicago U.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 4.—Capt. George H. Wilkins, the Australian who flew with Lieut. Carl B. Eielson from Alaska to Spitzbergen, was cited for knighthood yesterday by King George as part of the honor list issued on the monarch's sixty-third birthday anniversary.

Three new peerages, five baronetcies and numerous knighthoods were created. All the new peers are Conservative members of Parliament and by-elections will be called for as a result of their transfer to the House of Lords.

Sir Alfred Mond, member for Carmarthen, chairman of the Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd., and also of the $10,000,000 finance company of Great Britain and American organized April 12, heads the list. Originally he was a Liberal but he disagreed with Lloyd George on the latter's land policy. Sir George Rowland Blades, Lord Mayor of London last year, also was elevated to the peerage. The third new peerage went to Col. Sir James Remnant, a lawyer. Besides the knighthoods given to Wilkins, the list of those honors includes William A. Craigie, professor of English at the University of Chicago and joint editor of the Oxford dictionary and Archibald Hurd, a member of the editorial staff of the Daily Telegraph.

By the Associated Press.

AMSTERDAM, June 4.—Capt. George H. Wilkins and Lieut. Carl B. Eielson, flying from Berlin, arrived at the Sihipol Airdrome at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon. The Dutch authorities extended a hearty welcome.

SOLDIER WHO LOST MIND IN WAR STILL UNIDENTIFIED

French Government Has Puzzled for Ten Years Over Mystery of "Anthelme Mangin."

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, June 4. — "Anthelme Mangin," his mind unbalanced by the war, is now the only unidentified living soldier of France.

He was turned back by Germany after the armistice, with nothing to identify him. He was named "Anthelme Mangin" for convenience. For nearly 10 years, at intervals the Government has sent out pictures and descriptions of him and scores of men and women have thought he might be their brother, husband or father.

Recently the Government issued a public appeal for aid in identifying "Mangin" as Marcel Louis Lemay. Madame Lemay has thought him to be her husband, but there was doubt.

POLISH PROTEST OVER VILNA

WARSAW, Poland, June 4.—The naming of Vilna as capital of Lithuania in the new constitution of that country, has drawn a protest from the Polish Government. Possession of the city has been disputed between the two nations for several years.

Foreign Minister Zaleski has sent a note to Premier Waldemaras of Lithuania in which he characterizes the proclamation of Vilna as a capital as a mere demonstration without any effective consequence. He says that this act by Lithuania cannot diminish Poland's right to the city as established by the voting of the people of the district in 1922 and confirmed by the Council of Ambassadors the following year. Zaleski says that he Lithuanian claim is contrary to the pact of the League of Nations and pressing it may seriously interfere with the present negotiations for a restoration of normal relations between the two countries.

SPINK AFFIDAVIT TO BE USED TO AID TOM MOONEY

Chicago Federation of Labor to Offer Statement by Former St. Louis Publisher, Now Dead.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 4.—An affidavit made by Alfred H. Spink, former St. Louis publisher, who died here last week, will be used by the Chicago Federation of Labor in an effort to reopen the case of Tom Mooney, radical labor leader, now serving a life sentence in the San Quentin (Cal.) Penitentiary for the Preparedness day bombing in San Francisco, July 22, 1916, in which 11 persons were killed.

It was the opinion of Spink, expressed in the affidavit now made public, that the bombing was plotted and executed, not by Mooney, who was found guilty of it, but by agents of the German Government.

"Something Awful" Predicted.

In support of that opinion, Spink related the following:

Spink and his wife were making their home in Oakland, Cal., in 1916, and Mrs. Spink, a German, became friendly with a man and woman, who were neighbors, and, according to gossip, German spies. On the day of the San Francisco parade, Mrs. Spink mentioned to her neighbors that she planned to cross the bay for the celebration. The neighbor's wife warned her not to, the affidavit continues, telling Mrs. Spink that "something awful" was going to happen.

After the bombing, Spink planned to notify the authorities of the warning, according to the affidavit, but was persuaded not to by his wife, whose health was poor and who feared the consequence of any disclosures they might make.

Spink kept the information to himself until the death of his wife a year ago. He then confided to one person, John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, and made an affidavit on condition the story would not be made public until after Spink himself was dead. His death last week released the affidavit, and yesterday the Federation of Labor resolved to seek Mooney's release, using the affidavit as the basis for action.

Founder of Sporting News.

"Al" Spink, as he was widely known, was 74 years old when he died. He founded Sporting News, the St. Louis baseball newspaper, which later was taken over by his brother, the late Charles C. Spink, and now is published by a company headed by the latter's son, J. G. Taylor Spink. A. H. Spink also at one time owned the St. Louis World, a daily newspaper.

100,000 Pay Tribute to Schubert.

By the Associated Press.

VIENA, June 4.—Upward of 100,000 persons, including many Americans, participated in the opening ceremonies of national celebrations in honor of the centenary of Franz Schubert, yesterday. The capital was decorated with flags of all nations. A huge crowd stood bareheaded in the sun while the famous Viennese Philharmonic Orchestra played the composer's great symphony in C.

CHANG HURT, AID KILLED WHEN TRAIN IS BOMBED

Explosives Dropped on Special Near Mukden — Wu Chun-sheng, Governor of Heilunkiang, Slain.

DICTATOR REPORTED IN GRAVE CONDITION

Northern Guards Open Fire — 30 Nationalists Shot Down — Japanese Gendarmes Protest.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, June 4.—Dispatches from Mukden, Manchuria, say that Chang Tso-lin, former North China dictator, who was injured in a bomb explosion this morning en route to Mukden from Pekin, is reported in serious condition.

Mukden dispatches to Rengo, Japanese News Agency, state that Wu Chun-sheng, Military Governor of Province of Heilungkiang, has died from injuries which he suffered in the bombing. The dispatch says that his death was kept secret lest it disturb his troops. Wu Chung-sheng was traveling with Chang Tso-lin to Mukden when two bombs were dropped on their special train as it was approaching the Manchurian capital.

By the Associated Press.

MUKDEN, Manchuria, June 4.—The return of Marshal Chang Tso-lin, Manchurian war lord, to his stronghold in Mukden after two years of rule as dictator of North China was marked this morning by the bombing of Chang's special train as it entered the suburbs of the Manchurian capital.

Several of those aboard the former dictator's special train were killed, two officials were injured and Chang Tso-lin suffered slight facial injuries. Immediately after the bombing he proceeded to his headquarters.

(A dispatch from Tokio says official and other advices of the bombing told of 30 Southern (Nationalist) soldiers in civilian clothes being killed by the fire of the guard aboard Chang Tso-lin's train.)

Fire on Japanese Gendarmes.

The bombing has caused some tension between the Chinese and Japanese as the Japanese declared the Chinese aboard the train fired at random and mainly directed their fire at Japanese gendarmes guarding the railway. The latter replied and for 40 minutes there was an exchange of shots.

Two suspects arrested were reported to have been summarily shot while a number of Mukden officials also are said to be under arrest. Japanese reports say that the bombs were of Soviet manufacture.

Two bombs were dropped on the train as it was passing under a railway bridge at 5:30 o'clock this morning. The bombs blew up the eleventh coach and set fire to four other coaches which were destroyed by the blaze. The number of casualties was not definitely known.

Included among the wounded were Wu Chun-sheng, Governor of Heilunkiang province, and the Minister of Agriculture of the former Pekin regime. They were in the car next to that of Chang Tso-lin.

Some Troops Left in Pekin.

Some of Chang's Mukdenite troops who had been driven back toward Pekin by the Nationalist advance which led to his evacuation remained at the Northern capital, insuring an orderly withdrawal of Pekin troops.

Chang in lowering the five-barred flag of North China from the presidential palace in Pekin announced that he had assumed the rule there in an effort to save the State from what he regarded as a Communist movement.

"Even though my desire has not been fulfilled," he said, "I cannot bear to continue military operations. I am, therefore, ready to evacuate Pekin with my troops. Henceforth political issues are left in the hands of the people."

Nationalists Must Dispose of Soldiers Chang Abandoned.

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, China, June 4.—A problem confronting the Nationalist Government is how to dispose of two of the Northern armies, the soldiers of which do not wish to follow Chang Tso-lin into Manchuria and are, in fact, not wanted there by the ex-dictator of Pekin.

The troops, 70,000 in number, are natives of Shantung and Chihli provinces. One contingent is under Marshal Sun Chuan-fang, former ruler of the five Southeastern provinces. His armies have always had a reputation for good discipline. The other contingent is under Chang Tsung-chang, a Shantung leader whose forces have never been noted for their orderly behavior.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress or reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

The Race, Astrologically Speaking.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOU and your readers may be interested in an astrological preview of the possibility of some of the outstanding aspirants for political honors at the coming election in November. We shall see some of the greatest shifts in the personnel of our Government that have occurred in years.

If the Republican pilots would only take one look at the present and coming conditions of Calvin Coolidge's horoscope, there would be no talk of drafting him as a candidate to succeed himself as President. He will be under such adverse vibrations at the beginning of November that he simply could not be re-elected.

If the Democratic convention had been held three weeks ago, Al Smith would probably have been nominated on the first ballot, but June 26 will bring another picture at Houston. Still, Smith may be nominated—but not without a stiff battle. If he is the standard bearer of the Democrats, November will bring him very favorable indications for election. It would require a much stronger candidate than any I have seen mentioned by the Republicans to defeat him at that time. But, even though elected, Al Smith would yet have many tribulations to go through before seating himself in the chair on March 4, 1929.

It would be wise for both major parties to nominate other representatives at their coming conventions.

William G. McAdoo's decision to remain out of the presidential race of 1928 was well made, for it would be little more than an expensive gesture on his part. He should guard his finances this year, particularly in July, and also in March, 1929.

It is doubtful that the Republican convention will nominate Secretary Hoover. He could be elected in November only against an opponent whose planetary indications will be very weak and worse than his in November. In 1932, however, Mr. Hoover could probably be elected to any office to which he might aspire.

James A. Reed, the active Senator from Missouri, should save his resources and efforts for a more propitious time, according to the testimonies of his horoscope.

Frank O. Lowden has very little to look forward to in the way of public and national recognition this year. It is almost impossible for him to obtain the nomination; but if he does, he would stand but small chance of election in November.

Charles G. Dawes is the best bet of the Republicans, if they want to remain in power; but it is doubtful that his party will appreciate this fact at the time of the convention in Kansas City.

A very strong probability looms on the political horizon—that a new group will be formed within the next few months, with more than even chances of upsetting both the old parties in November. Such drastic changes in the political and international situation of the United States are coming that nothing will surprise the student of planetary influences on mundane affairs.

Decrease of Crossing Accidents.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I QUOTE the following from the 1928 report of the American Railway Association safety section:

> A decrease of railroad-highway crossing accidents, fatalities and injuries rewarded the American railways for their various efforts toward the prevention of such casualties in 1927. It is gratifying to know there were but 5640 accidents—2371 fatalities—and 6613 injuries in the year past. Compared with 1926 the decreases were 4.7 per cent, 4.8 per cent and 5.4 per cent respectively.

GEORGE F. MOCKLER.

An Outside Driveway.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WHILE advocating a bond issue, why not include cost of an outside driveway on either side of Free Bridge, as on the McKinley Bridge?

Inasmuch as railroads are not using and not likely to use the lower deck until they can trade the crumbling Eads for it, let's floor it and use it to expedite traffic.

This will be a big boost for St. Louis.

Supports Nine on $30 a Week.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IN regard to the letter signed, "A Conductor's Wife," referring to the small salaries the employes of Public Service receive, will say that my son receives a salary of $30 per week and is supporting a family of seven boys and wife. Four of these children go to a parochial school.

His salary is less than the conductors and motormen receive. If he can support this family on $30 per week and meet the payments on their home regularly when due, this conductor's wife should be able to do the same when he receives more pay. JAS. McA.

THE APPEAL TO MR. FREUND.

Arthur J. Freund, a member of the Board of Police Commissioners, has been asked to run for the Republican nomination for Circuit Attorney. The petition is signed by 58 business men. Mr. Freund has the matter under advisement and will announce his decision early this week. Meantime he feels highly complimented by this expression of confidence in him. The testimonial is one which any citizen might prize.

But there is more to this petition than a compliment to Mr. Freund. There is a protest here against the administration of the Circuit Attorney's office by the incumbent, Mr. Sidener. There is a protest here against Mr. Sidener's candidacy for the nomination to succeed himself. Just how much this appeal to Mr. Freund reflects public sentiment can only be surmised. It is a fair inference, we think, that it reflects a great body of public opinion.

Should Mr. Freund decide to enter the race there will be four candidates in the field besides Mr. Sidener. That is all to Mr. Sidener's liking. He figures the other contestants will divide the opposition to his renomination, thus assuring his victory by virtue of his personal thick-and-thin support. This reasoning is plausible. It is the reasoning, too, of the typical politician. And if there were not a covey of contestants for the nomination Mr. Sidener would likely have persuaded some of his friends to file as ostensible rivals. That would be politics as practiced by politicians of dubious records who realize they cannot win on their merits and, therefore, resort to the tricks of the game.

That Mr. Sidener could be nominated in a man-to-man contest with a Republican of Mr. Freund's character is decidedly improbable. The Sidener record is bad; glaringly bad in the notorious instances of the Rutherford and Motlow cases; impliedly bad in numerous minor instances; bad in the public's impression. There is no denying that judgment. And there is no denying the fact that, should he be renominated Mr. Sidener will be a dead weight on his party's ticket. It is a reasonable presumption, too, that, if Mr. Sidener is nominated, public opinion will hold the Republican party leaders largely responsible. Certainly informed public opinion is sure to believe that the party leaders, if they would, could have dissuaded Mr. Sidener from soliciting further preferment from the public. The party leaders have not done this. On the contrary, the notion pretty widely prevails that the party leaders have approved Mr. Sidener's candidacy.

The Post-Dispatch is not concerned about what may happen to the Republican party of St. Louis, or its leaders, or to any other party. But the Post-Dispatch is tremendously concerned in the repute and dignity and decency of St. Louis and the security of life and property. We have shared with all other respectable citizens the shame of this city from the incompetence of the Circuit Attorney's office under Mr. Sidener. That office violated justice unspeakably when Rutherford, killer of a bellboy, was let off on a payment of a $500 fine. Almost as dreadful was the acquittal of the other drunken killer, Motlow. Not only was justice degraded, but every murderous criminal in St. Louis was, in effect, encouraged to go forth and kill. Many of them have gone forth and killed.

It may be that the Republican party leaders are content to let Mr. Sidener have another four years in the Circuit Attorneyship if he can get the nomination. But, after all, the people do elect. And in this situation the thing for the Democrats to do is to nominate a man who would command the support of all law-abiding citizens, regardless of party. The Democrats have such a candidate in former Judge Franklin Miller.

STRAWBERRIES AND THE OZARKS.

There have been innumerable suggestions for making the Ozarks profitable. Probably the first one was goats. Goats were to eat the underbrush off. Somebody got a flock of goats. They did eat the underbrush off, but when their owner asked where he went from there the suggestions were resumed. In the past 25 years more experiments to make the land pay have been made in the Ozarks than anywhere else in the world. There have been chicken farms, squabberies, trouteries, orchards, vineyards, dairies, apiaries, sugaries, stills, and goodness knows what not.

Meanwhile the modest and blushing strawberry was quietly making its way north along the Ozark range. A few years ago we read almost insensibly of the strawberry crop around Branson. Now there is nothing else quite comparable in Missouri to the strawberry crop all over the Ozarks. One splendid thing about raising them is that it is not necessary to remove the stones from the field. A strawberry vine can suck sustenance out of a piece of limestone as glibly as a watermelon can fatten on sand. The consequence is that the hillsides everywhere in the Ozarks are being cleared, the stones left as is, and strawberry sets planted. The crops are stupendous. The berries—and what berries they are!—melt in the mouth. In another 10 years the southwest wind, blowing over the Ozarks, will bring to us strawberry perfume.

So the Ozarks, aside from being beautiful, refreshed with springs and traversed by cold, clear rivers, can be made to pay. The answer, all unsuspected for so many years, is strawberries. It is almost too ludicrous to think that we first tried goats.

THE TRI-MOTORED PLANE.

By adding still another faultless performance to the perfect record made by multi-motored airplanes in long-distance flights, the magnificent trip of the Southern Cross from Oakland, Cal., to Honolulu becomes another circumstance of great encouragement to commercial aviation.

In every long flight of record tri-motored planes, either of the Ford or Fokker variety, have functioned perfectly. These include Commander Byrd's flights to Europe and to the North Pole, the flight of Lieuts. Maitland and Hagenberger to Hawaii, and the trip of Bernt Balchen to Greenly Island for the relief of the Bremen flyers.

Since tri-motored airplanes are to be used on the transcontinental passenger lines as well as on all other passenger lines of real consequence, the great flights of the multi-motored planes can not but become bulwarks of confidence upon which the layman may lean when he has need to take to the air lines of the now near future. They have demonstrated, beyond doubt, that airplanes of their type are capable of perfect performance under any conditions of weather or strain.

NOT A NEWSPAPER STUNT

Efforts by the defense to show that Col. Robert W. Stewart was the victim of a newspaper stunt are in keeping with the insincerity that has characterized all the defensive tactics in the oil scandal.

Reopening the inquiry to ascertain what became of the rest of the Continental bonds was anything but a newspaper stunt. It was a public service which the Post-Dispatch is proud to have performed. The defense for Col. Stewart is preparing to point out that had it not been for the Post-Dispatch and its reporters there would have been no reopening of the inquiry. It goes so far as to take the deposition of Paul Y. Anderson, of the Post-Dispatch, for the purpose of proving that he, rather than any member of the investigating committee, devised the two direct questions which Col. Stewart refused to answer, and for which refusal he now stands in contempt of the Senate.

That is all quite true. Except for the Post-Dispatch and its reporters, the country would not know today what became of the rest of the Continental bonds. Mr. Sargent, the Attorney General, virtually repulsed a Post-Dispatch reporter when efforts were made to ascertain if the Department of Justice would try to find out what became of them. The paper then turned through its reporters to members of the Senate, through whom the inquiry was finally resumed. Certainly no greater service to the country than this has ever been rendered by any newspaper. The second act of the Teapot Dome expose was more devastating than the first. It was in this second act that the country learned of the practices of the Republican National Committee in the regime of Will Hays. Such big figures as Mr. Mellon, all tarred by the same stick, were on the stage in that second act of a great national drama. As Shakspeare said, they all had their exits and their entrances. Some of them had to be dragged on, and others had to be carried off; but in one way or other they all said their lines. If the first act damaged the clique which controlled the Republican party, showing the government to be corrupt, the second act may be said to have left the leaders of the party without a shred of respectability. It was a true revelation. No doubt millions of the American people, already half convinced of the dishonesty and immorality of that powerful group of overlords, were fully convinced of it then.

No, it was not a newspaper stunt. It was a needed public service. The Post-Dispatch has no apprehension that Col. Stewart's lawyers can make it appear to have been anything less. It was a service which held the mirror up to the country and enabled it to see itself. If it sent powerful men into disgrace, and if it blasted the smug respectability of the ruling group in American politics, it still was salutary and had within it the quality of healing. The country is better off for it, and the Post-Dispatch, however Col. Stewart's defense construes it, rejoices to have so conspicuously served the country.

THE LATEST COOLIDGE QUIP.

Mr. Coolidge's latest witticism is the talk of Washington. It occurred at a White House breakfast. Vice President Dawes had been chaffing Senator Watson of Indiana for appearing in a Prince Albert coat and a straw hat. The great Hoosier statesman was wincing under the badinage when, suddenly, the President cut in:

> Well, it's just as proper to wear a straw hat with a Prince Albert as it is to smoke a pipe when you're wearing a Prince Albert.

A momentary silence, then gales of laughter that shook the District of Columbia. The erstwhile embarrassed Watson beamed, while the bantering Dawes, flushed and uneasy, probed around for a crushing rejoinder, reconsidered and wisely refrained.

But where is the sparkling humor in this Coolidge repartee, you may ask?

Why, there's nothing funnier in Tolstoy, Dostoyevsky or the Constitution of Oklahoma.

Uncle Sam has remitted taxes upon the St. Charles Bridge, which makes him a member in good standing of the citizen's committee to turn that structure over to the State.

THE RADIO COMMISSION'S ORDER.

The Federal Radio Commission has declined to renew the licenses of 162 broadcasting stations. These licenses expired June 1, and they have been extended until Aug. 1 to permit the stations affected to show cause why they should not be discontinued. While on its face a sweeping move to clear the air, an analysis shows the commission's order to be far less important than it sounds.

WLIB, which used to broadcast Liberty Magazine programs from Chicago, has already been discontinued, having transferred its rights to WGN, the Chicago Tribune station. KFKX, Hastings, Neb., station of the Westinghouse Electric, has been taken over by KYW, the Chicago Westinghouse station. These are two instances where the commission's order is of only technical application.

The order includes KFQA, WMAY and KFWF, St. Louis stations. Two of these stations—KFQA and WMAY, have been using only an hour a week and their discontinuance would affect the local situation only in a very minor way. Similarly, the elimination of such small stations as WLBO, WJBL and WHBF in Illinois mean nothing to the general radio public, since they are never heard outside of a small area.

Furthermore, even if it were granted that the commission's action is a step in the right direction, it is not certain its order will be effective against any station which makes a battle for its preservation.

What is needed most from the commission is not a charge of buckshot against unimportant stations, but the regulation of those of 500 watts or better. The real problem lies there. The commission has before it an excellent report of general radio conditions, compiled by the Institute of Radio Engineers, upon which it might base a solution of the problem. The thesis of this report is there are only a certain number of stations which can be operated practicably, and the way to cure the present chaos is to make a drastic reduction to this number. The report, of course, mentions no stations by name and its conclusions are based purely on technical grounds.

Europe seized the radio problem by the forelock when it arose, with the result there is no such confusion in the European air as there is here. We have permitted our radio problem to grow until nothing short of a major operation can solve it.

Now that Feng has joined Chiang and they are both piling on Lin, everybody's curiosity is sacrificed and the war in China would just as well end.

THE CHINESE GETTYSBURG.

A Stormy Session in the Senate

Johnson of California Tangles Horns With Bruce of Maryland Over the Boulder Dam Bill; Borah Saves Senate's Dignity by Moving for an Executive Session.

From the Congressional Record (May 29.)

The question being discussed is whether or not the Boulder Dam Bill should be made the unfinished business of the Senate, meaning that this bill be taken up immediately after convening the next Senate. Johnson is for the idea, and Bruce is against it, Bruce claiming that, since Johnson lost his fight against adjournment of Congress, he should accept the fortunes of war and permit the Boulder Dam Bill to take its regular course next December. —Editor's Note.

MR. BRUCE: Mr. President, I desire to know whether the suggestion of the Senator from Arkansas and the Senator from Kansas resulted from any concession made by the Senator from California before he took the risks of the vote with reference to final adjournment.

MR. JOHNSON: If the Senator means to imply that I entered into any agreement in relation to the vote, no.

MR. BRUCE: I just asked as a matter of curiosity; because, since the Senator chose to take the fortunes of war, and he has been carrying on this fight here now for hours—

MR. JOHNSON: I want to resent the insinuation which was contained in the suggestion that I had entered into any agreement with anybody in respect to this matter.

MR. BRUCE: I asked whether you had entered into any, and the Senator from Arkansas—whose word is truth itself—said to me that he had entered into none with you. I am satisfied with that.

MR. JOHNSON: But the implication ought never to have been uttered on this floor; and I resent its being uttered in respect to me. I have made a fight upon this bill. I made a fight upon adjournment. I made the best fight of which I was capable. I have been temporarily beaten; but by Heaven, sir, there is another day, and somebody else may be whipped on that other day! (Applause.) • • • •

MR. JOHNSON: Mr. President, I move that the bill which I have just described—that is, Senate bill 728, Order of Business 606—be made a special order for 2 o'clock p. m. the first day of the convening of Congress in December, 1928.

MR. BRUCE. Mr. President——

The VICE PRESIDENT: The Senator from Maryland:

MR. BRUCE: I desire to say that I am just as much opposed to that suggestion as I was to the last. I can not see why any concession of any kind should be made to the Senator from California in this matter. He should take, as the rest of us do, the hazards of parliamentary procedure.

I am opposed to the Senator's bill. No bill is pending in this body to which I am more antagonistic than I am to his bill. The Senators from Arizona are not more opposed to it than I am. Why, therefore, should I be expected to acquiesce in this proposal simply because somebody rises here and without violent gestures endeavors to place me in a position of parliamentary isolation? I have my own convictions about this matter, and I propose to adhere to them. • • • •

SEVERAL SENATORS: Who has the floor?

The VICE PRESIDENT: The Senator from Maryland has the flooor.

MR. BRUCE: I ask the Senator to take his seat.

SEVERAL SENATORS: Vote! Vote! Vote!

MR. BRUCE: Mr. President——

SEVERAL SENATORS: Yeas and nays! Yeas and nays!

The VICE PRESIDENT rapped with his gavel.

MR. BRUCE: You can howl "yeas and nays" until you are black in the face; I have the floor.

SEVERAL SENATORS: Regular order! Regular order!

MR. REED of Missouri: Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

MR. LA FOLLETTE: Mr. President, I object to these tactics. I make the point of order that the Senator from Maryland was addressing the Chair. This body has a certain dignity to maintain, and the integrity of its rules must be maintained.

The VICE PRESIDENT: The point of order is well taken. The Senator from Maryland has the floor.

MR. BRUCE: Mr. President, the Senator from Wisconsin has spoken in the manly spirit in which he always speaks.

The VICE PRESIDENT: The Chair was under the impression that the Senator from Maryland had finished and was about to ask if here was a second to the demand for the yeas and nays.

MR. BRUCE: It is very pleasant indeed to find, when I am subjected to little short of indignity and insult by the leader of my own side in this body, that there is on the other side of this Chamber still an individual prepared to see that I receive a proper measure of justice.

MR. BORAH: I wanted to ask the Senator if he would not permit us to lay the Boulder Dam bill aside so that we can take up other matters, and then we can adjust this matter later.

MR. BRUCE: I will.

MR. JOHNSON: Let us vote.

MR. BORAH: I suggest to the Senator from California that he ask that the unfinished business be temporarily laid aside.

MR. JOHNSON: Let us vote upon the motion.

MR. BORAH: The Senator from Maryland will not consent to a vote.

MR. JOHNSON: He can not prevent it.

MR. HEFLIN: Mr. President, I want to suggest to the Senator from California that his bill is laid aside, to be taken up later, and the Senator from Maryland should get the floor, he could speak on it until adjournment, and it would be up in the air. He had better take it up now, when we have the day before us.

MR. BRUCE: I think the Senate has quite as good a chance of brevity at my hands as it ever has at the hands of the Senator from Alabama.

MR. SWANSON: A parliamentary suggestion.

The VICE PRESIDENT: The Senator will state his suggestion.

MR. SWANSON: If the unfinished business is laid aside by unanimous consent, any Senator can object to any other measure which may be taken up, and the unfinished business will come back before the Senate.

The VICE PRESIDENT: The Senator is correct. The unfinished business will not lose its status.

MR. BORAH: Mr. President, I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

The motion was agreed to; and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business.

NATIONAL CRISIS NUMBER 2376.

The trouble with men is that they do not think through to its logical conclusion this matter of color in clothing. We admit that the Grand and Most Worthy Omnipotent Potentate of the Universe and all Contiguous Territory of the Noble and Mystic Order of the Last Quarter of the Moon bears himself with the dignity befitting that high office only when clad in splendor that resembles a dye works caught in a cyclone. In fact, if the Potentate did not wear the gaudy habiliments, most of the lodge brothers would join another order that gave a proper place to sartorial scenery. Yet if John Jones, who is the Potentate in private life, wears a purple tie with orange dots, he is suspected of a secret desire to embezzle the company's money. If color lends dignity to the weighty deliberations of a secret society over whether the Exalted Recording Secretary should countersign the checks, why doesn't color lend dignity to the deliberations of the Board of Directors of a bank? These reflections were induced by a survey of the bands of this year's straw hats. Do the designers of the bands think that they achieved the ultimate last year? Their signal success should be but a spur to further efforts. Or do the bands on straw hats run in inexorable cycles, and are we now on our inevitable way back to the funereal black band? A crisis impends. Personally, we are tired of having a hat band thrust upon us. It was not the late spring which delayed the wearing of straw hats. It was the apathetic lack of any effort to put color in the bands. We can wear a felt hat at a jaunty angle, but a straw hat with a lack-luster band, worn that way, looks silly. And worn primly on top of the head, it looks terrible. Let us have gaudy bands on straw hats!

Why Look Back?

THE SWEET SINGER OF MICHIGAN. By Mrs. Julia A. Moore. Edited by Walter Blair. (Covici.)

THERE must be relatively few literate people of middle-age or beyond who have not heard, at least, of "The Sweet Singer of Michigan." The expression has long since become symbolic of egregious asininity operating with sublime complacence in the field of verse, and no doubt many a wit has used the words symbolically with no clear notion as to who the "Sweet Singer" was or what the "Singer" sang. The expression is understood to signify something hilariously derogatory, and that is enough for practical purposes. But there was once a human heartache back of all the crude and rather simian fun occasioned by "The Sweet Singer," as anyone may learn by reading her "collected works" now issued for the entertainment of the only "modern" and thoroughly bunkproof generation in human history.

It was in the middle 70's that, by the merest accident, one Mrs. Julia A. Moore, an all but illiterate farm woman of Michigan, succeeded in achieving an astounding literary fame. The only fault in that fame was that it was achieved backwards, as one may say. The poor woman, with no equipment for the task but excellent intentions, wrote verses neither better nor worse than were then and are now being written by large numbers of people similarly equipped. Prompted by the optimistic misapprehensions of a pathetic vanity that should not be wholly unintelligible to any of us, Mrs. Moore scraped together a little hard cash and had her verses printed, greatly hoping, no doubt, thus to supplement the family butter-and-egg income. Why Look Back?

THE SWEET SINGER OF MICHIGAN. By Mrs. Julia A. Moore. Edited by Walter Blair. (Covici.)

THERE must be relatively few literate people of middle-age or beyond who have not heard, at least, of "The Sweet Singer of Michigan." The expression has long since become symbolic of egregious asininity operating with sublime complacence in the field of verse, and no doubt many a wit has used the words symbolically with no clear notion as to who the "Sweet Singer" was or what the "Singer" sang. The expression is understood to signify something hilariously derogatory, and that is enough for practical purposes. But there was once a human heartache back of all the crude and rather simian fun occasioned by "The Sweet Singer," as anyone may learn by reading her "collected works" now issued for the entertainment of the only "modern" and thoroughly bunkproof generation in human history.

It was in the middle 70's that, by the merest accident, one Mrs. Julia A. Moore, an all but illiterate farm woman of Michigan, succeeded in achieving an astounding literary fame. The only fault in that fame was that it was achieved backwards, as one may say. The poor woman, with no equipment for the task but excellent intentions, wrote verses neither better nor worse than were then and are now being written by large numbers of people similarly equipped. Prompted by the optimistic misapprehensions of a pathetic vanity that should not be wholly unintelligible to any of us, Mrs. Moore scraped together a little hard cash and had her verses printed, greatly hoping, no doubt, thus to supplement the family butter-and-egg income. It is not difficult to imagine how she and hubby talked it over in the evenings, buying this and that luxury for the family with their hypothetical wealth, while the children listened, vaguely proud of their "smart" mamma.

Precisely nothing would have happened as a result of this literary adventure had not certain well-known wits of the time, notably Bill Nye and Mark Twain, chanced upon the poor little book and found in it excellent grist for their funmills. Thereupon every wit and witling in the nation took up the cue, and across the country swept a many-throated guffaw. To make the matter more amusing to the rough-and-tumble jokers of the time, Julia took the more solemn sounding drolleries in earnest for awhile, and published yet another collection of masterpieces. "Kind friends," said she, saluting a presumably admiring public, "all of you which peruse my works will find a great many things in this book to please you, especially the words I have took the time to say to the public. If all books could be read as I am sure you love to read this one, there might be less ignorance and crime in the world, and I would be well paid for the valuable time I have spent in doing good to mankind."

Julia had not been wholly insensitive to the more obviously barbed shafts of satire, as the following verses indicate:

"And now, kind friends, what I have wrote
I hope you will pass o'er,
And not criticize, as some have done,
Hitherto herebefore."

But the indwelling sense of a high destiny sustained her yet, and it seems that there was some slight addition to the egg-and-butter income for awhile. Then the paroxysm of ribald mirth passed, and Julia was left wondering through long years of silence what all the noise had really signified. Happily, the fool in her remained faithful to the end, for shortly before her death in 1920 she published an ambitious romance. But nobody seemed to care about her any more. And she had meant so well!

If Walter Blair's introduction to the volume has not been misunderstood, it would seem that the "Sweet Singer of Michigan" is now put on exhibition as fairly representing what Don Seitz has called "the dreadful decade." But anyone who has been called upon to read great quantities of manuscript verse, differing in no way from Julia Moore's and written by people living in our day of incandescent enlightenment, will hardly accept that view. Furthermore, nothing that poor foolish Julia ever wrote even remotely approaches the perfect idiocy of certain alleged poetry that is taken seriously by influential literary groups just now.

Our human folly is a very hardy perennial, and it is yielding bountifully in the salubrious social climate of our day. Surely those who crave to laugh need not dig up our past.

Some years ago the late Henry E. Huntington purchased at the sale of the collection of S. S. Christie-Miller of London, the truly unique copy of "New Mexico, Otherwise, The Voiage of Anthony of Espeio," published in London in 1587. This is the English translation of the account of the journey by Antonio de Espejo to New Mexico and Arizona in 1583, during which he visited and described the Pueblo Indian tribes, which interesting people still live in much the same manner as in early Spanish times.

The excessive rarity of the little book was shown by the eager bidding at the sale, which reached the sum of 15,000 pounds before Mr Huntington acquired it. The book has now been privately reprinted on Italian handmade paper in an edition of 200 copies for Mr. F. W. Hodge of the Museum of the American Indian, New York City, permission to do so having been accorded by Mr. Huntington before his death. The original is now in the Henry E. Huntington Library and Art Gallery at San Marino, Cal.

MUNICIPAL OPERA SEASON OPENS TONIGHT

"Princess Flavia" the Production; Tenth Anniversary Party at the Chase.

With indications that a new total attendance record of more than 600,000 will be registered, Municipal Opera will enter its tenth anniversary season of 12 weeks at 8:15 o'clock tonight, weather permitting, with a production of "Princess Flavia" on the stage of the Municipal Theater in Forest Park.

A special jubilee cast of six new principals and five old favorites, and the usual chorus of 96 St. Louis young men and young women, of whom 60 per cent are new to Municipal Opera, will be seen in the opening performance. The general stage director is Alonzo A. Price and the general musical director Leon Rosebrook.

The newcomers in the cast are Leonora Allen, Alice Mackenzie and Patricia O'Connell, sopranos; Sam Ash, tenor; Florenz Ames, chief comedian, and Lee Daly, comedian. The favorites to return include Bernice Mershon, contralto; Dorothy Seegar, ingenue; William McCarthy, comedian; Charles Gallagher, basso, and Joseph Royer, baritone.

Each of three prima donna sopranos will have parts of importance in virtually every opera, and each will appear every week. Twenty-four of the chorus have minor speaking and singing roles in "Princess Flavia."

The Municipal Theater Association has expended $15,000 in modernizing its equipment, including an electric sign at the entrance bearing the name of Municipal Opera, the painting of the 10,000 auditorium chairs, the construction of a new stage floor, perfection of the sound amplifiers and the erection of stage docks to facilitate changing scenes.

The St. Louis Public Service Co. and the People's Motorbus Co. have arranged special service to the Municipal Theater. The Public Service will operate busses from De Baliviere and Delmar and connect by transfer with its Olive-Delmar, University and Union lines, and from Kingshighway and Oakland connecting with the Taylor and Market lines. The People's busses will run direct to the theater.

As in past years, each of the 12 operas will open on Monday night and be given for seven consecutive nights, with the final performance on Sunday night.

Immediately following the opening presentation of "Princess Flavia," the Municipal Theater Association will celebrate its tenth anniversary with a birthday party at Hotel Chase. More than 1000 persons are expected to attend. The 400 subscribers to the guaranty fund, which insures the financial safety of Municipal Opera, and members of the cast and chorus, are among the invited guests of the Municipal Theater Association. The banquet will be held regardless of the weather.

Garden Theater to Open Tonight After Rain Causes Postponement.

The scheduled opening of the summer season of musical comedies at the Garden Theater last night was called off on account of the rain and tonight, weather permitting, the first performance of "Sally" will take place with Leon Errol as the star.

There was a large advance sale of tickets for the Sunday night performance at the Garden and the management announced that seat holders could exchange their coupons for tonight's performance or for any night during the 10 weeks' season of shows.

Last night's performance was called off shortly after 6 o'clock and the company spent the evening in a dress rehearsal indoors under the direction of Errol.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 4.

DIARY of a modern Pepys: Out in a slashing pour to the docks to await a barque, and breakfasted on fried eels at a lunch counter with Harry Acton, the ship scribbler, and a red-haired, gum-chewing lady served us sullenly.

The sun shining again, for a walk uptown through the Rialto, and saw Carol McComas, the play actress; Karl Kitchen, who was shaking with an ague; Fred C. Kelly and Fontaine Fox. And to call on Nellie Revell, who was out gadding. So back to my quarters to labor.

In the evening to a banquet and how queasy they have become, nor will I attend another to hear windy talkers and eat tasteless food, albeit there was compensation in watching a tipsy waiter. Walked up the avenue with Sol Flaum, and to bed.

THE patrons of cheap lodging houses along the Bowery must be out of their bunks at 5 a. m. to make way for night workers who sleep there during the day. Most of them shake themselves in the manner of a wet dog and move sluggishly to lunch rooms.

At daylight they go to barber colleges for free shaves, and then to labor agencies, the newspapers want ad bulletin boards, or to lounge in public parks. They are a great city's economic question marks who seek work generally with the hope of not finding it.

Bowery lodging house prices range from 15 cents to 35 cents, paid in advance. Hospitality is scant in this world of chrome yellow. Hard-faced clerks regard them as "a lotta bums," and know them only by numbers. Conversation is a lost art. When they are not sleeping they sit at upstairs office windows as immobile as statues.

FIFTH AVENUE has a shop dealing exclusively in aviation products and accessories. Everything is for sale, from airplane goggles to a commercial ship. The shop maintains hangars on Long Island with a corps of instructors to teach those who make purchases.

AS one who often imagines himself the bright boy of the music-by-mail ads headed: "They laughed when he sat down at the piano, but when he started to play,"—there is something just too cute in an episode near the N. V. A. Club the other noon. A group at the curb was approached by a cop who shouted: "Move on, boys. And make it snappy." An acrobat gravely detached himself from the crowd and moved toward the clubhouse in a series of swooping back handsprings.

JOE COOK, the agile comique, is said to have never visited a New York night club. His home is at Lake Hoptacong, N. J., and in the years he has been playing on Broadway he has never remained from the family fireside over night. His home is a two-hour drive from Times Square.

MR. COOK has hung up a domestic record. In contrast is the story of a juvenile actor. A friend called up his home to inquire for him. His wife answered and said her husband was not in.

"When do you expect him?" she was asked.

"Oh, most anytime," she replied, and added: "He's generally here around the Xmas holidays."

AND, as though life isn't hard enough, an advertising agency has a woman with a Lady Audley manner calling on "a selected group of writers" to learn their favorite bath salts for endorsement advertisements. It is quite a trade-last for many long regarded as the great unwashed.

MISS JANE PARSONS.

MISS PARSONS, daughter of Mrs. John E. Denvir Jr., 15 Washington terrace, will become the bride of William A. Gill, son of Mr. and Mrs. K. L. Gill of Cleveland, O., Wednesday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock, June 20.

Mrs. Vincent Desloge Ring, 34 Arundel place, and her two children, have departed for Los Angeles, to be the guest of her uncle, Pratte Layton. Later she will take a cottage at LaJolla.

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Fuller of Hotel Chase will leave tomorrow for New York and will sail Saturday for a tour of four months through Europe.

Announcement is made of the marriage Saturday evening of Miss Frances Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cook, 5351 Bartmer avenue, to Brice Reynolds Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith of Memphis, Tenn. The marriage took place at the home of the bride's parents with the Rev. Norman L. Ewers of the Second Presbyterian Church officiating. The bride had as her only attendant her sister, Miss Anna Mary Cook. Mr. Smith had as his attendant Mr. Lynn Lacy. After an extended trip through the North, Mr. and Mrs. Smith will make their home at 2015 Alfred avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott McNutt of 72 Vandeventer place, and their small son, Francis Scott McNutt, will depart next Sunday for Ogunquit, Me., where they will spend a month. July 14 they will sail on the Saturnia for Trieste, and will spend the remainder of the summer with Mr. McNutt's aunt, Mrs. Francis McNutt, at her castle, "Ratzotz," outside of Brixen, in the Tyrol.

SOCIAL ITEMS

THE first of a pretentious list of June weddings will take place at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon, when Miss Frances Hodges West, daughter of Mrs. Thomas H. West of 11 Westmoreland place, becomes the bride of John Baldwin O'Day. The ceremony will take place in the attractive living room of the West home, in lieu of the garden ceremony originally planned.

The bridal party will descend the stairway which has been entwined with huckleberry foliage and adorned with pink gladioli and white larkspur through an aisle to a large bay window, where Dean Scarlett of Christ Church Cathedral will read the service. Palms and ferns with hundreds of pale pink larkspur, blue delphinium and white lilies form a background for the wedding party.

Miss Florence Higinbotham of Chicago is to be maid of honor and Mrs. Joseph Donner of Buffalo, formerly Miss Carol Elting, a niece of the bride; Mrs. Richard Wheeler of Providence, R. I., a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. West; of Providence; Mrs. Garneau Weld and Mrs. Neil O'Day, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, bridesmaids.

They will be gowned in deep cream chantilly lace veiling nude satin. The lace, ending just below the knee, is edged in a deep band of nude tulle dipping almost to the floor in transparent effect. The bodices are finished with a deep lace bertha edged in nude tulle and tied to the left shoulder with a tulle bow. In contrasting tones are the huge purple bows at the right hip line with ends falling to the floor in transparent effect. The to match, and large drooping purple hair braid hats complete the costumes. They are to carry purple iris.

The bride will be beautifully gowned in heavy ivory satin. The bodice is fashioned with a pointed yoke of rose point lace and long tight satin sleves edged in more of the lace. The shirred skirt, which is attached to the bodice by a band of rose point lace, is ankle length in front and sweeps into a long train. Her veil of lace with a face veil of tulls will fall from a coup adorned by a double wreath of orange blossoms. She will carry a white prayer book.

Neil O'Day will be his brother's best man. Leo De Smet Carton, Garneau Weld, Leicester Faust, George Kimball Battle and Dennison Cherry of Little Rock, Ark., will be groomsmen.

A reception will follow the ceremony, with a dinner party for the bridal party and out-of-town guests. The table will be decorated in lilies and white larkspur.

Mr. O'Day and his bride will depart tonight for New York, to sail for Europe on their wedding trip. They will make their home in St. Louis.

The bride's gifts to her attendants were summer sports bags, and Mr. O'Day gave his groomsmen amber liquor bottles with silver tops.

The bride is a graduate of Mary Institute and Miss Porter's School in Farmington, Conn. She made her debut several seasons ago and is a member of the Junior League.

Mr. O'Day is a son of Mrs. John O'Day of 323 Clara avenue. He is a graduate of Princeton University, class of 1920, and is a member of the University Club.

RICH AND CHERIE AT ST. LOUIS

Motion Picture Is "Walking Back," Melodrama of Flaming Youth.

The most likable feature of the new show at the St. Louis Theater this week is the male half of Marty May and Wallace. He plays a banjo with a whisk broom and a piano with indiscretion, and he clowns, but there is about his work an amiable indirectness that gives an ad lib. punch to his carefully rehearsed foolishness. The bill is rather ordinary. Larry Rich, a corpulent fellow who fancies he resembles Paul Whiteman, has with him a woman, billed as Cherie, a Mephisto-clad supernumerary and an orchestra, but the performance is mostly Larry Rich, and if you don't happen to care for him it is just too bad. "Stop, Look, Listen" is a flash act with Loretta Gray in a tap dance done on her toes, and Archie Rock, who taps out a few good ones himself. Fulton and Mack, the openers, are strong-arm hand-balancers. Julius K. Johnson, whose pipe-organ playing is always good, regardless of the rest of the show, offers "A Bouquet of Roses."

The motion picture is "Walking Back," a sympathetic and melodramatic defense of flaming youth at its flamingest. It is a good picture, well done, even brilliantly done in spots.

"ACROSS to Singapore," at Loews, is more than that. It's a double-cross affair with brothers being in love with the same girl, villainous mates conspiring to steal a ship and oriental sailors kicking up mutinies every now and then. A storm off Cape Horn, added to the other troubles, made everything pretty tough for Captain Ernest Torrence who commanded the good ship Nathan Ross and the man who wrote the play might have allowed him to find peace and quiet in the last reel but unfortunately it was necessary to get the good captain out of the way so that his younger brother could marry Joan Crawford. You see the younger brother was Ramon Novarro and as you can't kill off leading men it was Captain Torrence who obliged by stepping in front of a harpoon thrown with murderous intent but rather poor aim by the villain who was shooting at Ramon. With the captain unmistakably dead there was nothing to prevent Joan and Ramon from coming into the customary and expected clinch. "Across to Singapore" is stirring hokum mellered with some good sea scenes thrown in.

The Blue and the Gray.

THE Civil War, which has been crowded off the movie screens for some years by the late unpleasantness in Europe, comes back into its own in "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" down at the Ambassador. Dick Barthelmess is the Chad of John Fox Jr.'s familiar romance of the Kentucky mountains and he makes a dashing Union officer who, after the cruel war is over, turns up his nose at wealth and position and decides to marry the girl of the hills. He really loved her all the time, you may remember, although his foot slipped once or twice when he was away. Mollie O'Day is the girl and although she is only poor white trash she bears every evidence of being well fed out in Hollywood.

Low Life in Chinatown.

MILTON SILLS and Doris Kenyon are the stars of "The Hawk's Nest" at the Missouri. It is one of those synthetic mellers of crime and pistol cracks in Chinatown with Sills starting off with a Lon Chaney makeup. He gets his face lifted, however, in time to became a handsome, dashing hero and win Miss Kenyon which was rather a needless expense for she is his wife anyway. There are plenty of thrills sprinkled throughout the film and if the story is not very probable it is at least entertaining for those who want to look at the underworld as it is imagined by a movie director. On the stage Frank Fay, who is in his second week, hits his stride and knocks 'em cold with the best show the Missouri has ever had. Fay, himself, is a riot.

††Hard.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, June 4.—Wheat closed higher and corn unchanged to higher. Bullish comment from Northwest was a factor in upturn in wheat.

In the local cash grain market soft red wheat sold higher, a few cars being offered. Hard also was higher. Corn and oats were higher.

After opening unchanged to fractionally lower and selling down a little more in early period, wheat recovered and rose. September early showing net gain of ¾c over Liverpool closed ⅝ d lower on July and ⅜ on October. The action of Liverpool, report of showers in Canada and beneficial rain in Nebraska were influences in decline. There was no Winnipeg market. The unusually over Northwest dullness continued prominent factor. Corn was unchanged early after decline.

July wheat opened at $1.47, September wheat $1.48¾. July corn $1.07⅛.

WHEAT CLOSES HIGHER ON THE CHICAGO BOARD

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 4.—Aggressive buying on the part of commission houses lifted wheat prices rapidly at times today after early downturns. Bullish crop advices from an observer furnished the chief incentive to buyers.

Wheat closed unsettled, ¼c to 1c net higher; corn, ¼c to ⅝c off; oats, varying from ⅜c decline to 1c advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 10c.

With scattered rains in Canada and with Liverpool quotations lower than due, wheat values here forced downward early today.

Beneficial rains in Nebraska, too, were reported. Opening ½ to 1⅜ off, Chicago wheat sagged a little more and then rallies somewhat. Corn, oats and provisions were also easy, with corn starting unchanged to ⅛c lower and subsequently showing a setback all around.

Uncertainties of the spring wheat prospect Northwest largely dominated wheat values today. According to advices on hand, general rains and favorable weather would mean that good crops could be produced.

No rain in the American Northwest was reported over the week-end.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, June 4.—The raw sugar market was unchanged early today with prices free sugars quoted at 4.26 delivered and no additional sales reported. Cuban holders, however, were asking fractionally above this level. It was reported in the trade today that the 50,000 tons of the reserve supply of Cuban sugar formerly por to countries outside of the United States was disposed of late last week at prices ranging from 2.52 to 2.56 for Cuba.

Raw sugar futures opened unchanged to one point lower under liquidation and some selling by houses with European connections prompted by the disappointing London market and the continued inactivity in the spot market. Offerings were absorbed by trade and Cuban interests. After the call a steadier tone developed with prices rallying two to three points and at midday showing net advances of one to two points.

The refined market was unchanged at 6.00 to 6.10 for fine granulated with a fair withdrawal demand reported.

Sugar futures closed easy; approximate sales 62,000 tons. July, 2.57; September, 2.62; December, 2.76; March, 2.70; May, 2.76.

COTTON CLOSES HIGHER ON NEW YORK MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 4.—Reports of rains in the South over the week-end with heavy precipitation at some points, made a bullish impression on sentiment in the cotton market today and there was a sharp advance in prices. A good deal of realizing made its appearance on the upturn of 40 to 45 points from Saturday's closing quotations, but the mid afternoon market was comparatively quiet and steady at reactions of 6 or 8 points.

Futures closed steady 20 to 30 points higher. July 20.52-84; October 21.05; December 20.80-01; January 20.83; March 20.75; spot steady; middling 21.35.

The market, opened rim at a gain on reports of rains in the belt over Sunday and relatively firm Liverpool cables.

There was active covering or rebuying by recent sellers. October selling up to 21.10 after the call, or about 30 to 34 points net higher on active months. This advance attracted realizing and prices showed reactions of a few points by the end of the early trade, but buying promoted by the unfavorable weather reports continued, and trading was active.

Private cables said there had been continental and American buying in Liverpool on the Southern rain news and that contracts were comparatively scarce.

The buying movement inspired by the unfavorable weather news seemed to broaden toward noon. October sold up to 21.21c and active months generally showed net advances of 38 to 45 points. Prices at midday were a few points off under realizing, but private reports continued to reach here from the South regarding the rains and their probable effect as a check to cultivation.

NEGRO BOY SHOT IN GROCERY ROBBERY

Arrested With 13-Year-Old Companion After Driving Through Glass Door.

Two 13-year-old Negro boys were arrested as burglars yesterday afternoon after one had been shot by a storekeeper.

Hearing noises in his grocery below his living quarters, Tony Nozo, 1006 North Twenty-second street, went downstairs and encountered two young Negroes piling up cigars and cigarettes. They had entered through a back door. When he tried to catch them, they hurled butcher knives at him. He picked up his revolver and they dived through a front door, taking the glass with them. He fired three shots as they fled.

Arrested in the neighborhood, Milton Sangster, 13, 2610A Wash street, admitted he was one of the burglars. He was bleeding from a bullet wound in the right arm and a glass cut. He implicated James Walton, 13, who was arrested. He also had been cut by glass.

BODY OF FATHER OF SLAIN CHILDREN AND BRIDE FOUND

Oklahoma Authorities Have No Idea How Farmer Was Killed.

By the Associated Press.

McALESTER, Ok., June 4.—The body of Eb Jackson, 50-year-old farmer and lumberman for whom a murder warrant had been issued following the discovery of the bodies of three members of his family near their home in Pittsburg County, was found on his farm yesterday.

No weapon was near it, officers reported, and it was not determined how he died. The body lay about 250 yards from the spot in a corn field where the body of his 10-year-old daughter, Abbie, was found a week ago.

Searching for a still, which later was discovered, a prohibition enforcement officer from Tuskahoma, last Tuesday found the bodies of the farmer's 16-year-old bride and 15-year-old son, Orville, in a path leading to the corn field. The daughter had been shot through the head; the son and bride through the body. Authorities think that the daughter was killed while fleeing through the field.

$17,329 EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGE IN BANK DROPPED

Impossible to Make Case Against F. P. Rohlman, Surety Firm's Attorney Says.

A charge of embezzlement of $17,329 from the City Trust Co., which had been placed against Frank P. Rohlman of 4238 Peck street, former manager of the accounts receivable department of the bank, was dismissed by the State in Circuit Judge Rosskopf's court today.

Rohlman was indicted in 1926 and in December of that year pleaded not guilty. Thereafter, there were a number of continuances in the case. Lately, William Baer, special counsel representing the surety company on Rohlman's bond, advised the Circuit Attorney's office that certain difficulties in presentation of evidence from the bank's books left it virtually impossible to make a case against Rohlman. Baer said the surety company, which had reimbursed the bank for the loss, would not oppose dismissal of the charge.

LARGE COMMUNITY FUND GIFTS BELOW OTHER CITIES

Analysis Shows This Caused Local Campaign to Fall Short of Goal.

A comparative analysis of Community Fund contributions in St. Louis and other cities shows that the local organization fell short of its goal last autumn because gifts of $1000 and more were not large enough, Elwood Street, director of the St. Louis Community Fund, declared today.

There were 264 firms and individuals who gave $1000 or more, a total of $613,720. The average of nine cities, for that class, was 268 givers with a total of $792,000, he said.

A total of 136,096 givers contributed $1,714,619.

PHARMACY HELD UP FOR $49

Robber Loots Open Safe at 2201 McCausland Avenue.

A man lingered in the McCausland Drug Store, 2201 McCausland avenue, half an hour this morning, making purchases.

When the last customer had gone at 10:30 o'clock, he held up the clerk, Herman Eberhart, and a Negro porter and escaped with $49 taken from an open safe. He was unable to open the cash register.

St. Luke's M. E. Church Sold.

St. Luke's Methodist Episcopal Church at Texas avenue and Potomac street has been sold and a new building for the congregation will be built soon at Hereford and Oleatha boulevards, in the Kingshighway Hills subdivision. Services will begin early in July. When the population of the district warrants it is planned to build a modern church and parsonage to cost about $100,000.

389 DEGREES TO BE GIVEN BY ST. LOUIS U.

110th Annual Commencement Exercises Will Be Held Tomorrow Monrning.

Three hundred and eighty-nine degrees will be awarded tomorrow morning at the 110th annual commencement exercises of St. Louis University, to be held in the university gymnasium on West Pine boulevard. The principal speaker will be the Rev. P. J. McCormick, dean of the school of education of the Catholic University of America.

In a baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class in St. Francis Xavier's Church last night, Bishop Francis W. Howard of Covington, Ky., said:

"True culture is the highest aim of education. And yet there are today educators who reject culture in that light, or who pronounce it haltingly and with timid forebodings. They proclaim knowledge for service is the true aim. But there can be no service where there is no power, and true culture is the highest form of power. Through the intellect man knows himself, and knows God.

"Man should learn to think. He should not be a tool of propagandists, nor rest laxily on the conventional ideas flung to him from every side.

"Science does not satisfy the craving for truth. The road of every science always leads to the metaphysical.

"God has not put us into this world to mock us. Atheism, infidelity and so-called rationalism are unreasonable, for they are not an honest guest for truth. Nor is public opinion an arbiter of truth; conscience, properly enlightened, is man's only arbiter of truth. Knowledge has no real worth unless it leads man to his God and his Maker."

GENERAL MOTORS DIRECTOR TELLS WHY HE IS WET

analyzed can drink without risk of health, while those who cannot do so must either do without or take great risks of being poisoned.

"It is for this reason that the great mass of our workmen and poor people feel that prohibition does not prohibit, but is a scheme to deny them something which their more fortunate brothers with money can have almost at will. Is it any wonder they should rebel?

"My experience is that children like to be with older folks, are quick, alert and particularly keen in listening to what their elders say and do. What impressions are registering on the minds of my sons and daughters when they see thoroughly reputable and successful men and women drinking, talking about their bootleggers, the good 'stuff' they get and expressing contempt for the Volstead law? At our home we can and do teach temperance in all things; none of our children drink intoxicants, but what ideas are forming in their young and fertile brains with respect to law and order?

"They observe people in every walk of life merrily violating foolish blue laws, foolish speed laws, etc., that every sensible citizen knows are made to be broken and not enforced. The farmers in Connecticut and Delaware Legislatures were strong enough to have laws passed prohibiting daylight saving time in those States. They would not tolerate the desire of city folks to have an hour more of daylight in which to play in the summer time.

"The result is that Yale University in Connecticut and the people of the city of Wilmington, in Delaware rebel, pay no attention whatever to the law and merely all agree to set their watches back an hour at 2 a. m. on a certain Sunday in April and return to standard time in October. This is another illustration of the failure of prohibition born of intolerance and lack of respect for liberty and freedom.

"The menace of prohibitory laws is the spirit of intolerance underlying their adoption and this is bound to result in rebellion.

"My whole desire and effort is to try to bring my fellow-citizens back into the atmosphere that gave birth to our constitution—an atmosphere of brotherly love which spells tolerance and a keen respect for ourselves, for each other, for our laws, institutions, and, above all, respect for our God, our liberty and our freedom.

"No one can survey or study the results of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead law during the past nine years without coming to the conclusion that their administration has been a complete failure. Mr. Hoover thinks and many others did at one time think prohibition a great and noble social experiment. But it has failed and I personally cannot conceive of any experiment founded on intolerance and not on good morals, being noble.

"Certainly I, as a citizen of the United States, am entitled to my opinions, as long as they are honestly conceived.

"I have never owned, and, as far as I know, none of my relatives, friends or associates owns any interest in any brewery or distillery or is interested financially in any way, shape or form in this liquor question.

"I do maintain my right and privilege as a citizen of our glorious country to endeavor to have our laws changed to conform to what I honestly believe is for the best interests of our people, and I thoroughly resent the charge by our zealous prohibitionists that those of us who are engaged in trying to bring about the repeal or amendment of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead law are in any way law breakers or show any lack of respect for our great Constitution. On the contrary, we are engaged in an noble effort to restore to our people a feeling of independence and liberty and the right to the pursuit of happiness, so earnestly sought, prayed for and finally secured after the great Revolutionary War. Let us not have another revolution or rebellion, which is certain to overtake us unless we learn how to build our laws on the foundation of honesty instead of intolerance, and let us appreciate that the might of a majority or an organized minority is not necessarily right.

"All laws should be governed by good economics. The eighteenth amendment and Volstead law deal purely with economic questions. They are in no sense political and certainly cannot be considered as questions of religion.

"My judgment is that both parties will dodge this whole liquor question by inserting some innocuous plank in their respective platforms at the June conventions, and our only hope of restoring to our people the kind of government our forefathers built and enjoyed is for all of us to interest ourselves in all economic questions to that degree necessary to acquire and disseminate honest and intelligent information with respect thereto.

"I believe the National Association Against Prohibition is honestly endeavoring to discover the proper solution of this liquor question along thoroughly sound and economic lines without bringing the saloon back into existence, and therefore is entitled to strong support on the part of those of us that believe in the freedom and liberty that our form of constitutional government should guarantee us."

STEWART TO TESTIFY AT CONTEMPT TRIAL

Scores Point by Having Application for Habeas Corpus Writ Read to Jury.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Slow progress was made today in the trial of Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of directors of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, for refusing to answer questions of the Senate oil committee. The prosecution took up hour after hour reading the voluminous record of the Senate Committee's hearings of proceedings at the time the oil man refused to answer two questions propounded by committee members.

Before the reading of this transcript started, the prosecution also read Stewart's petition for a writ of habeas corpus at the time he was being held in the custody of the Senate's Sergeant-at-Arms for his refusal to testify.

In introducing Stewart's plea for a writ of habeas corpus the Government scored a point as the defense endeavored to keep this out of the record. In his plea for the writ Stewart set forth that he had been summoned before the committee as a witness, had been asked questions and had refused to answer them on the ground that they were not pertinent to the inquiry and concerned his personal business.

It appeared likely that the remainder of the court day would be used by the prosecution in presenting documentary evidence.

Frank J. Hogan, chief defense counsel, said Stewart would be among the witnesses to be called by the defense.

TRANS-CONTINENTAL RIDER ON HORSEBACK IN ST. LOUIS

Ex-Instructor of Late Valentino Going to New York From Los Angeles.

Riding horseback from coast to coast for no reason at all except that it is a pleasant way to pass the time, Leo Giammarino, who says he is a former Italian cavalryman and riding instructor to the late Rudolph Valentino, arrived in St. Louis last night astride his steed, "Los Angeles," and trailed by his faithful pack mule, "New York."

He bunked last night at a riding stable at 5248 Oakland avenue and was up early today, with two months' growth of beard, looking for something to do to replenish an empty purse. He wears a green shirt, corduroy breeches and a Mexican sombrero. "I had chaps, too," he said, "but I sold them in Kansas to buy 'Los Angeles' a feed."

Giammarino left Los Angeles March 27 and has no idea, he said, when he will reach New York or what he will do when he gets there.

PLANE FALLS, KILLING TWO

LOS ANGELES, June 4.—Two persons were killed and the pilot was seriously injured yesterday when an airplane fell from an altitude of 200 feet at Culver City, a suburb.

The two killed were Cecil Wehrman, 18 years old, and Irving Stamnes, 21, high school students. The pilot, Harry J. Carley, suffered two broken ribs and other injuries, and physicians said it was doubtful whether he would recover. Witnesses said the plane went into a nose dive when it started a right turn shortly after the take-off.

Dayton Rowing Club Raided.

Police raided the Dayton Rowing Club, 9417 Riverview drive, late Saturday night and reported seizing two gallons of whisky, a jug of wine and four cases of home brew. Three men were arrested.

ST. LOUISAN KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

E. A. Horstmeyer, Jeweler, Pinned Beneath Overturned Car Near Jefferson City.

Edward A. Horstmeyer, jeweler at 5958 Easton avenue, was injured last night when his automobile upset 18 miles east of Jefferson City and died shortly after being taken to a hospital in that city.

Horstmeyer's car struck a rut in the road, skidded and turned over, pinning him underneath. His wife suffered a fractured arm and his daughter was cut and bruised. Their home is at 7106 Glenmore avenue, Wellston.

John A. Gardner and his wife, Nora, 307 Rutger street, were taken to City Hospital yesterday from a point 125 miles south of St. Louis on State Highway No. 61 where their automobile had been struck by another car. Gardner suffered a fracture of the arm, and Mrs. Gardner, a fracture of the collarbone. The driver of the other car did not stop.

Mrs. Johanna Moss, 74, 4117 St. Louis avenue, suffered a fracture of the skull when she was run down on St. Louis avenue at Grand at 9:45 p. m. yesterday by an automobile driven by Willis Cox, 3636 Delmar boulevard.

Skidding on the wet pavement of the Free Bridge early today, an automobile driven by William L. Schneider, 7255 Moller avenue, Maplewood, crashed into the guard rail. William Pfeiffer and his wife, 2929 Laclede Station road, passengers in the car, were thrown out. They were cut and bruised.

Two Men Run Down in Storm.

Joseph Parker, 60 years old, who gave a vacant house on Sixth street as his address and told the police he had no friends, suffered fractures of the skull, collarbone, shoulder and ribs when he was knocked down at Twelfth boulevard and Market street at 10:30 p. m., yesterday by a police patrol driven by Fred A. Cramer of 4502 Blair avenue.

Frank Bartlesmeyer of 1414 Warren street was hit by a taxicab driven by Harry Williams of 3741 Washington boulevard at Twelfth boulevard and Pine street at 10:40 p. m.. He suffered a fracture of the skull. Both accidents occurred during a heavy rain.

Mrs. Mary Bergren, 68, a widow of 5242 Minerva avenue, suffered concussion of the brain when she was struck at Minerva and Union boulevard at 7:40 p. m. by an automobile driven by Harry van Hoefen of 8317 Hall's Ferry road.

FUNERAL OF DR. D. E. FURNALL

He Will Be Buried at Lakewood Cemetery Tomorrow.

Dr. David E. Furnall, 55 years old, of 4902A Devonshire avenue, who died Saturday of a complication of diseases, will be buried tomorrow in Lakewood Cemetery following services at 10 a. m. in an undertaker's chapel at 4234 Manchester avenue.

For many years Dr. Furnall was a member of the faculty of Washington University Medical School. He is survived by one son, David E. Furnall Jr.

Police Capt. Kirk's Father Dies.

Patrick J. Kirk, 83 years old, died yesterday at the home of his son, Police Capt. Patrick J. Kirk, 5958 Cote Brilliante avenue. He had resided in St. Louis for 50 years. Five sons and four daughters survive.

STOLEN APPAREL IDENTIFIED

Man, Wife and Another Woman Held as Shoplifters.

A fur coat and nine hats, part of $1000 worth of merchandise seized by police last week at the apartment of Francis Burns, 5004 Vernon avenue, has been identified by officers of Sonnenfeld's store as goods stolen there.

Burns, his wife and another woman are held, suspected of shoplifting and stealing from parked automobiles.

Puts An End To Bunion Pains
No Need to Suffer Another Day
There is one simple yet inexpensive way to reduce inflammation of swollen toe joints and help get them down to normal and that is to apply Moone's Emerald Oil night and morning.
Ask Wolff-Wilson Drug Stores or any first-class druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and relase to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that two ounces lasts a long time and furthermore if one bottle of Emerald Oil does not give you complete satisfaction you can have your money refunded.
Special note: People who want to reduce swollen or varicose veins should get a bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil at once. Applied night and morning as directed they will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

NEW YORK BONDS (COMPLETE)

Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 4.—Total transactions in bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today amounted to $12,237,000; previous day's sales, $11,000,000; week ago, $12,805,000; year ago, $11,031,000. Total sales since Jan. 1 to date were $1,458,490,000, compared with $1,506,643,000 two years ago.

Transactions on all Liberty bonds are in dollars and thirty-seconds of a dollar. That is, for instance, a sale printed $99.24 means $99 and 24-32nds or thirty-seconds of a dollar, and not $99.24.

The following is a complete list of transactions, giving sales, highest and closing prices:

7 PER CENT CALL MONEY; STOCKS DROP

Seasoned Dividend Industrials and Rails Break 1 to 8 Points and High-Priced Specialties 10 to 26 Points.

RESERVE STATEMENT VIEWED AS WARNING

Exchange Members' Loans Increased $366,263,682 in May to New High of $5,274,046,281.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 4.—Seven per cent call money made its appearance on the New York Stock Exchange today for the first time in seven years and prices broke wide open after an early interval of strength. Early gains of 1 to 7 points were largely wiped out and replaced by losses which ranged from 1 to 8 points in most of the seasoned dividend-paying rails and industrials and from 10 to 26 points in some of the high-priced specialties.

Trading started off at a moderate pace, but attained heavy momentum during the late selling movement, the final quotation being printed on the tape 17 minutes after the market had closed. The day's sales aggregated 4,172,800 shares.

Heavy liquidation of stocks also was inspired by rumors that the Federal Reserve Board would issue an important statement after the close of the market and that the monthly report of Stock Exchange member loans would disclose another gigantic increase in borrowings, both of which proved to be well founded.

Reserve Bank Statement.

The Reserve Board statement set forth that in the middle of May discounts by the reserve banks amounted to $800,000,000, the largest in four years, and that in addition reserve banks held $350,000,000 in acceptances. Declaring that the growth of member bank credit had been continuous since the latter part of February, the statement pointed out that until the middle of April the gain reflected in about equal measure increased spring demands for bank accommodation by trade and industry and growth in the volume of stock exchange loans, but that since that time there had been no further growth in the commercial demand for credit and the entire increase had been in the holdings of securities.

The stock exchange loan statement showed an increase of $266,263,682 in loans last month, bringing the total to a new high record for all time at $5,274,046,281. This compares with the increase of $225,050,000 shown in the weekly statements of the Federal Reserve Board from April 25 to May 29.

Radio Falls 27 Points.

Radio Corporation common was the hardest hit, breaking from an early high of 223½ to 196 and closing at 197, off 26 points net, with liquidation influenced, in part, by the official denial that negotiations were pending for a sale of its communications business to the International Telephone Co. International Telephone closed 7½ points lower at 183½.

Victor Talking Machine reacted 4½ points to 95¼.

Case Threshing broke from a record high of 334 to 319, closing at 320, off 7 points net. General Motors dipped from 202 to 189¾ and rebounded to 192½, off 7½. Net declines of 5 points or more also were recorded by Adams Express, Allied Chemical, American Bank Note, American International Corporation, Christie Brown, Commercial Solvents, Delaware & Hudson, Dupont, Electric Auto Lite, General Electric, Houston Oil, International Nickel, Jewel Tea, Midland Steel Products preferred, Montgomery Ward, United States Cast Iron Pipe and Western Union, the last named touching a new low for the year.

Some of Early Highs.

Earlier in the session, more than two score issues had moved into new high ground, but only a few were able to maintain all or part of their gains. These included American Express, International Combustion, Frank G. Shattuck, J. R. Thompson and the Armour issues. The list of those which showed net declines after attaining new peak prices included Anaconda Copper, American Smelting, Cerro de Pasco, Warner Bros. Pictures, Gimbel Bros. International Harvester and Missouri Pacific common.

Call money renewed at 6 per cent, advanced to 6½ and thence to 7, with only about $15,000,000 in loans called during the day. There was a marked scarcity of loanable funds, however, indicating that banks were inclined to regard the Federal reserve board statement as a warning against a further expansion in credit. Time money and commercial paper rates held firm.

Exchange Slightly Easier.

A rally of $1 to $1.50 a bale was the only development of note in the commodity markets.

Foreign exchange rates were slightly easier, with sterling cables quoted around $4.85 5-16 and French francs around 3.93 cents.

SHARES SOLD.

NEW YORK, June 4.—Total sales 4,172,100 shares, compared with 1,738,300 Saturday, 3,426,500 a week ago and 2,198,300 a year ago. Total sales from Jan. 1 to date 360,916,200 shares, compared with 228,854,600 a year ago.

CARDINALS SIGN HURLER MITCHELL 37-YEAR-OLD LEFTHANDER

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, June 4.—The Cardinals today signed Clarence Mitchell, 37-year-old left-handed baseball pitcher recently released by the Phils. In addition to his pitching Mitchell will help the Cards by being an understudy to Jim Bottomley. Mitchell has played first base for Brooklyn and Philadelphia and is a good hitter.

Rain Keeps Both St. Louis Teams Idle

RAIN today prevented both the Browns and the Cardinals from playing. The Cardinals scheduled game with the Phillies at Philadelphia was washed out this morning while the Browns' office announced shortly after noon that the contest with the Washington Senators had been postponed.

Tomorrow the Cardinals and the Phils engage in a double-header, while the Browns and the Senators will play only a single contest at Sportsman's Park, leaving the postponement go over until the next time Washington calls here.

Several other games in the major leagues also were postponed today on account of rain. In the National League only the Cincinnati-Boston game at Boston was played, all the other teams being idle, while in the American League the Athletics and White Sox at Chicago were the only clubs in the circuit able to go through with their contest.

BRAVES WIN ON HORNSBY'S HOME RUN IN NINTH

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, June 4.—A home run in the last half of the ninth inning by Rogers Hornsby gave the Braves a 5 to 3 victory over the league-leading Cincinnati Reds here this afternoon. Sisler was on base when the winning homer was made.

Home runs by Rixey in the seventh and Dressen in the first half of the ninth accounted for two of the Cincinnati runs.

AMERICAN NET ACE LOSES BUT TWO GAMES IN WINNING FINAL

By the Associated Press.

AUTEUIL, France, June 4.—Helen Wills today won her first big tournament of 1928, defeating Eileen Bennett of England, 6—1, 6—2, in the final for the international hard courts tennis championship.

Cochet Beats Lacoste.

Henri Cochet won the men's singles championship by defeating his countryman Rene Lacoste, 5—7, 6—3, 6—1, 6—3. Cochet's victory was something of an upset, as Lacoste who hold the championship of France and the United States was a popular favorite before the match. Cochet, however, had one of his inspired days and played unbeatable tennis after dropping the first set in characteristic manner. In the last three sets he kept Lacoste constantly on the run with trap shots and sharply angled returns.

The American champion won the deciding match as she has previous matches in this tournament, with consummate ease, dropping only three games, two of which were on her service. In the entire tournament, including the final, she lost but 13 games and never was forced to extra sets.

Miss Wills started off today by winning her service after the game had gone to deuce. Both girls were stroking carefully and using little pace, content to keep the ball in play. The Californian made it 2—0 in games by capturing Miss Bennett's service with ease. On her next service Miss Wills speeded up her game, adding more power to her strokes. Neither girl had come up to the net as yet. Stroking hard and deep, Miss Wills won her service again and broke through Miss Bennett's, making the score 4—0.

The fifth game was marked by long rallies, both players standing on the base line and exchanging hard drives to the corners. Helen finaly lost her service on a net and an out, giving Miss Bennett her first game of the match. Miss Bennett was now paying particular attention to Helen's backhand, but Miss Wills came back strong in the next two games and ran them off for the set.

The point score, first set:

Miss Wills..5 4 4 4 3 4 4—28 6
Miss Bennett.....3 2 1 1 5 2 2—16 1

Helen opened the second set by sweeping Miss Bennett's service at love, but the English girl rallied to break Helen's own service with loss of only one point, twice passing the American with severe shots along the side lines. Continuing her rally in the third game, Miss Bennett attacked resolutely and for a time held the offensive, but she finally lost her service after the score had gone to deuce three times. Miss Wills then led, two games to one, and from then on the issue was in doubt, although Miss Bennett rallied again to win her service in the deuced seventh game.

Point score second set:

Miss Wills

GERMAN TEAM BREAKS WORLD RELAY RECORD

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, June 4.—Four famous German runners, Koernig, Housen, Courts and Wichmann, ran the 400 meters relay in 40.8 seconds at an Olympic development track meet yesterday, breaking the world's record for the distance.

The American runners, L. A. Clarke, Francis Hussey, J. A. Leconey and Loren Murchison, set the former record of 41 seconds flat at the Olympic games in 1924.

The meet also saw Miss Lange establish what is believed to be a new world's record for the shot put by women. She tossed the shot 11.57 meters.

ORISSA, 15 TO 1, SETS RECORD IN FASHION STAKES

BELMONT PARK RACE TRACK, N. Y., June 4.—The Rancocas Stable added another stake to its list when Orissa, with Fator up, won the Fashion Stakes at four and one-half furlongs, down the Widener course here this afternoon. She ran the distance in :51, which is a new track record, eclipsing the old mark by two-fifths of a second.

Spree landed second money, with Atlantis third.

Orissa paid 15 to 1.

The finish was very close, and many in the grand stand disagreed with the placing of the judges and there was some booing over the decision.

Orissa, as usual, jumped away to the lead, displayed good speed and led all the way to win by a nose. Spree took the place by four lengths from Atlantis, the favorite.

The race was worth $6475.

J. C. Levin's Effie, paying 8 to 1, won the first race in a drizzle, with Friedjof Nansen second and King Jimmy third. It was a close finish and Effie got the decision by a head, after closing fast in the stretch. The mile was run in 1:40 1-5.

20 to 1 Shot Wins Third.

Valkyr, 20 to 1 shot, made a show of the field in the third race, when she romped away with the purse, running the mile and sixteenth in 1:44 1-5. She led all the way and won by four lengths over Vito, who in turn took the place by three lengths. Knapsack, the favorite, was third.

Indian Scout, with L. Fator up, was an easy winner of the fourth race, a six-furlong sprint down the Widener course. He ran the distance in 1:10 3-5, which is just 3-5 of a second slower than the track record. Caroler was second and Sandy third.

The field ran well bunched to the final furlong, where Indian Scout ran into the lead and won going away. Caroler was second by a head over Sandy.

Whitney Horse Takes Fifth.

The H. P. Whitney silks were carried to victory in the fifth race, when Bargello, favorite, won in a romp. Holiday was second and Blue Heron third.

Holiday swerved all over the track in the early part but in the last furlong Bargello came along, took command and won by three lengths. Holiday was second by four lengths from Blue Heron.

The last race was won by Royal Stranger, with Ironsides second and Balko third.

ARMY OFFICERS ON U. S. EQUESTRIAN TEAM GO EAST FOR PRACTICE

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The membership of the United States Olympic Equestrian team was announced yesterday by the War Department as follows: Majors Sloan Doak, Charles P. George and Harry D. Chamberlain; Captains Adolphus W. Roffe, William B. Bradford, Frank L. Carr and Peter T. Carpenter, and Lieut. Edwin Y. Argo.

These officers have been in training at the Cavalry School, Fort Riley, Kan., but will proceed immediately to Rye, N. Y. to complete training. With their horses they will sail from New York June 10 on the chartered Olympic boat, President Roosevelt. Ten other nations will compete with them at Amsterdam.

MORGAN WILL FIGHT EDDIE MARTIN AGAIN

NEW YORK, June 4.—Ted Morgan, junior lightweight champion, and Eddie (Cannon Ball) Martin, whom he defeated last month, were rematched yesterday for a 15-round title bout at Ebbets Field June 27.

MEXICO, Mo., June 4.—The golf tournament between the Mexico Country Club and the Moberly Country Club, which was scheduled to be held June 1 at Mexico, has been postponed until June 8.

MAN O' WAR HORSES SHINE AT FAIRMOUNT; LONG SHOT IS VICTOR

By Dent McSkimming.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

FAIRMOUNT RACE TRACK, June 4.—Man o' War offspring dominated the feature race here this afternoon when Sister Ship, of the Audley Farm stable, won by a length and a quarter from Broadside in the Maplewood purse, fifthev ent. Both were sired by Man o' War. The filly's dam was Star Fancy and Broadside is out of Blue Grass.

Only five horses started in the feature race, which was at six furlongs. Prisoner was an entry, but was scratched because of the muddy track.

Sister Ship broke fast, with Broadside closest in pursuit. They ran well ahead of the others throughout the journey. It is probable Broadside found the distance too short, for he was gradually overtaking Sister Ship in the stretch. Aviator was third.

The winner was an odds-on favorite, paying $3.68 for $2.

The rain held the crowd down to 3500.

The first race on the program resulted in a shocking upset in form when Grierdilda, a 3-year-old daughter of John P. Grier, splashed home an easy winner, whereas the favorites, Royal Cause and Cleo, were out of the money.

Eddie Curtis, another outsider, was second, and Betty Smith third.

Grierdilda paid $38.24 for $2 and Eddie Curtis' place price was $41.86.

Mrs. L. M. Holmes' colt, Guy's Image, which is elegible for the Valley Stakes next Saturday came from behind to win the second race, at five furlongs. In order to win, Guy's Image had to overtake both The Doctor, the hot favorite, and Volsel, both of which were off to better advantage in the first quarter.

The race between the three down the stretch provided a thrilling finish, and Guy's Image beat Volsel only a short nose for the victory. Sporting Blues came with a rush to supplant The Doctor for third money. The winner paid $18.14.

Horvath on Second Winner.

It began to look as though K. Horvath was too good for the other jockeys when he scored his second victory of the day in taking the third race with Miami Triad, the favorite.

Horvath arrived this morning from Churchill Downs with Lloyd Gentry's stable and his capabilities as a rider were not generally recognized here. He literally outrode J. Cravens and M. Knight, who were on One Way and Clay Pigeon, which finished second and third.

The winner paid only $3.88 for $2.

Distance Event to Sweepstakes.

Sweepstakes, cleverly handled by A. Tiner, won the fourth race, another distance affair of a mile and a sixteenth. Tiner kept Sweepstakes close, but never a pace-maker until they reached the stretch, then he passed Golden Wanderer and outlasted the latter in a slashing drive through the last 70 yards. Sweep Net was third.

The winner paid $11.38 for $2.

A very sloppy track resulted in a bad situation at the start when Woolatt floundered around, bumped into two or three others and finally threw his rider, M. Knight. The boy hung on the bridle and was dragged 15 feet before he let go. He was shaken up but not injured.

A light rain was falling as the program opened and a very small crowd huddled under the stand.

To compensate for the departure of several outstanding horses for the Arlington Park track, 32 more horses arrived here this morning from Aurora and Kentucky. Among them was the 4-year-old colt, Prisoner, which broke the track record of 5½ furlongs at Aurora a few days ago. He ran the distance in 1:05. Prisoner is a starter this afternoon in the feature race in which he will match strides with Broadside, Aviator, Sister Ship, Polygamia and Fortunate Girl. Prisoner is owned by Mrs. R. Pollard.

With the Fairmount Derby relegated to history, and Misstep, the winner, Toro, Marty Flynn, Solace and other contenders being shipped to Arlington Park, seeking other honors, attention here will now be turned to the Valley Stakes, the Fairmount classic for 2-year-olds, to be run next Saturday.

It is out of the two-year-old classics that future Derby winners develop, or at least are discovered. Last year's winner here was Irish Pal, and he later turned out to be a consistent winner elsewhere although he failed as a Kentucky Derby candidate. This year, there is as yet no outstanding youngster at the local track.

The one two-year-old who has attracted attention is not eligible for the stake. He is Petit Fan, a gelding son of Pagan Pan-Don't, owned and trained by E. J. O'Connell. In his only start at the track here he set a new track record for four and one-half furlongs. Unfortunately for O'Connell, the horse was not nominated. The final day for filing was March 31.

Misstep in American Derby.

Jockeys L. Pichon, W. Fronk and C. E. Allen went to Arlington Park following their engagements in the Derby, and W. Garner, E. Pool and E. Ambrose went to Latonia. Garner is under suspension, but will be permitted to ride Misstep in the American Derby.

SIXTH RACE—Mile and 70 yards:

Kiyi (E. Shropshire)	6.84	4.72	2.94
Remkin (J. Eaton)		18.42	8.42
Hayes Choice (V. Moore)			2.72

Time, 1:50 1-5. Gold Beater, Noe-Encl, The Seer, Gaffney and Harry Carroll also ran.

Fortunate Girl	98	1	3	4½	4ns	5	5	J. J. McTague	33.28

Sister Ship, displayed most the most speed all the way, was shaken up slightly inside the last eighth but easily held Broadside safe. Broadside in closest pursuit made inroad on winners lead strongly in last sixteenth. Aviator was outpaced in the stretch then closed up some ground at end. Polygamia, Latter went well to the stretch and tired. Fortunate Girl showed some early speed but was soon outrun.

$2 mutuels paid: Sister Ship, win $3.68, place $2.90, show $2.04; Broadside, place $3.00, show $2.66; Aviator, show $2.80.

FRISCH, SUFFERING FROM WRENCHED BACK, MAY BE GIVEN REST

CARDINAL STAR UNABLE TO PLAY AT BEST; TEAM OVERCONFIDENT

By J. Roy Stockton.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

PHILADELPHIA, June 4.—Those pathetic Phillies of Burt Shotton, who have lost 23 of their last 25 games, will try to stop the Cardinals again tomorrow in the third game of the series, but McKechnie's men have learned a lesson in the two contests at Baker Field and will not take the field as overconfident as they were Friday and Saturday.

Only the breaks of the game enabled the Cards to defeat the Phils in both games. And in the remaining contests the St. Louis athletes will be playing with the knowledge that even a team that has lost 23 out of 25 is dangerous.

Having used six pitchers in Saturday's affair, which was won 13 to 12, though the Phils had an advantage of 18 to 14 in the hitting, Manager McKechnie is a bit uncertain about his pitching.

Sherdel was scheduled to work the third game, but he pitched two and one-third innings in Saturday's parade. Sylvester Johnson also was ready to work, but he took up the pitching after Sherdel retired for a pinch hitter.

However, one Sunday in Philadelphia is like a week anywhere else. So all the pitchers may decide that they have had enough rest.

Shotton announced this morning that he planned to use Russell Miller, a young right-hander, formerly with the Cardinals, who was a member of Shotton's Syracuse pitching staff last season.

Cardinal Stars Crippled.

Though the Cardinals have won five of the six games on the road thus far, the team is not in excellent condition, and the boys are hoping that the remaining days in Philadelphia will see a decided improvement in the physical condition of several stars.

Frankie Frisch's wrenched back and Alexander's arm are the principal causes for worry, though Wattie Holm's weak wing also is a handicap.

Frisch wrenched the muscles in his back in the morning game at Pittsburg Memorial day and has been playing like a crippled athlete since the accident. In the first game with the Phils he popped up twice and hit into two double plays and in the second contest he grounded weakly to short in the first inning and retired in the second inning, Toporcer going to second.

Frisch must be in good physical condition to be a great player. His great asset is his hustling spirit which enables him to knock down grounders and retrieve them in time to turn them into putouts. With his wrenched back he cannot move with his usual agility and does not look like a start at all.

Holm's Punch Is Needed.

It probably would be for the best interests of the team to give him a rest of a few days. That may be done with Thevenow returning to short and Maranville filling in at second.

Holm's batting punch could be used to advantage, but he was rushed into the battle front too soon after his operation. During his convalescence his arm lost its strength and he should have gone through a waiting period before going into action. He played a good game until his arm gave out, which it did after a day or two. That is why Andy High has been at third against right and left handed pitching. Both third basemen do better if they have an occasional rest.

Jess Haines may be used in the final game with the Phils. He went through his game at Pittsburg without weakening and his arm has shown no ill effects of his work. He probably will test it again tomorrow and then be ready for one of the games with the Giants.

Alexander reports his arm improving daily, but he will have to test it over the nine-inning route before the Cardinals and their followers will be confident that they are to have his assistance during the remainder of the road campaign. When he does show that he is fit again, the team's morale will be greatly improved. If he announces he is ready tomorrow he will be sent to the pitching slab without argument.

Not Enough Hustle.

"Your team won two games from us," said Barney Shotton, manager of the Phils, to the Post-Dispatch correspondent, "but the boys aren't hustling as they should. Perhaps the injuries make them look that way. But they're not showing the dash and pep I expected to see. That's why the Reds are out in front.

"They're running everything out desperately and going after every chance in the field the same way. They have shown more hustle and a better spirit than any other team we have met. The Cardinals, though, look like the best team, man for man."

Burns Gets 69 Score.

Jack Burns, professional at the Creve Coeur Golf Club, scored a 69 for the par 71 course while playing in a four-some with John Doyle, Dan Buckley and Bill Scannell yesterday. The course record is 68, held by Burns.

Browns' New Third Sacker

LARRY BETTENCOURT.

The former All-America center from St. Mary's College in California made his major league debut last Saturday in the game with the Senators. He made three hits, scored a run and drove in another. In the field he handled four chances cleanly.

WRAY'S COLUMN

The 1928 Champion.

MISSTEP'S victory in the Fairmount Derby surely gives him a look-in for the 1928 3-year-old championship. There seems little doubt that, at this time, the title lies between Reigh Count, Victorian and Misstep, winners of the three major stakes for the 3-year-old division this year.

In the mud, there seems no doubt that Reigh Count would have the call. But on a fast track the supremacy is doubtful. Comparing the races of Misstep in the Fairmount and Kentucky Derbies with those of Toro, it appears that Misstep is unquestionably a length better than his rival at even weights.

Victorian, believed to be Reigh Count's most formidable rival, was barely able to nose out Toro in the Preakness, under good track conditions.

On these two races Misstep is at least as good as Victorian and possibly better.

Will Not Meet Saturday.

UNFORTUNATELY, Reigh Count, Victorian and Misstep are not to meet in the near future. All are engaged in both the American Derby and in the Belmont Stakes, to be decided next Saturday. But they will not be rivals in either. Victorian is in the East ready to go in the Belmont; Misstep will try for the American Derby at Arlington track, next Saturday, and Reigh Count is on the injured list.

Thus the two big stakes of the near future will not see the great 3-year-olds challenging one another. It appears that Misstep will win the American Derby and Victorian the Belmont. There is, however, a real chance to settle the supremacy in the Latonia Derby. If all three are fit and ready to face the starter for that event, it will be the outstanding race of the year. It also will be a real championship test, since the event is at one and one-half miles.

Col. Matt Winn ought to concentrate on bringing this trio together at equal weights at the mile and one-half distance.

Chip o' the Old Block.

Misstep's sire was named Upset. That means little to those whose turf educattion begins on Derby day morning and ends with the running of the race, each year. To turf followers it means that Misstep is the son of the only horse that defeated the mighty Man o' War, perhaps the greatest horse in American turf history.

Misstep's sire, Upset, was well named. The victory gained over Man o' War was indeed an "upset" as, in a field of seven of the best 2-year-olds of the day, Man o' War was 11 to 20 to win, and "out" for place and show, with Upset at 8 to 1. The description under the chart of the race read:

"Start good and slow. Won driving. Upset followed the leader Golden Brooms closely from the start. Moved up with a rush in the last eighth and just lasted long enough to withstand Man o' War's rush. The latter began slowly, moved up steadily to the stretch turn, where he got into close quarters, had to move to the outside in the final eighth and, responding to punishment, was gaining rapidly in the closing strides."

Man o' War carried 130 pounds to Upset's 115!

The time showed that Upset was a real race horse, however, as the six furlongs were run in 1:11 1-5.

Misstep comes rightly by his speed.

There was no doubt, however, about the relative merits of Upset and Man o' War. They met seven times and Man o' War won six of these meetings. Upset finished second four times and fifth twice.

On his showing against Man o' War Upset was easily the next best horse of the year. In any other season he would have been the standout 2-year-old.

Many turf followers think that Upset's son, Misstep, is destined to play toward Reigh Count, the same role that Upset played toward Man O' War—second fiddle. But that remains to be demonstrated.

Needs Exploitation.

NOT since the day when Martin Delaney was teaching the young idea at St. Louis University how to run and jump, has athletics had much of a vogue in this city. The old Missouri Athletic Club years ago, conducted one or two great meets that attracted good attendances; but Delaney, year after year with just ordinary attractions, continued to draw out a fair patronage to his athletic shows.

Since the Chicago Athletic Club claimed Delaney years ago, the city has suffered from athletic doldrums. A national championship three-day meet attracted $347 worth of paid admissions, as against $5000 in guarantees underwritten by St. Louis citizens.

Championship meets here attract only a few score of persons. Saturday at the new high school stadium, fewer than 500 persons attended the Western district championships in which athletes from several cities competed, on the chance of being sent to Iowa City, the Middle West Olympic tryouts, later.

This meet saw some notable performers including Harold Osborn and Rufus Haggard. It also brought out a number of St. Louis Olympic "hopes" among the women's division.

But the public was "not interested."

It never is in A. A. U. meets here.

This applies largely to track and field sports. In boxing, swimming and other forms of athletics, promoters who make money out of amateur events have created an interest in their specialties, which has helped out.

But in the kind of sports that made the Olympic games of old famous, the district is unable to get to first base.

Perhaps we need some of the same sort of oats for breakfast that made General Haldeman jump the fence at Fairmount on Derby day.

Not So Much.

TOMMY LOUGHRAN is a nice, careful sort of a fighter and he is a pretty hard guy to defeat. But he isn't going to hit the popular fancy a knockout punch.

That's because he lacks one.

Tommy has fought several times since he gained the crown, but he hasn't shown the stuff that makes 'em stand up and shout around the ringside.

Tommy represents the game as it was in the days when it was known as the "manly art of self-defense" rather than as it is today, when the ringsiders like to see the victims knocked into their laps.

Dempsey has spoiled the world. It isn't every year or every class that can produce a man fearless enough to invite any opponent's punch and who at the same time is able to silence an opponent's attack with a single blow.

The Dempseys are the exceptions and Tommy Loughran is neither better nor worse than the mine run of ring champions we find in the lists today.

Jimmy Slattery or Leo Lomski may end the reign of Loughran. Slattery is clever and fast, and Lomski tough and determined. But, ho hum! Who cares? Neither will uplift the class first made interesting by that ancient but hard-hitting Bob Fitzsimmons, who defeated George Gardner for the original title at San Francisco long, long ago.

ELKINS SETS A NEW STANDARD IN DECATHLON

Finnish Runner Sets New Record

HELSINGFORS, Finland, June 4.

THE world's running record for 25,000 meters was broken by Rotko, Finnish star, who covered the distance in 1 hour 25 minutes, 14 seconds. The old record of 1:25:20 was set in 1922 by T. Kolehmainen, also of Finland.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 4.—With Harold Osborn committed definitely to Olympic participation in the high jump only, America's hopes of taking the Decathlon title at Amsterdam this summer seem to rest upon the all-around skill of the brawny Iroquois Indian, Falt Elkins, former University of Nebraska star but now competing for the New York A. C.

Elkins broke the Olympic and American record for the 10 events in a two-day competition at Travers Island, going through the first five events on Saturday and the remainder of the program yesterday.

He ran up a total of 7812.97 points compared with the 7574.42 points he tallied in winning the National Decathlon title at Lincoln, Neb., last July.

Betters Four Performances.

He bettered his performances in the broad jump, high jump, pole vaule and 110 metre hurdles and had fallen off slightly in the 400 meter and 1500 meter runs, the javelin and discus throws and the shot put. He tallied exactly the same number of points in the 100 meter dash as he did last year.

His total surpassed that of Osborn in the 1924 Olympics when the Chicagoan set the record at 7710.89 points.

Since the test was made without competition, Elkins' record is not eligible for official recognition.

The following table shows how the "chief" scored his points in this test and in the national championships last year:

	1928	1927
100 meters dash	857.20	857.2
Broad jump	863.05	783.17
High jump	818	679.26
400 meters run	781.92	827.01
Shot put	720	733..8
110 meters hurdles	867	848
Discus	715	721.73
Pole vault	775	644.12
Javelin	745	752.72
1500 meters run	868.8	701.2
Totals	7812.97	7574.42

Guy's Image, outpaced to the stretch, got through on the inside, and, rushing to leaders strongly, wore them down and just got up to win in last stride. Volsel showed the most speed, raced The Doctor into submission and drew clear, but began tiring and lost in last yards. Sporting Blues was on the outside all the way, but showed speed and raced gamely to the end. Uncommon Gold had no mishaps. The Doctor forced pace first three-eighths, tired and was done in stretch.

$2 mutuels paid: Guy's Image, win $18.14, place $9.00, show $4.38; Volsel, place $9.18, show $3.96; Sporting Blues, show $3.

Miami Triad, best in this going and well handled, responded well to hard urging in the stretch, wore leaders down something and won going away. One Way showed most early speed, setting good pace to inside last sixteenth, held on well, but was not good enough. Clay Pigeon, on inside, raced in worst part of track and began tiring through last furlong. Thistle Glad, close up, showed speed to the stretch, then tired. Kitty Cat began very slowly.

$2 mutuels paid: Miami Triad, win $3.88, place $3.10, show $2.72; One Way, place $3.04, show $3.24; Clay Pigeon, show $2.70.

Sweepstakes followed the leaders closely under snug restraint to the stretch, then in a strong challenge headed Golden Wanderer out, finishing latter in long hard drive. Golden Wanderer soon disposed of Sweep Net, taking the lead, but was unable to withstand challenge of winner. Sweep Net showed early speed and raced well, but tired after going first five-eighths. Rodrigo failed to respond to hard riding and could not get up. Happy Bob seemed badly outrun in going.

$2 mutuels paid: Sweepstakes, win $11.28, place $6.92, show $4.18; Golden Wanderer, place $8.00, show $5.12; Sweep Net, $3.64.

ITALY DEFEATS SPAIN, 7-1, IN OLYMPIC SOCCER

By the Associated Press.

AMSTERDAM, June 4.—Italy defeated Spain, 7 to 1, in an Olympic soccer game today.

By its decisive victory over the Spanish team, Italy entered the semifinals where it is to encounter Uruguay. While Italy and Spain last Friday were so closely matched that even 30 minutes of overtime periods could not break a 1-1 tie, it was a different story in their play-off game today and Italy's superiority was clearly marked. Spain never threatened after the first few minutes of play.

In the second game of the day, Egypt defeated Portugal, 2 to 1.

The roughest, most bitterly contested match of the Olympic soccer competition yesterday saw Germany eliminated by Uruguay champions of 1924, by a score of 4 goals to 1. The crowd was estimated at 40,000.

Even the French-Italian match, when some feeling between the players was evinced, was completely outclassed by what appeared to be personal hatred in the Uruguay-Germany contest.

The situation completely bewildered the Egyptian referee, Youssof Mohamed, who apparently took the South Americans' side.

Germany held the South Americans just about even until their star center half and captain, Kalo was ordered off the field for kicking an opponent. After this the German play was badly disorganized and Uruguay sailed through to victory.

Without casting doubt on the referee's decision in ordering Kalb out of the game, some experts thought Youssef should have disqualified Pirix, who repeatedly tripped the Germans.

The first half was scoreless until Kalb left the field. Then Uruguay scored twice, Petrone and Urdinarian kicking goals.

The South Americans clearly had the advantage in the second half, scoring two more goals through Germany's disorganized defense. The German goal was scored during the closing minutes of play by Hoffmann. Just before the game ended, feeling ran so high that Stuhlfaut, who captained the German team after Kalb left the game, seemed ready to call his men off the field. The referee then ordered both Hoffmann and Nazzari out of the game for roughing each other. Another minute and the final whistle blew.

CRITZ IN LINE FOR VALUABLE PLAYER AWARD

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 4.—The big surprises of the National League race so far have been the rise of the Reds and the downfall of the champion Pirates.

In the pre-season consensus collected by the Associated Press the Pirates were favorites to repeat their pennant triumph while the Reds were picked to wind up last. These positions now are exactly reversed, with the Reds setting the pace at a dizzy clip and the Bucs handicapped by injuries, struggling along in the second division.

Great pitching and sensational all-around work by Hughey Critz at second base have been big factors in the Red drive. If the club can keep it up and put on anything like the finish they did last year part of the world's series will be played at Redland field.

The Pirates overcame obstacles to win out last year but with the Reds, Cubs, Cardinals and Giants all furnishing strong opposition, it looks like a forlorn uphill fight for the Corsairs this season. The Braves, with Hornsby furnishing new driving power, will have to be reckoned with from now on despite pitching weakness.

Critz has been a contender for the league's most valuable player prize for several seasons, but he ought to win it this year at the rate he is going. Hornsby and Frisch are heavier hitters while Frisch is also a better base runner, but in all-around defensive work most critics give the palm to the little Cincinnati infielder.

VELIES, THEIR HILL ACE GONE TO WHITE SOX, SHUT OUT, 8-0

Despite a drizzling rain which made a firm grip on the ball impossible, hurlers starred as well as batters in yesterday's Municipal League games. A trio of one-hit contests and several games in which opposing teams were held to three, four and five safeties featured performances on the mound.

Freesmeier, who has been making a fine record this season, buried another great game for the St. Engelberts in the Western Catholic Union League in shutting out the St. Barbaras on one hit, 8-0. A lone bingle was all the St. Andrews could muster with the bat off Lamkiewicz of the Cadets in the Polish Alliance circuit and his mates triumphed in spite of their three errors, 4-2. The Koahs of the North St. Louis League, although they got only one hit off two Purple Mart pitchers, Schrewe and Lemmon, won their game, 4-2.

The Velies, whose star hurler, Teareau was signed by the White Sox last week were beaten by the Stuarts, 8-0 and lost their lead in the Independent League. Hathaway for the Stuarts turned in a three-hit performance.

The King A. C. won two games from the N. A. C.'s in the Neighborhood League in the first doubleheader of the season. The scores were 14-13 and 9-8.

TED SAUSELLE CLOSES BRILLIANT CAREER AT ROOSEVELT HIGH

Ted Saussele, star Roosevelt High athlete, turned in his baseball uniform last week as the season closed and brought to an end a prep athletic career that ranks alongside the best of past years. Like many another local boy, Saussele trained his binoculars over the towers of the local universities and gazed on far pastures. Michigan seems his most likely choice. Missouri is second choice and Washington U. third.

In his years here Saussele took part in all major sports, won 12 letters and was named to all-star high school league teams seven times—twice in football and basketball and three times in baseball, infielder in baseball, back in football and forward in basketball. Probably the peak of his career was attained last football season when Roosevelt, city champion, beat Schurz High of Chicago on the new stadium. Saussele's brilliant runbacks of punts and intercepted passes furnished the winning margin.

Saussele started his high school work in 1925 at Cleveland High. After he went to McKinley and continued there after the name was changed to Roosevelt.

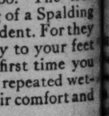
lead a double life.

And a long life, too. The true "athletic" breeding of a Spalding Golf Shoe is self-evident. For they are soft and friendly to your feet—comfortable the first time you put them on. Even repeated wettings can't spoil their comfort and soft pliability.

IMPORTED GOLF HOSE

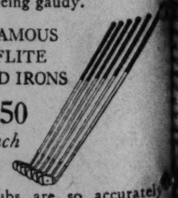
$2.50 to $5.00



From the skilled weavers of England and Scotland—come these extraordinary golf hose. Colorful without being gaudy.

THE FAMOUS KRO-FLITE RELATED IRONS

$6.50 each



These clubs are so accurately related in pitch, lie, balance and feel, that your swing and timing are the same for every club.

A set of Spalding Symmetrics, six irons and two woods with steel shafts—balanced and related accurately, costs only $31.00.

LINEN KNICKERS only $3.85

KRO-FLITE GOLF BALLS (seconds) only $5.85 per doz.

...VELIES, THEIR ...HILL ACE GONE TO WHITE SOX, SHUT OUT, 8-0

Despite a drizzling rain which made a firm grip on the ball impossible, hurlers starred as well as batters in yesterday's Municipal League games. A trio of one-hit contests and several games in which opposing teams were held to three, four and five safeties featured performances on the mound.

Freesmeier, who has been making a fine record this season, hurled another great game for the St. Engelberts in the Western Catholic Union League in shutting out the St. Barbaras on one hit, 8-0. A lone bingle was all the St. Andrews could muster with the bat off Lamkiewicz of the Cadets as the Polish Alliance circuit and his mates triumphed in spite of their three errors, 4-2. The Koahs of the North St. Louis League, although they got only one hit off two Purple Mart pitchers, Schrewe and Lemmon, won their game, 4-3.

The Velies, whose star hurler, Viereau was signed by the White Sox last week were beaten by the Stuarts, 8-0 and lost their lead in the Independent League. Hathaway for the Stuarts turned in a three-hit performance.

The King A. C. won two games from the N. A. C.'s in the Neighborhood League in the first doubleheader of the season. The scores were 14-13 and 9-8.

...LD SAUSELLE CLOSES BRILLIANT CAREER AT ROOSEVELT HIGH

Ted Saussele, star Roosevelt high athlete, turned in his baseball uniform last week as the season closed and brought to an end a prep athletic career that ranks alongside the best of past years. Like many another local boy, Saussele trained his binoculars over the towers of the local universities and gazed on far pastures. Michigan seems his most likely choice. Missouri is second choice and Washington U. third. In his years here Sauselle took part in all major sports, won 12 letters and was named to all-star high school league teams seven times—twice in football and basketball and three times in baseball, infielder in baseball, back in football and forward in basketball. Probably the peak of his career was attained last football season when Roosevelt, city champion, beat Schurz High of Chicago on the new stadium. Saussele's brilliant runbacks of punts and intercepted passes furnished the winning margin.

Saussele started his high school work in 1925 at Cleveland High. Later he went to McKinley and continued there after the name was changed to Roosevelt.

GOLF STARS TIE IN MIXED FOURSOME

ATLANTA, Ga., June 4. — An uphill fight on the last four holes yesterday enabled Mrs. Dalton Reymond, Baton Rouge, La., former Southern woman champion and Bobby Jones, National Amateur titlist, to finish all square in their 18-hole Scotch foursome with Miss Marion Turpie, New Orleans Southern woman champion, and Watts Gunn, national inter-collegiate title holder over the East Lake course here.

At the fourteenth hole, Mrs. Reymond and Bobby were three down but they captured the fifteenth and sixteenth holes in succession, halved the sevententh, then captured the eighteenth to finish all square.

DAVIS STABLE AGAIN WINS THE FRENCH OAKS

CHANTILLY, France, June 4.—Mary Legend, carrying the colors of Mortimer Davis' Widow, won the Prix de Diam—the French Oaks—stakes for 3-year-old fillies before a large crowd here yesterday. Marcel Boussac's Merry Girl was second and Count de Chavagnac's Tanais third. The winner's earnings exceeded 300,000 francs.

The victory enabled the Davis stable to repeat its 1927 triumph in the French Oaks, which was won by Fairy Legend.

Frank Keogh, American jockey, rode the winner, which paid 59 francs 50 centimes for 10. There were 22 horses in the field.

DOEG TO COMPETE IN VALLEY TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS HERE

John Doeg of Santa Monica, Cal., No. 3 ranking tennis player in the United States, has definitely notified the Tournament Committee that he will participate in the twenty-seventh annual Missouri Valley tennis championships, which will be played during the week of June 25, it was announced by Dr. Frank E. Dieknelte, chairman of the committee, last night.

Doeg recently graduated from the junior ranks of tennis players, and for several years was among the "first ten" junior players of the country. In addition to being ranked No. 3 nationally in singles last year, he and George Lott were ranked as No. 4 doubles team in the United States. He is a nephew of Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, veteran tennis star, and one time national woman champion.

Michigan Team Paced Big 10 in All Departments

CHICAGO, June 4.—The Big Ten baseball race has ended with Michigan the champion and Purdue the runner-up.

Michigan's hopes of going through the race undefeated were shattered, however, when Ohio State hit behind some excellent pitching and beat the Wolverines, 6—1, in their closing game at Ann Arbor Saturday. The maise and blue recorded at 11 won and one lost. In winning the title, the Wolverines played some of the best baseball in a decade of conference competition. They led in every department of the game, leading by a wide margin in batting, fielding and pitching.

Purdue, idle during the last week of play, took second place with six victories and four defeats.

Minnesota, after losing nine straight games, was the surprise of the last week of play, defeating two of the strongest teams of the conference, Wisconsin and Iowa. Northwestern was the only team to go through the season without a victory, losing 12 straight games.

The final standing:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Michigan	11	1	.917
Purdue	6	4	.600
Wisconsin	7	5	.593
Chicago	7	5	.583
Indiana	5	4	.556
Ohio State	6	5	.545

TILDEN PROVED STAR IN DEFEAT OF JAP PLAYERS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 4.—The long trail which they must travel to recapture the golden fleece of clay court tennis, now stretches to Europe for Captain "Big Bill" Tilden and his American Davis Cup team.

Their last barrier in the West and Far East was brushed aside with ease over the week-end when they met and conquered Japan's team, five matches to nothing on the Chicago Town and Tennis Club's courts. They will sail for Europe Saturday where they will meet the European zone winner for the right to challenge France, holder of the Davis Cup, emblematic of international tennis supremacy.

The victory over Japan's aces marked the third grand slam in as many tests for Davis Cup play for the Americans. They previously had defeated China and Mexico. Japan entered the American zone finals by conquering Cuba and Canada.

Tilden Leads Attack.

Each of the members of the United States team displayed top form in the overwhelming victory over Japan, but it was Captain Tilden who led the attack. He won two singles matches and paired with the youthful George Lott of Chicago to win the doubles match in straight sets. He defeated Tamio Abe, Japan's youthful star, in the singles opener, 6—2, 6—3, 6—0, and Yoshiro Ohta in yesterday's singles, 6—3, 6—3, 6—1, Toba and Abe in the Doubles, 6—1, 10—8, 6—2. Johnny Hennessey of Indianapolis disregarded a painful foot bruise and took another singles match from Ohta, 8—6, 6—2, 6—3. The fourth singles match was won by the newest member of the team, Junior Coen, Kansas City high school star, who defeated Abe in the closing singles match of the finals, 7—9, 6—2, 6—4, 7—5.

It was at the net and in scoring from placement that the Americans gained most of their points. Lott and Tilden, especially, were adept at net play, while Coen led the field in points from placement. Unlike the Japanese, the Yankees committed but few double faults.

Before going to Paris the American team will participate in team matches with England at Eastbourne, June 22 and 23, and in the English championships at Wimbledon, beginning June 25. The interzone final will be played in Paris, July 20, 21 and 22.

KNOTTY GOLF PROBLEMS

Bill—A and B were engaged in a close match. At the seventeenth green the lights and shadows made the line of putt difficult. A asked his caddy to stand with his heels together behind the hole to show him the line of putt. B objected, claiming it was against the rules of golf so to aid the playing of a putt, B said that the hole could be indicated only with the flag. Was A within his rights?

B has no basis for his objection, as A was well within his rights to have his caddy stand with his heels together behind the hole. This is of course taking for granted that the caddy was not touching the ground with a club or doing anything to indicate the line of the putt that would be in a manner in violation of the rules of golf.

J. R. S.—Is it permissible on the putting green to remove a worm cast in the line of a putt? If it is, may a person use the back of his hand or the sole of his putter lightly to brush the cast aside? I recall that there is a rule which specifies that one may not touch his line of putt, and which apparently would indicate that the worm cast must be let to remain and not to be touched.

Paragraph 2 under Rule 28 covers this point clearly. Worm cast may be brushed aside with club. It is not permissable to use the back of one's hand to remove loose impediments on the putting green.

K. B.—In addressing the ball on grass in a ditch, may the club be grounded lightly, as in Rule 15?

If the ball lies on grass in a ditch it is evidently within the confines of the hazard and is therefore part of the hazard and the club may not be grounded in any case.

PLAYERS RELEASED AS TEAMS QUIT LEAGUE

RICHMOND, Va., June 4.—The Times Dispatch today says that Portsmouth and Petersburg have withdrawn from the Virginia League because of lack of support and that a two weeks' series between the Richmond and Norfolk clubs has been arranged pending negotiations to place these two remaining clubs in another league, the name of which has not disclosed.

The article says that as result of the situation 28 ballplayers were released.

55 TEAMS ARE TO COMPETE IN COLLEGIATE MEET

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 4.—Every event from the 100-yard dash to the javelin throw will be a duel when scores of America's Olympic track star hopes meet at the seventh annual national collegiate field and track meet on Soldier Field Saturday.

Fifty-five teams, including champions from every section of the nation, are entered in the meet, which is an official Olympic team tryout.

The sprints are a criterion of the type of competition anticipated. There are 13 sprinters entered who have dashed the century in better than 10 seconds and 14 who have stepped 220 yards under 22 seconds. For team competition, Stanford and Illinois are considered the leaders.

What promises to be the outstanding race of the year will be run between Rut Walter of Northwestern University and Emerson Spencer of Stanford in the quarter mile. Spencer has run the distance faster than any college athlete this spring with an official mark of 48 seconds, while Walter won the Big Ten championship in 48.5 seconds. Both have run the event in better than world's record time, unofficially. The Texas Aggies also have a pair of fast quarter milers entered in O'Neal and Hodges.

The furlong is expected to be a hot finish race between George Simpson of Ohio State and Hamm of Georgia Tech, while many athletes have equaled each other's championship time in the field events.

With Soldier Field's seating capacities, a new track and field meet attendance record is anticipated.

THREE-CUSHION EVENT WILL OPEN SERIES OF MEETS AT PETERSON'S

A three-cushion elimination handicap billiard tournament, the first of a series of tourneys, will open next Monday at Peterson's. The red ball, cushion carom and instruction tournaments will follow. American Legion posts are planning a special meet while the Baraca Bible class is in its sixth round.

Argentine Heavy In Bed as Result Of Munn Beating

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, June 4.

VICTORIO CAMPOLO, Argentine heavyweight, knocked out by the American, Monte Munn, a week ago, is under a physician's care as a result of the bad beating he took before Munn knocked him out in the ninth round of their ten-round bout.

Doctors said Campolo suffered a ruptured blood vessel as a result of heavy blows.

The Argentine, who had been hailed as another Luis Firpo, has been confined to his bed ever since the fight.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 4.—On Thursday next Tex Rickard will appear before the Boxing Commissioners with plans and specifications for the heavyweight title bout between Gene Tunney and Tom Heeney.

Rickard plans to hold this spectacle at the Yankee Stadium on July 26, but the passage of the bill authorizing a 25 per cent Federal tax on all boxing tickets over $5 has altered some of Tex's calculations.

Rickard still believes the fight will attract a gate of at least $1,500,000 but he has made some changes in his original seating plans and now hopes to be able to accommodate 100,000 spectators by extensive building on the infield.

By gradually sloping his ringside sections upward from the ring he can join them with the bleachers at a point considerably above the field level. The new left field extension of the upper stands will also be finished by that time and by placing the ring at second base the ringside sections can accommodate at least 20,000.

It is probable that the promoter will price at least $0,000 of the outer rim seats at $4.99. Those patrons thus escaping the Federal tax. There will be several intermediate prices with the first 20 or more rows of ringside seats selling at $45, this fee to include the Federal and State taxes, amounting to 30 per cent of the face value of the ticket. The net to Rickard would then be a little more than $20. The average price of a seat for this fight will be approximately $15.

Tunney has been doing light training in the Adirondacks for several weeks. Heeney will move to his palatial quarters at Fairhaven, N. J., next week and both men will be ready to receive their sparring staffs by the middle of the month.

St. Louis Stars Lose.

Fair Enough.

TRAVEL, travel, little star,
Take a plane and there you are.'

If you are no fly-by-night
Take the journey when it's light.

Breakfast in New York at nine,
In St. Louis you can dine.

When you crave an ocean trip
Do not take a pokey ship.

If you are a millionaire
Go by plane and pay the fare.

Five thousand bucks is fare enough.

"$35,000,000 to Be Spent On New Dollar Ships."

Don't know how much of a ship you can build for a dollar but 35,000,000 boats will make quite a fleet.

Old Stuff.

The apple growers of Calhoun County who propose to build a bridge across the Illinois River at Grafton are meeting with some opposition from the War Department. The only apple the War Department knows anything about is the apple of discord.

It is expected that the toll bridges over the Mississippi and Missouri rivers between St. Louis and Alton will be ready for business by July fourth. It's better to cross two bridges than 14 railroad tracks.

Adolfo Luque of the Reds' pitching staff was threatened with rheumatism. The doctor took one look at his tonsils and hollered "take 'em out!" That's what made him wild.

Believe It Or Not.

"Hooks" Wiltse of the Giants once fanned seven batters in two innings when Roger Bresnahan dropped the third strike and allowed a batter to reach first. They were Giants in them days!

Detroit has a Junior High School boy who has but one arm who not only pitches for the team but wins his own game with the bat. And they used to say pitchers couldn't hit!

The man who engraved the Lord's Prayer on the head of a pin in four hours evidently has the engraving business down to a fine point.

Wonder how long it would take him to ease himself through the eye of a needle.

There may be something in it. At any rate, they didn't help any.

KEIO U. IS DEFEATED BY BUSHWICK TEAM

BROOKLYN, N. Y., June 4.—The Buskwicks, semi-professional baseball team, gained revenge on Keio University yesterday by defeating the Japanese 5 to 3, in a return game. Keio had defeated the Brooklyn aggregation 1 to 0 two weeks ago.

The game was won and lost in the first two innings when Hamazaki, who had pitched against Fordham on Thursday, was batted for all of the Bushwick's runs. Bud Culloton, who was beaten by Hamazaki in the first game, went the route for the Bushwicks.

Score by innings:

B'wcks	3	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	x	—5	10	4

Batteries—Hamazaki, Mivakate and Okada; Culloton and Smith.

A superb graduation gift—masterpieces in construction

Here is the most expensive series of pens and pencils in the world—and we are convinced that they are the most beautiful. DeLuxe! The deep luster of real pearl is strikingly combined with the brilliancy of jet-radite, to make still more distinctive the Lifetime® pen and the Lifetime pencil. Materials, the finest of materials, have made Sheaffer products great. For instance, Waspalumin, one of the most costly of commercial alloys, is generously used in both these superlative writing instruments. Non-corrosive and tenacious! It gives long life, as radite gives beauty.

DeLuxe "Lifetime" pen, $10; pencil, $5. Regular "Lifetime," $8.75; pencil, $4.25.

BLAIR, Neb., June 4.—Albert McPhedridge, professional parachute jumper, made his 193d leap from an airplane, which was his last. He fell 2000 feet to his death yesterday. His parachute harness was properly attached, but the parachute was left dangling from the wing of the plane. How McPhedridge came to leap without the parachute was not explained.

CITY AMENDMENT SETS TIME LIMIT FOR I. T. S. PROJECT

Modification Proposed by Director Brooks Would Give Aldermen Right to Revoke Franchise.

A proposed amendment to overcome an objection to the pending franchise ordinance for the Illinois Terminal System that there was no definite compulsion to finish the contemplated improvements, was offered by city officials at a hearing today before the Public Utilities Committee of the Board of Aldermen. The amendment would abrogate the right to haul freight under the new franchise if the plans for an extensive underground terminal system reaching High street and Washington avenue and an elevated approach to McKinley Bridge were not carried out.

The committee had had a public hearing on the proposed 50-year franchise covering the rights for the scheme of expansion, and this was its first private discussion. It began by taking up a group of objections to the franchise ordinance by J. F. O. Reller, a North St. Louis civic leader. The first of these was the complaint that it was indefinite as to consummation of the plans, yet would authorize the company to haul freight over its existing surface tracks from the bridge to Lucas avenue, pending construction of the subway between Washington avenue and O'Fallon street.

H. I. Green, the road's general counsel, said he saw no objection on the road's part to the proposed amendment.

North St. Louis aldermen, whose constituents are complaining of the movement of freight trains through city streets along the proposed route as damaging to property and dangerous for school children, presented a suggestion that the road proceed along Eleventh street, after emerging from the subway at Cass avenue, turn east to the levee on North Market street where connection would be made with a proposed elevated structure in Dock street.

They explained that such a route would take the tracks away from public and parochial schools. Green said he could not commit his road to acceptance of that proposal. The meeting was adjourned until 3 p. m. to let Green consult with the road's officers.

Another amendment agreed to was that the railroad should cease through operation on its present tracks in Ninth street when its new elevated structure attached to the bridge is finished. The city may order the company to remove the tracks if desired.

Referring to the time limits for commencing the various portions of the improvements, as proposed by the company's ordinance, President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service, declared he could not understand why six months after acceptance of the ordinance was set for the subway between Washington and Franklin avenues, but three years for the part between Franklin and O'Fallon.

Kinsey thought it would be the better policy to keep going, once construction was started, and finish the whole underground system as soon as possible. Engineer James A. Hooke, the road's consulting engineer, replied that it was the intention to install 16 subway tracks north of Franklin avenue immediately, but that a limit of three years was set in order to provide a leeway so the work could be carried on simultaneously with the city's extension of Twelfth boulevard northward along High

When Pain Comes

Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

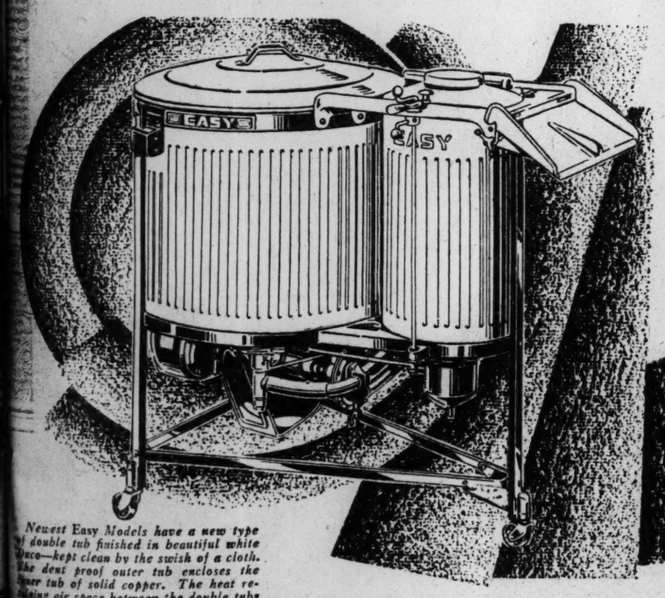
Gas Heater keeps water hot

No trouble about keeping water hot with this washer. A convenient gas heater beneath the machine takes care of that.

There's no water to empty either. When through washing just move a lever and all the water is automatically lifted and emtpied down your sink or tubs. The new Easy has no wringer. A special drying tub whisks out all of the free water, and does it without breaking any buttons or squeezing any deep wrinkles in clothes. The Easy dryer is absolutely safe. The prying fingers of children cannot get hurt around it. Clothes come out of the machine not only snowy white, but washed as gently as by human hands. Phone today for a personal demonstration of this marvelous washer.

Also Made with Gasoline Motor for Homes without Electricity.



Newest Easy Models have a new type of double tub finished in beautiful white enamel—kept clean by the swish of a cloth. The dent proof outer tub encloses the inner tub of solid copper. The heat retaining air space between the double tubs helps keep water hot.

RUSSIANS TO HUNT FOR THE ITALIA IN FRANZ JOSEF LAND

Will Search Archipelago East of Spitzbergen — Icebreaker Sets Out From That Port.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Russia, June 4.—Convinced of the possibility that the missing dirigible Italia may have come down on Franz Josef Land, east of Spitzberger, the Russian Nobile relief commission has decided to send an expedition to that little known region.

Decision to send this expedition was reached in view of a radio message said to have been received by an amateur operator near Archangel picked up on the same wave length that the Italia used This message was an S. O. S. appeal which apparently came from Franz Josef land directly from the Italia. The message was received by the commission last night, but the exact time that it was supposed to have been heard by the amateur was not stated.

The Russian expedition to Franz Josef Land will consist of icebreakers and airships.

The commission stated today that a landing by the Italia on Franz Josef Land would be entirely in accord with its own theory of the position of the missing dirigible in view of the winds which have been prevailing at Spitzbergen.

Search for Missing Expedition Begun from Spitzbergen.

(Copyright, 1928.)

KINGS BAY, Spitzbergen, June 4.—Search for the missing dirigible Italia, unheard from since May 25, was under way today after a week of extensive preparation.

The ice cutter Braganza was plowing through the icy waters off Northern Spitzbergen with searching parties of Italian Alpinists ready to disembark at strategical points to seek the crew of the missing dirigible.

Earlier this morning the sealer Hobby arrived at Kings Bay carrying Lieut. Luetzow Holm, Norwegian flyer, and a naval monoplane from which he will survey the polar sea off Spitzbergen.

The Braganza, en route to Reindeer Land, put a search party ashore at Cape Verlegen Hoek, which is midway between Moffen Island and the straits of Hinlopen. The party made a survey of the peninsula, and the journey was then continued.

Always Thin: This Happy Woman Must Tell How She Quickly Gained 11 Pounds

Underweight Men and Women the World Over Ought to Profit by the Experience of This Well-Known Chattanooga Woman.

Read It Twice

To McCoy's Laboratory

This is from Mrs. W. E. Looney—I just must tell you that McCoy's Tablets are the finest things I have ever tried. I have always been thin and never found anything to do me so much good. I was disappointed in the beginning.

I weighed 104 when I began—now I weigh 115½. I praise them. I can't be without them: My limbs are picking up fine. I am singing their praises to everyone I see. I didn't have any faith in them to start.

Signed (Mrs. W. E. Looney.)
Chattanooga, Tenn.

How can any woman or man either for that matter look superbly attractive with deep hollows in chest and neck and with limbs scantily covered with flesh?

In every drug store in America you can find McCoy's Tablets, sugar coated and as easy to take as candy. They are recommended not only to put on weight but to improve the general health.

One sickly man in New Jersey regained his health and energy and added 28 pounds of much needed flesh.

But read McCoy's generous offer—it tells the whole story to every fair minded person.

McCoy takes all the risk — Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One Dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

The name McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets has been shortened—just ask for McCoy's Tablets at Wolff-Wilson Drug Stores, or any drug store in America.

CITY SEEKS FURTHER CUT BY UNION ELECTRIC CO.

Declares $706,467 Reduction Could Be Raised to $1,418,000 and Still Pay 7 Pct. on $59,000,000.

TOO MUCH ALLOWED FOR DEPRECIATION

$13,399,051 Collected on This Account, $4,725,777 Spent—Requests Service Board to Make Audit.

The city informed the Missouri Public Service Commission today that the Union Electric Light & Power Co., which reduced its rates to large St. Louis consumers $706,467 on June 1, could have reduced them $1,418,000 and still have left a return of 7 per cent on its own valuation of its property which it fixes at $59,000,000.

Moreover, the city continued, if the company's depreciation account were adjusted properly, the company could reduce rates by $2,000,000 a year and still have its 7 per cent return. The action of the company in not granting some cut in rates to residence customers was called "unreasonable and unjust."

The city asked of the commission that the company be ordered to show cause why its rates should not be reduced further, at least to the $1,418,000, and that, meanwhile, the commission conduct an audit of the company's books, with particular attention to the depreciation account.

Cost vs. Charge.

Tabulations are submitted by the city to show that the company is asking for an annual depreciation charge of $2,336,400, out of rates, whereas its average actual expenditure in keeping its property in condition for the last 11 years has been only $429,616. In that period it has collected, for depreciation, $13,399,051, and has spent only $4,725,777.

The city adopts, for the sake of argument, depreciation charge of $950,000 and declares that with that sum set up, the company can reduce its rates much further than it has done.

It is pointed out that no audit has been made of the company's books since one begun in 1915 and the city concludes hence, that the company has virtually been unregulated since that time. It is suggested, also that the commission inquire into the contracts under which Union Electric buys nearly 92 per cent of its power from sister companies at Keokuk and Cahokia The Keokuk contract will expire next month.

The city's presentation was prepared by Forrest G. Ferris Jr., Associate City Counselor, aided by City Counselor Julius T. Muench.

The brief presents the same information, with additional detail and disclosure of the company's swollen depreciation account, first given to the public by the Post-Dispatch on last March 7 in its exhaustive exposition of the affairs of the Union Electric Light and Power Co. That article said that the facts shown were a compelling argument for a complete audit and appraisal of the company, to determine what rates would be fair to the whole public. Union Electric has failed to file with the commission information which the commission asked for when the matter of a cut rate first was broached. The commission wanted complete studies of the company's power production costs and also of its distribution costs, including allocation of distribution costs among the various classes of consumers. The commission wanted to determine whether residence customers were being dealt with fairly in this respect. Instead of furnishing the information, the company filed its new schedule of rates.

City Seeks $1,418,000 Cut.

The city, in its application for an investigation and audit of the Union Electric Light & Power Co., and an order to show cause why a further reduction in rates should not be made, says:

"The City of St. Louis respectfully requests: (1) That this commission make an audit of the books and records of the Union Electric Light & Power Co. and enter upon an investigation of the operations of this utility; and (2) that, pending the completion of such audit and investigation, the commission issue an order on the company to show cause why an immediate and further reduction in electric rates should not be made by it, in addition to the reduction of $706,467 provided in the schedule filed with the commission on May 1, 1928.

"In support of this request the City of St. Louis states:

"(1) It is apparent from the
